So Live Your Life

A Poem by Chief Tecumseh of the Shawnee Tribe

So live your life that the fear of death can never enter your heart. Trouble no one about their religion; respect others in their view, and demand that they respect yours. Love your life, perfect your life, beautify all things in your life. Seek to make your life long and its purpose in the service of your people. Prepare a noble death song for the day when you go over the great divide.

Always give a word or a sign of salute when meeting or passing a friend, even a stranger, when in a lonely place. Show respect to all people and grovel to none.

When you arise in the morning give thanks for the food and for the joy of living. If you see no reason for giving thanks, the fault lies only in yourself. Abuse no one and no thing, for abuse turns the wise ones to fools and robs the spirit of its vision.

When it comes your time to die, be not like those whose hearts are filled with the fear of death, so that when their time comes they weep and pray for a little more time to live their lives over again in a different way. Sing your death song and die like a hero going home.

The Ship of Life

By John T. Baker

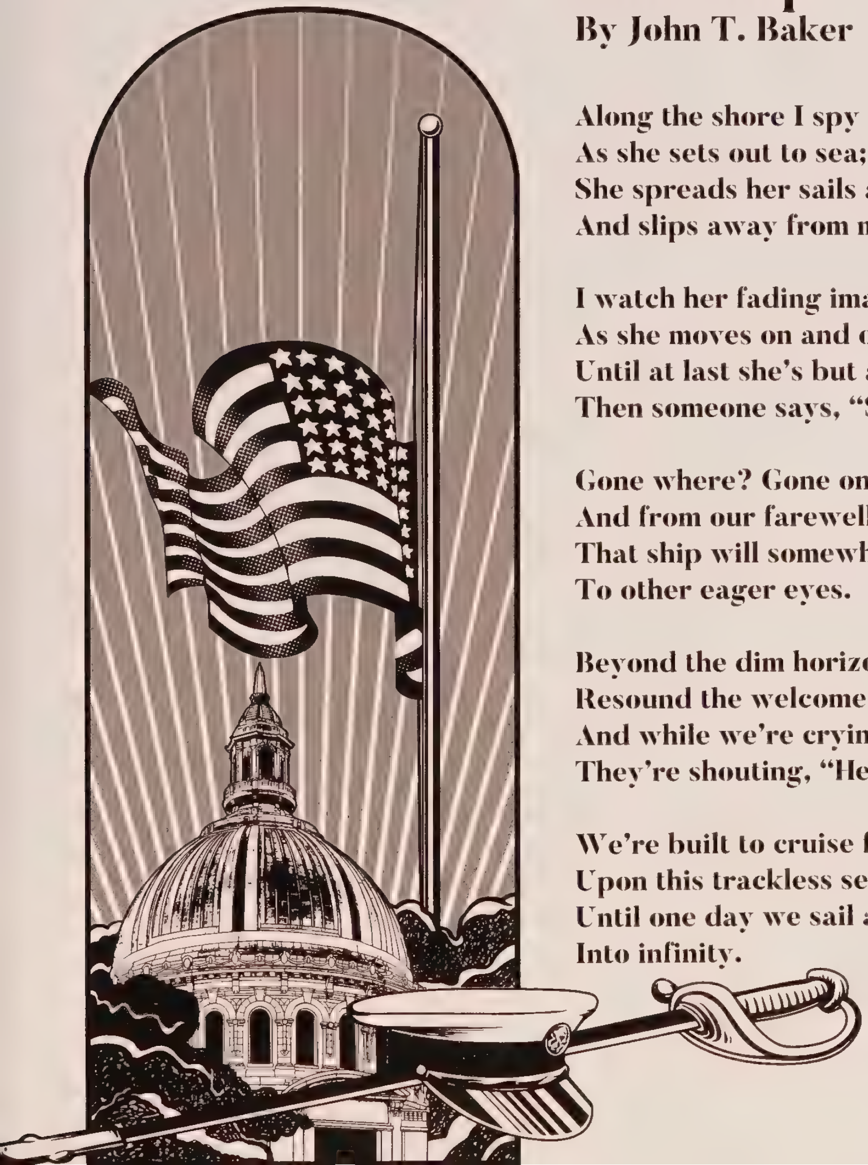
Along the shore I spy a ship
As she sets out to sea;
She spreads her sails and sniffs the breeze
And slips away from me.

I watch her fading image shrink,
As she moves on and on,
Until at last she's but a speck,
Then someone says, "She's gone."

Gone where? Gone only from our sight
And from our farewell cries;
That ship will somewhere reappear
To other eager eyes.

Beyond the dim horizon's rim
Resound the welcome drums,
And while we're crying, "There she goes!"
They're shouting, "Here she comes!"

We're built to cruise for but a while
Upon this trackless sea
Until one day we sail away
Into infinity.



SEAN T. McCULLOUGH
LUCKY BAG PRESIDENT

FROM THE PRESIDENT

It's hard not to be sentimental about the time we have spent at the Naval Academy. During my plebe year, I met my best friend and soulmate, Ariel, and have been in love ever since. Ariel, you have given me so much joy and taught me so much about what it means to love, I cannot wait for our lifelong journey together. During youngster year, Ariel and I had our son, Alex, who has been a joy to see grow these past two years. I owe much thanks to my parents, Tom and Betsy, their support has never wavered and we are forever grateful for all that you have done. Alex, your mom and dad are very proud of you, you tough little man!

Lucky Bag was an ECA I joined in my Second-Class year to continue a newly-found passion in photography. I loved the opportunities it provided, the culture, and the people, and that is what pushed me to become the president and make the team a BSA. I want to thank the team as a whole, I know it is in great hands next year with Charley.

This book focuses on tradition from a midshipman's point of view, as all too often we, the everyday midshipmen, are overlooked. With touches of the class of 1922, 1932, 1972, and 1992, the connections to our past are kindled throughout.

Additionally, I want to thank Kristin Cronic of Easel on Stribling for sharing her artwork with us, as her paintings make this Lucky Bag truly special, as well as thanks to the Color Company for use of their designs.

I hope you enjoy the book and take the time to read through it and reflect on each memory we were lucky (or not so lucky) to experience.

If I could offer some advice that has helped me: just enjoy the moment for what it is, a moment worth embracing. Don't doubt yourself, be who you are and take pride in your character and who you are. Next, do not judge others for anything, we are all different regardless of our race, gender, socioeconomic background, or religion, we are a team that must rely on each other and use our differences as strengths in order to survive and thrive. Lastly, it is all of our own choice to decide what to do with the time we are given in life. There's too much good in this world to not fight to protect it. Even darkness must pass. A new day will come. Good will always triumph evil, but there must be brave men and women to do so.

Editor-In-Chief

FROM THE EDITOR

The purpose of the Lucky Bag is to serve as a record of our time together by the Bay. The book you see before you is the result of a year of hard work by our staff. Our photographers are incredibly talented and deserve a great deal of praise for working tirelessly to record the immense activities of the Brigade. My editorial staff deserves a great deal of praise as well, striving to accurately record what it was really like this year at our Alma Mater. I would like to thank Kristin Cronic of Easel on Stribling for generously letting us publish her paintings, as well as the Classes of 1922, 1932, 1972, and 1992 for inspiring this book. Finally, great credit is due to Sean McCullough for his leadership and passion for our mission.

For four years on the Yard, we live only for the future, rarely stopping to appreciate the present moment. It is our earnest hope that within these pages, you are able to look back on your Four Years by the Bay with fondness.

Composing the 2022 Lucky Bag called for long hours of hard work, searching for the right picture, seeking the best words for the narrative. But ours was not a thankless job, for we were striving to produce a lasting record of our time together at the Academy.

Years from now, we will want to remember the time we spent here - our friends, our activities, and our struggles. We hope that this book will serve as your guide through its stories and pictures to relive and recapture the joys and sorrows that filled midshipmen days. May we never forget them.

The Navy Hymn

Eternal Father, strong to save,
Whose arm hath bound the restless wave,
Who bidd'st the mighty ocean deep
Its own appointed limits keep,
O hear us when we cry to thee
For those in peril on the sea!

O Christ! Whose voice the waters heard
And hushed their raging at thy word,
Who walkedst on the foaming deep,
And calm amidst its rage didst sleep,
O hear us when we cry to thee,
For those in peril on the sea!

Most Holy Spirit! Who didst brood
Upon the chaos dark and rude,
And bid its angry tumult cease,
And give, for wild confusion, peace,
O hear us when we cry to thee
For those in peril on the sea!

Eternal Father, grant, we pray,
To all Marines, both night and day,
The courage, honor, strength, and skill
Their land to serve, thy law fulfill;
Be thou the shield forevermore
From every peril to the Corps.

Lord, guard and guide the ones who fly
Through the great spaces in the sky.
Be with them always in the air,
In darkening storms or sunlight fair.

The Marines' Hymn

From the Halls of Montezuma
To the shores of Tripoli;
We fight our country's battles
On the land as on the sea;
First to fight for right and freedom
And to keep our honor clean;
We are proud to claim the title
Of United States Marine.

Our flag's unfurled to every breeze
From dawn to setting sun;
We have fought in ev'ry clime and place
Where we could take a gun;
In the snow of far-off Northern lands
And in sunny tropic scenes;
You will find us always on the job
The United States Marines

Here's health to you and to our Corps
Which we are proud to serve;
In many a strife we've fought for life
And never lost our nerve;
If the Army and the Navy
Ever look on Heaven's scenes;
They will find the streets are guarded
By United States Marines.

Lucky Bag was fortunate enough to catch the Supe, Dant, and Deputy on one of their weekly evening fishing trips on the steps of Bancroft Hall.

It's a rare sighting indeed to see our highest leadership out of uniform and in their casual liberty attire adorned with vibrant palm-tree shirts and lei's around their necks. Tommy Bahama would be very proud.

The Navy Blue & Gold

Now colleges from sea to sea
May sing of colors true,
But who has better right than we
To hoist a symbol hue:
For sailors brave in battle fair
Since fighting days of old,
Have proved the sailor's right to wear
The Navy Blue & Gold.

So hoist our colors, hoist them high,
And vow allegiance true,
So long as sunset gilds the sky
Unlowered shall those colors be
Whatever fate they meet,
So glorious in victory,
Triumphant in defeat.

Four years together by the Bay,
Where Severn joins the tide,
Then by the Service called away,
We're scattered far and wide;
But still when two or three shall meet,
And old tales be retold,
From low to highest in the Fleet,
We'll pledge the Blue and Gold.

MICHAEL MYLES JAMES

CLASS OF 2022

08 September 1998 - 23 June 2021

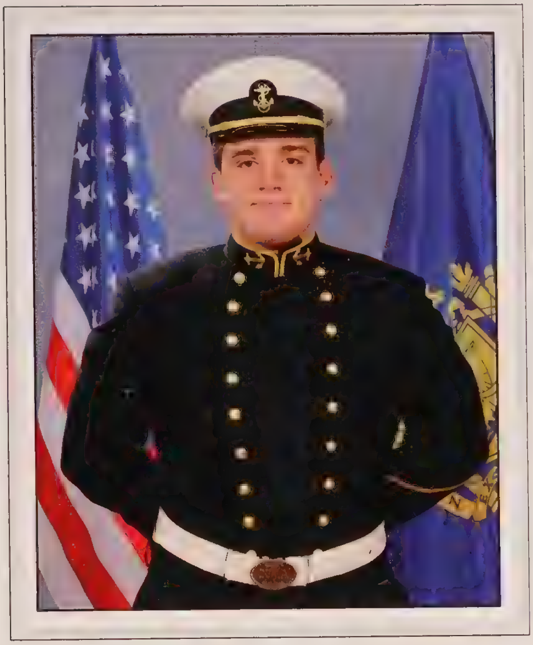
Myles and I met at the NAPS in Newport, Rhode Island. We were both recruited for football and strived to play at USNA upon graduation from prep school. Struggling through academics is how we started to become closer as friends and over time we were with each other almost every day. Over this time, Myles taught me what it truly meant to be a friend and I am forever grateful for that.

Throughout our time at the Naval Academy, Myles gave me the confidence to push through any situation. He always reminded me how lucky we were to be at this school and that we have beat all odds to have this opportunity. We would sit in the room all night talking about everything under the sun and Myles would randomly say that we were about to go for a run at 2 in the morning. That was just the type of person he was, there was nothing that was going to stop him from doing what he wanted to do when he wanted to do it. He pushed me everyday to be better because he saw things in me that I did not see in myself. I honestly do not think we would have made it this far without Myles' sense of humor and his contagious laugh. He definitely knew how to brighten up a room in any situation. It didn't matter if he was having a bad day or not, he was going to make sure that the people in the room with him got a laugh or put a smile on their face.

I want to thank you Myles for teaching me how to dream beyond the next five years. Thank you for showing me how to live a free life and not to take things so seriously all the time. Thank you for showing me how to stay positive during times of uncertainty. Thank you for always having my back no matter how wrong I was. Thank you for listening to me complain and talk about the problems that I had. Thank you for showing me what fighting through adversity really meant.

I will miss my friend forever. I know how bad you wanted to come back to the Naval Academy and graduate. I know that was your mission and you were on their way to complete that goal no matter what. I will make sure that no one will ever forget your name as long as I am here. Everyone should strive to smile like Myles, because that is what he would have wanted us to do. "I am > I was", is a quote that he lived by and is a quote that I will hang on to forever.

Eulogy from Camren Taylor, Class of 2022



DUKE ANTHONY CARRILLO

CLASS OF 2022

02 October 1998 - 08 February 2020

To Mom, Dad, Jake, our family, our friends and our shipmates, thank you for coming to celebrate the life of Duke and his never-ending endeavor to make the world a better place. I cannot begin to tell you the joy it brings me to see the people Duke cherished so deeply all in one place. However, if I am being honest, this is not everyone he has impacted. There is not a structure on earth big enough to fit all the individuals Duke's exuberant personality touched. I know that to be true, and I know everyone in here does as well, and for that I am forever grateful.

21 years. To most, that amount of time can seem very short. But that 21 years to me feels literally like a lifetime. In that 21 years, I witnessed my twin brother grow from a child into a man who could conquer the most daunting tasks. In between his transition from childhood to manhood he became many more things to me. He became my mentor, my best friend, my hero, my shipmate, my inspiration, my problem solver and my shoulder to lean on when things got tough. Duke's laughter and joy are truly worth recognizing. Whether your interaction with Duke was only minutes, or if it was years, his motives were clear; have a good time, eat great food and make even better friends. After days of not knowing my next steps, I prayed to Duke to help me find a way to continue without him. Then the other night he answered my prayers, and I realized where I would find the strength to keep living. I would find it not by living without him, but by living for him. Everywhere I go and everything I see, so shall Duke.

The tragic events on Saturday morning changed my life forever. I was there for my brother from the day he was born until his final moments on this earth, and I would not have wanted it any other way. While tragic, I am grateful that I was able to hold his hand as God brought him into heaven, and I know that he is looking down on me right now. He is probably laughing at my haircut or making fun of my small hands, as he liked to put it. I know that he is telling me to finish what I started, and that's what I plan on doing. I will carry both of us through life, and I will live as though tomorrow is my last day. I love him, I miss him, and I find peace in knowing that one day we will meet again. Duke lives on in each of our hearts and minds, and if you ever need someone to help guide you as well, he is just a thought away.

BRIAN M. BOURGEOIS

22 September 1973 - 07 December 2021

Born in Lake Charles, Louisiana, Brian was a 1997 graduate of James E. Taylor High School in Katy, Texas. As a proud Cajun and avid outdoorsman, Brian grew up hunting and fishing with his friends and family and was a stand-out athlete on the football and baseball teams. His desire to serve, passion to lead, and determination drove his appointment to the United States Naval Academy. While at USNA, Brian was a four year member of the varsity football team where he left an undeniable legacy of friendship, perseverance, and commitment.

Upon graduation and commissioning in 2001, Brian was selected as a Surface Warfare Officer. After 3 years and multiple attempts, he was chosen to attend BUD/s and graduated with class 253. He went on to earn his master's degree in Defense Analysis from the Naval Postgraduate School and received the Pat Tillman Leadership Award for his class.

Commander Bourgeois was the special combination of grit and determination coupled with a laid-back, easy going personality. A leader of action, "Booj" showed care and concern for those with whom he served and was endlessly present to listen and provide help when needed. He defaulted to a mindset of service to others and engaged meaningfully within the community. Never one to miss the opportunity for a good time, Brian was often the last to leave a party after socializing with everyone in the room.

Brian loved large; Nothing brought him more pride and joy than his wife, children and dogs. He spent every possible moment pouring love and attention into his children. Whether it was cheering at soccer, baseball, volleyball tournaments or helping with homework, he remained a constant source of strength in their lives and was determined to be a regular presence despite the high operational tempo of his profession. Brian and Megan recently celebrated 20 years of marriage, and she truly was the love of his life. They shared every adventure together and created a beautiful family that brings endless love, happiness and instant camaraderie to all who are lucky enough to know them. Brian was immensely proud of his wife and children and never missed an opportunity to talk about them.

Obituary From The Virginian-Pilot

AARON P. FOWLER

CLASS OF 2018

06 November 1992 - 17 April 2022

Aaron Fowler joined 8th Company, Class of 2018 as a 2/C after going on a two-year mission. Previously, he was a 25th Company Bearshark with the Class of 2016. As soon as he joined 8, he seamlessly became part of our family. On the surface, Aaron seemed softspoken and a little reclusive, but upon meeting him one would find that he was exceptionally kind, genuine, and possessed a hilarious (though dry) sense of humor that left a lasting impression on everyone around him.

Aaron was a cut above his peers. Incredibly hardworking and vastly intelligent, he was drawn to challenging and painstaking work. It was no surprise to anyone that he graduated in the top of the Class of 2018, and was selected to attend graduate school immediately after leaving Annapolis. It was even less surprising that he chose to join such an elite and challenging community as Navy Special Operations. In spite of his impressive performance, Aaron was as humble and approachable as anyone in 8th Company, and was frequently sought after as a mentor and friend by classmates and underclassmen alike. Lastly, and most importantly, Aaron was defined by his faith. His roommates, his companymates, and his friends all knew that his relationship with God came before everything and he truly lived what he preached. The friendships and relationships that he cultivated through his faith were felt throughout the Brigade.

After completing his Master's degree at Georgetown, Aaron finally began two years of rigorous physical and academic Explosives Ordnance Disposal (EOD) training. In January 2022, upon successful completion of the EOD training pipeline, he reported to EOD Mobile Unit ONE in San Diego, California.

Aaron Fowler was our friend, our brother, a Baller and a Bearshark. Although he has left us, we are humbled by his selfless service and forever strive to meet the high standard of character he leaves behind. Rest easy, for we have the watch. Fair winds and following seas.

TO A
MAN OF WAR

The rugged, strong, and mighty symbol of a nation; the bulwark of home and freedom against which the waves of wrath and jealousy dash in vain; whose bow has cleft the deep blue waters of the Tropics and smashed the angry seas of the gray Atlantic; whose tops have gazed upon the last golden breath of the dying Day and welcomed the Morning Star; whose guns have frowned on strife and revolution, and furthered the cause of peace by that same grim disapproval.

The lifeblood of America courses hotly in your veins, energizing those sinews of iron and steel upon which the thought and labor of countless generations of architects, engineers, and craftsmen have been expended since man first ventured forth to pit his skill against the violence of the elements - the physical embodiment of the hopes and ambitions of unsung heroes who have given their life's blood to farther advance the cause of freedom of the seas.

It is then, with fitting regard, that we dedicate this book, hoping in these pages to pay homage to the silent sentinel of the oceans, guarding always with firm and quiet majesty the interests of our United States in foreign lands, our honor and integrity in battle, and the welfare of our people at home.

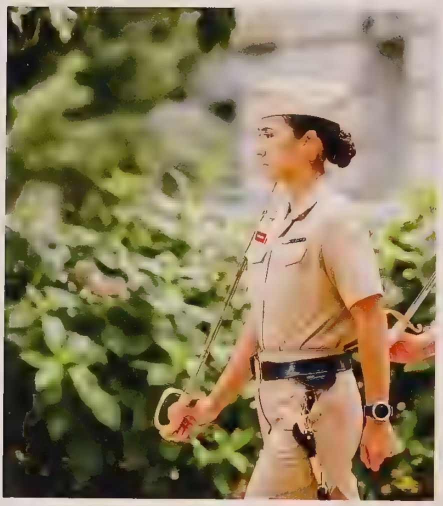
Plebe Summer



Earn your $1 dollar each day. Coming from high schools, NAPS, Foundation schools, and the fleet, Plebe Summer is a rite of passage to join the Brigade of Midshipmen. We all remember Major Antonelli calling cadences on 8-Count Bodybuilders or the rack races where every second counts. For some, the best parts of Plebe Summer are at sunsets on Worden Field during drill, and for others it is the brief reprieve one gets when they are eating at meal.

Failure is a key learning point during Plebe Summer, because it is impossible to make it through the whole 2 months without making one error. Plebe Summer, from a detailer's perspective is to "locate, close with, and train plebes," as stated by 1stLt Wade as Company Officer for Delta Company, 7th and 8th Platoons during Plebe Summer. From menial tasks such as putting on white works, shining shoes, making sure your socks are motivated, your cord is not sticking out of your blue usna's, and knowing your rates instills discipline and prepares you to join the Brigade.

Plebe Parents Weekend

After the pain train of Plebe Summer seems to have begun it's descent towards the Fall Semester's start, Plebes are given the opportunity to bring their parents aboard the Yard to show them Bancroft, share their experiences, and get some well-needed rest and relaxation away from the steely-eyed detailers. Hailing from all 50 states, as well as Washington DC, American Samoa, Guam, Northern Marian Islands, and Puerto Rico, and 13 foreign countries. Families, Friends, Dignitaries, and everyone in between came to visit and get a taste of the Plebe Summer lifestyle.

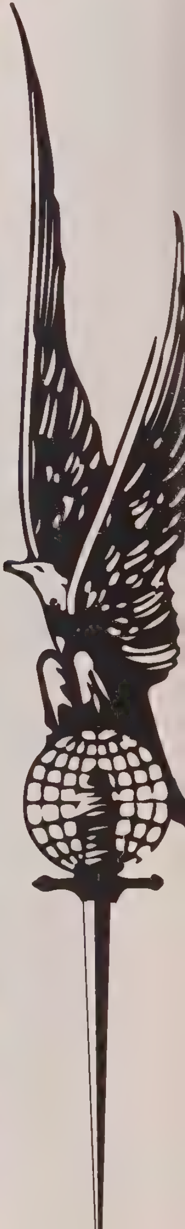
Youngster Summer



While seeing the rowdy Youngster class partaking in PROTRAMID is still a new sight to many, the opportunity presented itself to showcase all the major communities. West Coast still reigns supreme over East Coast as being the Party Training for Midshipmen or PARTYTRAMID as many have called it in previous years compared to the standard PROTRAMID on the East Coast. Nonetheless, while these barely-not plebes get to party, earlier on in their time as Midshipmen they also get to experience all of the communities to better understand where they would fit in.

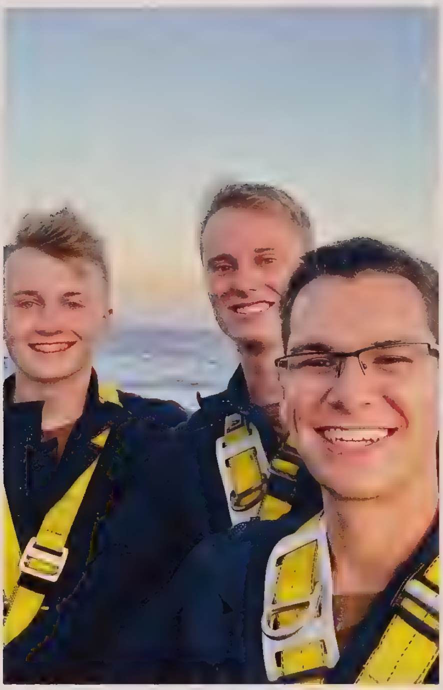
2/C Summer



The Second Class took on their summers around the country from Northern Tier to Summer Cruise. We finally got a taste of what our futures may look like. The fleet experiences were once in a lifetime. The friendships on those cruises have lasted long past the summer. The precious moments learning the daily life of a sailor or marine may not have been as fun as a day on Coronado Beach, but they are far more important. We truly gained the valuable, first-hand experiences with the people that make up the United States Navy and Marine Corps.

COMMANDING

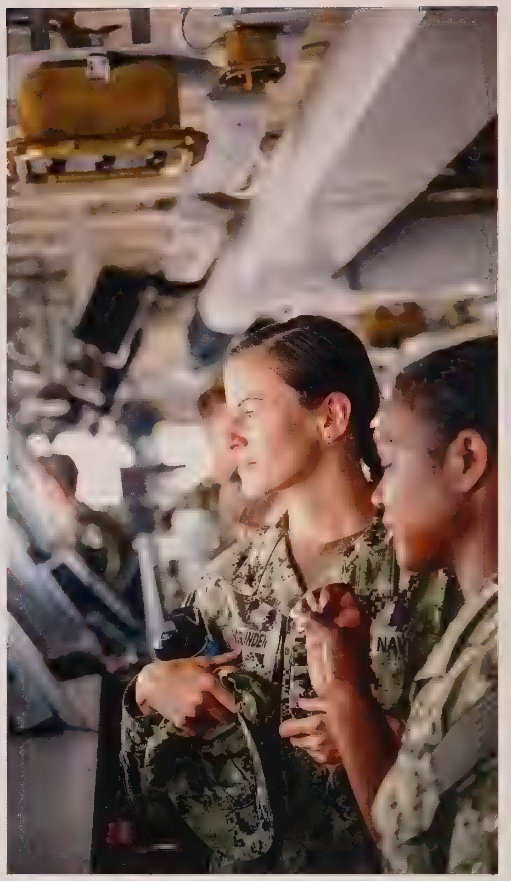
U.S. NAVY



The Class of 2022 took on their Firstie summer by going on cruises that would decide their fate come service assignment in November. Whether it be a Surface Cruise to Rota in the hopes of getting a blue chip even though your order of merit puts you in the comma club, or if are going deep into the woods of Quantico and losing yourself to the jungle in land nav, the summer offered many opportunities to expand knowledge about the fleet.

1/C Summer

Firstie Cruises can be stressful in many regards, but they are also where the foundations for lifelong friendships begin to build as one spends time with others in their desired communities. At the end of the day, no matter what cruise one decides to go on, there can be no arguments in how valuable they are in helping to make the biggest life decision one makes while a Midshipmen in Annapolis.

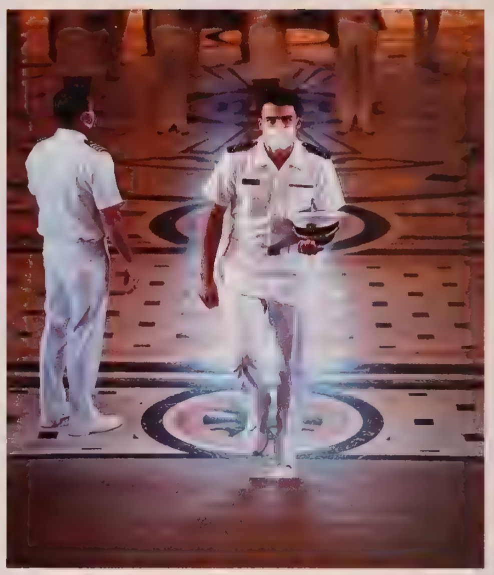
2-for-7 Signing



Cheers to the Class of 2023 for officially signing their lives away to the United States. This powerful moment is the initiation point for Midshipmen to willfully agree to stay and volunteer at least the next 7 years of their life to both finishing their time as Midshipmen and to serve 5 years in their community. Some find the calling is not what they thought it would be and do not sign, and that is for the best as well, for the responsibilities and duties only begin to grow as upper-class and especially after Commissioning. Everyone on the Yard is proud to see each rising Second Class answer the call to serve.

On this special weekend, moms and dads from around the country (and around the world) came to the Yard to see the impressive young men and women they dropped off three years ago on I-Day. While they may not all understand all the nuances of Academy life ("who cares if she's in your company? She's cute!") or the things we complain about ("why don't you like marching in parades? You look so good!"), they have supported us every step of the way, and sharing a part of our lives with them this weekend will be a fond memory for years to come.

2/C Parents Weekend

While the class of 2023 didn't get a chance to take our parents into Bancroft Hall, we did get to regale them with our regimented marching and crisp white uniforms. The football team gave our parents a show as they upset 16-point favorite UCF by scoring seventeen consecutive points in the fourth quarter. The Distinguished Graduate Award Program recognizes Academy graduates each year who have dedicated and continue to dedicate themselves to both their vocations and to those that follow in their footsteps on the Yard. Those recognized include: VADM E. M. Straw ('61), Col. R. D. Cabana ('71), ADM K. H. Donald ('75), and The Honorable S. J. Stackley ('79). Throughout the Brigade listening attentively in the crowd, eyes watered as the distinguished graduated told tales of key moments in the fleet and those that guided their path to success, and sparks ignited within minds inspired by the plethora of wisdom standing before them in shoes seemingly impossible to fill.

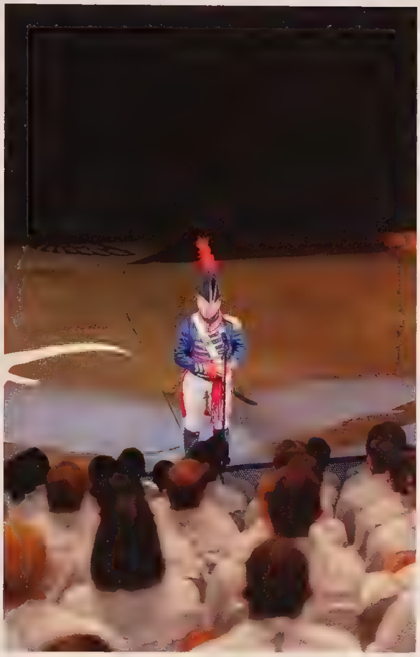
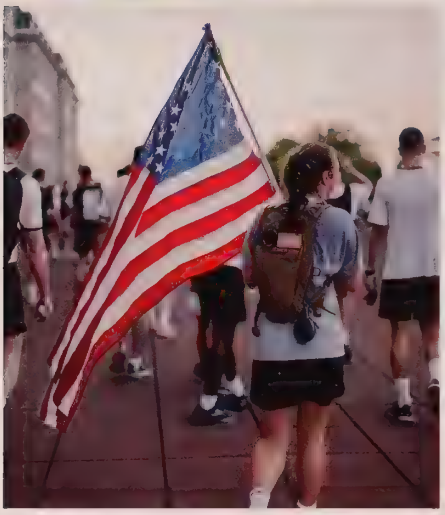
USMC Heritage Brief



OORAH! The Marine Corps has heritage that spans across the past two centuries. From Tun Tavern and the Marine Corps' beginning on November 11th, 1775, Marines have fought, bled, and died for their country and Corps. Fighting in wars across the 19th and 20th Century, they defined who they were and solidified themselves as their own service under the Department of the Navy. Celebrating that history, some of their well-known Marines such as Chesty Puller and John Lejeune, and taking part in storied traditions are all aspects of the Marine Corps that the heritage brief hopes to shed light on each summer.

UNITED STATES MARINES

20th Anniversary: September 11th, 2001



Never Forget. The Brigade of Midshipmen commemorates the 9/11 attacks in numerous ways. First, beginning at 0846 (the time when the first plane hit the North Tower in 2001) on Friday, September 11th, the American Flag remains in constant motion around the perimeter of the Yard, carried by voluntary midshipmen-led running groups.

Additionally, Midshipmen placed 2,977 United States flags along Stribling Walk in order to commemorate all who lost their lives on 9/11. The Brigade honors and recognizes the many great sacrifices made by the victims and the first responders in this day of solemn remembrance.

Several battalions completed stair runs inside Bancroft to honor first responders by running the 2,071 simulated steps that were in the Twin Towers.

The PRT

The almighty Physical Readiness Test or PRT (pronounced "purt") beckons all midshipmen to begin their six week long running plan the week before the test in the hopes of making the passing mark. While every midshipmen takes the PRT, one always calls into question why we all just can't just use the fleet standards. For those hard-charging alphas who max the PRT, the word on the street is that they automatically gain entrance into the elite team known around the Yard as SOT. For those who fail, they gain entrance into the even-more-elite BTT or Brigade Training Team.

Consisting of cadence push-ups, a plank, and a mile-and-a-half run around Farragut, it is easy to forget that if one were to ask the average civilian to do this test, they most likely would not even get close to the minimums for these three exercises. At the end of the morning, when all companies have completed the PRT, there is another sense of calm as the storm has finally passed and the gyms of Halsey and MacDonough return to their natural habitats as bodybuilders, powerlifters and weightlifting enthusiasts dump their week-old running plans and flock back to their iron temples.

"LETS TAKE A VOTE: 2023 HERNDON DURING THEIR COMMISSIONING WEEK, NOT AT ALL, OR AT THE BEGINNING OF 2/C YEAR?"

VOTE RESULTS: 50% DURING 2023 COMMISSIONING WEEK, 50% NOT AT ALL

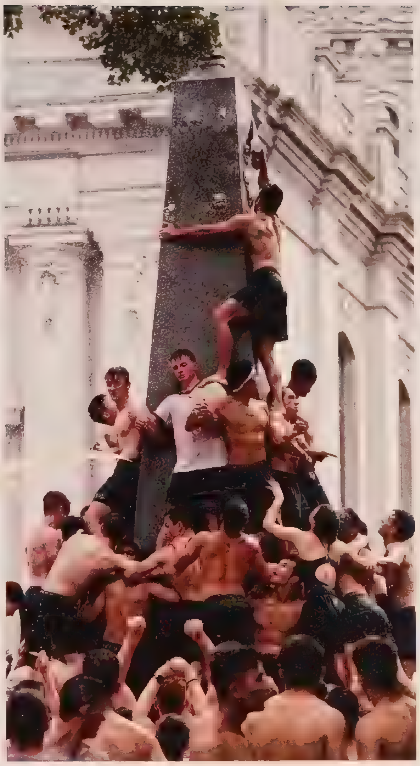
2023 Herndon



Despite the complaining, 2023 eventually made it to the top and added their names to the long list of official Midshipmen, upholding one of the traditions that makes this place so very special.

They didn't beat the fastest time with the greased monument, which was just 20 minutes in 1975, but this group of second-class Midshipmen said they were determined to beat the class of 2024 that climbed the 21-foot high Herndon monument before them in May in 3 hours and 41 minutes.

And beat that time they did, as the Class of 2023 finished well ahead of the underclassmen with a final time of 3 hours and 39 seconds.

Midshipmen roar over the sound of local fans rejoining us in the stands. With foam crabs on both hands (and they best be blue crabs), the bass of 'Hey Baby' vibrating the stands under your feet, and plebes rushing the field to execute a number of up-downs to celebrate the team's touchdown, everybody revels in the feeling of another Saturday afternoon back in Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium. Spirit buttons meticulously designed in Microsoft Paint decorate summer whites, and overpriced concession food dares to ruin fresh dry cleaning. Win or lose, Midshipmen bring the energy as they eagerly await the singing of Blue and Gold... and liberty.

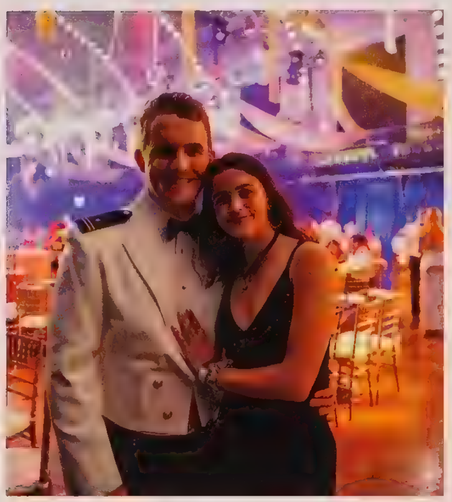
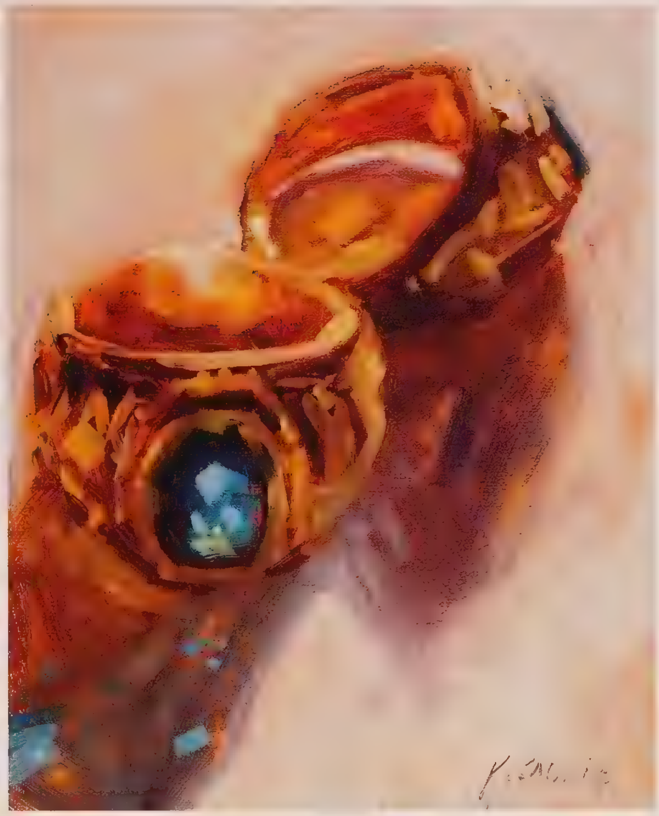
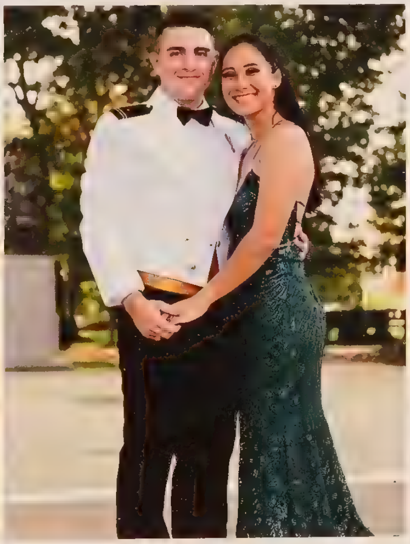
1/C Ring Dance

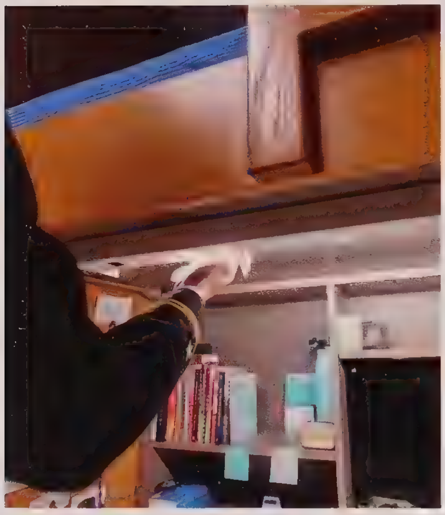


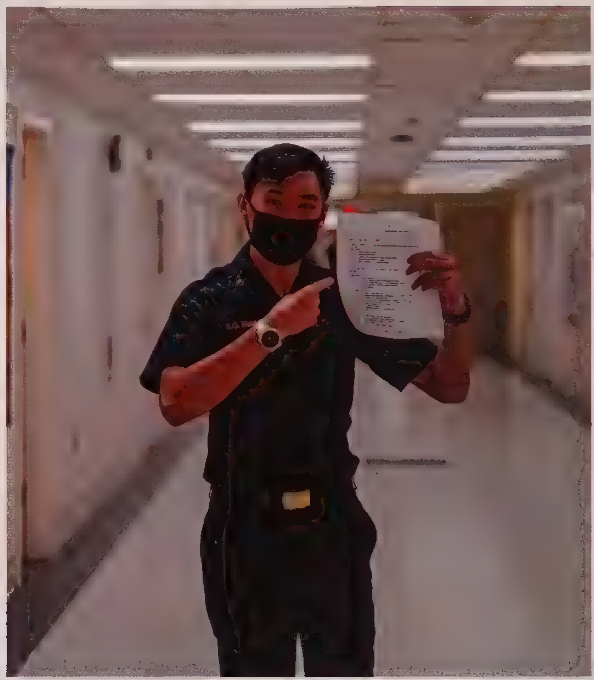
Although this event was a bit postponed for the class of 2022, the Firstie Ring Dance did not disappoint. Many Firsties were unsure going into the night of what to expect, but showing up in the completely changed Dahlgren, everyone was greeting by the fun set-up of lights, furniture, a real DJ, food, and alcohol everywhere. The party raged into the night, as the no drink limit was quickly met by eager Midshipmen ready to get their fair share of beer, wine, and hard liquors. People laughed, sang, danced, and felt great pride in having earned this party, and while it was stressed that we could have had multiple ARIs we nonetheless proved that the class of 2022 Ring Dance will be a difficult one to compete with in the years to follow.



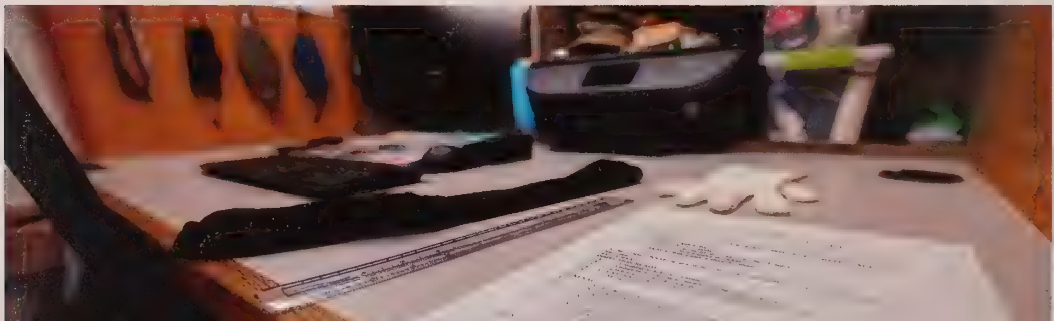


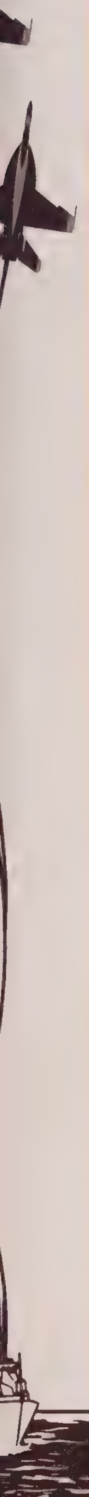
Alpha Inspection

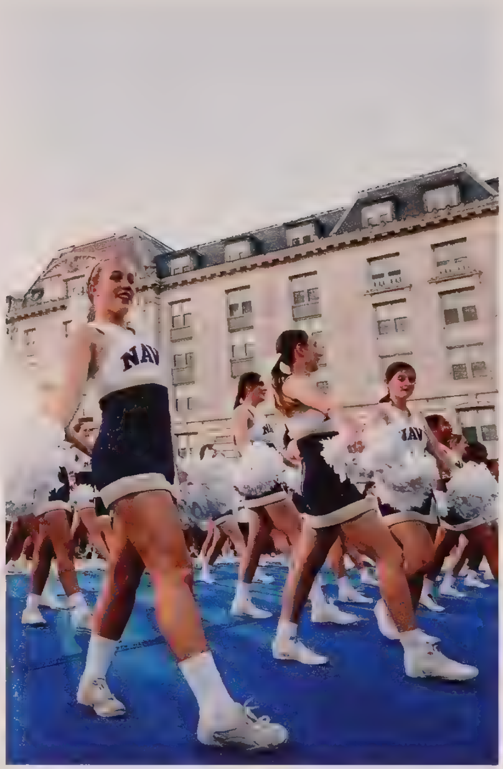




The dreaded "Alpha" occurred twice this year with the higher leadership stressing perfection. To share a short story from the alpha to prove that no one should ever fail, while inspecting rooms a Firstie came across a room so horrendous it looked like little had been done to clean it. Instead of failing them right there, this Firstie told them, "You have 20 minutes while I inspect the other two rooms left in my area to clean up your area or I have to fail you." This room of second class said, "Alright, we got it." After coming back following his other two inspections, the Firstie came back to a near perfect room. The Firstie said, "Good job, you passed." Moral of the story, no room should fail the Alpha.







Pep Rallies are meant to inspire the Brigade before playing Air Force and Army. With fun pranks all week and Midshipmen in high spirits, the Brigade came to Smoke Park ready to party. As free T-shirts were thrown, the Dant letting out a full "Rah", and the Supe bringing out his collectors 'Stang, the Midshipmen celebrated in full force. We are lucky to have had great with and a fun event to enjoy with roommates and friends on the great September night.

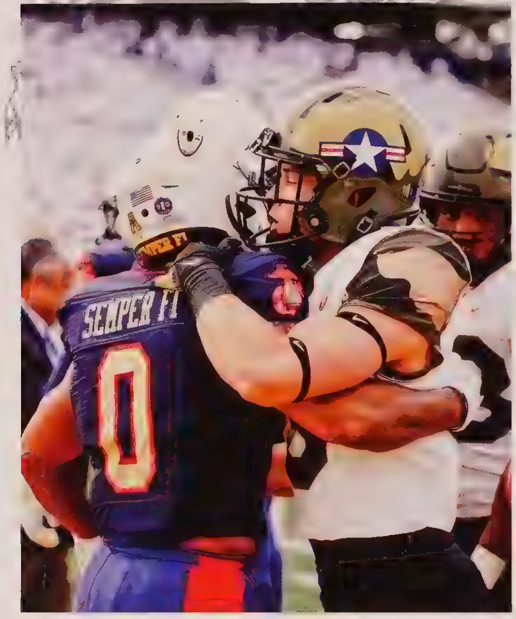
Beat Air Force



Our beloved Alma Mater had the opportunity this year to host the football game against the red-headed stepchild of the service academies. Even though Air Force may have come out on top, the game this year was about more than the score.

Playing on the anniversary of the 9/11 terrorist attacks, both teams and their fans came together under the flag after the game. Twenty years ago an unimaginable act of terror shocked the world, and twenty years later we are still here. May we all never forget the resolve we demonstrated to the world after September 11th, and how, in the face of unfathomable loss, we rose as one.

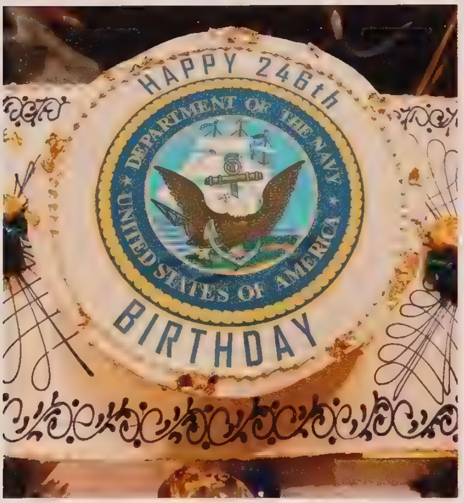
U.S. Navy Birthday



Let Us Pray. For 246 years, our nation's greatest warriors have sailed, steamed, and navigated around the globe on, under, and above the seas carrying the fight to our enemies and ensuring that our shores remain free.

Though our instruments of war have always been more than adequate to meet the needs of defending our countrymen, the nation has put its faith not in machines, but in those brave men and women who have forgone their own freedoms to preserve the freedom of others.

Freedom does not perpetuate itself; It must be earned, it must be secured, and it must be defended. For as long as our nation has existed, our Navy has secured our national survival. Today, we celebrate our Birthday.

We thank you for all Sailors, past, present, and future. Good, talented, and motivated men and women have answered the call to serve. Help us to live up to that high calling bestowed unto us by those whose foundations we build upon.

Bless our shipmates who are standing in harm's way today. Keep them safe and continually instill in them the honor, courage, and commitment they so devotedly demonstrate each day.

As we prepare to dine, Bless this food that we are ready to receive. May the weight of this day deepen the bonds of brotherhood. And may the strength of the brigade endureth always.

Not for Self, but Country,

AMEN.

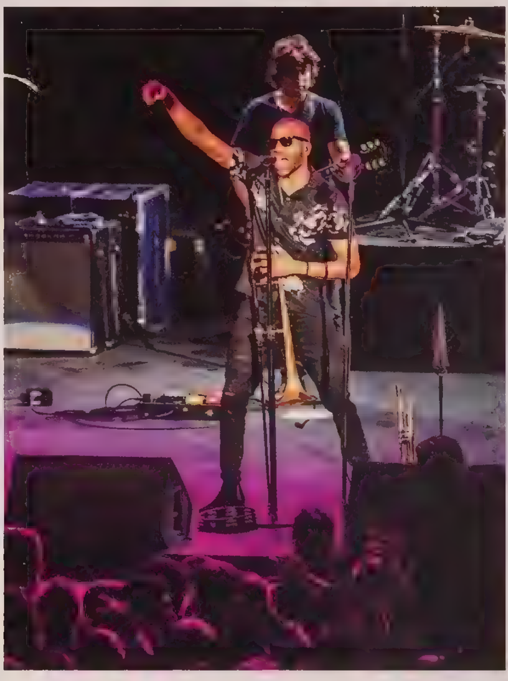
Distinguished Artist Series



Artists come to USNA to share their talent with the plebes and youngsters forced to attend. While Midshipmen mom and dads party on the dance floor, the Midshipmen stay back and watch the concert from their seats in Alumni as mandatory fun tends to take over three hours on a Friday night. Though at the end of the night it is not too uncommon for everyone who attended to admit they appreciated the exposure to the art displayed before them.

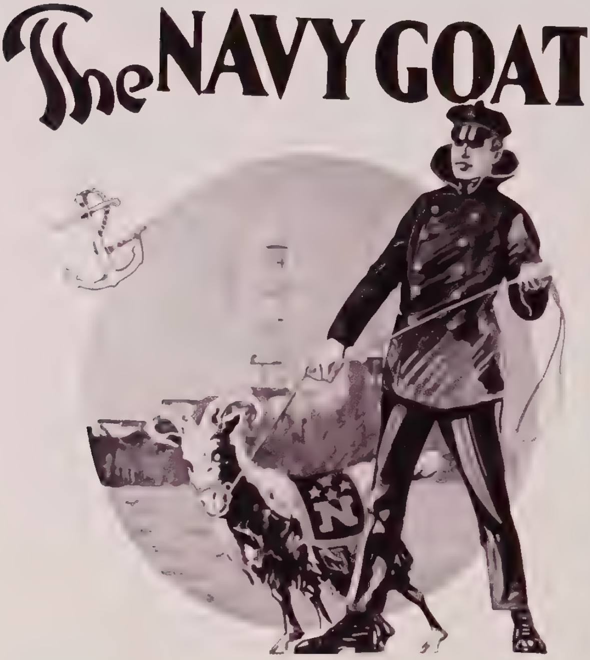
Bill The Goat 36 & 37



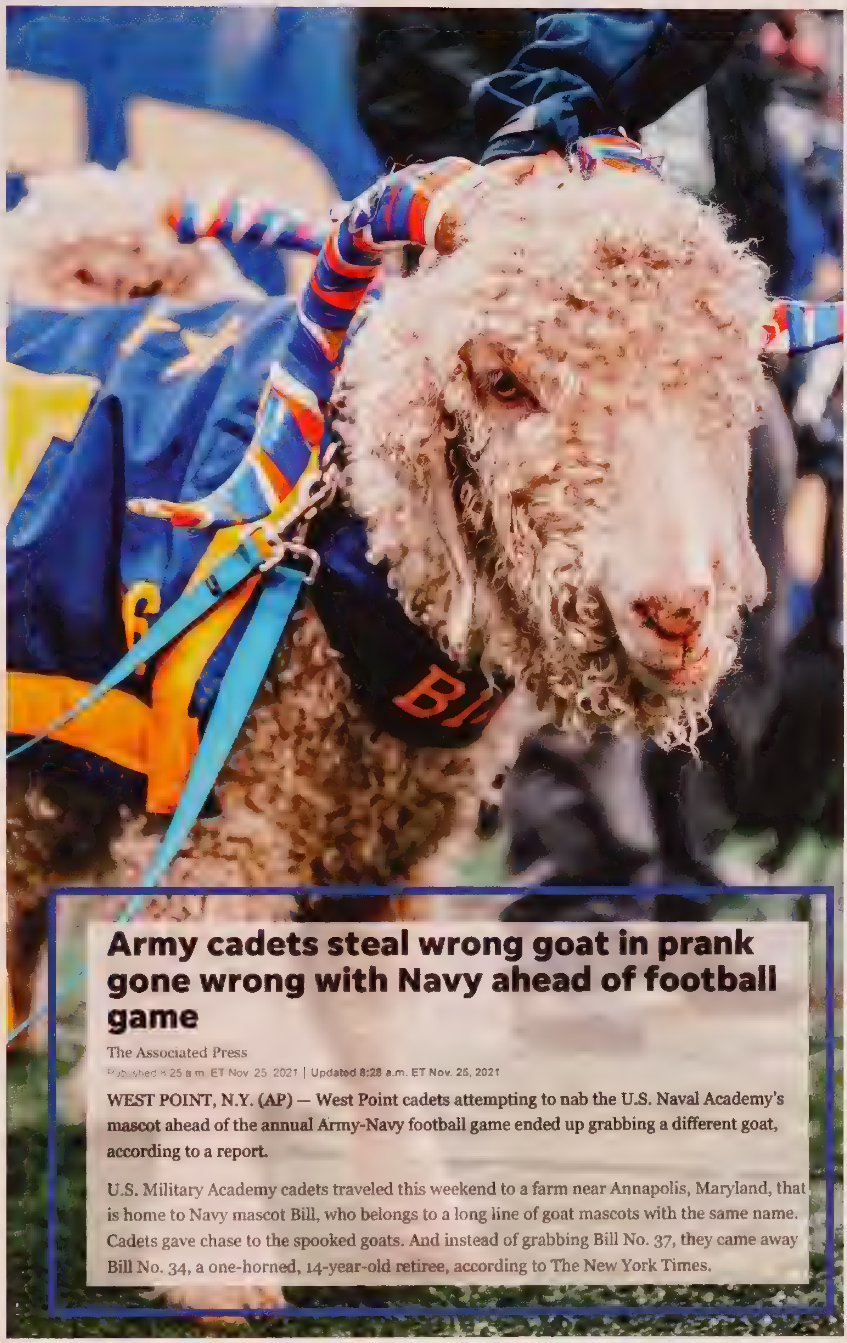
The Legend of the First Goat

Way baaa-ck in the 19th Century, according to legend, officers aboard a Navy vessel grew fond of their pet goat, but unfortunately it fell ill and died at sea. Rather than arrange for a burial upon arrival at port, they decided to honor their beloved goat by saving its skin and having it mounted.

So when they reached land, two young officers went off to find a taxidermist to honor their late caprine crony. As it turned out, the two ensigns then decided to take a detour toward their alma mater and attend a football game. Who could blame them? It had been a long time at sea—and Navy football games are not to be missed.

At halftime, one of the officers thought it would raise spirits if he took out the skin and romped up and down the sidelines wearing the coat of the late goat. His hunch was right, and his antics drummed up roars of laughter and frolic. Navy won that game, and the victory was attributed to the positive spirit of the late, revered goat.

It was not until 1893, however, that a live goat made his debut as a mascot at the fourth Army-Navy game. Again, it was young naval officers who supplied the mids with their sea-faring pet. The USS New York dropped anchor off Annapolis and the ship's mascot, a goat bearing the name El Cid (The Chief), was brought ashore for the service clash. The West Pointers were defeated for the third time, and the midshipmen feted El Cid along with the team. Eventually, after a game in 1900 ended in an Annapolis victory over West Point, they named the goat "Bill" after the Commandant of Midshipmen, CDR Colby Chester's pet goat and have not looked back since.



Army cadets steal wrong goat in prank gone wrong with Navy ahead of football game

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — West Point cadets attempting to nab the U.S. Naval Academy's mascot ahead of the annual Army-Navy football game ended up grabbing a different goat, according to a report.

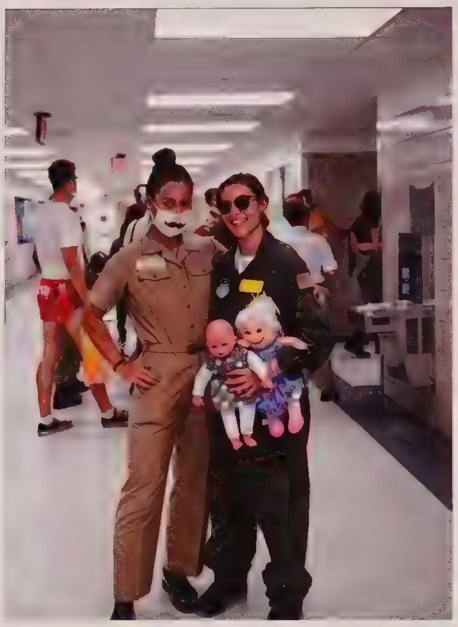
U.S. Military Academy cadets traveled this weekend to a farm near Annapolis, Maryland, that is home to Navy mascot Bill, who belongs to a long line of goat mascots with the same name. Cadets gave chase to the spooked goats. And instead of grabbing Bill No. 37, they came away Bill No. 34, a one-horned, 14-year-old retiree, according to The New York Times.

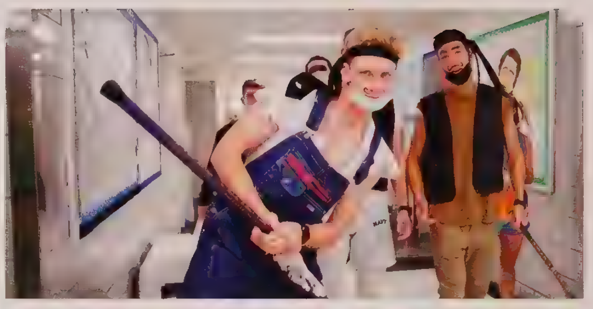
Parade Season

The classic definition that grounds us to the Academy of old, Parades are a long, hot, and tedious. Beautiful Friday afternoons turn into "silver bullets" and visits from the "body-snatchers." Presenting arms to Parents and Admirals just looking for a good show instead see their sons and daughters take a nosedive into the dirt.

Truly, there is no place we would rather be than on historic Worden Field, in the footsteps of distinguished graduates (and Pitbull).

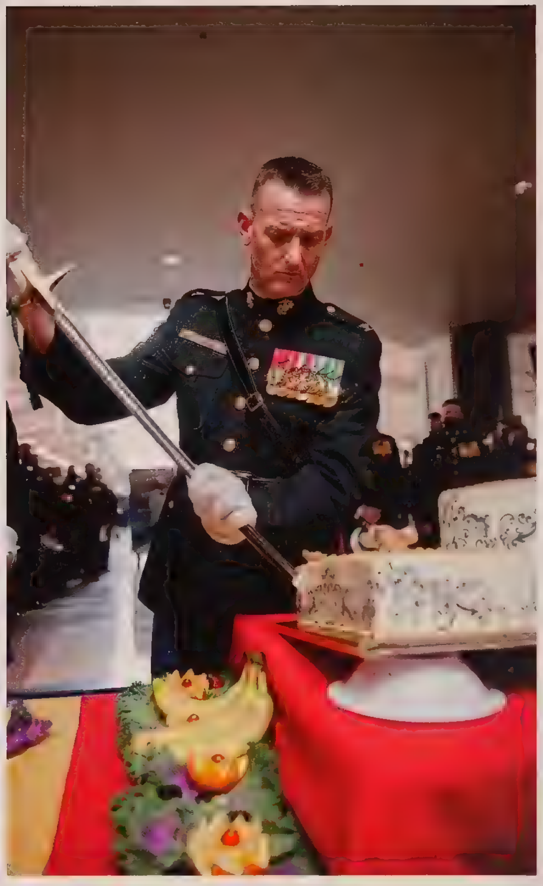
Halloween Season





The USNA annual Halloween Concert is a spectacular event of music, light, drama, and dance. This electrifying concert features Monte Maxwell, Chapel Organist with the multi-faceted talents of Midshipmen in a presentation that has drawn record-breaking crowds into the Naval Academy Chapel. A wide variety of music from multiple genres are featured in this concert celebrating the triumph of good over evil and All Saints' Day.

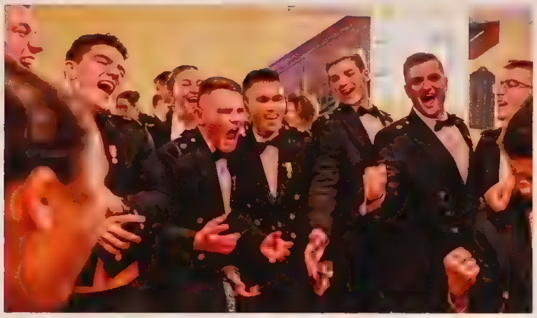
Midshipmen are also invited to dress up in spirited Halloween costumes that spark laughter and awe at evening meal as contestants walk to the center stage of King Hall. Just be careful of the mens swim team as they barrel down the center alleys in their skin tight speedos. This years costume contest winner was the bold Midshipmen dressed as a tree. After, trick-or-treating occurs as upper-class get candy from the plebes.



"The next generation of Marines may operate differently and in different places than the Marines who wear the Eagle, Globe, and Anchor today. Yet they will join a long and proud heritage of Marine fighters who have never turned from a threat or an enemy. We will always remain most ready when our Nation is least ready, because we must protect our shores and our citizens. And as the next evolution of warfighting becomes our reality, it will still be the Marines who defend this Nation,"

-Gen. Berger, Commandant of the Marine Corps

The Marine Corps Birthday



The Marine Corps Birthday came and went with two celebrations on the Yard. The first was celebrated in King Hall and the second was held in Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium. With the reading of General Lejeune's Birthday Message, the Marines then shared General Berger's Birthday video, and then proceeded to eat, drink, and drink some more in remembrance of those Marines who have gone before them starting at Tun Tavern in 1775 and have created and carried on the traditions of the Corps since then.

Oktoberfest

"Oans, zwoa, drei, g'suffa!" One thing that no one can argue is that beer drinking is a national pass-time and free beers on a day made for beer drinking is a making for a Federal Holiday. As the Brigade comes to Dahlgren to celebrate Oktoberfest, it is not unusual to see women dressed in "dirndl", or the common German dress for women, and men dressed in "lederhosen", the trouser for men. Even with the Dep Dant perusing around, after a few beers, one can even see a smile or two break through his tough facade. Happy times only Brigade, and keep on drinking!

Thanksgiving

Every year the Brigade gathers in King Hall to share a family style Thanksgiving meal. We give thanks to those who served before us, the life we are given because of them, and the friends we have made along the way. Helping the community is one of the staples of the Naval Academy as we stride to be contributors to the betterment of the Annapolis-Baltimore-Washington DC areas. Giving Tree is one way we do that, where Christmas lists are hung on a large tree in Memorial Hall and people can come up and take a list to then go out and buy presents for that child. It is a truly memorable thing to do, as although we do not see the kid be given the presents, we know that our gifts make a child's Christmas that much better.

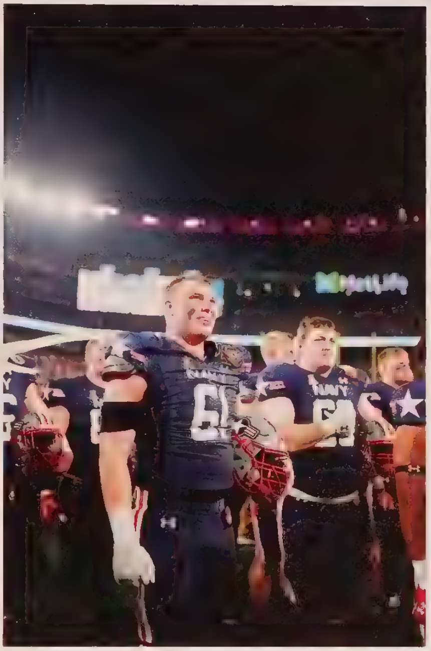
The 122nd Army-Navy Game found Navy taking the road to the Meadow Lands of New Jersey to face West Point. MetLife, home to the Jets and Giants saw Midshipmen and Cadets alike play for the pride of the nation. With flyovers, pregame festivities, and a max capacity crowd of 82,500 people, the Navy section was unsure of what to expect going into the game as underdogs. In the first drive, West Point scored a touchdown on a 56-yard run. Yet, Tai Lavatai and the Navy offense bounced back minutes later on an 11 play, 83 yard drive to tie the game at 7 all.

Army-Navy Game



West Point would score next with a field goal at the end of the 1st quarter and another in the Second Quarter to bring the score to 13-7. After halftime, Navy would lock up the 2nd half defensively, not allowing West Point to score a single point. Diego Fagot would execute a spectacular unplanned fake punt on 4th down. Tai Lavatai would score another touchdown on the ground, and Bijan Nichols would close out the game with a field goal to bring the final score to 17-13. Navy would win the game, and sing second in a closely contested match. Navy now has a record of 60-7-49 against West Point!

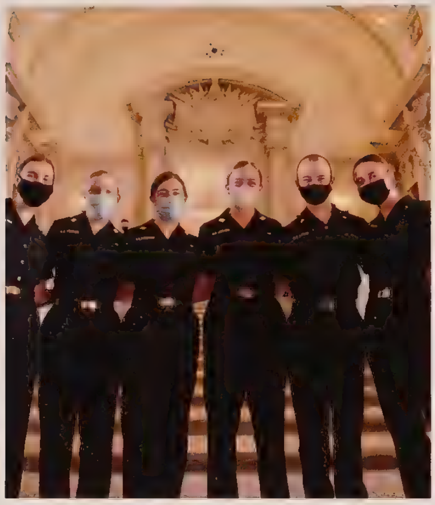
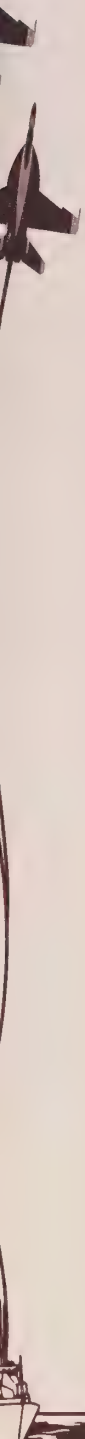
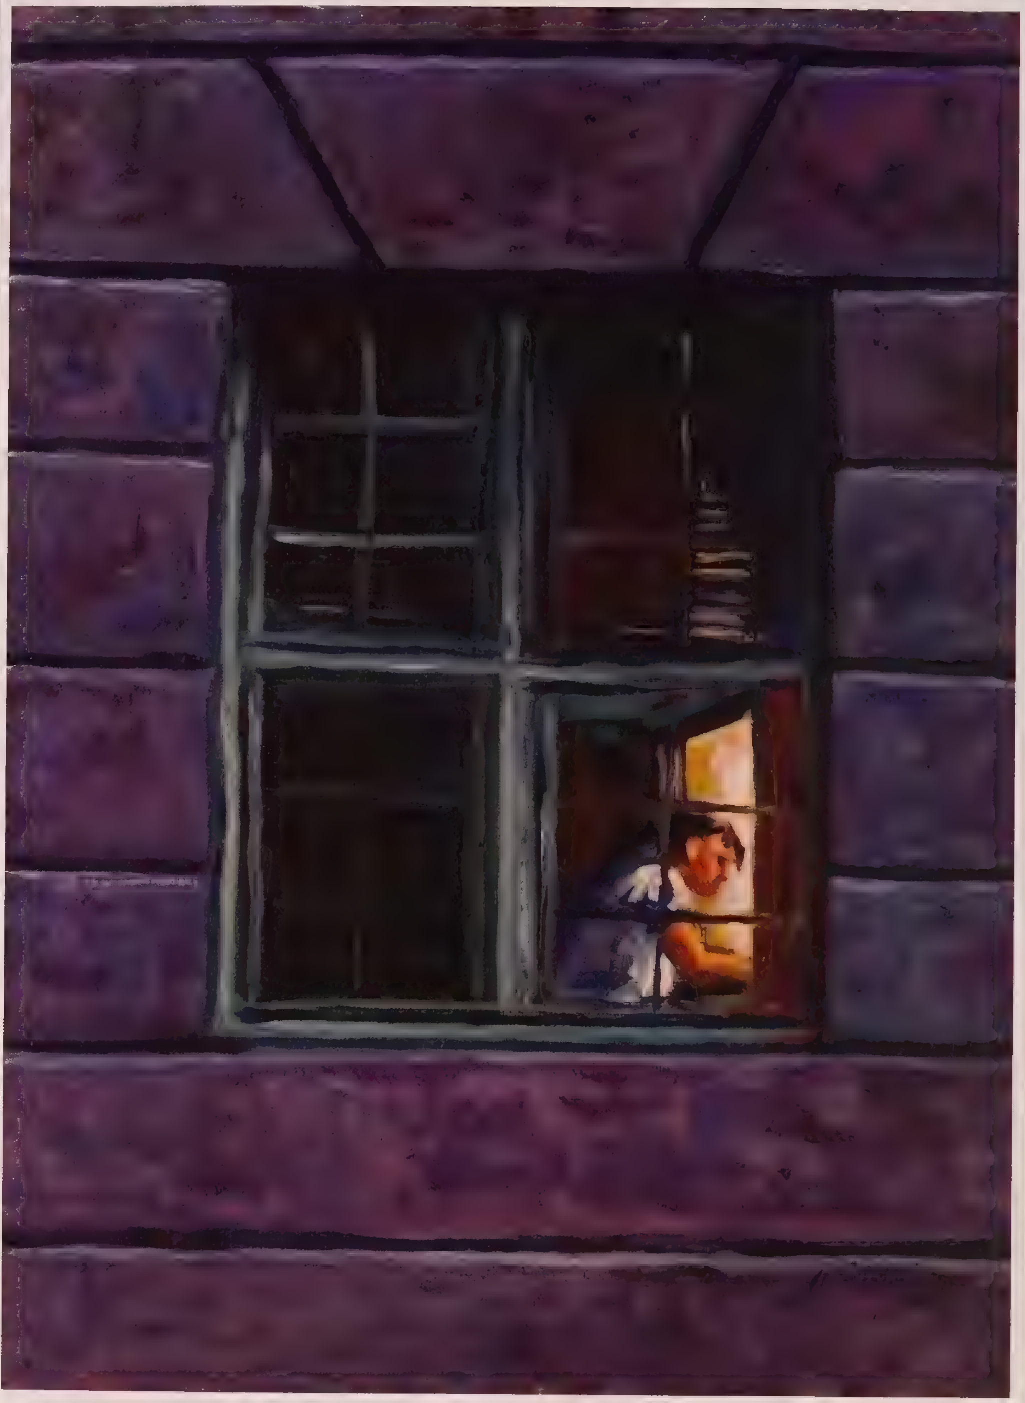
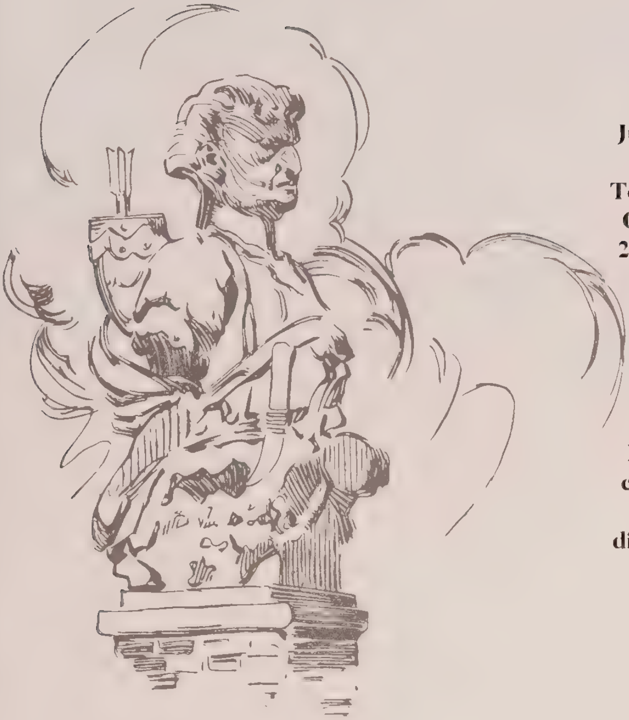
Changing of the Command



Not many Midshipmen know of this tradition, but the Change of Command is when all Fall Semester Midshipmen Company Commanders and higher ranks form together in Memorial Hall for a formal change-over with their Spring counterparts. It is an exciting moment for all involved, as some stand relieved and others begin their new official duties at the Company, Battalion, Regiment, and Brigade levels. Change of Command went smoothly and turnover clearly was a great success as the Brigade's new leadership stepped-in with relative ease.





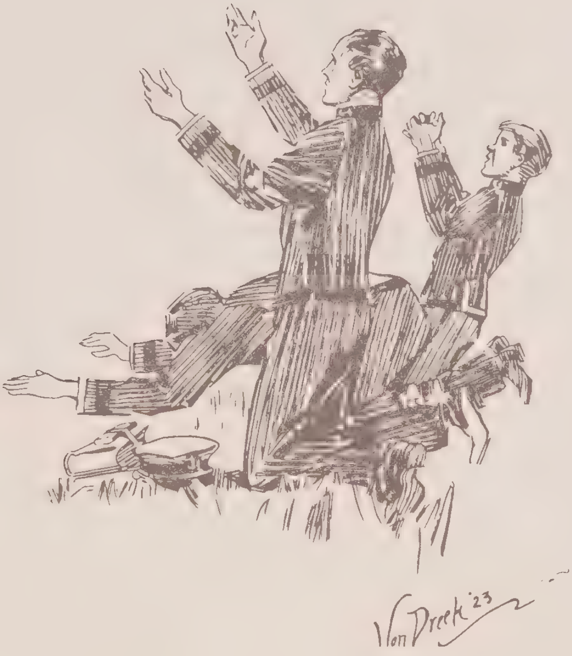


Tecumseh

Just what brilliant mind first conceived the idea of paying reverence to Tecumseh will perhaps never be known. Certain it is, however, that our God of 2.0 assumed the prominence some time after 1866, when he was brought to Annapolis from Norfolk.

Even so, he languished in comparative obscurity up in the Seamanship room above the old Mess Hall.

It is strange that he should have been called Tecumseh, for the poor wooden Indian is only Tamanend, the distinguished chief of the Lenape nation of Delaware Indians.



The forms of obeisance to our Tecumseh have been many.

Before 1900 it was the custom for candidates, whenever they appeared on the Grounds, to stand, hat in hand at attention, humbly before him-this insured a 2.0 on the entrance exams.

Still another legend points out that not infrequently Mids knelt before Tecumseh on the midnights before Semi-Anns.

Everybody saluted him in passing en route to exams, while heaving coins is a comparatively recent custom. Like all unfathomable powers, Tecumseh has endured much from skeptics, of whom, there have been a great number-but devoted followers still are many-as also are the bilgers.

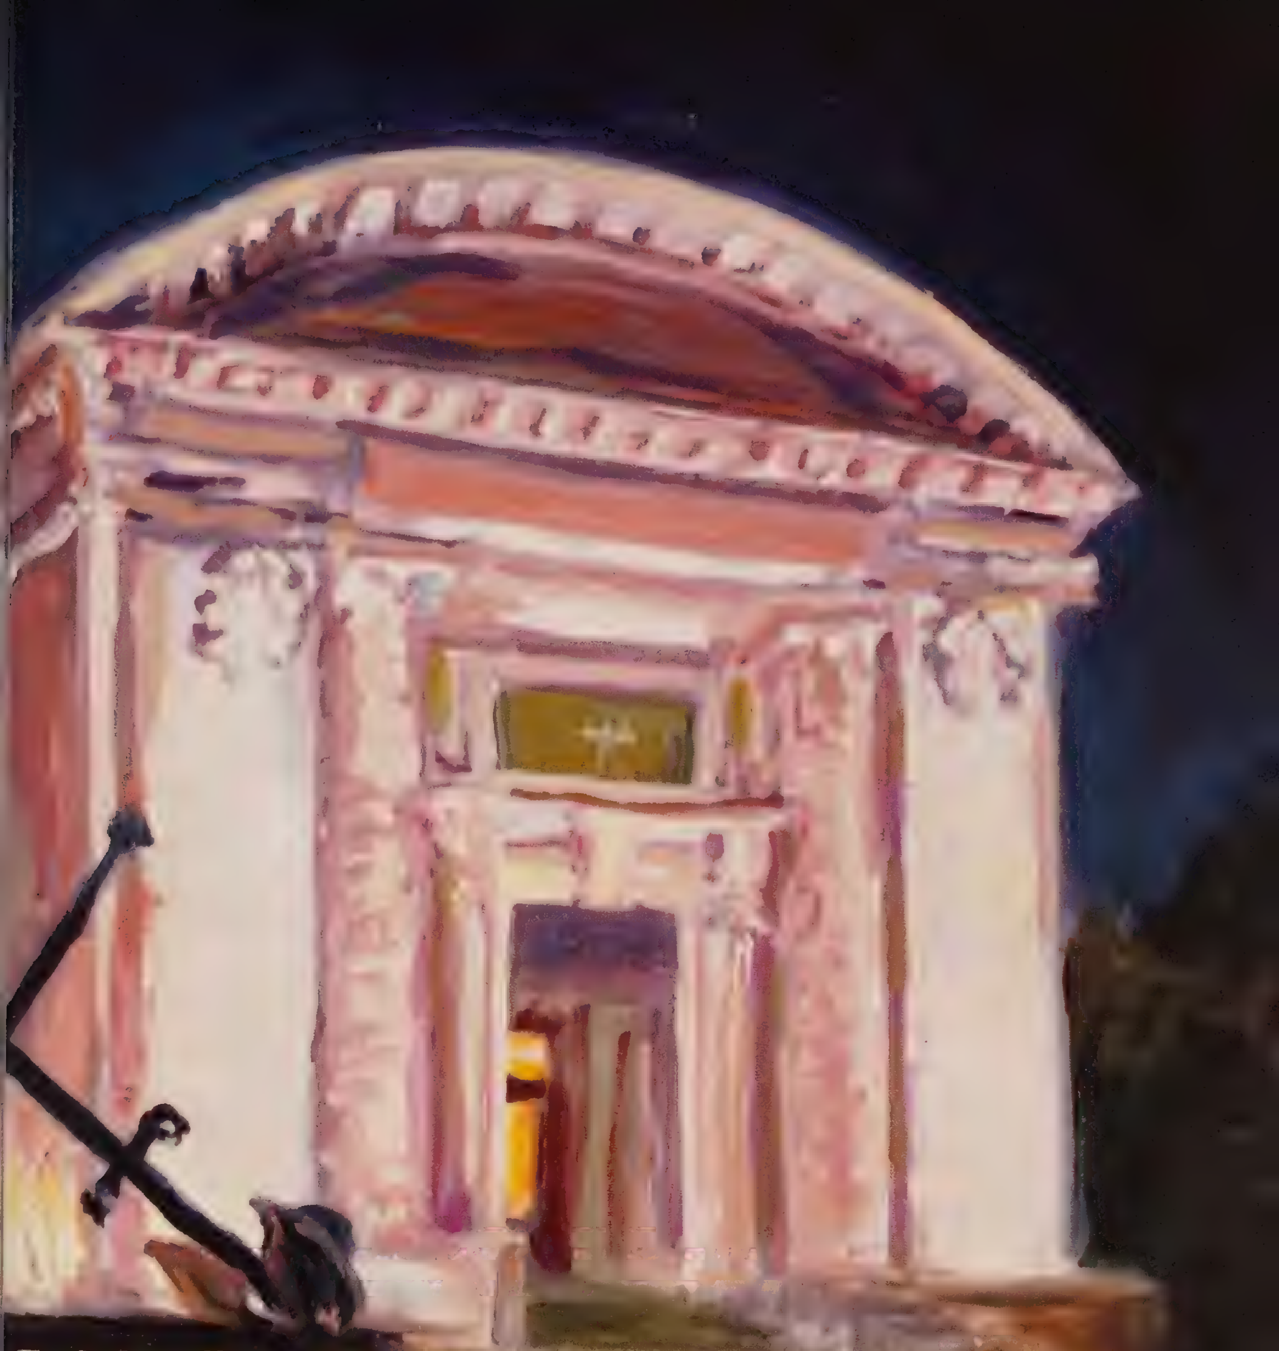
The Dark Ages Always End

On the dawn of a coming Spring,
Sits the gloom that traps us within.
Day & night blend in as one,
When the sun is gone & the day is not yet done.

On the edge of the Severn lies the Academy of old,
With Bancroft Hall home to Midshipmen both young & bold.
Afraid not for what lies ahead,
Only that tomorrow gives way to yet another dread.



Each day offers a daily rigor that challenges us to keep steady,
With the ultimate goal of preparing us to join the fleet thoroughly ready.
While sometimes our soul feels burdened & tired,
We need only to take a short walk to Memorial Hall to be inspired.

For although it may be darkest before the dawn in the winter's doldrum,
The rising Sun will pierce the Dark Ages grey & our time will come.
& we begin to realize that for all the Academy exacts in hardship & pain,
We feel a great pride for braving the journey & all the experience we gain.

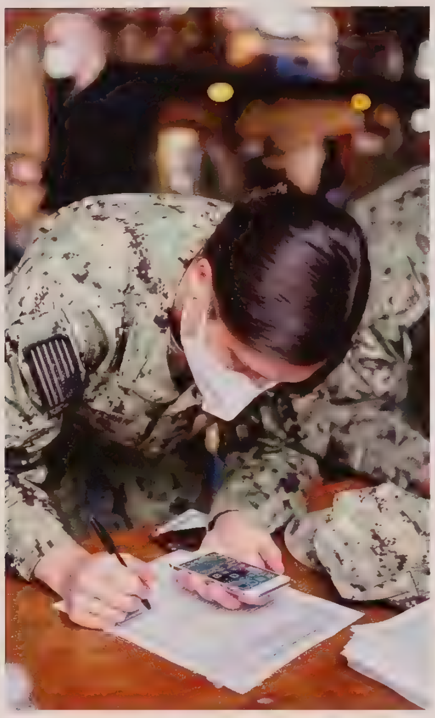
Winter Photo Contest

Talented photographers from across the Brigade submitted photos taken over winter break, reminding us all that there is a world beyond these walls. Olivia Zhang, Brittany Holdenrhodes, and Jeremy Kim took home the first, second, and third place awards, respectively. With winter break a fond, fleeting memory, the Dark Ages sting is less sharp.

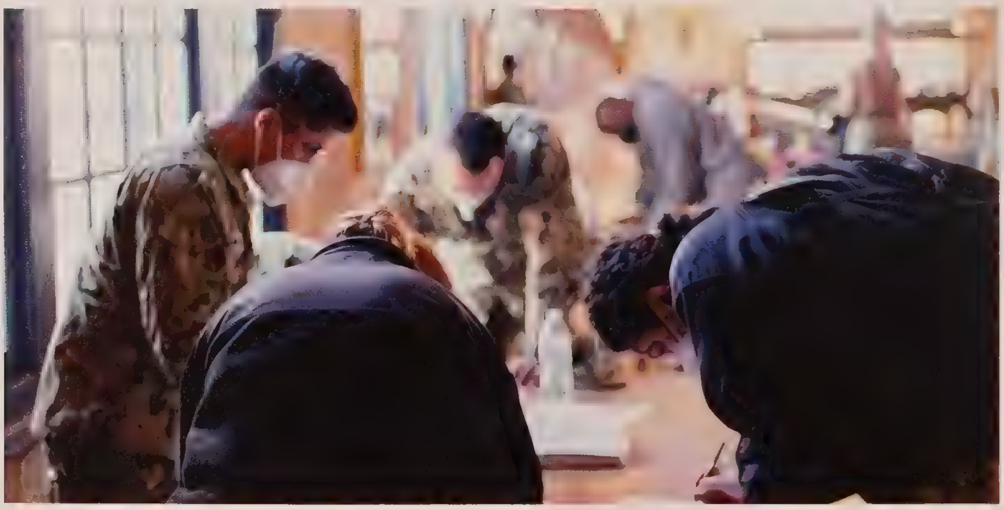
Reform

The Brigade reform following Winter Break is always bittersweet. One the positive side, it is the Spring Semester, with Commissioning and Summer Trainings on the horizon. On the other hand, we know that the Dark Ages are here and with the seemingly impending increase in COVID cases, the Brigade was unsure what to expect. Yet, things felt different as we quickly exited ROM and were pushed back to normalcy very fast. For the unlucky few in 1st Batt who had to wait hours to check-in, we salute you for your patient service on behalf of the Brigade.

Booster Shots



With the prospect of liberty hanging in the balance, the Brigade rushed to Dahlgren to frantically meet the 84 percent liberty threshold - or was it 92 percent? Despite orders from the Supe to "erase all memories of COVID," the fighting men and women of the Brigade were once again called into action to combat the deadly virus and once again earn our precious liberty. Perhaps this is the last we have heard of the 'Rona. In the event that it is not, however, Midshipmen can always be relied on to answer the call of more masks, more boosters, and maybe someday, more liberty.



NALC

NAVAL ACADEMY LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

The Naval Academy Leadership Conference gives Midshipmen an environment that is meant to further develop their character in the moral mission. Bringing in panels and keynote speakers, NALC aims to look at the high and lows of civilians and military leaders in order to develop our own leadership traits. Events like these are what sets the Naval Academy apart, and is one of the defining opportunities for us to fine-tune and build our own leadership style before entering the fleet.

A few lucky Firsties, even received a sword for their selection but many others got hats to represent their ship as well as other welcoming items from the ship's current crew. The group ended their evening of celebration with a night out in the town where they enjoyed one of their last nights as mids.

Super Bowl Party

The Los Angeles Rams beat the Cincinnati Bengals 23-20 in Super Bowl 56 at SoFi Stadium. But the real winners were the men and women of the Brigade who showed up in force at Dahlgren Hall to enjoy pizza, wings, and a bold five drink limit on the eve of the academic reserve week. These heroic men and women took a hard earned break from studying and procrastinating to enjoy a rather uneventful football game and a slew of commercials where celebrities peddled cryptocurrency. The fearless warriors on task force kept us safe, and the Brigade owes the organizers of this event a sincere thank you.

Valentine's Day

Valentine's Day is one that comes and goes for most single midshipmen as if it were a normal day on the Yard. For those in relationships, it is the chance to show off their love for everyone to see. Donuts, flowers, candies, gifts, and Papyrus cards dictate whether V-Day is a good day or great day. For the single ones, a nice candy-gram or bag of donuts from your friend means an extra big smile, and can make the day that much more special. Either way, spreading smiles and love during the Dark Ages is very important!

Spring Break was a good one as Midshipmen had to make up for a missed break last year. Traveling all over the world, from Greece to New Zealand, and Japan to Chile, Midshipmen went to all corners of the globe and had many great adventures. LRECs offered many opportunities for Midshipmen to travel on the Navy's dime and Navy Women's Soccer even met the Pope, which is pretty cool. As Spring Break came to an end, Midshipmen came back and set their sights on the final few weeks of the semester.

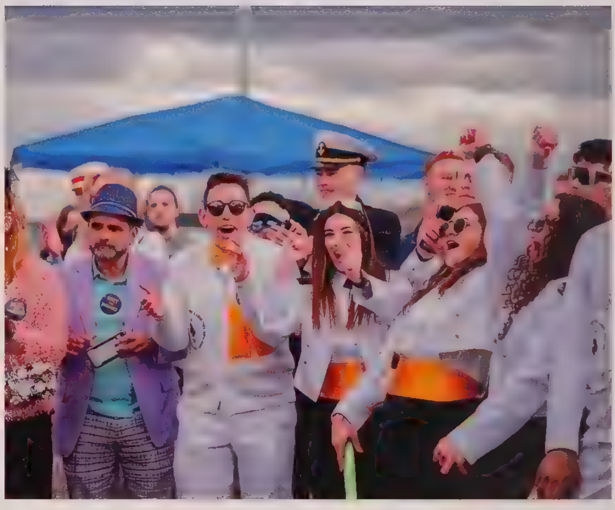
Croquet: Midshipmen vs. The Johnnies



The good ole' classic that pins the Middies versus the Johnnies. While certainly we could beat them in almost any other sport, it proves quite challenging to beat St. Johns in their preferred sport of choice. With women adorned in colorful dresses and men in tuxes and sweater vests, Croquet marks springtime's true beginning for the Brigade. Seeing the 28th Company Clubbers looking preppy in their white N-Star sweater with the issued whites pants and shoes is one tradition that truly stands out in the Brigade. Showing up prepared often means arriving after going out for bottomless mimosas beforehand and going back out with company-mates after. No matter if we win or lose, which in this case we won, we always represent.

Each Semester a Bell Ringing Ceremony occurs to commemorate all the teams victories over our rival on the shores of the Hudson River. This year, Navy broke the record for most wins in the annual Star Series which was fantastic as we beat Army in all major sports this year, winning 20 to 4 overall in the series. All of our varsity athletes, coaches, and support should be proud as this is the series that matters most to Navy fans around the United States. Get some Goats!

2025 Herndon

Plebe Summer feels like a distant nightmare as '25 slipped and slid their way up a crisco-covered obelisque capped with a dixie cup while being pelted with an ice cold jet stream of hose water. The ground gets mushy. Feet squish the face of those strong enough to support the base of the mid pyramid. The skinniest tall folks squirm to the precipice in an attempt to cap the monument with a midshipman cover. Parents watch from behind the yellow tape with 'Plebe No More' buttons pinned to their shirts. All this just for '25 to stop tucking in their shirts and plebeing covers and squaring corners. Finally the arduous year ends as the covers takes hold at the tip of Herndon. Congratulations, 3 hours 36 minutes and 58 seconds isn't a record-breaker, but you still got it done!

NAVIGATION

For 364 days, Midshipmen are keenly aware of the presence of tourists around the yard and understand that they themselves are the attraction. For one day a year, however, Midshipmen get to be tourists in their own homes. The Navy's Flight Demonstration team is so good at their jobs that it is a surprise that anyone wants to do anything but fly. Other notable memories from today include everyone competing to find the best place to watch the show (bro I know a guy who can get us on the roof of Luce) and that one Aero Major in your company who swears he's going to be a Blue Angel someday (He's getting Nuke SWO drafted). The Blue Angels are a staple of Commissioning Week festivities and remind us all how proud we are to be a part of the Navy and Marine Corps.

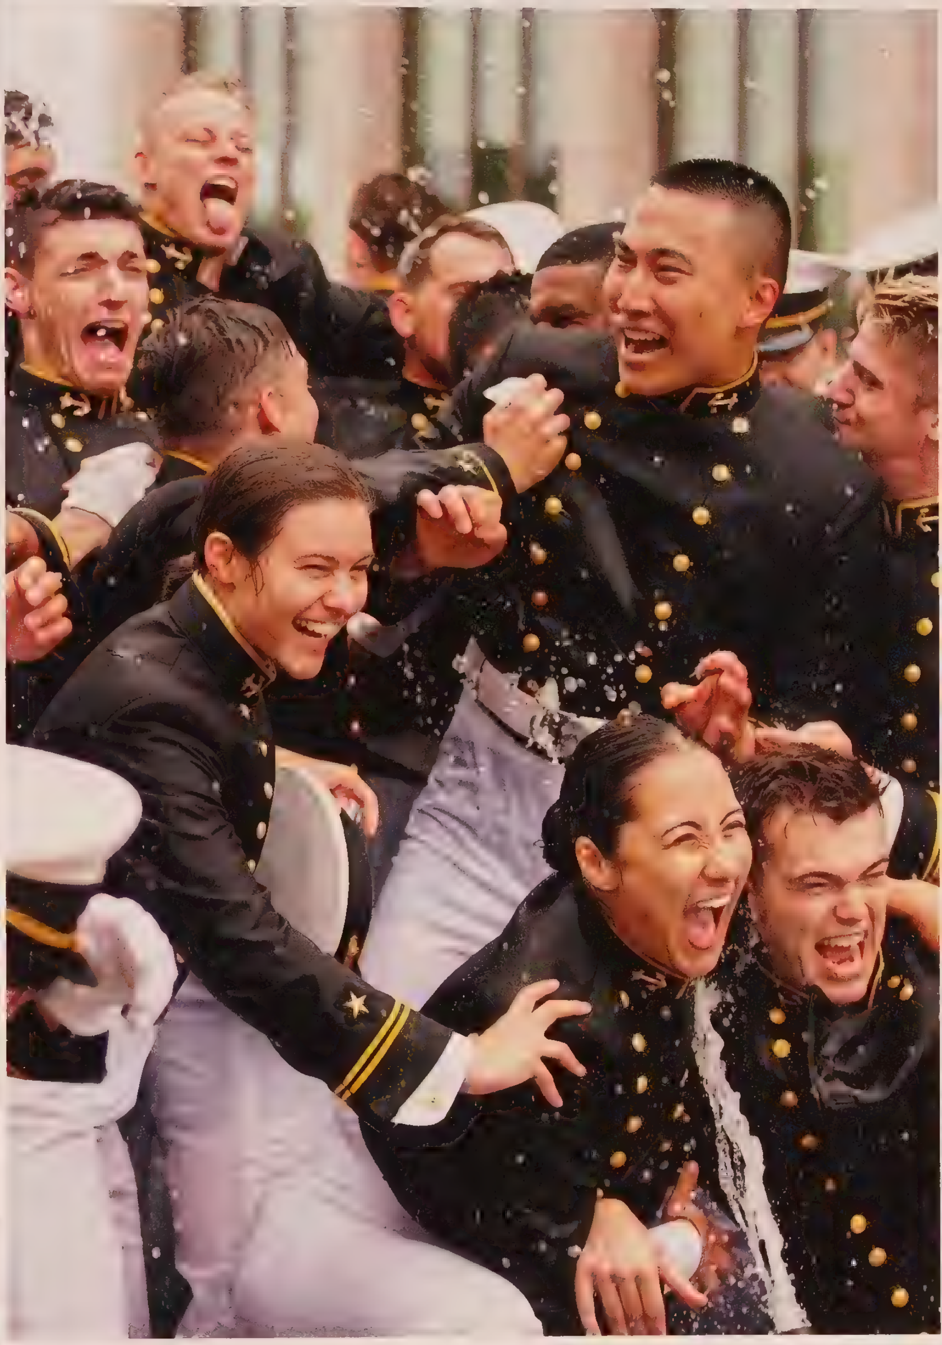
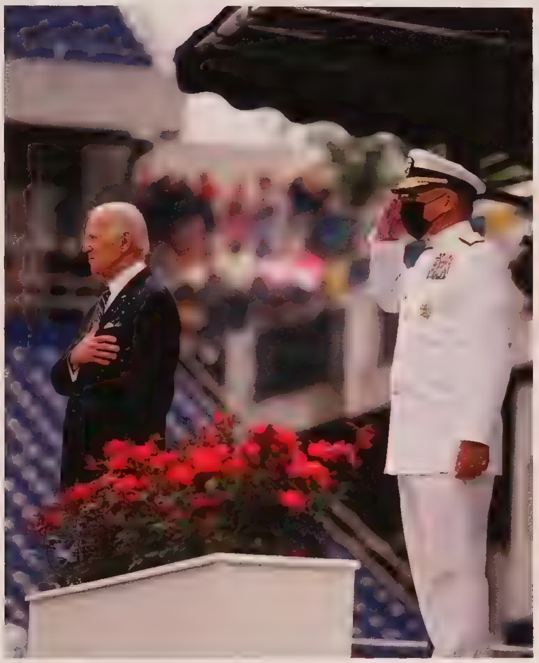
Color Parade

The Color Parade is one that is often unappreciated in its time by the Midshipmen participating. While yes, it may be long and rather uninteresting, there is no better (or other) time to break out those white parade pants you forgot you had. For the Firsties, this is a bittersweet adventure as they say goodbye to parades forever (we think?) and even get to take a trip to the fountain afterwards (whether they want to or not). As much as mids complain, Color Parade is what draws so many parents to Worden Field in May and pays homage to those who have gone before us.



Commissioning after some of the most inexplicable times the Naval Academy has faced, the class of 2022 has been through it all. While tasked with leading the Brigade back after COVID, '22 rose to the challenge and took leadership billets seriously across companies, sports, ECAs, and a number of other realms to follow-through on Colonel McDonough's guidance to make the most of our time here. While some could not handle the challenges and others found they were not medically qualified, the number of total graduates was exactly 1,100.

Commissioning



The Navy commissioned 798 ensigns, while the Marine Corps commissioned 274 2nd Lieutenants. There were 3 interservice transfers, 13 golden handshakes, and 12 foreign national students who would end up walking the stage on May 27th. Although storms marked the end of the ceremony, we were all graced with a good speech from our Superintendent, the Chief of Naval Operations, the Commandant of the Marine Corps, and the 46th President of the United States, Joe Biden. It was a memorable day, one that we will remember forever and binds us to our classmates and fellow alumni who've gone before us.

ANNAPOLIS

There at the gate of the ocean,
Close to the race of the tide,
Annapolis stands like a beacon light
Flashing its rays far and wide.
Aye, like a beacon we see her,
Rearing up men for the fight,
Standing up proud in her power,
Dazzling the world with her light.

There 'neath the crosses of marble
Our famous old sea fighters rest,
True to their mother, the ocean,
Forever asleep at her breast.
And there 'neath the dome of the chapel,
Lying in most honored state,
Still hovers that undaunted spirit,
Paul Jones, the unconquered and great.

Full many a grey-bearded captain
Remembers the old Lovers' Lane,
And down its green-shaded pathway
He longs to be strolling again.

The [illegible] river that's flowing
Past Greenbury Point to the bay,
The winds that sweep in from the ocean
And carry the sting of the spray.

There stands the tribute to Somers
And all of his fire-honored band,
Mute spokesman of deeds by the workers
Who fashioned our own native land.
And filled with the breath of the warriors
Whose pictures look down from the wall,
We roll back the years in their glory,
In the hush of Memorial Hall.

Then borne on the breezes of twilight
Comes the sound of a sweet bugle call
As the colors float down from the flagstaff
And the shadows of evening fall.

Then again comes the sound of the night
Now softly, now sweet through the night
And from there gleams out to seaward
The far reaching rays of the light.

Men's Cross Country

After months of running eighty to one hundred miles a week throughout the humid summer at Flagstaff altitude, the Navy Men's Cross-Country team entered the fall season with the mentality that "no one is going to do it for you," ready to grind out everyday with full effort. When the team found itself up at West Point, the men left the branded course with their third consecutive N-star, and having placed seven of the runners in the top eight. For the Patriot League Championship, the team led the most dominant performance in Patriot League history, claiming 2nd through 7th place across the finish line. After the eleven grueling weeks of competition, the new members of the team are able to earn the title "Swordfish", an identity baked into the team culture. Every Swordfish holds a legacy where he earns his stars and graduates as a proud Navy Cross-Country athlete.

This Army-beating, Patriot League-winning crew can be found Running Hard and Rolling Deep year-round on the roads of Annapolis or the greens of the USNA Golf Course. You've probably nearly hit them with either your car or golf cart at least once, but they would probably prefer that over running another "surprise twist" Bertha repeat. Even if the Old Yeller firsties are ready to be taken out back, they're all smiles, and you'll hear them practicing their perfect "golf course etiquette" giggling from a mile away. Rain, shine, mud, cold, humidity? Nobody cares, go harder. When they're not running, NWXC can be found hogging the King Hall ice cream machine, doordashing, watching Slime do pull-ups, missing the bus, or overplaying The Spinns.

After a solid preseason camp in the August heat of Annapolis, the Men's Soccer team was ready to attack the fall season and put together performances to be proud of. Preseason established a hardworking, never-back-down mentality throughout the team. The players bought into the team values, working hard for the guys next to them out on the pitch. Each member of NMS understood what was needed to be a top tier program in college soccer, continually pushing the guy next to them to be better than they were yesterday. The team started off on the right foot, collecting eight wins in their first ten matches, which established the Mids as a force to be reckoned with in the Patriot League. One of the most electric performances of the season was when the team shut out Army 3-0 to win the N-Star match and bring the Army-Navy cup back to Annapolis. It was a courageous effort by the Mids in front of a big Philadelphia crowd, and the team looks forward to battling the Black Knights again in the fall and keeping the cup where it belongs. The lads have a lot to be proud of, capping the season with a record of 12-6-1, with many players receiving all league and all region awards. We are excited for our very own Matt Nocita to continue playing at the next level after being drafted 7th overall at the MLS SuperDraft by New York Red Bulls. NMS will keep hammering throughout the offseason to stay sharp and be ready to face anything in the coming season. The future is bright for Navy Men's Soccer!

Women's Soccer

The Navy Women's soccer team had an incredible season and came back strong after a restricted COVID season. Firstie and captain Carolyn Mang claimed that they "were happy to have a full schedule and fans back in the stands." Although the team had a few tough losses in the beginning of the season, they came back to "absolutely dominate the Patriot League." Mang claims that their biggest wins were "against Maryland and Army were strong highlights of the season that showed off [their] team's skill, perseverance, and heart." The best part about the team is how everyone "made a difference this year. The camaraderie this team shares is truly something special."

The "small guy football team" has overcome numerous trials this season including broken down buses, cutting weight, and defending their place in the Wes B weight room. They finished their season 8-0 and developed mentally and morally along the way. Firstie center Shane Fagan claimed "we got down to business, being the first undefeated team since 2014." The highlights of their season included two big wins against Army. However, this would not have been possible without "the blocker, 4th quarters, and Ocean City, MD." Coming out of COVID the captains "brought together the team unlike ever before. There is always uncertainty getting a new coaching staff, but we did our job as usual." Youngster Andrew Margiotta claimed that "all the players can agree that the dedication from captains, Mike and Matt, allowed them to uphold the legacy set by those before [them]."

The summer of 2021 marked the return of the team to offshore racing as they competed in several offshore competitions and regattas up the east coast from Annapolis to Maine. Following the busy summer season, the team returned in the Fall with humbling experiences and newfound expertise to begin a successful season. Teams raced both in the Bay and in locations such as Chicago, Illinois. The team put forward hard work and dedication throughout the semester and that paid off with some high slotted finishes. This momentum helped propel the team into a well fought out Spring season. The team closed their intercollegiate races in Los

After coming off of winning two National Championships last Spring, the Intercollegiate Sailing Team was ready to work hard to achieve the same goal. Long hours on the water after school and on the weekend payed off during our regular season. We came away with three separate conference championships and qualified for a total of five national championships. In the fall we competed in match racing and singlehanded nationals finishing 2nd and 9th, respectively. The brotherhood had themselves a year in 2021. Despite a rocky start against Marshall and Air Force, the boys found their footing and were able to beat the UCF golden knights at home. Navy would also go on to beat Tulsa and Temple. Navy football had an electric close loss at home against No. 2 Cincinnati, proving that this team can always surprise you. And of course, in the most important game of the year, the goats came out on top after crushing "our little brothers" at West Point.

The Men of Ken came out each game to support, waving the big white flag with light blue paint in the front rows of the plebes. Although we were not eligible, we won the game that matters most to Naval Academy alumni, midshipmen, and fans.

Critical thinking skills applied to forming split second decisions against a team that gave some decent competition made the world of a difference for Navy. Basketball school? We were this year! Navy Basketball got off to a hot start this season when they upset No. 25 Virginia in their first game of the season, our first win over a ranked team since David Robinson was on our roster. We finished the season with 21 wins overall, and took a second place finish to Colgate in the Patriot League championships. After a heartbreaking loss to Army at home, the boys came back later in the season to beat Army on their own court. Head coach Ed DeChellis was named Patriot League Coach of the year, said he was "proud of the year we have had. Proud of our four seniors (Carter, Summers, Njoku and Christian Silva). Our four seniors are going on to do really important things for our country. I have three Marines and one Naval officer. They have a bigger fight ahead of them, but there is no one else I would rather do it with than these four seniors. Great young men, great character, great fiber to them."

The Navy women's basketball team truly made history in their 2021-2022 season. They played as unwaivering fighters who were determined to win. The team was successful in many ways including being the 8th seed going into the Patriot League tournament, and upsetting the number one seed. Vital, youngster player Sydne Watts claimed "a lot of people say a lot about our team, good and bad. However, one thing they can never say is that we give up, or don't fight with out whole hearts every time we step out on the court." While there were significant team accomplishments, multiple individual players had record breaking seasons. One of the most notable players being Firstie Jennifer Coleman who received numerous awards including the Patriot League Rookie of the Week, 2020-21 All-Patriot League Second Team, and 2021-22 Preseason All-Patriot League Team. She was also the first female athlete and Navy women's basketball player to be an All-American and receive a WNBA contract. This season the Navy baseball team became America's (and the Plebe's) favorite past-time. On the outskirts of the yard stands the team, completing their season with 48 rigorous games. Youngster, star right fielder Zane Raba claimed that the best part of their season was "winning the series against Air Force at the Freedom Classic." "This season brought about many trials that were difficult to prepare for. It was a grind, but it bettered the team and I mentally and physically." According to Raba, Captain Christian Policelli had a "stand out season and did it all. He brought the team together with his motivating pre-game speeches and one-on-one encouragement." While many team goals were met, there were also players who accomplished incredible individual achievements. This includes Navy's ace pitcher Nate Mitchell, "Skinny P," who leads the NCAA in walks to strikeout ratio and walks per 9 inning game. The team and coaching staff has learned a lot from this season that they will use to drive the players in the off-season.

Sweeney scored the game winning goal against Army less than a minute into overtime after Cole evened out the score board with a last minute yet crucial shot. Cycling

Opening their season for the first time since being shut down in spring of 2020, the Navy cycling team looked forward to a season full of both challenges and excitement. With a group of new, ready-to-learn athletes, the team has an exciting schedule and raced in the Tidewater Classic in late February and the Rogue State Road Race in March. This is also the first time in several years that the team will compete against Army at West Point. According to team Captain Seth Benscoter, "Not only is the terrain a lot tougher up there, but competing against Army is always a hard contest. It should be a great time." But, the team is ready for the challenge and dedicates a large portion of their time practicing in the 7th wing basement, while blaring their favorite music. However, even more so than their physical stamina, the team is continuously working to build bonds with each other that will allow their program to grow even more.

Fencing

The Fencing Team is a competitive club team and is regarded as one of the top collegiate club fencing programs in the country. The Fencing Team competes against both NCAA Varsity programs and club teams in the Mid-Atlantic and Baltimore-Washington regions. Fencing has continued to distinguish itself as one of the most dominant club teams, despite COVID setbacks in 2021. As championship season approaches, the Fencing Team is poised for strong conference finishes and placements at USACFC National Championships. The men's team captain and overall team captain is MIDN 1/C James Henderson. The women's team captain is MIDN 1/C Monica Fleck.

Pistol

The Navy Pistol Team is a club sports team of 30 midshipmen who train in the art of extremely precise pistol marksmanship. The team President is 1/C Sam Wolthoff and the Vice President is 2/C Hitoshi Cullinan. Coach Kathryn Callahan and assistant Coach Jim Marsh led the team this year to a respectable 6-4 record in a competitive region with many remarkable performances across the board. Shooting one-handed, these Mids aim at targets the size of a silver dollar as far as 50 feet away and consistently hit bullseyes in both slow precision and rapid-fire events. By season's end, Navy shooters have racked up too many great achievements and accolades to name them all, and an astounding eleven Navy shooters earned spots to compete in at least one event at the 2022 National Collegiate Championship.

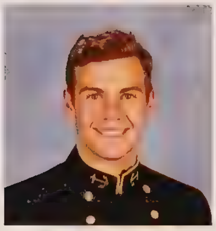
Men's Hockey

Starting off a bit slow, Navy Men's Hockey quickly turned it around and won the last 12 games of their season, including playoffs. With victories for and away, Midshipmen came out to support at the BSA throughout the season to mentally tax opposing team's goalies. Overall a great season for Navy Men's Hockey.

As Captain Brendan Reynolds puts it: "Lost a few games. Won more games than we lost. Won the league. Won the championship. Won the crab pot. Went to NATS. NHF."



Brendan Reynolds

Women's Hockey

The Navy Women's Hockey team received a bid as the #1 seed from the southeast region, and the #2 seed overall, to the American Collegiate Hockey Association National Tournament. Coming back from a year without a season due to COVID in 2021, the 2021-2022 season posed its challenges with several cancelled games due to COVID and an early season loss to their fierce rival, the University of Delaware. Led by Captain Quin Ramos and Assistant Captain Isabelle Ross, the ladies boasted an 18-1 record in the regular season and won their conference at the DVCHC playoff tournament, defeating UDel in the championship game. They held the inaugural in-house scrimmage against the Men's B team, and their first ever trip to Boston to play Northeastern University. The ladies are looking to continue their strong record in the coming seasons.

NAVAL ACADEMY KARATE TEAM

Karate

The USNA Karate Team is a tight-knit group focused on the development of martial artists and leaders. The team trains primarily in Shorin-ryu Shidokan Karate, but explores various styles and forms through numerous practices, seminars, and tournaments. Training is centered on developing well-rounded martial artists who embody the core values of discipline, respect, and dedication. The USNA Karate Team looks forward to the upcoming season and competing in various dual matches, with their focus on beating Army in what will be the first competition between rival teams in several years.

Lacrosse

Navy Men's Club Lacrosse is well known for their winning atmosphere and culture among teams around the Yard. Led by captains Jack Streeter, Danny Miller, Zack Genereaux, and Kyle Lennon, the sled dawgs compete in the National Club Lacrosse League. The team is looking to pick up exactly where they left off during their last full season in 2019 that concluded in a National Championship. Since then, the dawgs have returned and picked up a large amount of talent on all sides of the ball. So far this Spring, the team has proven to be exceptionally well rounded with the efficient production out of our extremely strong attack and middie lines, as well as high chemistry between our close defense and goalie play. Navy Club Lacrosse prides itself on their rich team tradition since 1992.

Marathon

Running with girls and guys of marathon team can only be described as electric. From first time marathoners to salty veterans, there is something for everyone. Led into traffic by 1/C Potticary, and Fletcher, attendance managed by 2/C Ozgar and Kniezewski, and funds managed by 2/C Million, the team was able to send 2 to Boston in the fall and 12 more in the spring after a lightning fast race at Harrisburg. Next year, marathon team will be rocking letter sweaters every Friday... watch out Brigade. Marathon team also raced at Salisbury, in Annapolis at the B&A Trail Marathon, and continues to volunteer at running events in the local area.

Jiu Jitsu

Navy Jiu Jitsu is all about camaraderie, humility, competition, legacy, and support of the USNA Mission. NJJ is the premiere grappling club on the yard. We teach our students how to take an opponent to the ground and how to finish those opponents. We do anything from joint manipulations to blood and air chokes. More importantly, however, we incorporate the Navy and Marine Corps' Warfighting ethos into our practices. We learn how to become better warfighters so that we may teach others what we know. Our team ties into the grander scheme of becoming more morally, mental, and physically fit officers to be commissioned. We support brigade functions such as the MARSOT Screener, Sea Trials, and company workouts. In addition to teaching and practicing jiu jitsu, we also compete in multiple intercollegiate and local tournaments.

Men's Rugby

Navy Men's Rugby is a member of the Rugby East Conference alongside Kutztown, Notre Dame College, Penn State, St Bonaventure, and Army. Under the direction of Head Coach Gavin Hickie, the men finished the fall season with an 8-1 record. Led by Team Captain Colin Brennan, Navy Men's Rugby scored 389 points for, while only allowing 115 points against. The team finished the fall season ranked 8th in the country and hopes to compete for a D1A National Championship title in April. EAFD.

Women's Rugby

Navy Women's Rugby is a tight knit group of women who are dedicated to hard work, perseverance, and grit both on and off the pitch. In their first full season since 2019, Navy Women's Rugby dominated the East Coast. Remembering the sting of their loss against Air Force in the championship 2 years ago, they went on to become the CRAA Division I Fall 2021 National Champions. The team -- led by Captains Sarah Skinner and Aimee Dalsimer, President Keelie Stork, and VP Emma Slavens -- is a diverse one, welcoming players from various skill levels. While rugby is a demanding sport, it is equally rewarding. Character, tenacity, and determination are tested and revealed but the bonds forged on and off the pitch are everlasting. Love the Legacy.

Keelie Stork

Men's Soccer

The Navy Men's Club Soccer Seamen are a group of guys who appreciate having a good time on and off the field. They may not have goals, uniforms or funding of any kind but that doesn't stop them from playing at a high level. The team competes at the intercollegiate club level against local and regional teams across the East Coast. In the past the team has competed for the national championship and in the fall, Captains Isaac Barta and Biran Senghore led the team to a respectable record. The team is looking to continue improving, bring on some younger talent, compete for a Regional Championship and continue their dominance over Army this Spring.

Women's Soccer

The Captains of the Women's Club Soccer team are Karla Guzman and Quiarra Barros.This team is made up of girls from every class who have a love for the beautiful game that is soccer. We competed in the Region 1 League and played teams like UMD, George Washington, American, and Salisbury. We also competed in the Maryland Meltdown tournament at UMD and won 1st place. This is our 3rd year existing as a team on the yard, and we are coming back in full swing after COVID. We see great things in store for the future of this young squad.

Powerlifting

The Powerlifting team has doe incredible work over the years to expand their team and truly build a culture of excellence. Competing at events around the country, Navy Powerlifting looks for a few key attributes: discipline, character, and work ethic are some that come to mind. Each year, eager plebes stack the underground sweat-house at Hospital Point where the Powerlifting team works to see if they have the meddle to make it into the ranks of the team. While they only take a select group, the team grows so close in friendship as they compete against their own minds each day to get better. The Naval Academy is lucky to have such a great group of Midshipmen pushing themselves each day.

Bringing Bill the Goat to football games requires a team of expert handlers to escort to, through, and back from the gridiron. Team Bill is comprised of members of 8th Company who have a genuine interest in taking care of the goats. Currently the President of the team is 1/C Connor Banerjee, and the goats are number 36 and 37. Decked out in unique colors on their horns, and usually wearing an embroidered coat with their numbers and the N-star, this team is what makes Navy stand out on the football field.

Drum and Bugle Corps

Whether on the parade ground, in the stands at a Navy football game, or presenting field and stage performances around the country, the U.S. Naval Academy Drum & Bugle Corps, under the direction of Mr. Jeff Weir, proudly serves as the Navy's finest marching music ensemble. Formed in 1914, the Naval Academy Drum & Bugle Corps is the oldest active drum corps in the nation. Comprised of 100 midshipmen from all classes and majors, the four-time champions of the Inter-service Academy Drum and Bugle Corps Competition perform over 200 times a year in support of the Brigade of Midshipmen and Navy athletics.

Silent Drill Team

The United States Naval Academy Silent Drill Team, "The Jolly Rogers," is a rifle platoon that performs a unique precision drill exhibition. Established in September of 1990 by a group of Midshipmen, the Jolly Rogers represent the Naval Academy and the United States Navy in a wide variety of public appearances, to include local dress parades, sports half-time shows, local military events, invitational drill meets, and other official ceremonies by demonstrating excellence and discipline through precise and calculated exhibition drill performances..

Chinese Culture Club

The Chinese Culture club is a group of Midshipmen focused on exploring the Chinese culture. No capacity to speak the Chinese language is required, just a genuine interest in the Chinese way of life. The club regularly explores Chinese culture through authentic Chinese cuisine, Chinese movies, and Chinese celebrations. Contact one of the Midshipmen representatives if you would like to learn more!

Parachute Team

The Naval Academy Parachute Team develops leadership skills, projects a positive Brigade image, and publicly showcases midshipman competence in support of the USNA mission and recruiting efforts. The team represents the academy through parachute demonstrations and Collegiate National competition.

Catholic Midshipmen Club

The Catholic Midshipmen Club is a group of midshipmen interested in strengthening their Catholic faith, growing in fellowship, and living out their call to sanctity. CMC is devoted to providing opportunities for the Catholic community on the yard to deepen their spiritual lives through weekly meetings, the Sacraments, prayer, Bible studies, retreats, and so much more. As the largest religious ECA on the yard, CMC strives to impact as many midshipmen as possible and serve as a place of growth and human flourishing. Ad Majorem Dei Gloriam!

NAFAC

Since 1960, the U.S. Naval Academy has hosted a gathering of undergraduates from around the United States and the world who come together in the spring to discuss a theme from current global affairs. NAFAC is the leading undergraduate conference of its type in the United States. This year's theme is Partnership in the 21st Century: Aligning Values and Interests in a Multipolar World.

Midshipmen Black Studies Club

The purpose of Midshipman Black Studies Club is to strongly engage in outreach programs in the community and therefore bringing about awareness of different outreach opportunities. Through this club we try to bring together the brigade through community service and conferences such as National Naval Officers Association (NNOA).

The Midshipman Black Studies club is an ECA that is open to all midshipman in the brigade. This ECA conducts various activities such as mentorship, community service, black history month and club outings.

International Midshipmen

The purpose of this ECA is helping interested midshipmen and officers at USNA to forge relationships with midshipmen and officers from foreign countries. It also equips foreign national midshipmen with the necessary tools to fully integrate themselves into the brigade of midshipmen and the American lifestyle here at USNA. The International Midshipmen Club meets every first and third Thursday's from 1915 to 2000 in the Laboon Center.

The Midshipman Drone Club provides midshipman opportunity to fly unmanned systems with their shipmates. The club puts emphasis on building and flying racing drones.

FSAE

This ECA is also an engineering capstone project which involves the designing and building of a formula-style racing car. The team is made up of five technical sub-teams which are responsible for various systems of the car like; powertrain, vehicle dynamics, frames, aerodynamics and systems and a lead team which supervises the entire project. The team competes in the annually FSAE competitions in Michigan.

Golden Key Honor Society

The purpose of the Golden Key National Honor Society (GKNHS) is to recognize academic achievement among midshipmen, and provide leadership and service opportunities. The USNA chapter of GKNHS is part of the larger Golden Key International Honor Society, headquartered in Atlanta, GA. The top 15% of midshipmen in their 1/C, 2/C, and 3/C years are invited to join. A new member induction ceremony is held every fall, and Golden Key members can attend regional meetings, participate in service projects, and apply for scholarship awards.

Golf ECA

The ECA Golf Team competes in the NCGGA against teams from all of the country. Our goal is to spread the game of golf throughout the Brigade in addition to successfully making it to the national tournament which takes place in late April. We are made up of golfers of all skill levels and welcome anyone who is hoping to continue their passion for the game while at USNA.

Intercollegiate Flight Team

The mission of the USNA Intercollegiate Flight Team is to provide a professional aviation venue for midshipmen that includes hands-on exposure, training, and competition in National Intercollegiate Flying Association (NIFA) events; to enhance the performance and safety of its members upon reaching Naval Air Training Command; to support the Naval Academy Vision, and develop graduates who possess superior airmanship, tenacity and experience that will allow them to contribute to Naval, Marine Corps, and civilian aviation in keeping with the highest traditions of the naval service. Additionally, the Flight Team assists the Naval Academy mission by participating in inspirational and educational community outreach to young people inspiring others to pursue careers in aviation.

Investment Club

The Finance and Investment Club is geared around aiding Midshipmen professionally, academically, and socially in order to master the skills needed to succeed in the finance industry. By exposing students to the financial services industry through the connections provided by the alumni network, the Finance and Investment Club will continue to raise awareness of the endless possibilities the Naval Academy has to offer.

Infantry Skills Team

Chemistry Club

The USNA Chemistry Club is dedicated to satisfying and furthering Midshipmen interests in the fields of Chemistry and Biology. The primary goal of the Club is to introduce, inform, and educate Midshipmen on the daily benefits and uses of the chemical field. This is mainly accomplished through various trips that are also medically and biologically relevant. Our club provides Midshipmen with the opportunity to explore chemistry in ways they could not otherwise. Additionally, it provides leadership and mentorship roles to upperclassmen through specific billets and the Plebe Chemistry Company Mentorship program.

Information Warfare Club

The purpose of the Information Warfare Club is to build relationships between officers and Midshipmen interested in Information Warfare, to expand Midshipmen understanding of the Information Warfare Community and its career opportunities, and to develop connections with information warfare cyber, intelligence, meteorology, and information technology centers through movement orders in order to advance professional development.

Jewish Midshipmen Club

The Jewish Midshipmen Club (JMC) is an Extra Curricular Activity for Jewish Midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy. Every Tuesday evening at 1900 the JMC can be found at the Uriah P. Levy Center located right behind Mitscher Hall eating delicious food while discussing various topics pertaining to religion and Judaism and bonding as a community.

On Friday nights, we celebrate Shabbat, which includes a service at 1915 and an Oneg of bagels, cake, and cookies following the service. The JMC also participates in various events throughout the year, from Jewish Warrior Weekend to special banquets.

Joy Bright Hancock Association

JBHO is named in honor of CAPT Joy Bright Hancock, a veteran of the first and second world wars and one of the first female officers in the US Navy. We serve as the midshipmen branch of the women's network for the Yard by providing a community for midshipmen of any gender, race, or background to discuss professional development, with a particular focus on matters pertaining to women within the military.

Korean-American Association

The mission of the Korean American Midshipmen Association is to bring awareness to the culture, heritage, and history of the Korean American Midshipmen and fellow Korean International students to the entire Brigade. In doing so, we aim to imbue in the future leaders of this nation an understanding of the Korean identity and the overall value of diversity.

Machine Learning

The Machine Learning Team ECA aims to bring to the brigade knowledge of biggest trends in computing: Machine Learning and Artificial Intelligence. The MLT conducts meetings on the importance of technical literacy, an introduction to the concepts behind tech's biggest buzzwords, and hosts subject matter experts to discuss how to critically think about the most exciting thing in computing. Additionally, the team has a dedicated core of midshipmen that meet weekly to conduct training with a focus on competitions in the field of Artificial Intelligence, Machine Learning, and Data Science.

Midshipmen Action Group

The Midshipman Action Group (MAG) was established in 1992, and is supported by the U.S. Naval Academy Alumni Association & Foundation. MAG currently offers a variety of educational, environmental, and social service volunteer projects coordinated with community partners from the Annapolis, Baltimore, and D.C. areas. MAG aims to provide reliable, diligent, and enthusiastic volunteers willing to offer their time, talent, and energy. MAG also hopes to better prepare midshipmen for future service by encouraging peer leadership, teamwork, character development, morale, selflessness, and good will towards others.

Mock Trial

Mock Trial is an imitation court where members learn what it takes to be a criminal or civil attorney in trial. The purpose of the Navy Mock Trial Team is to teach midshipmen how to be persuasive public speakers, to think critically, and to learn how to make cohesive arguments. The skills midshipmen will learn in Mock Trial will transcend their time at the academy, and into the fleet.

Model UN

Members compete in committee sessions where they practice diplomacy and debate real world issues we face every day while acting in the role of a country or person of interest. The team is dedicated to enhancing moral and mental development by continually discussing the geopolitical and international issues that we as future Naval Officers will one day face.

Mountaineering

The Mountaineering Club provides real world opportunities to midshipmen to develop confidence and competency in challenging environments. Club members have the opportunity to learn advanced technical mountaineering and climbing skills and test their new skill sets in challenging environments such as climbing several hundred foot rock faces or summiting Mount Washington. Club members additionally have the opportunity to develop new relationships and bond through some other club activities such as weekend camping and backpacking trips.

Mustang Club

Mustang Club is a community of prior enlisted Sailors and Marines in the Brigade of Midshipmen. We have been stationed around the world in various rates, and MOS communities but have come together at USNA for a common purpose. Our members have the opportunity to engage with, and learn from one another in order to develop themselves professionally. We provide outreach to the Fleet for sailors, and marines interested in attending USNA.

National Society of Black Engineers

The mission of the National Society of Black Engineers is to increase the number of culturally responsible minority engineers who excel academically, succeed professionally, and positively impact the community.

The USNA chapter of NSBE has a strong focus on mentorship and personal development. Its activities include guest lectures with leaders in the Military and Business communities, tutorial programs, group study sessions, community outreach programs, and participation in regional and national conferences.

The Log is a home for independent thought. The LOG Magazine is an organization of Midshipmen whose purpose is to publish a humorous periodical for the enjoyment of the Brigade. The LOG Magazine is an outlet for creativity, artistic ability, and comedic talent. The LOG staff meets every Monday night during the school year.

The Profession

The Profession is an outlet for members of the Brigade to challenge the status quo, to utilize the power of ideas, and compel us to expand our thinking. By doing so, we find discrepancies, brainstorm solutions, and create naval officers who can tackle issues with a broader understanding. This publication is a way to get your voice heard, and your thoughts on paper.

THE PROFESSION

Vietnamese Student Association

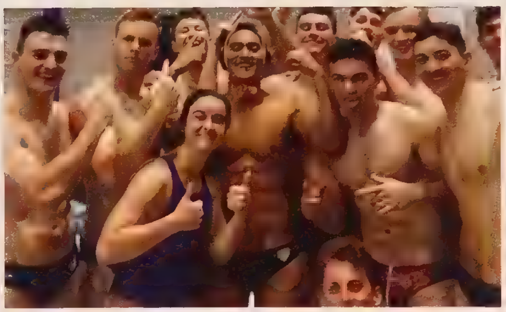
Our club teaches the culture and history of Vietnam. We represent the importance of diversity and maintaining connections throughout the fleet.

VT-NA

The Naval Academy Flying Squadron (VT-NA) organizes all flying programs sponsored by the Academy including the Intercollegiate Flying Team, Powered Flight Program, and all other VT-NA operations. VT-NA operations include but are not limited to; Ground School, an AS-TB Course, Simulator Courses, and the linkage between the Brigade of Midshipmen and the Aviation Community.

Water Polo ECA

The Purpose of the ECA Water Polo team is to provide a competitive environment for people to learn the game of water polo regardless of prior experience, and allow those members to participate in several tournaments over the year. This ECA allows members to play water polo several times a week without having to play at the varsity level.

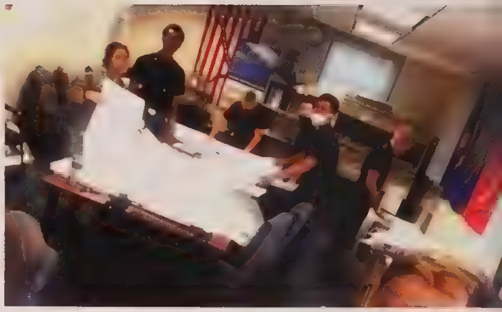


Womens Lacrosse ECA

Navy Women's Lacrosse ECA (NWCL) was established in September of 2018. We are an ECA at the United States Naval Academy, and we belong to the Women's Club Lacrosse Association in Division 2, Central 2 Region within MAWLL. In our inaugural season, we placed 2nd in the National Championship Tournament (Spring of 2019). Our goal in creating a lacrosse ECA is to foster an environment in which girls can work hard, make life-long friendships, and continue to play the sport they love.

YP Squadron

The mission of the Midshipmen-run Yard Patrol Squadron (YPRON) is to provide the Brigade opportunities to enhance their leadership, seamanship and navigation skills in a safe and controlled learning environment that mimics that of the Fleet.



Young Life

Community. Adventure. Significance. Young Life is dedicated to fostering a community of people seeking to go on adventures that give each of us significance. Our purpose is to develop relationships with one another and seeing how God forms the basis for a full life. We want to get to know each of you while we have a ton of fun together. It can be as simple as coming together and sharing a quick word while you grab a Chick-Fil-A sandwich or Slip 'n Slide Kickball, the Team Quadrathlon or a night with Astronaut Charlie Duke. We are excited for this semester and to have each of you be a part of everything we are doing.

SOTT is a team of midshipmen that works to further each other in the physical, professional, and moral mission areas with the goal of contributing effective leaders of men and women in the Navy and Marine Corps. Woof woof.

Women in Cyber-Security and Computing

WiCC inspires and empowers women interested in technology-related careers or fields. By providing a sense of community and support, WiCC hopes to create an outlet for sparking discussions and to provide educational opportunities and outreach on and off the yard.

Rock Climbing

The sport of rock climbing develops midshipmen physically as well as mentally, building confidence, mental toughness, and discipline vital to their success as future officers. Midshipmen on the team learn to push their personal limits and overcome their fears. The team practices on the Halsey rock wall from 1600 – 1830 whenever there are no intramural games scheduled.

Italian-American Club

The Italian American Midshipman's club mission is to enhance the appreciation and knowledge of Italian language and culture within the Brigade. All with an interest in Italian culture and a desire to share that interest with others are welcome.

Latin American Studies

To contribute to USNA's mission by helping interested midshipmen and officers at USNA learn and understand Latin American culture. This will not only help midshipmen become more culturally aware, but will also help them adapt to the academy life style by offering a support group within the brigade. LASC will give midshipmen the opportunity to get involved with the community through community service, and in doing so will help inspire at-risk youth to open their options for their future.

Filipino-American Club

The Filipino-American Midshipman Club is a place of refuge from the busy and chaotic lifestyle at USNA. At our meetings and club events, we strive to foster an atmosphere of close-knit mentorship that bridges the gap between class distinctions and cultures. One of the main messages we try to spread to the Brigade is that you do no have to be Filipino to join! With such diverse demographic here at USNA, we are eager to share out culture with anyone and everyone

Navigators

Navigators is a protestant ministry that is all about life on life discipleship and fostering spiritual generations passionate about knowing Christ, making Him known, and helping others do the same. We have fellowship meetings and bible studies every week open to all midshipmen regardless of their faith background. One of our biggest goals is giving midshipmen the tools they need to continue abiding in Christ out in the Fleet while helping others on their journey to get to know Jesus.

STEM Outreach

The USNA STEM Center is focused on addressing an urgent national need for more young people to pursue careers in science, technology, engineering and mathematics. USNA faculty and midshipmen provide STEM outreach to local and national communities to engage and influence students and teachers.

Spectrum

Navy Spectrum ECA is here to create a supportive environment for members of the LGBTQ+ community and their allies by increasing visibility within the Brigade and educating people about LGBTQ+ issues. Spectrum also tackles issues including harassment and discrimination based on sexual orientation and gender identity. As Spectrum members invite more straight allies into the club, we allow more people to learn firsthand, without judgment, about the LGBTQ experience, including what it means to be gay, bisexual, asexual, agender, or transgender.

Caribbean Heritage Club

USNA's Caribbean-American students work to build an awareness of the diverse Caribbean heritage by sponsoring educational, cultural, and social events tailored towards engaging the Brigade in different aspects of Caribbean culture.

Fishing & Conservation Club

The Midshipmen Fishing and Conservation Club is an organization of midshipmen which promotes the importance of natural resource conservation and protection. The club allows midshipmen to participate in and lead fishing excursions throughout the mid-Atlantic region. In addition, the club offers meetings about conservation, environmental awareness, fishing laws and regulations, and angling techniques. Participating midshipmen will gain new appreciation for the world around them, and develop skills to better use and sustain the natural environments that they live near.

Surface Navy Association

The Surface Navy Association ECA is a program dedicated to helping Midshipmen understand the different roles and capabilities of the Surface Navy. We also attempt to provide SWO selectees with enough information to make an informed decision on ship selection night. We meet monthly on either Tuesday or Thursday evenings based on availability and Brigade activities.

Green Classroom

The Green Classroom Club is a group of Midshipmen who are passionate about the environment and "building good stewards". The Green Club plans events on and off the yard that provide opportunities to learn more on a slew of sustainability topics, understand the environmental impacts of their lifestyles, and gain awareness of how the role of stewardship ties into the military. This year, they also established the first Green Week to educate the Brigade on sustainability, waste, and climate change as it relates to the military. The club has lofty goals, and hopes to use the momentum of this year to continue effecting positive environmental change to the yard.

Gaelic Football

The United States Naval Academy Gaelic Football is a competitive extracurricular bringing traditional Irish sport to the yard. The team competes in the National Gaelic Athletic Association against other universities across the country, as well as local clubs in the greater Annapolis area. The club promotes Irish heritage and allows for students to learn an entirely new game, while traveling around the country competing with their classmates.

DONT GIVE UP

Astronomy

The Astronomy club allows all interested midshipmen the chance to immerse themselves in all things space and astronomy. We go on frequent MOs to museums and dark sky campsites to look at the stars.

CrossFit Blue & Gold

The mission of the Naval Academy CrossFit club is to help midshipmen meet and exceed the physical requirements of the Naval Academy in measurable, repeatable, and sustainable levels while imbuing in our members an appreciation for nutrition, goal setting, camaraderie, competition, leadership, and the fun of sport. We aim to teach everyone how to be as fit as they can be for as long as they can be within a positive and productive environment that supports the Naval Academy's moral, mental and physical missions. Residing in the racquetball courts of Macdonough Hall, we aim to promote functional fitness and develop the warriors of tomorrow. We are an affiliate that is run by midshipmen, for midshipmen.

Bodybuilding

The purpose of USNA bodybuilding team is to bond and support an elite group of athletes with a like mindset of lifting to win on national stages. We are also here to educate club members on proper lifting techniques, dieting and nutrition, supplementation, and recovery.

Endurance Team

The Endurance Team is a group of 35 highly motivated midshipmen who train and compete in various races and challenges that test fortitude and will. Over the past year, the Endurance Team has competed in a Half Iron Man, an obstacle course race, a 200 mile team relay run, along with various other small ventures designed to be both fun and grueling. We are dedicated to reaching our full potential as athletes, leaders, and people through the support of the team. Endure!

Ultimate Frisbee

Navy Poseidon Ultimate Frisbee Team competes year round and can often be seen on the fields of Farragut grinding dirt beneath our cleats as we train through the pain even in the rain. Whether it's steely-eyed Mike Berger or our other teammates, we win everywhere we go.

Cyber-Security Team

The USNA Cyber Security Team competes in Capture-The-Flag and Attack/Defense style competitions throughout the year, competing against other service academies as well as teams from schools and organizations around the world. CST trains 4 days a week on both fundamental and advanced cybersecurity techniques such as cryptography, computer forensics, software reverse engineering, and binary exploitation to prepare for solving such complex technical challenges both in competitions and in the fleet. Events that CST takes part in include the Navy's HackTheMachine Competition, CyberRedzone, CyberStakes, NSA's Cyber Exercise, and Shmoocon. They were the NCX 2021 champions and aim to retain this title in the Spring when they take on Air Force, Army, Coast Guard, and other military colleges and ROTC programs from across the country.

Scuba Team

Our ECA provides Midshipmen the opportunity to learn SCUBA at the most basic level as well as affords them the opportunity to advance their certifications to the professional level. Our team of nineteen staff members work day in and day out with Sea Colony Aqua Sports, our local dive shop, to certify over 125 Midshipmen every semester.

Semper Fi Society

Semper Fi Society is the largest club on the yard, providing a multitude of trainings and social events for MIDN to gain more insight and valuable experience generally found in the Marine Corps. Through these Field Exercises, Saturday Morning Trainings, class instruction with Marine SNCOs and officers, and various other evolutions, Semper Fi Society provides the Brigade of Midshipmen with the training, knowledge and experience one would expect of a newly commissioned Marine Corps Officer.

NALC

Since 1984, the Naval Academy has hosted an annual leadership conference for senior cadets and midshipmen from each of the service academies. In 2002, the conference expanded to include students from civilian universities and broadened its scope to include leadership topics relevant to government, business, and academia, as well as the military. Made possible through the generous support of the Class of '38, Senator Margaret Chase Smith, and Mitch and Linda Hart, the USNA Leadership Conference now includes more than 400 participants from over 45 military and civilian colleges and are proud to sponsor the 2021 Leadership Conference at the United States Naval Academy.

MCMAP

Marine Corps Martial Arts Program (MCMAP) is a Navy Marine Corps combatives program which allows participants to train for, earn, and wear MCMAP belts. This program seeks to foster a professional warrior spirit across the Brigade and to prepare midshipmen for their future roles as officers in the United States Navy and Marine Corps.

Masqueraders

Masqueraders is the oldest ECA on the Yard, and even through COVID, our members have still stood strong in order to present the Brigade, faculty, staff, and more with classic theatrical entertainment. This semester, we put on the show "Argonautika", the tale of Jason and the Argonauts with a few comedic twists.

Women's Network

The Naval Academy Women's Network (NAWN) exists to promote the retention of women in the Fleet through leadership, allyship, and mentorship. The Network hosts ulmtiple events and opportunities each year to support its mission. Some typical offerings include: lean in circles, speed mentoring, women's history month events, and the military life symposium.

Marksmanship Team

USNA Marksmanship Team is a competitive shooting ECA that competes against Navy and Marine Corps active duty components. We do distance shooting for rifle at 200,300,and 600 yards as well as pistol shooting at 25,50 yards. This is like the sniper team pretty much.

Muslim Midshipmen Club

The Muslim Midn Club is a religious ECA that conducts Services and holidays celebration for Muslim MIDN, Faculty or staff on the yard. The ECA welcomes anyone to come join us in our big holiday celebrations.

American Nuclear Society

The American Nuclear Society is a club dedicated to the education and development of existing and future nuclear technology. The club aims to educate all students, regardless of major or intended service selection, of the benefits and process of nuclear engineering and nuclear power. The club hosts a dinner at Buddy's each semester with a guest speaker from the nuclear field.

Nukes. Together. Strong.

Medicine Club

The Navy Medicine Club allows Midshipmen to develop their interest for medicine. Members gain valuable experiences from those in the field through special events like combat medicine training and shock trauma shadowing.

UNITED STATES NAVAL ACADEMY

Latter Day Saints Student Association

The LDSSA is the ECA for members of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Students for Exploration & Development of Space

SEDS is a student oriented group with focus on space technology and application. The members share an interest in space and related topics, and learn about using space for the benefit of our nation and its usefulness in our careers. SEDS focuses on the public outreach and education for space exploration. The ECA takes part in various guest speaker events and visits to various facilities that are a part of the space industry.

Officers' Christian Fellowship

Our Vision is the military community positively impacted through Christlike leaders.

French Club

The French club explores the French language as well as the different cultures and heritages across the world.

Trap & Skeet

Competitive trap and skeet team that shoots against regional teams including: Army, Harvard, Washington College, Delaware, and other small teams. Comprised of 16 MIDN, Navy Trap and Skeet is assisted by GM1 Stitt and GM2 Dutton.

Phi Alpha Theta

Phi Alpha Theta is the History Honor Society at USNA. A chapter of the national PAT honor society, we provide opportunities for midshipmen to further their passion for history through trivia nights, museum events, and other history related activities.

ΦΑΘ

Phi Alpha Theta

National History Honor Society

Navy Casual Running Team

The Navy Running Team is eerily similar to the Marathon Team, but is a bit more low-key. This encompasses the members of the Brigade who go on outers, a couple of eight-milers, and if they are lucky, a half-marathon before signing up and completing a full marathon such as the Marine Corps Marathon. Averaging 20 miles a week is plenty enough for these mids who end up getting a PR in the marathon.

Pi Tau Sigma

Pi Tau Sigma is the National Mechanical Engineering Honor Society. At USNA, we are the Delta Psi Chapter of Pi Tau Sigma. The purpose of this honor society it to create better engineers through commitment to academic excellence and dedication to service. Members are expected to uphold a code of engineering ethics and to live by the core values of Integrity, Service, and Leadership in both their personal and professional lives.

Womens Soccer ECA

We are an ECA that came together because of the love that we have for the game. All of us played soccer at some point in our lives and wanted to be a part of a competitive team again. This team was the opportunity to play the beautiful game again and to meet some awesome girls across the brigade.

Equestrian Team

The Equestrian Team is committed to developing midshipmen through the equestrian sport. We have a range of riders from beginner to advanced in both English and Western riding. Midshipmen are able to participate in training sessions at Marlboro Ridge Equestrian Center, and in previous years, midshipmen were provided the opportunity to compete in the Washington International Horse Show. This is how is one of the most prestigious events in the country and is hosted by the First Lady of the United States.

German Club

German Club introduces and explores the German culture and exercises the German language here at USNA. This is done through German film nights, outings to German restaurants, and hosting the annual delegation from the German Naval Academy. German club is also a platform for learning about, applying for, and preparing for an LSAP-Germany program.

Chess Club

The Chess Club hosts chess hour in Smoke Hall, hosts a brigade tournament, and organizes movement orders to chess tournaments. On Columbus Day weekend of 2021, five members of the club traveled to Grapevine, TX for the annual Armed Forces Open Chess Championship. They brought back the trophy for Top Service Academy Team and 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place prizes for Top Cadet/Midshipman.

E-Sports Team

We compete against various colleges around the country in a variety of different video games. We currently play League of Legends, Valorant, Call of Duty, Halo, Rocket League, Rainbow 6: Siege. Catch us on Twitch streaming your favorite games!

USNA ESPORTS

Eagle Scout Association

NESA is one of the largest and longest running ECAs at USNA. We operate volunteering activities with the community as well as conduct outdoors activities for Midshipmen.

Tau Beta Pi

Tau Beta Pi is an engineering honor society comprised of the best and brightest midshipmen in the engineering division at USNA. Tau Beta Pi is recognized as one of the most prestigious academic honor societies in the country.

Tau Beta Pi The Engineering Honor Society

Chapel Choirs

The Catholic Choir, Protestant Choir, and Chapel Chorale support the Brigade and the Command Religious Program by participating in the weekly Sunday morning worship services. The choirs provide an opportunity for midshipmen to strengthen their moral development while exploring their spirituality. The choirs represent the Brigade of Midshipmen to more than 25,000 visitors and chapel goers every year, and are often the first midshipmen seen by first-time visitors to the Academy.

Glee

The USNA Glee Club is comprised of The United States Naval Academy Men's Glee Club, which has achieved national prominence as one of America's premier men's choral ensembles, and The United States Naval Academy Women's Glee Club, which is the only all-female military choral ensemble in the world. Some of the notable appearances this year included performing on Monday Night Football (national NFL broadcast) at a Ravens' football game, performances with the Dallas Symphony, the annual Handel's Messiah concerts in the USNA Chapel, the annual Army vs. Navy football game, a concert tour through Tennessee, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia, the Preakness Race, a multitude of performances here on the Yard, and the largest classical concert ever performed in Maryland in Mahler's Symphony No. 2 with over 400 performers on stage. It is with honor, pride, and distinction that the Glee Clubs represent the United States, the Navy and Marine Corps, and the United States Naval Academy.

DON'T GIVE UP THE SHIP

Gospel Choir

The Gospel Choir is an upbeat inspirational musical ensemble. Comprised of midshipmen from various places, races and creeds, the Gospel Choir is reflective of the diverse interests and ethnicities within the Brigade of Midshipmen. Their common bond is musical talent and a passion to praise through song. Throughout the year, the USNA Gospel Choir maintains an active schedule and regularly performs not only at the Naval Academy but throughout the nation at churches, schools, and community centers. The choir has taken its message of inspiration, motivation, and exhortation throughout the nation. The Gospel Choir is a wonderful part of the Naval Academy family. Not only does it allow its members to express their faith in song, but it also provides the public an opportunity to witness the diversity and talents of today's Brigade of Midshipmen.

THE STOCKDALE LEGACY

Orchestra

The Brigade of Midshipmen possesses a number of very talented instrumentalists. These midshipmen come from backgrounds of intense disciplined training since early childhood. There are a variety of solo and ensemble performance opportunities throughout the year for midshipmen to continue honing their instrumental skills and talents. These soloists and ensembles perform for events both on and off the Yard ranging from chapel services and the Winter Musical to full concerts.

Pipes and Drums

The USNA Pipes and Drums & Highland Dance is a performing group of midshipmen that supports the Brigade in parades, entertains the public, and participates in competitions and ceremonies around the country. The group is comprised of midshipmen of all skill levels and taught by world-class instructors. PD&HD continues to grow thanks to the sponsorship of the great class of 1961.

Trident Brass

The Naval Academy's own midshipman jazz and swing band. Comprised of talented instrumentalists that perform a wide variety of music – from jazz to swing to rock to big band classics. Trident Brass can be seen at dances, midshipmen-only events, special Brigade dinners, and many other festive occasions throughout the year.

Mark Amdahl

Surface Engineering Duty

Mark "Meat Unit" Amdahlicious has not aged since I-day after reviewing his pictures. He has the joint issues of a 90 year old man but the tender heart of a child. Impeccably high standards for himself but will not show it. He's a "closet helmet" for lack of a better term. He will be very responsible with the Navy's money.--Mark has been the best roommate I have had in the academy and a great friend. He is energetic and always down to hang out with friends and do questionable things. My favorite part of rooming with him was our spring semester 2/C year. Everyday the first thing I heard when I woke up with our two-man in 1-2 was the sound of him farting. I'll never get that 5 months of my life back–If you want to talk about God, run 25 miles, have one of the best hugs of your life or just simply have a comforting talk about life, Mark is the perfect friend for you.

Joelle Bailey

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Lil Bail, Bean, Jo, JoJo, Head Restrictee (Ret.), where do we start? A legend since NAPS '18! You can only catch her in a few places: Halsey, 1st wing, EI, happy hour, "hoco" (no one loves home more than this girl), Baltimore (Fed Hill), oh and happy hour. The only person who cares so much about her grades while simultaneously not caring at all, and somehow gets an A on everything. Her knowledge probably comes from her prideful "HoCo" education (oh Brent Faiyaz went to her high school…). Joelle never let her height disability stop her from anything. She's quick on her feet, and with those hands (iykyk). Joelle is like a box of chocolates, you never know what you're gonna get, especially on the weekends (AGGRESSIVELY hydrates). Don't bring up track, just know she's a runner. Although, If you make dinner plans expect her to take a long time to walk from first wing to smoke hall. Joelle is the perfect person if you need a laugh, there's not a serious bone in her body. On the dance floor, Joelle matches or surpasses your energy, bringing the party to every room she enters. Meeting Joelle is funny because you just wonder how so much personality is packed into a miniature person, but it's a blessing. Always keep it real with her because she'll keep it one hunna 24/7. If you have this girl in your corner you have a great support system, being your biggest fan if you are her real friend. Jo is a great person to have in your life. Driven by a deep commitment to the well-being of others she will lead with distinction wherever she goes. Love you Bean!

Liam Bailey

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Liam "9 Lives" Bailey is an old soul and a renaissance man. His "survive and advance" instinct was passed down unadulterated from the primordial soup 3.5 billion years ago. To Liam, natural selection was just a suggestion. He has no mitochondria because he doesn't need them. He will outlive us, but we hope that his progeny will bury him with some expensive tequila, sunscreen (he'll still catch a sunburn down there), and some El Cabrito. Liam's circles are small because that's how silverbacks operate. We've seen him high and we've seen him low, but Liam at his worst is indistinguishable from his peers at their best. His energy is refreshing, but not as much as his honesty and faith in those he holds close. He's a put together man with his team on his back, but at his heart, he's a wide-eyed kid hell-bent on squeezing all the juice out of the fruits of life. His work-ethic and individuality is inspiring, but his loyalty is something his closest friends have waited for their entire lives, and we are damn lucky that he keeps us around. Don't worry America, he'll close his tab.

Hampton Boyd

Surface Warfare Nuclear

After a brief stint with the fighting hellfish and an unfortuitous rendezvous on the 10 meter high dive, Mr. Catherine Farist marched his bountiful base into 3-0. 1st company was never the same after this well-dressed gentleman (specifically at 0630, 1300, and 1900) graced his company with wise words and his room's bathroom with golden showers. The hamminator always had a direct course of action for his friends, a course that usually ended with a significant other in tears and a crisp Bud Light on your lips. After single-handedly propping up Zyn through the pandemic, Hampot Boyf took a cool 180° and served as his battalion's ADEO. Overseeing the most ARIs in battalion history, it's safe to say that much like the Amaretto in his sponsor's basement, Hampton crushed it. Hampton claims the title of being the "wisest person in 1st company". I have never met a man more fascinated by sock clamps and mouse traps. Additionally, can sing one of the best renditions of blue and gold. 4 lokos, Jager, and Miller Lites fear this man as he has been known in his past life to slay all 3 of these mystical beings.

Evan Brace

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Evan is from the hustling, bustling city of Windsor Locks, CT, which has all of 6 people and an airport. He has had to overcome a lot in his time here at the Academy, from failing his first PRT, to almost starving, to heartbreak, to his wet and sandy workouts Plebe year, to salmonella from one of the many food items left out on his desk for days at a time, the list goes on. Evan chose to study political science here at USNA, so he could be the sole authority on political opinions amongst his friend group. In fact, he is the hardest working political science major in 1st company class of 2022, able to debate and challenge any status quo. Evan found the woman of his dreams Youngster SB in Puerto Rico, but decided he would marry himself to the Corps instead. In all seriousness, Evan is one of the most thoughtful, caring, introspective people we know, and will make the Marine Corps infinitely better. We know that all of his hard work the past 4 years will pull through for him in his career, unlike Abby and her friends.

Casimir Buske

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Submarine Nuclear

For someone nicknamed Cash, he sure doesn't have much of it. He does, however, have a nice looking car that breaks down every other week. Tough times have formed Cash into a hustler who considered putting an ad for his shoe shining business in place of a bio here (same day service!). Don't let his tough guy appearance fool you though; even though he wants to be from the hood, he'll remind you every February 15th that it's Wisconsin Day. Cash started off his USNA career strongly with a great Plebe Summer, ranking high in the company and receiving outstandingly positive comments from his detailers. He then woke up from his dreams and proceeded to barely survive indoctrination. Now, when he isn't collecting shoes, fiending for Sour Patch Kids, or finding the next part to add to his ancient 1974 Chevy Nova, he's probably upping his BAC in College Park. One of the chillest guys you will ever meet, Cash seems to have no regard for his life as he throws himself over the high bar daily. The sub force is getting a real one even though Cash may just be joining to get a more reliable ride…

Jose Castro

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Runescaperus "I'm all in" Castro is from Sapian, or Guam, or Mexico, or Spain; actually we don't know where he's from but it's definitely not the States. Hey Bastro, where'd you get that money from… nevermind. Can't for the life of him tell his left from his right. Spends all his time playing video games and somehow still manages to "have a lot to do." Majored in ghosting women during his time at the Academy." It doesn't matter how deep you go, only how long you stay in" -Jose Castro speaking on SCUBA diving. Has been caught lying at every opportunity no matter the stakes, and is no stranger to being loud enough to be heard through the walls. Does not tip the recommended 18% because he's constantly going into credit card debt and can't afford gratuity. He doesn't know where we're going, but we know that he's staying here.

Mychal Cooper

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

AUUUUUUUU! HERE WE GOOOOOO! and HEYYYYY FOOFOOOOOO! are just a few sayings of the famous Captain of Captains/MC^3/Cooper/Coop/Mychal Cooper. Despite being a total goofball who completely radiates positivity and has an infectious laugh, Mychal Cooper is the most selfless man that anyone knows. Someone you can rely on to always be there for you and willing to give you the clothes off his back. Cooper is also known for being 100% real for literally anything and everything. Even with that serious side of him, Coop will be seen drinking an orange gatorade or apple juice, munching on butterfingers or honey buns (yes, plural), and playing smash bros or rocket league after he watches anime for hours on end. If he answers your texts while he is watching anime, you are a real one. Anyways, Mychal Cooper is one of those people you want to be surrounded by and be lifelong friends with but he will never say it himself because he is oblivious to how great of a guy he truly is. Congratulations, Mychal Cooper, you're going to make one hell of a leader in the SWO community and in life! -MML

Jared Dalonzo

Jared came to USNA from O'Fallon as an Air Force brat, and is now leaving as a zoomin' seaman. Within one second of interacting with Jared you will notice his infectious smile and his impeccable hair. Hot shot w/ quick hands, watch out for the kid on the courts in MacD. Zachary Dobrski

Surface Warfare

The word "Dobrski" is a Polish term which possesses a myriad of diverse denotations. As a Noun, Dobrski is a unit of time equal to approximately 3 seconds as well as a unit of length equal to 3 centimeters. It is also commonly pronounced "Dog-ski" which refers to the inhuman strength one demonstrates while lifting at Mac D. The phrase "pulling a Dobrski" can similarly be used as a Verb. For example, one is "pulling a Dobrski" if they fail to perform a seemingly trivial task such as ordering Chipotle or are hopelessly incompetent with any form of technology. Furthermore, Dobrski can be used as an Adjective to describe the level of volume just above a jet engine. Above all, however, "Dobrski" refers to an amazing and caring friend who genuinely has your best interest in mind. You could never ask for a better roommate, wingman, spotter, or someone to crack scoutmaster jokes with. His enthusiasm and energy is infectious to everyone he meets, particularly after his third cup of coffee. Dobrski is a giant (5'8") teddy bear that will light up this world. And don't worry Zack, I won't tell anyone about the time on the mountain.

Kevin Dreeke

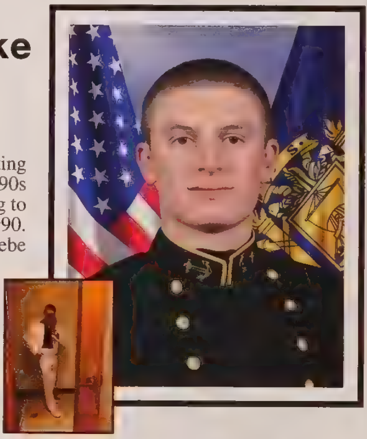
USMC Pilot



The number one thing people admire about Kevin "Check My Style" Dreeke are his budgeting skills. Be sure to ask him about the held-pay spent on Bionicles. He spent his loan on a hot 90s Camaro, promptly backed over a ledge, and left the rear in the air, all because he was "offering to give somebody a ride." Kevin is legacy on the Silent Drill Team, which his dad founded in 1990. If you don't believe me, watch the CBS Sports special in which you can see him rocking his plebe "tennis-ball" haircut, which he maintains to this day. Kevin lives a spartan life. During his youngster cruise, instead of enjoying the burritos, beaches, and babes of San Diego, Kevin decided he would rather remain on the ship since he enjoyed the fact he got called "sir" for the first time. In fact, he liked being called "sir" so much that it motivated him to become the Commander of 1st Battalion. This job kept him busy, but gave him the satisfaction of controlling other people's lives. To be serious, Kevin is going to be a great officer because of his drive and willingness to work hard. A truly one-of-a-kind individual.

It is said that he who finds a true friend finds a treasure. And that is exactly how I would describe Adie. The only thing bigger than her lego brickheadz collection (and possibly her oversized brain) is her heart. The calm wild-child of the coup, she's a silly sweetheart who is one of the biggest gamer girls ever. Anyone would be lucky to have her as a friend as she is always willing to help people in need. The way to her heart is probably to buy her a dinosaur plushy or ice cream. Just remember to keep one eye on her and one on your ice cream at all times or it'll mysteriously disappear. But once her friend, always her friend. Unless you hurt another of her countless friends or mock her baby voice, in which case beware. The only times I have genuinely disliked Adie were when alliances were broken playing Commander in Magic the Gathering. These moments lasted no more than 10-20 minutes. In all seriousness though, Adie is a great friend, smart as heck, and is ready to game at a moments notice. One day, the Werewolves will beat the Hydras!

Megan could kill a great white shark with a flip flop and would never brag about it. Modern-day renaissance woman, walking encyclopedia of non-oceanography related topics, 80 years of experience in a 22-year-old body, ordained minister, raccoon lover, triathlete turned gecko mom. If challenged to a race she will beat you on land, air, and sea without breaking a sweat and while hungover. Does she feel pain? Feelings? Nah, for weak minded people. Just like Megan has never met a person she couldn't beat in a race, she has also never seen an object she couldn't embroider. Poorly drawn cats are no match for her nimble fingers. In the summers she takes long naps on the beach or is 1st Company's most feared detailer. When she's not being an ideal midshipman, Megan's at home with her children Tobias and Wallace or single-handedly keeping Nando's in business. All jokes aside, Megan is one of the most genuine people I know. She always says what she means and is an insanely loyal friend. She can always make people laugh and is probably the toughest person I know. I trust her with my life and I know she will be an amazing Marine.

Elena Gilbert. A name synonymous with beauty, strength, grace, and an unfortunate attraction to men (severely) below her league. In our past four years at USNA, Elena has become my go-to gal. Elena is good at many things (she can squat the weight of two fully grown, hefty men), but her best quality is her ability to listen and make people laugh. Whenever I need to vent, Elena is always ready to listen. Whenever I need a good laugh, Elena is there to lift my spirits. Whenever I need my nose to be blinded by the overwhelming aroma of microwaved brussel sprouts, Elena is there, bowl in hand, ready to serve. Some might say that Elena's piercing blue eyes are her best physical attribute, but I would argue that is her absolute dumptruck (smile), especially after she tells one of her signature "that's what she said" jokes. How many people are lucky enough to have a go to nerd-about-our-major, going-out, talking-about-our-digestion-problems, complaining-about-running, stupid-and-slightly-risque jokes friend all rolled into one?? While her music choice may be somewhat otherworldly (heavy metal, 2000s hip-pop, and country), that doesn't take away from the fact that Elena is a great teammate and a better friend.

Braydon has grown from being inept in operating a printer into a fine young naval officer candidate and we all couldn't be prouder. Braydon is as loyal as they come, knows how to party, AND never fails to keep your wine glass full. Braydon is easily one of the greatest walking/weekend/dancing/drinking/baking/therapy buddies and lab partners around. To whomever gets stuck with him next, good luck and I hope you have the capacity and appreciation to laugh your butt off 24/7. Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

From the potato lands of Idaho, Jamison "I miss Melinda" Julian got lost while going to college and somehow ended up in the halls of Bancroft. His prison sentence at USNA surely hasn't been easy. His classmates' incompetence, stomach ulcers, chronically dry eyes, severe stress, and paralysis mid-flight are just a few of his many hardships; however, Jamison has continued to faithfully work for his ticket out. Jamison's unique cynicism would impress the saltiest of sailors. Name another mid who refused to get a class ring, was a commuter, and removed himself from the Alumni Association. Strangely enough, despite his distaste towards USNA, he knew how to have a good time (ask him about his legendary Army Week plebe escapades and his arbor-inspired civilian attire that won the Brigade Halloween costume contest). Post-graduation, Jamison looks forward to spending the rest of his life with former squad leader and one true love, Call Sign Flaming Chihuahua. Jamison is a shining example of hard work and dedication to values. A believer in quality over quantity, Jamison doesn't consider everyone a "friend", but to the few he does, you can be certain that he'll be a friend for life.

He is a 5-year, non-athletic football player from NAPS and the Naval Academy, and is loved dearly by Kevo because if they got in a fight, he knew Lawley would have his back because he couldn't run even if he wanted too with his busted knee. Although he hasn't impacted many people himself, Tyger has had huge impact on Lawley's life, as they plan to open TnT brewery in the near future. Although he absolutely crushed physics with ZERO issues, Tyger still makes him feel like crap every day, even though Tyger was taking the day off in Nashville, while Foo Foo and TLAW attacked the city and ate MickyD's at 4am. On the topic of foods, Lawley and Mike try to eat SWEET foods in packs of 3, while also helping Cal eat unhealthily and stay away from vegetables. Although he may seem dull, Lawley has been for the boys, and has always had their back in any situation. Jack "Marko" Markowitz is the best climbing tool I have ever had the privilege of knowing. He's dependable, rugged, hard working, and claps his hands when he's really happy. In his natural habitat, he can be found watching anime, pounding zyn, and playing a game on his phone. Jack has an odd affinity for dams; his favorite being Hoover. His favorite snack is ice cream, and he will let you know it. My Jack would disappoint any Cardi B fan, as he both cooks and cleans, but doesn't have a ring. Every man strives to balance his life as well as Jack does. He is both the calm and the storm. On the weekdays he is quiet and reserved, but on the weekends he can be found on a stage with a lime in his pants.

He hails from the great state of Maryland / Florida / California / Japan / Italy/ wherever will impress the girl he is talking to. Jack gives off the ultimate big brother vibes. He is always there to agree that something is stupid or just dumb. Jack is a proud member of the 1st company intramural flag football team and has been a member since plebe year when LT Reck and MSgt played — MSgt stopped coming to practice when he realized it wasn't two hand touch. When he is not securing the bag for his team at Hospital point, he focuses on developing honor as the Battalion Honor Advisor and being an excellent squad leader. When his squad was asked what their favorite quality about Jack was, they responded with "his kindness". Jack is the type of person that will do anything to help others. Hey, you. You're finally awake. Joseph Meschino's life is dominated by three things: honor, talking about honor, and thinking about honor. Joe has never found himself in an argument that he hasn't wanted to be in. You will not find a Mid with stronger study habits. He is so efficient with his studying that you rarely even see him doing it. Joe is the inaugural founder and president of Club Squash. He works diligently to ensure that the club is meeting the highest physical standards and striking fear into high schoolers. Joe is notorious around DTA for his dance moves, with his favorite being the Tango. He puts the term "SCARIES" in Sunday Scaries; who knew showers and trashcans were so versatile? Rumor has it that Apple actually had to put restrictions on the amount of hours he spent on Facetime. In all the time that I have known Joe, he has never mentioned where he is from. I think it might be Hule. Joe has a generous heart and is the first to offer hugs and girl scout cookies to make you feel better. The submarine force doesn't know how lucky they are to be getting someone like Joe.

Tim awakens everyday to: "Tim, GET UP! Formation is in 8 minutes." With remarkable speed, Tim showers and dresses. He arrives to class with a similar vigor; a trip from 3-0 to the 3rd deck of Hopper takes Tim 4.5 minutes. This efficiency reaches into his studies as well. Needing a 2.0 major QPR to graduate, Tim masterfully sits at a 2.05. With success, comes criticism. One faculty member writes, "MIDN Nam cannot go through USNA without turning in research papers, as it appears he thinks he can do." Tim proved this critic wrong. Additionally, not even the physical mission withstands Tim's economical distribution of effort. Approximately one workout a week earns Tim an A on the PRT. Tim saves his effort for the important things in life. He consistently pursues his faith. He blesses the world with his voice, performing for Glee Club and the Halloween concert. He postpones his studies to help others. He brings joy to all with his humorous personality. Timothy J. Nam: a man with the right priorities.

One thing to know about Lexie: she isn't as introverted as you may think. This woman had us fooled for her first year at the Academy, only to find out that she is secretly judging whether she likes you. Grateful to have experienced Lexie's first sip of alcohol, we've been fortunate enough to watch her relationship with drinking TRANSCEND throughout the years, even to the point of her twerking in a split at Obriens. As a youngster, Lexie would use an excessive amount of hair spray every morning. Her roommates would go to the window to breathe fresh air and rationalize this mass pollution of CFCs as a Texas thing. Lexie "THE Supreme USNA Yoga Overlord" Nelson will chug alcohol up to the exact 12 hours before duty, claims to be an economics major but does not believe in the stock market (is that allowed?), is an esteemed patron of the Annapolis Westfield Lululemon, and is an excellent walking buddy. Carlos is many things. He's an amazing midshipman, boyfriend, and wonderful human being. But also, a small bit of a disaster, a chronic overachiever, and a chaotic queer man. There isn't a good enough way to say just how great Carlos is. He's just the kind of person you're blessed to have in your life, and the kind you don't want to let go of once he's there. Carlos is the best kind of friend you could ask for. He might take on too much, and make small, but memorable, mistakes, but he's one of the most competent and caring people you'll ever find at USNA. You'll be hard pressed to find someone else with a heart and soul that rivals his. When Carlos isn't curbing his friend's cars, gaslighting his roommate, or snacking on king hall provolone, Carlos Is always working to make everything and everyone around him better and improve people's lives. Carlos left so many amazing marks on the Academy. Luke Jeremiah Phelan is a walking contradiction. He may look scary with his height and massive thighs, but he's a teddy bear. Luke hails from the great city of San Francisco but would never tell you that himself. He holds the distinction of being the only member of the class of 2022 who is “actually from the city.” He claims he is a “chill upper class”, but is one of my most train-on individuals I know. If he ever starts talking about a girl he met, just assume she looks the same as the last one. Ever helpful, Luke lives by his tagline, “Going to Whole Foods, need anything?” Even if that thing is a whole rotisserie chicken on a weekly basis. You will never see him eat something unhealthy, but you will see him smell and stare longingly at junk food. Luke's hobbies include telling everyone he sees he did three workouts at the boathouse that day, losing Nalgenes, and watching people cook on Youtube. I can't tell if Luke spends more time looking at himself in the mirror or sucking on his water flosser. You will not find a more loyal friend. Your love is your boys.

LeGrand Pound

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

My favorite thing about LeGrand Pound is her low bar for humor. Which may sound like a bad thing but what that really means is that even the most mundane things become great fun when you're with her. Getting laundry? Hilarious. Grocery shopping? A blast. Going to Starbucks for the 5th time that day? Knee-slapper. For whatever reason…perhaps her upbringing in a tropical paradise like Hawaii, she's the only one I know who has an obsession with squirrels. Everyday is a delight if she sees one, which, for the mainlanders she hangs out with, never really makes sense. Her go to outfit is FABRIC. Oversized shirt, oversized jeans, shacket…that's naturally oversized…but somehow she makes it look ridiculously good. And then you look at her shoes. Flip-flops, or as she calls them…slippers, and socks. #fashun. LeGrand is the best ride-or-die one could ask for. At this point she's a professional at SRC's and Out of Radius chits…but she's always willing to go with you to a coffee shop, concert, road trip, etc. Logistically, her preferred mode of travel is obscenely late/early flights but hey…we get there when we get there, right?

His low southern drawl, while only coming out on occasion, is both comforting and sexy. Therapist. Diver. Boat driver. Mead brewer. SAT vocabulary expert. Sci-fi connoisseur. NARC/YouTube double major. Walking whiskey vacuum. These are just a few of the myriad of descriptions for this SWOtivator. Everett, Washington, is in no way shape or form prepared for this Subaru-driving, kombucha-loving, mountain/viking man. He is a mean chef and will bake you the warmest, most rich deliciousness you have ever tasted. His rocking bod isn't the only thing keeping the ladies and men wanting more because his astounding intellect leaves those around him speechless. Bryan's greatest accomplishment at the Academy may have been converting half the company to watching anime. If you ever feel inclined to share the fact that you were the first person in your family to join the military, Bryan will make sure you know that "no one ——-- cares." With a major in Japanese and a minor in EE, Seaman Smith's prior experience showed us how to properly hike (bringing iced tea instead of fire starters), crack the meanest of jokes, spray Herndon climbers, and to definitely take the road less traveled. It's a shame he could never last a day in boot camp. Along with his anime obsession and mohawk / nose ring combo, Bryan has an unequaled work ethic in the art of video game mastery. If he's not making memes for 1st Company Runs, you can probably find him sitting at his totally not stolen chair playing on his PS5. These traits make it hard for him to fend off the onslaught of girls that attack his DMs (@madskittlezman on insta). And when CAPT Smith becomes Commandant, there will definitely be a closed door policy implemented.

Submarine Nuclear

Isaac “Total Bum” Thompson may have the long, slender limbs representative of an alien being, but don’t let that fool you into thinking his performance of the physical mission misses the standard. A diet consisting almost entirely of cookies and cream flavored Pop Tarts and coffee has somehow manifested into a Dive School ready Submariner with more chest candy than Ice Cube. Although he is not the slightest bit close to being a qualified Dive Officer, you will see Isaac strolling around the halls in his Dive School short shorts which are clearly too short to pass highschool dress codes. Fortunately for us all, the Navy won’t allow Isaac to grow a mullet to go with the short shorts and flip-flops he insists on wearing. With a height of 6 feet, Isaac will most likely leave his first deployment on a Submarine with a combination of scoliosis, kyphosis, and lordosis. With high competence, Isaac has served his company as a Platoon Commander and a Squad Leader. Additionally, he spends much of his free time organizing and participating in plebe workouts and company outings. Isaac may be a helmet, but his passion for helping others is what we will all remember.

Courtney Tse

Courtney Tse, CCTse, Courtney Sleepy Tse, Tango Sierra Echo, or whatever you may know her as. The most wholesome mid in all of First Company and probably the only one that’s not a degenerate. She is also the only midshipman in the Brigade who can have the highest ranking billet possible, while getting the most sleep, getting a 4.0, AND maxing every single physical evaluation (oh yeah and you can thank her for having the PE department make the rule where you have to stop and wait at the edge of the 10m diving board because she sprinted off the 10m immediately after validating the 400m swim when she was a youngster– she was late to her next class). She loves to spend her time sleeping, going for 40 mile bike rides, sleeping, going for a spontaneous 10 mile run after not running for weeks, and sleeping. Courtney has the brightest smile and the most vibrant personality in the whole Brigade. She’s always someone you can depend on no matter what she has going on in her life, and she always has a full plate. Courtney is the definition of a selfless servant leader and she is going to be the best submarine officer to come from this institution, if she doesn’t sleep through all her obligations. I am thankful to have had this kind, loving, cheerful, and sleepy girl in my life, and anyone that has ever met her would say the same.

Joseph Alex

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Plebe summer never left Joe Alex, this kid is locked on 24/7. If you're outside of a training environment Joe's has a relaxed demeanor that makes him a friend to all. You can always count on Joe for some good advice, a delicious snack you've never seen before, and jokes left and right. Oh captain my captain. The absolute pride of New York. Goes around singing Frank Sinatra like he owns the place. Lifelong Bills fan, and willing to gamble any amount of money on Josh Allen. When he stopped getting buzz cuts plebe year, this man instantly became the most handsome guy on the team. A top class soccer player, and an even better dude. You will likely find Joe watching ducks, sports, or a mafia movie. Regardless of what Joe is doing he is always buzzing.

Cryptologic Warfare

If Austin isn't shut in his room on a Friday night studying for an exam that isn't for another two weeks, then he's in the gym squatting 500 pounds for reps. How can he do all this? Freeze-dried meat seasoned with ashwagandha and spirulina mixed in with his daily King Hall. He'd probably also say he's hardened from his time in the fleet, because he loves mentioning he's prior-enlisted. But don't let the fact that he had to go to NAPS fool you: he is quite intelligent, boasting a perfect 4.0 GPA and being #1 AOM. It's not a surprise he service selected Cryptologic Warfare without any physical limitations. Through his self-discipline and diligence, he has achieved a number of feats, to include an A+ on every PRT and Brigade striper status as the MISLO/the guy who keeps saying RESNET is getting better. On top of all that, he even has time for a girlfriend, who he swears he started dating after she left his company. All in all, Austin is a well-rounded and reliable guy who will always help those in need. The Navy will benefit greatly from his technical skillset and leadership ability.

Langston Arnold

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Most of the women in Langston's life would consider him nothing more than a friend or a son, but although rejection is a familiar word to Langston, defeat is not in his vocabulary. He is the only person I know who was somehow in remedial swim for three years in a row—and sure, maybe his participation was obligatory, but he still never gave up. The only thing stronger than his morals is his right swipe. A man so feared the people of DTA can't help but expect trouble when he walks by them. A man who's jackets have more pockets than women's jeans. Langston is someone you wouldn't expect to be a Florida man. "Are you an Operator"...LuLu king…Swimming isn't his favorite activity…always ready for action…Curt hates him but secretly loves him…Florida man..with no friends in florida..except another florida man with no friends in florida……"Bro, you can't drift?".....loves running but hates running….DTA King but underrated…..Can out-drink your favorite uncle…….doesn't like Larry June, that aint P dawg….Will listen to your complaints about life, ladies, and the pursuit of happiness….Have fun in P-Cola, see you in 2 years..I mean 20

Seth Benscoter

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Seth "hahaha yeah unless" Benscoter is known for many things: taking the cycling team to do laps around the mall, setting up the campsite reservation for weekend trips, or simply that darn smile. Despite being from Michigan, Seth has been wildly successful at USNA owning the title of Navy Cycling MC, noon meal swim warrior (4 years running), and Mid who has spent the most time at Shenandoah National Park. Don't let his irresistible lip bite fool you, Seth is exceptionally fit and crushes any and all PT. Want to go run? Seth will go. Want to swim? Seth will go. Want to giggle uncontrollably for an hour or so? Seth will do that too. Seth is not only always willing to hang out and chill with some tea or coffee, he is willing to drop everything on his very busy plate and help a friend. There are few people I trust more than Seth, because there are few people like Seth. He shows kindness, walks humbly, and picks people up when they need help. The Marines that get to serve with Seth are truly getting the best the Naval Academy and northern Michigan has to offer (except Kid Rock).

"Wide Hips, Wider Perspective", the autobiography of Henry Basil Bixler. "Hendo", "Hank", "Hennesy", "Hendris Alba", "Bix", "Bixy Stick"... The man of many names and a single story. His conquest to watch every anime in existence is simply unparalleled. Some may say an addictive personality, others call it dedication. Don't ask what Henry does on the weekends because he probably won't remember; Three words, Catalina Lime Mixer… With the eyes he possesses, Henry will either grow up to be a movie star or an Admiral. Don't let his kind demeanor fool you, the butcher of Lake Minnetonka will fold you into a pretzel quicker than he ends a phone call. The man can simply ctrl-alt-delete any food in front of him. Hendo is simply the guy you want to be around. The day Henry finds a girl that he loves as much as one tenth of how much he loves a bacon cheeseburger or a burrito, our boy will be a married man. Despite the fact that our brother learned how to cook his first dish (scrambled eggs) at the young age of 21, Henry is determined to be the next Bobby Flay. Aspiring pirate.

Riley Bueno

Naval Flight Officer

"Rye Bread" may be the most (secretly) dramatic person the Brigade has ever known. Despite her flare for dramatics, and her haunting cackle, she has never been cast in the Halloween Concert. Nevertheless, her classmates know her to be one of the most heartfelt mids to grace Bancroft. Afterall, someone has to be a ray of sunshine in this doggy-dog world. If she charged people every time they asked to use her printer or her Nissan, she wouldn't be driving a Nissan... "Rydawg" is normally armed with her mom's homemade cookies, which quickly became a company staple. Catch her at Fed House, running on Farragut or using yet another gift card at Starbucks. Riley holds herself to a high standard in all regards, despite being a History major, and her work ethic is rivaled only by her getting distracted by dog Tik-Toks. Nevertheless, those who know Riley know that she is an amazing woman, leader and friend. She makes you feel like you are the most important person in the room. All who know her know that she will reach new heights in the Fleet with Bandit the Chihuahua right by her side. I hope Pensacola has good fried pickles.

Resident of Broke Back Mountain in room 3158 along with Josh Goldberg. If someone ever needed a strapping young man to advocate for extreme diets, Charley Dever is your man, once deleting an entire gallon of ice cream in a 24 hour period. Everything Charley does is either done to the extreme, or just not done at all. One of the most freak athletes you will ever meet, just don't ask him to workout more than once a week. This Cyber warrior spends a majority of his life behind a screen coding and waking up all of Bancroft screaming at his computer while playing DOTA. If you spend even the slightest amount of time with Charley, you will undoubtedly ask "What is wrong with you?". Chuck thinks his life is actually a movie due to the amount of soundtracks he listens to. Due to his desire to improve, Charley is covered with a Continuously Under Maintenance status. White collar crimes are his forte and he will own a country one day. "Charley do you want to do something?", "I have to code"... Our one and only Lindsey Ellison, Brigade Commander and midshipmen of the semester (ret.) of Arlington, VA (the most patriotic place in America) boasts a bloodline with as many stars as the American Flag. We're pretty sure she was born with a K-Bar in hand. She is the most hardworking and caring person you will ever meet. Push past that professional façade and you will find someone who knits more than a grandma, runs further than David Goggins, and cries more dramatically than a Kardashian. With all her brigade meetings it's a wonder she ever makes it to class. She holds the record for longest time to walk from 3rd wing to Chauvenet because she has to stop and talk to EVERYONE. Her talents in improv dance (ask to see Santa Baby), Bancroft Hall cooking, and declaring a "cone of silence" will surely take her far if the Marine Corps doesn't work out. You are lucky to know her (and her latest organic, gluten-free, essential oil infused workout and meditation meal prep plan) and even luckier to love her. When we found out Josh was getting stationed in Hawaii, we all wondered, "why do good things happen to bad people?" Joking aside, Josh always has your back, especially if a thief steals your phone in DC; just don't count on the thief leaving with his life. Despite being able to charm tons of women at shady bars, the experiences rarely go in his favor. You may ask Josh to hangout ten times. Of those ten, he'll commit to five and show up to one. Josh is a physical specimen. Unfortunately his paper skin and glass bones said otherwise, so he had to trade in Varsity wrestling for Club B Volleyball fame and the bodacious beaches of Hawaii. If you're ever lost, Josh will guide you with his permanent compass on his chest. His dedication to whipping himself with licorice until drawing blood compliments his shirtless seductive dancing for an entirely male crowd. Do you have an hour of your life that you want to throw away? Big heart, bigger butt…even bigger appetite. The world's most renowned nutritionists are perplexed by Ethan's ability to turn packs of Double Stuff Oreos into peak athletic performance. A lifetime fan of just about every football team, Ethan's ability to scream for March Madness is only rivaled by his ability to scream and beg his mom to come home for a weekend instead of studying for chemistry. Despite his kind demeanor, Ethan tends to be brutally honest, especially towards women trying to win his heart. Dedicated to the grind, Ethan has always been known to accomplish his goals– running a 100-miler or illicitly escaping Bancroft for a DaBaby concert. His work ethic is similar to Jordan Belfort's work hard play hard mentality. Not only can Ethan throw a "Project X" level party, but he can also turn a 70 mph car accident into a financial opportunity. Ethan is a true mountaineer, which has led to questionable circumstances, such as getting audited by MWF or getting amnesia at WVU. You can always count on Ethan, except when it comes to attending MQF or balancing a chemical equation. Ethan is a great friend with a sense of humor that will brighten anyone's day.

Won Heo

Navy Pilot

If you're looking for Won Heo, chances are you'll find his face buried in a rack– his bed or the gym. When Won entered the Naval Academy he didn't meet the minimum weight requirements unless he had shoes on. He quickly traded all his brain power and cardiological prowess to become a beefy, bulky behemoth putting on a staggering 40 pounds since his time at the Academy. Won may have been cut from the powerlifting team, but in his experience, getting cut is sometimes desirable. Won is no joke in bed. He holds a sleep PR of 16 hours straight. He attributes this feat to his [concerning] adoration of infants and their "chubby cheeks". Being borderline blind did not stop him from pursuing his dream in aviation (unlike his first ASTB score),and at least five Naval Aviation Case Studies were aborted by Won getting PRK. Thanks to Won, the world was blessed to see the closest replica of the 'McLovin' ID from "Superbad." Won fights for what is right, especially against discrimination. His loyalty and easy-going nature is adored by all. Won is a great friend and brother, and the Naval Aviation community is lucky to have him.

Is that a cabbage patch doll over there? No, it's just Kira Keyes. For those who don't know this silly, smart (she got 100% in statics!), and sassy girl is an absolute gem. While she doesn't always like to show it, Kira deeply cares about her friends. She's someone her friends confide in and trust will give sound advice. She has an incredible read on people too… if Kira likes the person, they're a good person. If Kira doesn't, stay away. All her friends are lucky that she made the [terrible] decision to leave Cal Poly. Life would not be the same without Kira in it. Hobbies include dating 5 guys simultaneously in company, drinking Xyience and coffee at 10pm, and never doing homework. I don't know anything about hockey, but I'm sure that the team could not run without her managing skills. It really is a shame she didn't get a 7th wing parking slot because of her skills. Good thing Kira lives a life of service over self. I guess that teal blood really does run deep. If you see her in the Fleet, tell her all her Bud Lights are still in Bethesda. NARCS ONLY. J manages to be one of the most level headed people I know while simultaneously taking the cake for the most rambunctious and unpredictable. When he calls me, I'm not sure if he is going to tell me about how he stayed in and relaxed all night or if he'll share a harrowing New Year's Eve tale that makes me wonder how he has never been seriously mamed. Ever. He also manages to be quite fit while logging negative gym hours and eating God knows what- a quality that I both admire and despise at the same time. All jokes aside, J is fiercely loyal to those he loves and will drop everything to help them. He can make you laugh on your worst day and will not stop trying until he does. If you need a hype man, he is your guy. If you need someone to rant with about the slightest inconvenience, he is your guy. J is unwavering in his values and holds all of us to a high standard- something I think all of us will be better for. He will make an incredible Marine and I cannot wait to see where life takes him- probably to miles of land and a stable of horses in Arkansas. If you've spent any time with JW, you'd notice his different personalities; JW (good 'ole boy), James Wallace (sophisticated), or JQ (up to interpretation, reader discretion is advised). Many times J needs to sort things out between him, himself, and he/they, and can be seen muttering some sort of argument against himself. Luckily, this skill and element of surprise will bring him far upon commissioning, as he will always have the enemy guessing of which J they might expect. Looking forward to you sharing the ridiculous new adventures you somehow always find yourself in. To the memories on the AT, out in the duck blind, Corona-cation, or being menaces to society, best of luck brother. I know you'll go far in the Corps. S/F - CL. While many dream to retire in 65+ communities, let there be no question that JW has already reached that dream… and then some. As a strapping young future Marine, JW certainly has found his favorite animal at the zoo… cougars! Beyond his love for cougars (and sponsor moms), JW enjoys stopping by to give the occasional random and unwarranted back rub to the boys. Odd? Yeah. Do we know if it's JW, James Wallace or JQ? Actually yeah we do but that's up for speculation. Cheers to the many times we shouldn't have dodged the conduct system. Semper Fidelis – your Marines are certainly getting one of the best. -MR

In the realms of driving boats, hacking computers, and making King Hall meat lasagna afraid for its life, there are few that can compare to Jack Ransick. Hailing from Marin County CA, this coxswain for the Lightweight Crew team has a taste for the finer things in life. Though dedicated in the classroom, he truly embodies the 'work hard-play hard' mentality through his DC excursions, having a car that can drive itself, and his love for craft beer. Not only can he keep up with his teammates on runs, but he can down the same number of brews as men literally 150% his size. If one did not know, they would think Jack had a normal sized heart relative to his imposing 135lb stature, but those close to him know that it is in fact much larger. He constantly makes his friends feel valued and supports them in all their endeavors. Whether it be mentoring the younger coxswains or introducing people to fantastic ramen restaurants, Jack is always putting a smile on other's faces and making them feel truly cared for. We only hope he is as good at driving the 300-man USS Preble as he is an 8-man shell.

Aby is a kind spirited, oversized teddy bear with the temperament of a chihuahua and the heart of a toddler. Her passions include hazing herself with a CS/IT double major and making the most out of pocket, poorly timed comments or gestures. As a proud member of the Drum and Bugle Corps Drumline, she can drop that bass better than anyone. She's upbeat and full of energy like the energizer bunny, without the severe midshipmen caffeine or nicotine addiction. The only thing that will make her go ballistic faster than the Dep-Dant on red beach is Notre Dame football. A passerby wearing Notre Dame apparel will most certainly be bombarded by this future submarine officer just to shout "GO IRISH!" She will complete anything she sets her mind to, regardless of the task. This includes early selecting submarines without ever having stepped foot onboard a submarine. That's dedication, or insanity. Aby's commitment to those around her has shown through her position as a Squad leader, by actually following through with the Squad innings and outings that are promised every semester. The submarine force isn't ready for her, but look out cause here she comes!

Taylor, also known as Taykieth, also the self proclaimed "Tay-kay 47", is one impressive horse girl! She will be the first to hold a handstand for an ungodly amount of time and ask to perform dangerous stunts, because she is absolutely fearless. Disguised as one of the smallest people you'll ever meet, this Israel traveling, intelligent queen casually has every man falling in love with her. In her spare time (hardly any) she can be found watching Bachelor reruns or at a local coffee shop where she studies to maintain her 4.0- such a smartie pants. She is the only person I know who can meet someone and be invited on their yacht shortly after (safely of course). Taylor's personality is so infectious and radiant that this is not a surprising occurrence! She is the type of friend who is there through thick and thin. Her maturity and playfulness inspire those around her. If you get a chance, ask her about how she managed to take her CAC photo in a red Navy Spirit shirt and simultaneously send an accidental brigade wide email on the same day.

His emotional intelligence is the most I've seen of anyone at the Academy. Over the last four years, he's grown as a brother to me. His Snap stories stay legendary. Natural humor you can't find anywhere else. Through and through, Robi is truly a "Great Navy Guy." I can't think of anyone better to serve with; I'm envious of his future sailors. I know that he'll serve well in the fleet. He's going to do great things. On our youngster cruise, we drunkenly walked around Virginia Beach. Robi is the kind of person you can talk to about nothing for hours. Even if we didn't leave the boat together, we'd always get back and compare notes. He's also ripped. It's impressive. Navy Spirit was blessed to have him. He was the BESTEST Navy Spirit "manager"; he may even be the G.O.A.T. Robi is a true teammate, companymate, and friend. "Eeee-yooo!!!!" Malachi is well known around the Yard and has made a name for himself by both Officers and Midshipmen (for very different reasons). The master of rating what you skate is perfectly balanced with his love for training and military excellence; a skill to come in handy for his future aspirations. Malachi is the king of pre-gaming DTA… and likes to test the support of his subordinates by asking them to carry him back from DTA when he has had one too many. And by one too many I mean only one beer. After rooming with him from plebe summer all the way through Firstie year, you get used to his late night papers, typing away on the world's loudest keyboard ever invented, or silently dancing to A Tribe Called Quest song through his headphones. From plebe summer company commander to (literally) being the poster child for Semper Fi Society and the MARDET, he has geared himself to be a Marine. As a mentor, teacher, motivator, and most importantly a true brother, Malachi has absolutely developed the tools needed to make an exceptional Marine Corps Officer. Here's to many more laughs. His 3 inch inseams and hairless legs will strike fear into even the darkest of hearts. Much more than a fighting-obsessed, ice cream-eating, luxury brand ambassador, Nick is honestly one of the best men I've had the privilege of meeting in my life. I have never had a better friend, and I know I'm not alone when I say I truly consider Nick a brother. Throughout our time at the Academy, he has been there through all of the highs as well as the lows, serving as constant evidence that you really can't get through this place alone. He has been a constant source of laughs, a tireless worker when called to help those he cares about, and, as I said before, the best brother a guy could ask for. Wherever the Marine Corps takes him, I'm confident he'll continue to positively impact the lives of those he meets.

Ryan 'Samotah' may be the quietest hockey player to ever have lived, until an unfortunate soul on the opposition daringly gives him a dirty look. Ryan is a fantastic teammate that is dedicated to the not so dedicated athletes of Navy B. You can come to him with anything and he will listen and provide advice, unless you caught him in an intense game of BTD6. Fueled by consuming more Powerade from King Hall than every other midshipman combined, not even the few voddy reds and hoons at Acme on a Tuesday night can falter Ryan's academic prowess in the classroom. As a faithful Computer Science major, Ryan has archived three terabytes of King Hall food reviews in his Snapchat memories. Multi-time Mid-of-the-Month winner, Ryan transforms like the Hulk when it comes to interacting with the opposite sex. Blessed with the odd combination of the body of a Greek God and hands of Hephaestus, Ryan is the fastest member of the three mile club to ever live. His work ethic and discipline is unmatched, especially when it comes to condemning cardio. Ryan is an amazing friend, teammate, and midshipman, and will without a doubt be an excellent Marine.

Gabby "Gibz" Shepherd is the biggest fan of short kings, lover of training sergeants, boy crazy (retired) and anxiously awaiting to announce her secret marriage at a June wedding. She is known to make coffee at 9 pm, craft odd meals, and talk about her time at Virginia Tech. GOKIES! We are all convinced that she is a caffeine addict with the amount of energy drinks and coffee she consumes. Gibby can usually be found laying in her rack, teaching SHAPE, upstairs at Dillo's (making dumb decisions), manic cleaning or running many miles hungover. If you ever want Gibby to tell you something, just grab her neck and she will spill the tea. Although she is the fearless admin (and certainly hates it), you can rest assured that oddly enough- you never do run out of weekends (and we love her for that). Giblet is certainly a second company icon, a great person to lean on and one heck of a friend.

Christopher Altonen

USMC Pilot

Hailing from the rolling beaches of Florida, Chris Altonen is, simply put, a good dude. The sneaky funny guy of the group but will make your stomach hurt laughing when you get to know him. A truly simple man who finds joy in the little things. He's weirdly good at most things even though he's probably never done it before. Between his nice calves that he constantly will show off with his mandatory ankle socks, to his incredible ability to hold burps for up to 2 minutes, Chris is magical. He can often be found in the woods, sipping a nice cup of black coffee, pondering life's many questions. Not a man of many words but will always begin a conversation with "What's up man". Will only drink craft brew. Almost as reasonable as Frank. Definitely cooler than Frank. Favorite workout is a slow jog. Loves Indie music. "Sorry boys can't make this one". A common response we got ever since she came into the picture. Anyone that knows him, loves him. He's one hard dude and is gonna be one hell of a Marine. EAFD.

John Bambury

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Odds are extremely high that you've never met the real Jack "Beans" Bambury. Perhaps the only man with a unique and carefully crafted alter ego for every situation, you may be disillusioned that he is either a semi-suave LA surfer, or maybe a grizzled, baby-faced bull rider from Arkansas. However, once you decipher his fake voices and take note of his viciously aggressive high-and-tight, you'll see him for what he truly is: a former JROTC Vice Admiral from NYC with crippling social anxiety. Fun fact: Jack can sing the Marine Corps hymn in his sleep, but cannot recite a full verse of any song in the 21st century. While you won't want Jack sharing the mic with you at a karaoke bar, you'll want him by your side for everything else. He's absolutely hilarious, and is arguably grittier and more based than his idol David Goggins. We certainly will not be seeing Jack at the pearly gates, but who needs Heaven when you've got an open bar tab waiting for you in Valhalla?

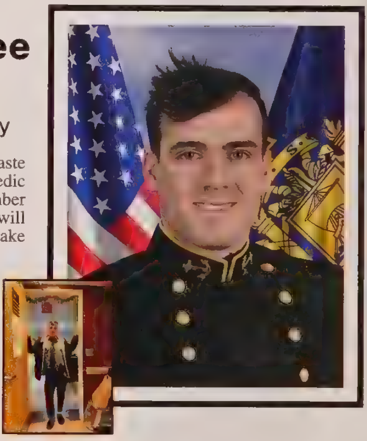
Surface Engineering Duty



Brian Bartee puts new meaning to a hard bodied, hairy-chested warfighter. A man of his own unique taste in style and music, Brian Bartee of NOLA never ceases to surprise you on his newest workout, comedic material, or life perspective. He can fall asleep literally anywhere, and while the Academy may remember him as the only student to ever sleep through more classes than he attended, to his company-mates, he will be remembered as the King of the Wardroom. During sleeping hours, one will usually find Brian wide awake shredding Guitar Hero, displaying his superior talent and reign of the 3rd Co Wardroom yet to be defeated by a challenger. There's no one else you'll want to drive around with in a topless Jeep, even as his eclectic music plays in the background. On weekends, he can be found at the local lanes perfecting his strikes or at Galway downing an Irish coffee. Brian will make the seamless transition from midshipman to BarteEDO (Bartee+EDO) on the nation's finest and least functional vessel, the Zumwalt. A great person and an even greater friend, Brian will be there when you need him most, and won't ever ask for anything in return.

Jackie is many things; especially that guy. Model Midshipman. Successful student-manager. A true philosopher. He is Mamba Mentality if it took days off. Jackie even put "BElieve in YOUrself" in his emails and somehow was still taken seriously enough to be a Navy pilot, Brigade CDR, and allowed to put his feet up on the SECNAV's desk. Rumor has it that he scammed his way to the highest level of command but the world will never know. He swears he never used the rank despite 4K picture evidence of him in Striper Alley saying otherwise. Jackie entered the Naval Academy with blonde hair, glasses, and a can-dude attitude and is leaving as the Kobe Bryant of his class. Truly admired by all, Jackie is genuine, passionate, and warm. His support and comforting hugs are one of the greatest gifts a person could have bestowed upon them. In Jackie you'll gain a true companion for life, or at least until Popeye's delivers only one chicken sandwich instead of two.

Annie Bradshaw

Annie Bradshaw is a breath of fresh air straight out of the PNW. A place she loves to remind you she's from. However, the jury is still out on whether the weird way she says the word "bagel" is in fact a Washington accent?? Her favorite orientation is horizontal, feet kicked up and head on her pillow, but yet she never seems to get enough sleep. Which is why you will probably find her with a latte in hand every morning. Rumor has it she makes a better dirty chai in her bancroft coffee bar than what you could find at the Gate 3 coffee shop. If you're looking for someone to enable your questionable decisions, especially buying something you don't actually need, she's your girl. A lover of good food and drink, Annie is always down for an adventure, especially one that leaves the stomach and heart satisfied. Don't let her small stature fool you; she's fiercely protective and full of love and sarcasm for those closest to her. Dependable and honest, Annie is one of the best friends you could turn to in times of crisis when you need advice, guidance, or simply a shoulder to cry on.

Kelsey is weird. She collects loose bricks, doesn't believe in "Hellen Keller", and devotes half her brain cells to internet memes. Kelsey's first hike was straight up a 12,200 foot mountain over 2 days and 24 miles. She's casual like that. The girl who has undiagnosed OCD, Kelsey is a lover of all things food- but no sauce, Gatorade, or international cuisines. Recommend starting with Texas Roadhouse and ending with a sweet Big Texas. Queen of shots. "Can I get two green tea shots and two waters please?" and in the morning, "I didn't have to buy any drinks last night!" She successfully drank 21 drinks on her 21st birthday, again, casual. Kelsey's drink of choice is a water bottle full of vodka with a splash of orange juice or when trying to be discreet just a bottle of vodka. Once, after drinking her beverage of choice, she concussed herself trying to penny board on flat ground. Only person to salute the OOW when in blue and golds. Whether she becomes the next great submarine admiral with Braxton as her house husband or studies the bottom of the ocean in California, she's going to be great.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Lauren de Leon is a beautiful midshipman, an even better person, and a woman of sheer fricken legs. Though she's third gen USNA, she has the appearance of being frequently confused and disoriented - however, despite her usual inability to muster any attention in any class, she is one of the dumbest smart people at this school, taking on two intense engineering majors and a Japanese minor. She'll gladly chase moonshine/whiskey with vodka and maintain functionality, but when sober she will break everything she owns from her Prius to her ACL. You will never find Lauren underdressed; ACL or no, she'll never sacrifice her platform boots. Though her voice gets higher when she speaks Japanese, she never fails to use it to sing her heart out. A human octopus, she's never gone longer than 47 seconds without a hug. You might find Lauren rupturing her eardrums to emo music or K-pop, or even making carbonara with the door open, a fiend in the kitchen. From being a gamer girl, a basketballer, a singer, a mentor, an amazing chef, the ideal housewife, and most importantly a horrible driver, Lauren does it all and still makes time for her friends and family.

The sub community has yet to inform Corinne that she can't bring her 563 houseplants onboard a submarine, and neither can she decide to run a marathon on a whim. Her love language is gift giving, but try and give her a gift and you might just have to block her on Venmo after she tries to pay you for it. When she is not double majoring or going for a run, she schedules her time with google calendar invites to hang out with friends. At the end of the day when it comes to Corinne, there are two things you can count on: 1. You will not correctly pronounce her first, middle, or last name on your first try. 2. She will always be there for you.

If you are looking for an Irish dancer, caffeine addict, best procrastinator, or the nicest mean person ever, then you should meet Bri. When she isn't at the shooting range or giving herself concussions, she is either in mood 1 or mood 2. When she's in mood 1, she's jumping around the room, roaming the halls to socialize with youngsters, following a healthy workout schedule, and saying random things that make absolutely no sense. Beware of her when she is in mood 2 though… you will likely find her lying face flat on the bancroft floors crying or running in the freezing cold wearing just shorts. She'll torture herself by only eating protein bars, drinking so much caffeine that she has to count the mg to prevent overdose, and forgetting to drink water. Nevertheless, she will persist, and maybe it's just because she's built wicked different broham, but she does this by going on truck drives, popping a diet coke, and blasting an unpredictable mix of deep country and underground soundcloud rappers. Bri is a great friend, but never ask her to go study at a coffee shop… neither of you will get any work done.

Boots, jeans, and a backwards ball cap? Or maybe short shorts, sandals, and a coastal shirt unbuttoned for no apparent reason. An identity crisis you'd naturally expect from a man born and raised in Texas, yet pampered in Malibu, CA for a total tease of a year before plebe summer (On that note, if plebe summer performance dictated OOM, he'd be a shoe-in for anchorman). Any impression of ruggedness is 100% contradicted by his love of luxury. While there's a chance you may catch him outside breaking a sweat while working out to some East Texas country music, there's a greater chance you'll find him in a bubble-bath, sipping chamomile tea, and listening to Lana Del Rey. If you think he came here because he's a patriot, you've been completely deceived. He came here for the clout and summer whites. Neither of which lived up to the hype. When things get hard, just remember… you left Pepperdine for this! We'll pray your younger brother is the only SAM you ever encounter. In all seriousness, Luke is one of the best men you'll ever meet. He maintains a cool composure in any circumstance, and will have your back no matter what.

Harrison "Johnson" Helmich's time at the Naval Academy can be divided rather distinctly into two separate phases: before and after the great ringing of the bells. He was a meticulous planner until he found himself needing a desperate escape from spring break plebe year. Dive school graduate. Airborne (Freefall) qualified, no pin. This submariner can pass technical interviews from Admirals with ease but a simple confrontation on the streets of Charleston will leave his lips sealed for weeks. No stranger to contact, Harrison grew up trying out every sport but a few sour cliff-diving attempts off of ships and railings incentivized him to give it all up for his true passion: music. As co-captain of the room band, Harrison's guitar can be heard on loop as he burns the midnight oil. The man who needs no sleep is up too late and awake too early, most likely training a young HM2 who has developed into one of the most promising gamers of our generation. Yes, she is a track star for most of the year but the actual truth is, she's a country girl forever on the lookout for her cowboy. Her country playlist will last you a lengthy road trip at this point! She is the best friend who makes time for you, holds on to you with a death grip, and listens to a rant. She will bring energy to a room even when there is none (*energy usually from an Alani Nu). She can in fact study and watch 5 movies at the same time. The QUEEN of cheesy romance movies.

Submarine Nuclear

0530 wakeup. Lift. Meditate. 12 straight hours of Nuclear Engineering. Sleep. Repeat. Three adjectives that best describe him? Thick, thick, and thick. A man blessed with a physique that gives him unspeakable mass all the way from his voluptuous calves to his invisible lats. Luke Leopold Lhota follows a healthy diet that excludes protein shakes because he will simply become too massive. It was his mass that saved him on Okemo mountain when he crashed and ruptured the pressurized air pipe feeding the snowblower. As he lay dazed in that Ardennes foxhole, snow and mud was ejected into the air around him, and the only thing heard by medics was, "I need to serve." A man who will come to the rescue during a Florida Spring Break with a trunk full of cold beer, Lhota is dedicated to both people and service. He was born ready to serve aboard a submarine, no matter how many tries it took. The parking violations may follow him forever, but so will his thirst for adventure. Several years into the future, when your hometowns run clean on nuclear power and the climate crisis has been solved, you'll know who to thank. Semper deep, brother.

From beautiful scenic Norfolk VA, there is no one with a flatter backside who is more reliable to be with the boys than Caleb Mauldin. Sometimes it's forcing him to take shots with you 10 minutes before EOL on a random Sunday and other times he's convincing you to see another terrible Marvel movie. Prefers to lose his appendix at the least convenient time, but still made the party. Yeah he's tall and fast but there is a taller and faster 100 breaststroker on the team. Never says no to a good time with the homies and is the first to be convinced to join any sketchy plan. His love for a good time with the fellas is outweighed only by his love for two of life's most precious gifts: food and women. The Navy and Naval aviation community are fortunate to have a guy as loyal, hard-working, and unconventionally flexible as Caleb Mauldin. NMSD Strong.

If you want to meet Oklahoma as a person, meet Bennett “Cowboy” “Blondie Moody. Being an Okie is this man’s entire personality. Proud of his roots, if he’s not wearing moccasins he’s in boots, and no matter what the outfit of the day is, fashion has taught him that “KA-BAR is the new Black.” Though rarely found without his best friend Jack [Daniels], he maintains powerful and meaningful friendships with anyone he meets. If I ever found myself in a foxhole, I’d want Bennett next to me. Fiercely protective and loyal to a fault, Bennett is one of the world’s most compact human space heaters, the giver of warm hugs, with the fluffiest head of hair that rivals a golden retriever. In spite of his promising future of being a trash truck driver, his aggression and leadership capability may scream infantry, but after a solo flight this summer he’d rather watch from above loaded up with Hellfire missiles. He could use some help in the “cool” department, since it’s difficult for a dingus like him to be anything other than a complete softie and nerd, but the man is cowboy tuff and is definitely both a lover and a fighter.

Manuel Muñoz

Surface Warfare

Have you ever been lied to? Manuel InigoMontoyaPatrónGuerraMunoz Owen has all his life. A man only describable in one powerful statement: “how can someone look so good drinking tequila wearing nothing but a black tank top”. Not much is known about San Antonio’s dark protector, only that he was born in the ghetto, molded by it. By the time he saw suburbia he was already a man and it was nothing but boring. If you’ve ever seen him on the weekend you’ll have two questions: how can someone be so suave and manly, and does he even have a liver? At 5 he traveled deep into the mountains to master his bushido way; became the only Mid who earned the right to wear alligator skin boots, became a wealth of knowledge; if you’ve ever talked to him you’ll know he’s accomplished as much as the people we all read about. As his dark humor shows he proves that behind that stony exterior a warm and loving soul lives in his depths. Manuel is the type of person you want to hold onto because once he opens his heart, he’s one of the best friends you could ask for.

"G Perk" is known for his large forehead, avoiding books like the plague, being mediocre at boxing, traveling 124 miles to complete a training session, and ability to lift abnormal weights ranging from 220 to 300 pounds. The only woman this man ever told "I love you" to is his mama and maybe his sisters. After obtaining the rank of Commodore due to his oceanic love for whales, Eric "Captain Ahab" taught a brigade commander about this rare achievement. He eagerly awaits and prepares to join Love is Blind season ten. He's obsessed with shoes so you can count on him to secure you a pair, unless they're Jubilees. He manages to do all the things he loves, excels as a Midshipman, and still makes it to nightly Rosary at 2130. This man of God is especially good at putting his camera in grave peril, reciting random facts to keep you somewhat awake sailing in the middle of the Atlantic, and is the epitome of ride or die. Look no further than this hype woman. Carina is the type of person whose energy you can just feed off of. She still can't find who broke her box but at least she has a sturdy head so she's able to lift her other ones out of harm's way. In her free time she enjoys casual activities such as eating Reeces, memorizing people's alphas and social security numbers, and singing in the most off key way possible. She expresses her emotions through incoherent noises and mumbling, which is pretty on brand for someone whose desk is a mess. Even when relegated to the bathtub or the alleyway, Sucato never let you forget two things: 1) His love is his brothers and 2) HE WAS NEVER OUT OF THE FIGHT!!! Alex spent his years at the Academy pulling Navy's finest boats across the finish line with only the power of his traps, laying down the hammer as the 1st Battalion XO, and putting the academic in academic weapon (class didn't matter; he crushed them all). There has never been a more loyal friend that walked through Bancoft's doors. Bryce Texeira

The draftee known as Bryce Vlad Texeira is walking proof that just enough bullying is good for anyone. Tex came to the Academy stuffed with cheese curds and beer so naturally he was a little invasive of personal space. He loved to get in your bubble and irritated us all. He was bullied by everyone and literally banished from a coach and told to "Never come back" because he hadn't been bullied quite enough. It worked because Tex developed over his four years into one of the hardest working and dedicated individuals I have ever met and that is why I know if I ever needed something he would be one of the first I'd call. Tex is always down to kick it with the boys even though he has basically been married since plebe year. All he talked about was being a Marine so naturally the school gave him one more middle finger before he headed out but I know after being friends with him for four years that he would've found success in whatever community he went to. He will be a great leader and I am glad to call him my friend. -NRB

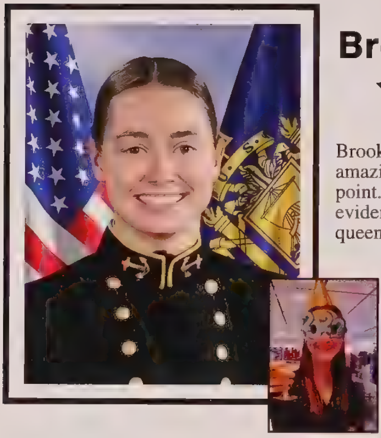
Top performer in 3rd Company…Jude came a long way from being the plebe down the hall conducting the company color parade nightly with his legion of presidential postcards. A true sub officer at heart, he dodged the draft and secured his seat down in Pensacola after an (almost) spotless record during his training in the USNA Powered Flight Program. He never prepares for alpha inspections because his room and rack are always in Alpha + condition, even when he is in them. He passes every uniform inspection with honors and always carries a lint roller and clothes iron to use on everything from undershirts issued parka. He likes to fancy himself a two percenter (we all know the truth though) and will be marrying his high school sweetheart immediately after graduation. As Company Commander during Plebe Summer 1st set, his initiative inspired leadership so much that he was hired twice. He is a verified "Killer". He has been quoted saying he used his time at the United States Naval Academy to prepare morally, mentally, and physically to assume the highest responsibilities of command, citizenship, and government, but most importantly, to send enemies of the Constitution to hell.



Brooke West

USMC Ground

Brooke West will declare she doesn't like people and that she only has three friends, but has the amazing ability to flip from 'Chill Beer Girl Brooke' to 'Business Brooke' in order to prove a point. She prides herself for leading from the middle of the pack, but is secretly motivated as evidenced by joining the USMC and serving as the 3rd Company Commander. Brooke is the queen of saying she is going to 'dog it' , but is actually super competitive and will fly past you in the pool or during a PFT and make it look effortless. She seldom talks about herself, but when she does it is about wanting her "angel boyfriend" Michael to propose, her lack of doing homework, or Philmont. Despite being Catholic, she has a rebellious side that has led her to some ~sparkly~ activities and makes the occasional rogue comment. Brooke is genuinely willing to do anything to make someone feel valued and cared for, whether she considers them a friend or not. Brooke is the best friend and teammate you could ever ask for and anyone that is lucky enough to meet Brooke in the fleet will be made instantly better for it.

Notorious for his absurd patchwork and Charleston shirts, Aidan "work hard play hard" Alejandro is the life of the party. Whether he's telling a story or a joke, there is absolutely no one who can make people laugh as hard as Aidan. His good vibes go beyond humor, Aidan is the type of guy to make an awful situation bearable, fun even. If he isn't egregiously insulting you on a daily basis, you are not really friends with him. That being said, he is one of the fiercest, ride or die friends to walk these halls, and will be the first to drop everything and run when people need his help. When he isn't roasting everyone, Aidan is studying, partying, or listening to "Michelle" by the Beatles. Navy Air is getting a great one, I just hope you fly better than you drive. I started a notes tab called "Baffer quotes" the moment I started living with this guy. I could go through all of them, but really saying he will say anything on his mind sums it up pretty well, even if it makes absolutely no sense. However, his hilariously bad takes and take it to the grave attitude pale in comparison to how fierce of a friend he is. He has a serious youtube problem, and is obsessed with the labeled items on his desk being in the right place. Undoubtedly the biggest capper I've ever met. Nevermind, that's just a Venmo request from the guy with the blonde obsession. I know Ty will go far as a Naval Officer. His extraversion, frugality, and uncanny ability to rub elbows with friends in high places fit the mold of a Naval Aviator well. After years of bullying him for his gum line and timid personality, Ty has been the best friend to every player on our team, and a friend to most in the Brigade. If Ty doesn't crush flight school, I rest easy knowing that he'll at least crush plenty of beers on the beaches of Pensacola. Alrigggggghhht

If you don't see him at school you will definitely catch Z-Bo hitting some kind of workout. If you are lucky enough to roll out for 18 holes with him on the golf course you're sure to walk away with your pockets full of his cash (not true). The Generator is always there when you need him, and a steady good time. No one has ever come across Zack and not liked him, his witty humor mixed with his positive attitude and trusting personality makes him an amazing friend that you can always rely on. ZBO is always rooting on the Vols and staying true to his roots. Kid can absolutely fly down the mountain and has reached top speeds of 60 MPH. Easy-going, chill guy that is always down to vibe and have a good time. Pensacola's newest pilot is coming in hot.

Syd the squid is scared of drowning for good reason with her swimming ability. She doesn't own any two of the same socks. She likes to W sit, so if you ever see that, don't even try to bother explaining it's bad for the knees. Hers are immune somehow. Syd is also very talented at getting the daily recommended amount of sleep. You will never find her without smelling like chlorine because I'm convinced she swims in between classes somehow. She thinks she is a genius at physics, yet doesn't know how heat, sound or light works. She also thinks she's too good for King Hall so she spends all her money on groceries and Hirtle. Regardless, she is one of the kindest people I have ever met, whose smile is literally infectious. Even if you are having the worst day possible, if you see her, your mood will skyrocket, laughing with her or at her.

If you weren't already aware just based on how many times she mentions it, Camille Herman is from the great state of Wisconsin. Bucks in 6. Fearless captain of fourth company intramural volleyball team (and Navy Volleyball). Loves Sunday night cuddles with Quiarra. Every day (but the weekends) she is in bed by 9pm. Cami is always happy to treat her friends with her mother's credit card, but will ask them to Venmo her back and keep the extra money instead of returning it to her mom, Janet. Like Janet, Camilla Harris is always down for a dance off, singing in front of an audience, or doing cringey things in public. However, she cannot bring herself to go out more than twice a week because it would tempt fate for a week long bender. She took up the ultimate cover job and became the enforcer of fourth company all while maintaining her bachelorette pad on Harbour Heights and a kitchen in her room. Though Cami isn't selfish about sharing these treasures and she will do anything for a friend at a moment's notice. Aims for maximal achievement with minimum effort. Math major drone swarm nerd. Natural optimizer. Great friend.

Need a protein shake from Ricketts? Need someone to vent to? Need a workout plan? Call this dude. An absolute gem of a human. Since he has loved USNA soooo much, I know he is sad to finally get his old ass back to the fleet soon!!! But he will do absolute amazing things and make an impact on all who he serves with. Not everyone at the academy may know him, but everyone will wish they had. Parker Lee embodies what it means to be loyal. If Parker were a dog he'd be a pitbull, largely understood as being savage beasts, pitbulls are actually incredibly sweet and loyal, and so is Parker. There's no one in this world who I'd rather have my back in a fight and no one I'd rather pour my heart out to talking about our girl problems. He enjoys working out by exclusively swinging a mace around his head for hours on end or morning yoga half asleep. He can't read. But it's more than made up for by his emotional intelligence and childlike glee. One of the most joyful people in the world, Parker can find the bright side even when others don't. Unforgivingly passionate about his hobbies, Parker doesn't care if people make fun of him for liking kid's shows or Star Wars because he knows that if they ever said it to his face they'd have to deal with the business end of a workout mace. Without a doubt Parker is one of my best friends and I'll miss him after we graduate.

She gives the best advice, but don't ask if you don't want it because this woman in S.T.E.M. doesn't have time for your feelings. Fridays after a long week of closing Maddie's closet doors or stressing that Sam parked her car in the Midstore before 1530, Gabriella can be found out adventuring in a "New Hampshire outfit"...or in bed by 9pm. At least that's an upgrade from BCG Gabby sporting a plebe summer chop (still pulled and trapped a roomie for I-Day to Commissioning). A Philmont Ranger (re: cult leader), she was prone to disappearing for hours on end…turns out she was beating every odd to win the 3316 Yiddish Games (unfortunately, the insane amount of ice cream we still owe her wouldn't come close to satisfying her sweet tooth). The only signs of life were finsta photo dumps, GIFs she sends to evade answering actual questions, or that she kept siphoning candy from the room stash. As long as she has enough "yoga" naps and coffee in her, you won't find a better friend.

On weekends, you'll find him in O'Brien's until close either asking people with their hand on their hips if they're tired or smelling good just to push and pull zero P. That's alright, because he's secretly very talented at drill...but a lowkey helmet. He is 80% upper body, 25% core, 100% Econ major, and has arguably the best style on the Sprint Football Team (don't tell him I said that...even though a trucker hat, oakleys, square toe boots, and thinking you're a light skin cowboy is not style). Maja is the most confrontational, tactfully blunt "idgaf" guy you may ever meet. Regardless of what his QPR may suggest, he displays some level of competence and a mild level of intelligence. Christian "boyfriend" Policelli is currently recovering from a 4 year relationship tornado. It says a lot about him that some of his girlfriends refused to let him break up with them because, "He's wrong." If that doesn't illustrate the effect he has on women…I do not know what does. I will say he has a similar effect on the boys, as he is constantly walking around in tight shirts that perfectly forms to his massive chest, which many believe is so perfect that he must have implants. When Chubs isn't showing his favorite tik toks to everyone, he's dominating on the baseball field or pretending to know how to play guitar. However, we all know that the best thing about chubs is his dad… more specifically his dad's calves. We also know chubs as the least attractive member of his very attractive friend group, but he deserves some love too. I would like to take this moment to apologize for some of the mean stuff I have said in this bio, I never meant any harm, as there's a drive into deep left field by Castellanos and that'll be a home run. And so that'll make it a 4-0 ballgame.

She is someone you can count on to listen to all your boy troubles, but is also down horrendous herself. Doesn't give a sh*t, in the best way, about what others might think. Somehow escaped the wrath of the federal Courts and base police. Lego and kite enthusiast but really hates boats and weapons. "Good things come in small packages." – Aesop talking about Sean probably. Sure he stops by my room too often, sure needs a hobby or a girlfriend, but that doesn't stop him from being the coolest dude you'll ever meet. Grill master, "avalanche" survivor, "sick dude", "little run swim bike action". As a member of a 4 man room that has quite literally lost brain cells listening to a certain roommate talking (YELLING) at his girlfriend for the last 3 years, or the certain "egg" smell coming from the drain of the 3 rooms he has lived in, Sean has permanently cemented himself as the calm and collected one. While being found fist pumping in any DTA bar, drinking his small self into oblivion, Sean has shown the resilience needed to deal with any female in his immediate future. If you're his wife reading this, just know YOU peaked. For whatever reason, Sean's determination is only outmatched by his kindness and selfless nature. He goes too hard in the paint sometimes, but he has taught me more about being a good man than anyone else I know. Whether fighting demons or Russians, Sean will put up one hell of a fight.

Adrian is a man of many talents. Those whose ears have been graced by the passionate notes of his cello performances have never been able to listen to music the same way again. He has conquered the high seas on his trusty steed, Zaraffa, (the 66ft racing boat), hand caught and prepared the finest crab dinners in Maryland and brewed the second-best espresso in Bancroft. In a matter of months, he went from having no license to being a connoisseur of classic automobiles, and has established himself as an esteemed member of the classic car community as a 90's baby in his 80's Mercedes. Never has a finer physical specimen existed. Adrian has single handedly set the new physical standard for the Naval Academy. A world traveler, Adrian could be found buying Boba tea in Singapore, sailing through the Atlantic, venturing to the waterfalls of Shenandoah, or lounging in an Amex Platinum airport lounge. He keeps his silver-smoke convertible as brightly polished as his Amex Platinum, because he finds rewards* in the Journey as well as the Destination (*rates and fees apply). I have always known Adrian would be the perfect submariner. After graduating from the Academy, he will undoubtedly reach new depths in his knowledge. Rickover's nuclear Navy will soon be renamed Schalk's nuclear Navy. Truly, though, his ability to adapt and serve his country sets him apart from his peers and Adrian is bound for great things. SEH

Maddie is the girl who can do it all, so it's best to talk about what she can't do…like centipede pushups. Or taking anything seriously. Whether it's stifling laughter while being scolded by Axle, writing her famous PAO Brigade emails, or sandbagging XC workouts, Maddog has always had trouble keeping a straight face (she walks around with her trademark half-smirk and head tilt). She's not too hot at skiing, but she'll happily hike the mountain with you for the meme. She's terrible at hiding her musical talent, always busting out her guitar or mandolin, and who can forget her singing Blue & Gold in the plebe rates competition? And she's always listening to some obscure indie band or CDs in her '05 Subaru Outback just so everyone knows how quirky she is. Probably the thing she's worst at, though, is hiding her secret identities: she's actually Amish. Wardog will act chiller than anyone you know, but is a heart-stomping, soul-crushing Marine (can always bum a cowboy killer off her, she's never caught without a pack). Despite all the stuff she's terrible at, Maddie is still objectively one of the coolest girls around. Penthouse.

Lucky for her, I hear the Marine Corps is issuing silk pjs and hot pots for the field. As long as she drinks her milk, the only obstacle she will have at TBS is keeping her bivvy sack clean for her sleeping clothes. Did you know Kbizzle is a clean freak? She hates germs, and when she's stressed she can be found bleaching the floors. Somehow, she is still battling the critters that inhabit her room (most likely because she critter calls, making mouse noises at least six times a day). These are just a few of the things her friends gladly put up with… things that her friends even missed when she was in Nashvegas for all of November 2021. Surely, these are the things her friends will miss once she leaves for Quantico in September :')

Although he is one of the shortest pilots you will meet, do not underestimate the big dog. His net height is 6 feet 6 inches but only stands 5 feet 6 inches, you can figure out where the rest of them come from. His motto may be "big dogs eat" but when it comes to working out there is no one like him. Imagine a small built pitbull grinding for his 48oz porterhouse steak, not letting anything get in his way. Transitioning to the lifestyle of a pilot may be hard for AB who will find it difficult not to run his team through hours long workouts, miss meals, and then marching to a football game. There is not a doubt in my mind he will have the strongest division in the fleet, with the hunger equivalent to the 500 lb bear Hank the Tank. From working the hardest, to barking the loudest, the strongest gymnast in NMG history will definitely leave his mark.

Moira's determination to follow her big heart got her in some bad situations throughout her time at the Academy, primarily her engagement, of which she gladly boasts to all. She's great at making up her mind and confident in her approach to leadership no matter the obstacles. She is more likely to trip up over her own feet than she is to stumble on her career path. Her favorite phrases include "Why can't people just…" and "It's really not that hard." While you might not always like her approach to leadership, you can expect a big hug any time you need one, even if you're quite certain that you don't (who needs personal boundaries?). While humanities aren't her strong suit ("Are democrats the blue ones? It's pronounced 'eh-pih-toam.' I forgot about the Civil War. Does anyone actually vote?"), we just blame her being from Alabama. Though she insists she's not taking after her father, she plans to get married (did I mention she's engaged?) after graduation, go to Pensacola, and be an NFO. Any similarities to MC'92 are purely coincidence. "Adulting" is a looming challenge for Moira (taxes? credit cards? aversion to water?), but we're sure she'll figure it out.

Elizabeth Farmer can always be seen running endless miles on the weekends, coding angrily on her laptop, drinking her starbies or planning her next trip. Once desiring to go IWC, she quickly decided she hates her major (computer science) and her true calling was SWO. Lizzy Farm is the type of person who will always share her snacks with you…everyone needs a friend like that. The only thing missing from her soccer mom dream is the minivan. Too bad she'll never give up Pearl for it. Along with playing field hockey, she became a staple player on the intramural soccer team, gaining the nickname Coach Farm. She is the queen of always doing the right thing (except for frat, which she is known to be very good at). Possibly a ploy to take over the world, Elizabeth has advanced herself through the ranks executing mice, assuming company commander, and kicking her boyfriend out of company. A great friend, she will always brighten your day and your snapchat with her sunrise stories. The SWO community is lucky to gain a loving, smart, and loyal new Ensign taking on Rota as her first stop to traveling the world.

Hailing from the great celery farms of Kalamazoo, Michigan (Celery Farm Capital of the World), Skyler "Flieter" Flietstra is as imposing intellectually as he is physically. Standing at 6'4", Skyler can be called an expert on many things–wargaming, strategy, physics, chemistry, calculus, and anything related to celery. Skyler's intellectual character leads to many interesting discussions: bring up nearly any topic with him and you can be assured that you'll find the opposing viewpoint. It's too bad the CDC (Center for Celery Development) didn't have him on their payroll in December 2019 when he was incessantly babbling about how a small disease that supposedly stemmed from bats (not eating enough celery) was going to change the world (like that would ever happen). Beyond matters of the mind, however, Skyler has distinguished himself in other ways: a brief stint as a TikTok influencer, a chaotic investment portfolio, flip-flopping between buying a brand new Dodge Charger or a celery-mobile, looking dapper on the parade field as a bagpiper with Pipes and Drums…and last, but certainly not least, he had an absolute BLAST at Ring Dance despite having the personality of a Kalamazoo Celery Farmer. Celery celery celery celery celery celery celery celery celery.

From staring a LtCol in the face at attention 3/C year, explaining why he took a metaphorical dump on midregs, to fare-beating MTA, Luke has avoided restriction like a fat kid avoids vegetables. He'd benefit greatly if told to wear a helmet at all times and will give you the shirt off his back, but only if he can get it around his thick neck. He's who you make your one phone call to in prison, if he isn't there beside you. With an unmatched zeal for life, tenacity and indomitable spirit, Luke has an unshakeable loyalty and love for those nearest and dearest to him. The Marine Corps is gaining a hard-working and competent officer for its ranks. TBS doesn't know what's coming.

Navy Flight Officer

Every weekend, the St. John's groundskeeper sees the same man set up a picnic on the quad. He comes two times–Saturday and Sunday–always accompanied by a different woman. "Who is this playboy, this ladies' man who tugs at the heartstrings of the women of DELMARVA?" he wonders. The man's name is Benoit Gorgemans, and despite speaking French, being 6'4", and finding himself in the middle of a shocking number of international events (introducing the French CNO after the submarine deal, recognizing the Taiwanese embassy, the list goes on…) he still has yet to settle down. Are these girls not wowed by his ability to name every world capital? Or what about his simultaneous acceptance to the nuclear navy (his heart just wasn't in it), the naval aviation community, and the French Naval Commando pipeline? Maybe a move to Norfo–no, Pensacola, will lead to more adventures for Ben, whether they involve women or not. This Coloradan Genghis Khan will surely find his true love (SNFOG?) as he gets on a first name basis with of the Florabama population. And accompanying this quest will undoubtedly be a fruitful naval career. Good luck in the fleet Ben!

Karla Guzman is a quick, witty, goofy gal who is ALWAYS ready with a comeback and a nickname. You're #blessed if you get one of Karla Guzman's OG nicknames. She loves pigs, Lima's chicken, "no homework/Bachelor night" Thursdays, and beatin' down on some plebers as a ruthless Train-O. She is a devil dawg at heart with her love for the Corps, riding Ospreys unbuckled, and a constant urge to fight everyone because she thinks she's 6 inches taller than she actually is. Ultimately however, she set her eyes steady on course with the Nuke SWO community. Whether she's tearing up the dance floor at O'Brien's, breaking ankles on the soccer field, keeping it 55th street with the 5mous Chemistry gang, or spending time with her rocks on 3-4, Karl has a beautiful heart that draws others to her and makes your day brighter. She's the most genuine person and fearless leader I've ever met. Although she is the aggressive one out of her and her doppelganger, she is one of the sweetest people you'll ever meet and a friend you can always turn to. San Diego ain't ready for this DTA dancer and PBR rallyer.

Miyuu Handa

Naval Flight Officer

Standing at 4'11 (5 foot nothing on good days) this chaotic-good Hawaii native has one goal in life: to help those close to her. But this is no easy task when roughly half the brigade exists in Miyuu's "close social circle." To accomplish this, Cadet Captain Miyuu relies on her phone for long-distance communication (the only iphone with 6 hours daily screentime on imessages), her car Remy for mid-distance problem solving (a short asian woman in a large car driving 100mph on Maryland highways is a sight to see), and her small but proportional legs for short-distance issues (pick up your feet Miyuu, just because you don't drink doesn't mean you can stumble while sober). Her life motto comes from her favorite Disney character, "Ohana means family, and family means nobody gets left behind or forgotten" (unless that family is Navy Spirit). When she's not getting sidetracked by golden retrievers, blasting disney music, planning events, or sneezing her brains out, she can be found cleaning other people's rooms, ordering from the kids menu, and backing up into literally every parking spot. Miyuu's caring nature and her dedication to her people is enviable–any squadron will be lucky to have her!

Yong Huang

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

It's 0400 and Yong Huang is wide awake. Pulling on a Navy Bodybuilding sweatshirt last washed his youngster year, he walks to Halsey (#rememberMacD) and begins his 3 hour lift of the day. He returns on deck at 0658, pulls on his blues (without showering) by 0659, and yells at the company to read his PMO emails at 0700. Though his chest may be intimidating, Huang has a soft spot for his girlfriend Rae, who he met and fell in love with over FaceTime during Viet-ROM. But that love pales in comparison to what Huang feels for his roomie, Charlie Stamm, who, when he isn't slapping him, has brought him several hundred pounds of chicken from KH over the years while also rewriting all his papers. Huang is an enigma. A Chinese "major" who already is fluent in Chinese. A bodybuilder who has a shocking lack of trap development. And a salty navy veteran (he'd be a Chief right now if he hadn't come to USNA…trust him) born shortly after the Gulf War who can't locate Iraq on a map. But for all his quirks, you won't find someone more dedicated, caring, and hardworking–the Navy is getting a good one.

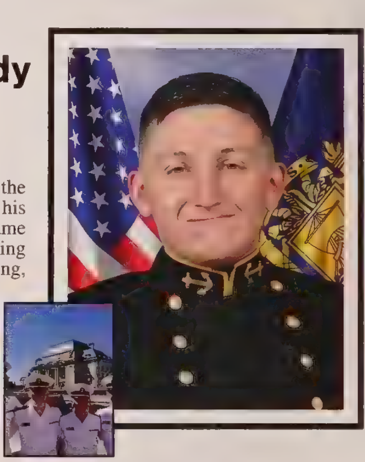
Will traded his luscious curly locks at the age of 18 for a buzzcut in pursuit of his dreams at the Naval Academy. As a Trident Scholar in Robotics and Control engineering, Spanish minor, and as a Lightweight Oarsmen, he has truly made the most of his time at the institution. Not only was his new hairstyle a massive improvement, helping him to practice his Spanish with various ladies in a certain foreign nation, but the friends he surrounded himself with benefitted every day from his energetic presence. He'll be following in the footsteps of his father as a Submariner upon graduation, and they'll need to fit a squat rack somewhere in that Virginia class so Will can continue in his pursuit of lifting heavy objects. We expect Will to obtain the most defined quads the world has ever seen... oh and did you know he won IRA's??



Nicholas Kennedy

A father of misfit children, somehow has managed to not have an aneurysm in his time at the Academy; acts like he doesn't care, and honestly sometimes he doesn't, but underneath his impassive demeanor, cares a whole lot more than you'd think. He comes up with a crass nickname for nearly everyone, and has absolutely no tact but that just makes him Nik. When he isn't bashing his brains in doing something absolutely asinine for his Nuke E studies, he's probably not sleeping, and playing viddy games in search of the happy brain chemicals. I think his most redeeming features is his beagle Luci, because she is truly the only bright spot in his life. Nik has the brain capacity of a half-baked Atari, and tends to forget literally anything and everything he has said, or that you have told him. Nik is a wonderful, brutally honest human being, however his veins don't even pump blood at this point, just purely energy drinks and spite, but his Grinch heart still holds love for those he's closest to (but shh that's a secret).

Joshua Kim

Submarine Nuclear

When going out into DTA, midshipmen follow a strict dress code: flannel shirt, jeans, and sneakers–this is acceptable liberty attire. Joshua Kim apparently did not get this memo. Wherever he goes, the same slightly faded pair of turquoise crocs follow. Going to king hall? Crocs. Playing the same four chords on his guitar? Crocs. Seeing his soon to be wife, Jeanie, for the first time in months? Crocs. Indeed, Joshua has a pickiness when it comes to footwear. Some say that his decision to join the submarine force came from learning that these undersea warriors wear sneakers–vice boots–while deployed. On the topic of uniforms, Joshua simultaneously strives to look his best on Thursdays in SDBs while ironically simultaneously shooting for the elusive goal of never washing his blues over four years at the Naval Academy. But this retired cymbal player (that's a thing?) strives for greatness in other fields, once competing for longest amount of time on concussion protocol, most hours of league played during study period, most youngsters put into the conduct system, and most rolled ankles during reg runs. Don't let these accomplishments intimidate you–this straight-talking Californian is a great friend and will be an even better submariner!

Sawyer "Little Man Syndrome" Masuoka has quite the extensive resume: The son of a navy captain who has grown up around the world, an accomplished bodybuilder who credits his size to extensive, early morning room workouts, and a retired plebe summer CC who terrorized the plebes (while also definitely being better than Will Jarrett…just ask him). Over his four years at the academy Sawyer has successfully shed his inexplicable British accent, reinjured himself approximately 22 times on the soccer field, and gotten to live life as a civilian in VGEP. But his greatest accomplishment by far is his engagement to his beautiful high school sweetheart, Makayla. Good things await this future aviator when he finally makes it to Pensacola and we wish him the best in his navy career!

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Has a hard time putting on socks Enjoys mac n cheese balls. For the love of god don't ask him for one of his pizza rolls. Decided to start existing halfway through youngster year. He existed for about a year, then he got a girlfriend shriek noises. Was almost banned from NCAA swimming for having the unfair advantage of a nose so big it could be used as a dorsal fin.

Cryptologic Warfare

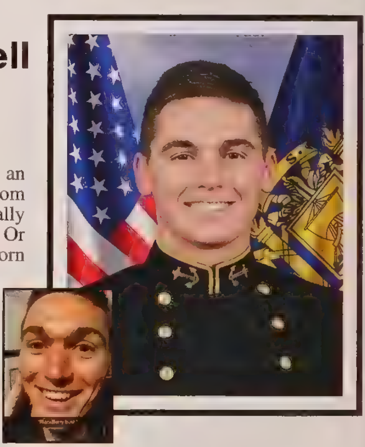
Tina is the type of midshipman who sometimes forgets she is a midshipman. You can expect to see her in Blue and Golds when she feels appropriate, sporting her out of regs tragus piercing, with some diamond studs to go along with it. A masterful salesman, she can scam anyone on Mercari into thinking they want to spend their money on a tshirt she was given for free. Constantly misplacing things, Tina likes to blame the Bancroft rats for the disappearance of her items only to find them buried in the deep recesses of her closet weeks later. Her outgoing nature and rather annoying habit of asking about every detail of your day is evidence that she genuinely cares more about you than you probably have or ever will experience from another person. Her sense of humor is her biggest asset in getting through tough times, and her upbeat attitude betrays none of the grief she has endured. Having been through it all herself, Tina is someone you can count on to offer a shoulder to cry on and whose good nature will help you stop being depressed, at least for a short while.

Frank Bell

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Frank is the most sensible, practical, and reasonable man of Navy Rugby. He'll never make an unreasonable decision without personal reflection and introspection, unless he is chili brained from going full Rigor Mortis. Give this guy some Lagunitas IPAs and watch him unravel. Especially when he makes the occasional visit to UD and winds up face down in a laundry room closet. Or when he beat his roommates to the room and left them a little surprise. Enjoys wrestling with thorn bushes despite little success and never finding a way to win. He occasionally has good nights, where he finds himself a nice lady and takes her home. Speaking of…what really brought Frank "Turtle" Bell out of his shell was becoming Jack O'Hearn's father. Frank will forever hold real estate in Larry's head. After stepping on the scale, he'll skip the next 3 meals and work out for 4 hours for "no reason". No time of day is a bad time to hit the rack. Sometimes when he has "a lot of work to do," he will watch the Kings lose and then hop into bed. Good thing pilots have protected sleep time. Love you brother. EAFD.



Camryn Bevis

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Camryn "Tall Glass of Water" Bevis' greatest feat at the Academy was booking her Spring Break trip and buying a puppy during the first week of school Firstie year. The best part of rooming with her is not knowing what words are going to come out of her mouth next. Her hobbies include knitting, complaining about the Academy, planning her retirement, reality TV, and signing up for the HGTV dream home. She may have wished she never met her soulmate, Maddie Black, for if she had not met her, Camryn swears she would've DORed, but we all know that no one goes to foundation school for fun. Camryn always tells it like it is and always has an obscure piece of room decor, whether it be the eggplant/peach light, or a Nicholas Cage pillow to keep the setting light. Her future is as bright as her peach light and we all know that she is going to kill it in the Marine Corps!

Madison Black

Maddie is always seen with Camryn or wearing crocs (sometimes both)–there is no in between. She and Camryn found each other in the hopeless depths of plebe summer and never looked back. Otherwise, they both would have DORed by now. Maddie has the looks of a stone cold killer, and I pray for the man who gets between her and a Diet Coke. Speaking of men, Maddie can always be found enjoying the hobbies of a 50 year-old man whether it's spending time on her ancestry.com account, touring battlefields, sipping whiskey, or complaining about her knee pain. I stopped asking her where she is from because I thought she was from New York, then Wisconsin, then Kentucky, and I think now she lives in Louisiana but I am still not 100% sure. I accredit this confusion with the fact she gets goody bags and birthday gifts from Parents Clubs all across the country. Regardless, we know that Maddie is going to be the best NFO the Navy has to offer.

Though she may be a buoy, she prefers to be called "Thi". T knew she would be a SWO when she became part of the YPRON cult. Voted most likely to become the fun wine aunt with the really cool car, Tee otherwise prefers to spend her free time burrowing in her room. Quite the fan of "work smarter not harder," Tea will probably get her life together at the last minute and manage to make things work, like she always does. Thi will have a SWOnderful time in Japan manning the watch as she fills her pokedex.

Talking to Mimi is like talking to a mirror. She is one of the most relatable people you will ever meet and can hold you in conversation for hours and soon after, you may realize that she's the most talkative person you have ever met. The two most reliable things about this girl are her love for Diet Coke and how she will inevitably leave you when out on the town with her cousins or a random mid she had a class with. You know you have a special place in Mimi's heart when she invites you to her sponsor's house and she shares her food with you. Can't wait to see her be a kickass Nuke SWO and crush life in Hawaii!

Known aliases are the "Dungeon Dwarf", "Big Dan", and the occasional "Bob the Tomato". Just two beers in and this kid turns bright red, radiating heat like the Sun and will not stop laughing or doing math once he's started. It must be nice to ball on a budget. You might ask him if he swims, to which ask you if you know what "butterfly" is - we already know Dan, no need to explain again. His lack of ability to down alcohol isn't his only distinguishing factor, however. You are what you eat, or so they say, and Danny boi is 180 pounds of rice, canned meats, and the "occasional" Hot Pocket dipped in Ramen from the wardroom store. You can find this elusive creature lurking in one of a few places: the gym or on Hospital Point… but most likely you'll find him in his room, hidden under a pile of garbage with his standard issue undies screaming at you to turn off the overhead lights.

At some point you might have found yourself asking the question, "what do Allen Iverson, Mike Vick, and Dakare Coston all have in common?" The answer is simple. They are all living legends of the 757. Though now a native of the ATL and La Sierra…the Mexican Restaurant off of Riva Road…DK is still quick to remind you that he runs and will always run the Hampton Roads. From back problems to hip problems to labrum problems (just to name a few) DK has gradually lived up to his name as being the "pops" of the room. Though, at the same time, he never fails to let you know that he has the lowest body fat percentage in the Brigade and is the fastest of the 5121 crew…even though many would say this is cap. A man of many words yet one who moves in silence, he is grounded in his spirituality and the positivity that he always gives off. A true friend to all, one thing about DK is that he will always be there when you need someone.

Did we mention he plays guitar? We believe Jack hails from another planet where the water fountains flow with Gin. A true chit surfer, Jack skipped a whole semester due to a "hip injury". If you ask him about a certain state to the immediate east of our illustrious Naval Academy, he might pull out a "casual frothy", and tell you a funny story sure to produce a "heap of laughs." Jack's one liners will either leave you unimpacted or give you a slight chuckle at best. In his free time Jack can be found on an "adventure" to UMD with the same degen- ahem same three tennis fellas. While he may take on some side quests during these adventures you can always count on one thing: him fumbling the bag. The only time Jack sleeps off the yard is during away tennis tournaments, otherwise he tends to teleport drunk back to the room at 3am. "Nightmare, you're drunk, paranoid, nightmare!"

Let the record show she is 6'2 and everyone knows it. Miya is confident, the ultimate wingwoman, and one of the strongest individuals I know. Miya will never settle for the minimum and strives to be the best that she can be. I ran a Murph with Miya and although the 5 minute warning sounded for taps, she pushed us to complete the run before taps sounded. At that moment I knew she was the type of person to not only push herself, but also others. Miya also sees the potential in people and is always willing to help others reach their goals. Miya has a strong passion for things that are different and she chooses to spotlight individuals from different walks of life. She is the mid mom you never asked for but always needed. If you didn't know, Miya went to NAPs and it brought her loads of wisdom that her friends needed to learn. She is the most caring, dependable, encouraging, and fun person to be around.

That same year they took away your only source of having a 3.0GPA, CHEG. 2/C year brought a new man with a new outlook on life,you never understood the word no and no frat house bathroom at UD would ever be safe. You kept the safe sex industry alive through your plan b purchases and the BMU condom bowl empty. 1/C year brought another new man, you became a "completely different person", you no longer belonged to us, and bowed down to a new master. Nights that upon delving into one's checking account the following morning might give the average Midshipmen a fright. Not ole Dick Hansen though, he chalks it up to a night on the "Todd & Jaimie Fund" or to being extorted by a stripper. Beyond his cinematic experiences out with the fellas, Rich is without a doubt, the best of us. You'll never have a more faithful friend, or a straighter shot than Ole Dick. Think if Jay Gastby was reincarnated, it would be this fella. Rich would give you the shirt off his back and buy a drink with it. There were no better moments than seeing him suffer week after week, season after season, watching the Vikings season crumble every year like clockwork. Seth has been known to spend an ungodly amount of time flexing in the mirror saying a quote that he lives by "road to two hundo baby". Some other great moments were telling his roommates multiple times "I'll try anything once" and his unconfessed love/obsession for multiple striper level women in the brigade. Homicidal tendencies are, thankfully, limited to the Bancroft mice population. Can't run to save his life, but well… he probably already told you he's a diver. If everyone had the same name, he would still forget it. Knows more random facts about almost anything than anyone else that I've ever met. Throughout his time at the Academy, one thing that Steadman is known for is his loyal character and unyielding perseverance. This character trait transfers directly to combat. Ground-fights like an animal. In a fight, I would rather choose 1 normal-sized Steadman to be on my side over 3 half-sized Dwayne "The Rock" Johnsons. Joey is not only scholastically challenged but also athletically disinclined, having given up running track after only one year on the team. Additionally there is clear evidence of his athletic ability, or lack thereof rather, on his upper right eyebrow which is home to a Harry Potter-esque scar that he received from slipping on a small puddle of water and accidentally bouncing his face off the floor like an over inflated basketball. However, regardless of scars and classroom aptitude, Joey is the most loyal friend we could ever have. She should be as well a Gemini of political science, intimidation, punctilious sarcasm, and the nicest sense of not knowing what she actually wants. She should be the soul of claiming she's Native American so she could be considered #exotic, washing her flight suit 32569 times, getting bed bugs, wearing hair extensions plebe year, romanticizing every part of her life, and having an iPhone XR. No meritorious act of a Jimmy should escape her attention or be left to pass without a reward of a trash can from Dillo's, even if the reward is only to find out that he finally unblocked her. Conversely, she should not be blind to realize that she got a D in weapons and thermo, though at the same time, she should be quick and unfailing to distinguish that choosing to become a NFO was better than fighting to be an intel-o, thoughtlessness from being halibut, and well-meant shortcomings from countless nights in DTA. Ben "Big Debra" Sell was born to be in power. Whether passing riveting information at formation or running up and down the court refereeing a high school basketball game, Ben craves the feeling of knowing he has the ability to ruin some poor souls' day. He's the oldest member of 6th company and doesn't let anyone forget it by the way he breathes heavily walking up stairs and holds his back gingerly after any sort of physical activity. Some of Ben's pastimes are watching hundreds of Youtube videos per evening and bidding on ebay auctions. An incredibly hard worker Ben regularly returns to his room at odd hours of the night from important "meetings" in undisclosed locations with undisclosed people. But lesibhonest, we know why. As a former weatherman his two loves are big clouds and big women in that order. He's a devoted "uncle" of many "nieces and nephews", I'm excited to see how many end up being his children. No one really knows what he does or where he disappears on the weekends, but seeing how secretive he is, I can only guess it's some sort of top secret government project, that he invariably terms his "homework."

Emma Slavens

Navy Pilot

A great woman, an even better hooker. NWR's resident English major who is graduating with a PoliSci degree. For the very loving person that she is, your immediate reaction to meeting Emma Watson Slavens is that she hates you. One may be intimidated in their first interactions with Ms. Slavens, but soon realize she holds an Olympic Medal in self-deprecation despite initial intimidation. Ms. Slavens could gaslight the sky into thinking it's green, after which the sky would apologize for the detriment to all those afflicted. Her many talents, along with gaslighting and self-deprecating humor, include throwing a ball in a straight line, but does not include stretching, yoga, getting off the ground quickly, or open displays of affection. She loves the good things in life…Does she have an addiction to reading? Regardless, there are enough books--read and unread--on her bookshelf to constitute some sort of obsession…When she's not reading, scrolling through Twitter while complaining about her workload, she's running for mental health. Stillness and body aches are for the weak. Loyal to her friends like no other, she cares for her teammates and friends deeply, whether that means yelling on the pitch or bullying you to do your homework.

Medical/Dental

A simple man of simple tastes, and the occasional good time in the back of a deaf uber driver's car. No matter what time you make plans with Joe, he will ask to do it 5 minutes later than you want. Joe is the most studious person on the yard. He takes his academics so seriously that I pity the man who tried to bother him during one of his MCAT practice tests. If you need to get in contact with Joe you better be committed and call him twice since the first time will go directly to voicemail. Joe is always so laser focused he keeps his phone on Do Not Disturb at all times. Joe has been known to run half marathons on a whim on random afternoons because he is bored. Although Joe generally abstains from any sort of alcohol he will never pass up the opportunity to eat some good meat at any given hour of the day. When it comes to his food, Joe is very picky. Less than 5 stars on Yelp? Count Joe out. I look forward to seeing all the things Joe accomplishes in his future career as a Navy gynecologist.

You must have very tolerant ears to be Cody's friend because he can't get himself to not say the word 'like' after every word. I remember when Cody got me a can of pringles after Parent's weekend to help me survive plebe summer. But what I didn't realize at the time was that he himself was a master of the art. Talk about consistency-he's got it. Cody knows the PRT better than anyone I know. I mean, how do you explain someone running a mile and a half in the 10:27-10:30 range consistently. You'd think that with him going to bed at 2100 every day he'll be able to run faster. Cody is the "Mr. Tennessee" of the 5121 gang, not cause of his country accent, although it is a part of it, but because he would literally give his life for Tennessee football 24/7. If that was a valid call sign, it'll probably be his. This man can juggle stuff. He spends hours watching tv but still gets excellent grades. I'm glad to have met him and to have shared my years at the Academy with him. Go Mr. Tennessee, Fly Navy! - BA

The Lizard King can be found levitating around the wardroom in the wee hours of the morning. You can definitely tell that he's from Florida. Got PRK but still stands 2.5 inches away from his screen while he codes. Don't try to find him in DTA…he is in DC.

"Is Corey at St. John's?" is a dumb question to ask because every time he goes, he makes sure that he posts at least 5 selfies proving to all the squares at the academy that he was there.

Sara is the most loving person on the face of this planet. Her minor obsession with clouds pales in comparison to the absolute monumental size of her heart. I don't know of many people who can simply walk through the dull LED lit isles of Target and be approached by strangers just to be told how beautiful they are. You will always know Sara by her beautiful smell and her absolutely vivacious hair. If you are ever lucky enough to come into contact with this angel among men, just sit back, relax, and be prepared to probably talk about the weather. Also, she has the most random music taste ever, and is a paradigm of hard work and self control except when it comes to her kryptonite–Barnes and Noble (and Ulta). She's definitely the smartest person I know, she will say it how it is and not take your BS…at the same time, she is one of the kindest people I know too. Despite having a perfect GPA she still knows how to have fun, I should know, I spent two weeks with Sara in a cozy little van.

Lauren "what's a rest day?" Anderson is known for her physical prowess, selflessness, and fierce loyalty. She can be found at ladies' margs night, dropping it on the dance floor, or snuggled up in a recliner by 9pm. Though Lauren spent hours studying to achieve her personal trainer certification, she is known to push herself to the breaking point - but don't be confused, this gal is far from broken and is who you want next to you in a fight. She will give you the best advice of your life, turn around and do the exact opposite, and then look at you and say while laughing, "Damn, I probably should have seen that coming." If you spend any time with Lauren, you can't help but catch onto her infectious smile and kind demeanor. She is the friend you need in hard times. Lauren is wildly competent at everything she undertakes and is incredibly driven to not only be successful but to help others be successful. The Naval Academy is special because of people like Lauren. I can't wait to see the good she does leading Marines. -MW/BH/SA/CT/TA

Tatiana Arias

Naval Flight Officer

Tatiana Arias hails from Norwalk, CT but is often asked if she's from LA. Why LA you ask? If you saw her sneaker collection then you wouldn't have to ask this question. Rather than paying attention in class, she spent most of her time searching what Jordan's would be dropping that week. Tati is a four year member of the club lacrosse team #bah. She made it through plebe and youngster year playing Friday night pick-up basketball and Sunday morning breakfast (iykyk). King Hall really was never the same for her after Natalie's pink lemonade was gone though #rip. Her love for clothes ran so deep that her Bancroft closet barely had enough space for uniforms, filling up after each weekend thrift haul. Fashion is her passion, so let's see how long the Navy will have a hold of her before the fashion industry sweeps her away. While Tati loves clothes a lot, she loves her dog Pinto just a biiiit more. Tati's favorite opportunity at the Academy was having the chance to study abroad in South Africa, making her want to continue traveling this beautiful world we live in… Maybe the Navy wasn't such a bad decision after all?

How has Miah maintained such an incredible upper body physique despite multiple surgeries to put his arms back together? Some questions are better left unanswered, but don't tell Miah that. As NMG's team philosopher, we can always count on Miah to be just depressed enough to sit in the corner and ponder life's deepest issues as long as they pertain to his relationships. When he's not in such a pensive mood, he terrorized the coding terminals of USNA at odd hours of the night fueled by at least three Monsters or Bangs. It appears this energy drink habit will help him more than any of his cyber skills in the Corps, but Miah's future Marines will be blessed with a leader who likes to act tough, rationalize why rules don't apply to him, and fail to keep a straight face while doing it.

Dancing abilities at ring dance really sealed the deal with Gwen. Destined to be an admiral as his commitment and passion for the Navy fills the room. Is not self-conscious at all about his big gas guzzling Honda truck. Only been out into DTA once, such a great experience that he vowed to never return. G6 and Hooter make up the greatest duo. Loves to wear his "noise cancelling" headphones to avoid the constant questions directed towards him. Should receive multiple diplomas as he has backpacked several people through this place. This man can flame anyone, anywhere, at any time. Beyond this rough, coconut buttered shell, is actually a loving dude. Curtis is a loving, faithful, passionate human being- certainly by his own ways, but nonetheless true. Living for Christ and surrendering to Him, Curtis wants others to know of where the strength of his love and character come from. He's also a man who still manages to be impervious to gates. Once knocked down by one, he vowed to never fall to them again. He's the hardest working man from 1-3 am. No, he's not up doing homework; he's up doing heavy research on the funniest memes on IG. On his weekends, you can find Curtis at your local Chinatown. He really loves Asian..um…food. Yeah, Asian food…He's also funny and will hold you down when you need him the most. To Japan he will deploy and didn't give up his Civic toy. From VB he's coming with his car rims shining. Got the chrome color to show, Math majors don't always blow, especially when you have a car that'll last you for the rest of your life. He likes complaining, talking and going out but he's all alone so no one will hang out. I took him under my wing and now he's like a twig. Good kid what can I say. And yeah Asian… um… Asian food; no cap.

Coming in at an impressive 155lbs soaking wet is George Heinen, possibly the only man who could beat a horse in a marathon. Will it ever be put to the test? We may never know, but George would be the one to do it. Hailing from the oceanside city of Oklahoma City OK, George was a natural on the water. After an impressive rowing career, George capped his time at the Academy by taking up marathon running. Rumor has it the gale force winds he imposes on himself from running are the cause of his hairline receding more than Woody Harrlesons'. George is a man who understands quality, in all aspects of life, like a page out of Zen and the Art of Motorcycle Maintenance. Thoughtful, unbelievably witty, and authentic; George is a committed and true friend. In his free time, George enjoys ~vibing~ in D.C. with his better half. He is the epitome of a true friend and is someone capable of being positive no matter how dire the situation. Nowadays he is spending his evenings filing his taxes months early, collecting garbage on the side of roads, and baking his family's secret recipe cream pie. Dalton is in the top .0001% of lucky people in the universe, always figuring out a way to weasel by in school, PRTs, and life in general. Good thing being lucky is helpful in dog fights! You will find Hill huffing his way around the yard in his Blue Angel-esque, skin tight flight suit. Hill is legitimately one of the nicest, definitely the luckiest, and funny people you will ever meet in your life. When she's not attempting to fit every rescue dog into one household, Kiersten is either finishing a 90 minute ab-circuit or studying for the MCAT she's going to take in 2032… because it's never too early to prep for med school and she definitely doesn't study for Oceanography. That's right, as if flying for the Navy wasn't enough achievement, she plans to seek an actual challenge as a doctor someday. She's the only person that can randomly get up, run a half marathon, and enjoy it. If you ever see something and you're like "man that's cool but expensive" have no fear Kiersten (I can make that) Honig can definitely make it and it will look 1000x better. Kiersten (NHFTF) spends her nights, that aren't at the men's hockey games, "destroying" DTA. Kiersten is fun and the life of the party, but never take your eyes off her because she will absolutely run away and won't be seen again until EOL. Kiersten is one of the nicest people, with a smile that'll get all the moms going (lucky…). She is a great friend and will make a nasty pilot and great naval officer.

It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat.

When he's not in his room, he's defying gravity in 7th wing gym. If you've ever wondered where all the plates are in 7th wing, they're either on Jamey's bar or he left them on the leg press. Jamey has had the biggest glow up since plebe year as he went from a dainty awkward boy to a beefy (still awkward) boy. This was thanks to his daily ritual of consuming 5 milks a meal and spoonfuls of PB in king hall. Despite his body structure and capability to lift massive weight, he is deficient in a few things: calf muscles, ability to talk to females, and speaking at any volume other than loud. When Jamey does venture to his home, he only spends his time with his dog Pepper or his car. It was no surprise that Jamey selected Navy Pilot. Nevertheless, Jamey's chiseled physique and meticulous oral hygiene will allow him to smile his way through any challenge flight school throws at him.

Casey came into the academy with a squeamish 43" chest. Now, 4 years x 365 days of bench later, he has outgrown every uniform with his girthy 48" cantaloupes for pecs. The only thing smaller than his chest plebe year was his ice time. Brick's greatest moment of his hockey career was either winning the Crab Pot with 1 goal against 1/C year, or high school. As CDO of the CPC, Casey was able to keep himself in the 2% club during his tenure and plans on having his own little platoon after graduation… scary. Brick is never too hard to find, just look for some uncomfortably flat footprints and follow them to the nearest fridge or hot tub. Without a doubt, Roondog's favorite pup is going to make one hell of a devildog after graduation, and we can't wait to see the great things he does in the future. Watch out, China.

If you saw Griffin "Diesel" McDermott as a child, you would have never expected him to commission as an officer in the Marine Corps. This is mostly because of the shape of his body. Griffin was a walking girthquake (and still is). Only Midshipman to ever walk into Acme, order a beer tower and proceed to order a Caesar salad. He was also a fanatic Jonas Brothers fan (and still is). Have you ever seen the part in Matilda where the kid eats the chocolate cake? Imagine that but with a mullet and a Jonas Brothers backpack. It is miraculous that he made it to the Naval Academy, but to their credit they denied his first application. That's how he ended up at UMD for a year. As a member of the NROTC unit, Griff was discriminatorily picked for urinalysis an astounding eight times in a single semester. The officers must have loved the smell of his pee - I know I do. He also won midshipman of the month at UMD. But that's only because he could suck a golf ball through a garden hose.

Beloved CC, began his academy run older than most of his detailers. You almost thought he was in D&B if you watched A/N 2021. Frat boy at Penn State? Not his last case of frat. A prior nuke who ran away so fast he flew. He is going to be flying high down in Pensacola giving Maverick a run for his money in the cockpit and on the volleyball court. Big biceps that scare and a big heart that cares would best describe logie bear. A great roommate, but an even better friend he'll fly his way into anyone's heart.

Hanna Prince

Navy Pilot

Hanna "I won't do a pullup out of principle" Prince has managed to be somewhat normal despite being an only child. Hanna spent plebe summer sick with a trio of illnesses, but even in near death made it through in triumph..except plebe year Hanna could be found laying on the linoleum floor pitifully shoving goldfish in her mouth in an effort to dry her tears. You could say that a lot has changed since then, but in reality nothing has changed at all. Four years of experiences that can only truly be described as uniquely disastrous have resulted in some interesting coping habits and a wicked sense of humor. But don't worry, Hanna loves it here. She'll tell you all about how she found herself in Costa Rica and her best stories include almost violent hand gestures and will result in you peeing your pants from laughing so hard. Her happy/sad obscure hipster music, famous margs, and drama-free friendships will serve her well in her mission to conquer the world. Hanna is one of the most driven, fierce, and genuine people I've met, and most importantly an amazing listener and friend. -JJD&LMA&NWC

MLP, Torpeter, Easy Street Pete, Peter Picture Pryharski goes by many names. Expert photographer but also the master of disaster and good times. Breaking everything from his back falling off that tree in the front yard, to Tinder girl's hearts, and a bed here or there. He would welcome anyone he met with open arms, and an open mouth. A stuffy nose was no obstacle for the undisputed drink-clinking king. Granola enthusiast and Tacoma at the ready, this Colorado boy is as Dude Perfect as any. He was known to enjoy mango juice and moonshine, perhaps even a Sam Adams from time to 10 days. From 6-pack to 6K there is no man I'd rather charge headfirst into battle with.

Quin Ramos

USMC Cyber

The stripes on Quin's "standard dress blues" may be intimidating (we've lost count), but she greets everyone with a smile. After finally ditching the penguin flippers, she's been a model midshipman and the spirit in the holy trinity. Quinipoopoo is the most professionally put together yet personally chaotic person you'll meet. Her daily routine includes opening the mess, sleeping in class no matter how much Celsius she drinks, and crushing souls on the ice (you can't miss the fishbowl). Her extracurriculars include simping for TrainOs, deleting and redownloading Hinge, and fumbling every opportunity to flirt despite having the most BDE of any woman in the Brigade. Luckily she'll have 8 years behind a computer to work on her game. Quin is a go-getter who is fiercely loyal to her friends, teammates, and desire to improve the world and those around her. She grinds for her team, spending hours "sharpening skates", and upholds standards with a heart as big as anyone we know. Quin will go far, and we look forward to seeing her excel in the Corps! We'll be front row at 8th & I. ps PLEASE lose the fishbowl for beer league. - JD, IR, JC, CB, AL, LE, & LP

Howard Rigdon

Navy Flight Officer

Howard is the nicest person you will meet. Friends know him by the name of Jittery. Valuable asset to the Karate team as he remains undefeated. Contributions to the team also include showing up late to practice to moss some people in flag. Full of style, 12 beanies just all different shades. Has never met anyone that is not his brother. "Preciate ya brother." The room always appreciated waking up to his Japanese class during ROM. Nice personality does not detract from his ability to swindle. Known for placing the takeout order and collects money from both his loving parents and friends. A shock to everyone pilot was not his first choice as his video game abilities are top notch. One of the greatest traits about Jittery is that he loves people especially if they are muddy. He was a firsthand witness to the ordering of the menu. Cooking with Howie…even though he took up the fridge space. The squadron will love the hard work, brainpower, love and jittery traits that will follow him. Best of luck brother, you will have great success.

Evan Robertson

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Upon entering the Naval Academy, Evan "Second Deck" Robertson had two apparent goals: going to space and becoming the least hygienic human in history. He has made great strides towards both. Evan always figured out how best to invade your comfort zone with spit, fire-hydrant erg vomits, or a suspiciously moist pair of trou. He may actually be the first Marshall Scholar unable to do his own laundry. Ever the connoisseur of the ladies, Evan kept it simple by exclusively dating his high-school flame(s). Over four years, Evan went through four unique phases: one year of puking, one year of studying, one year of depressed insomnia, and one year of drunken proselytizing. Row2k hero, lover of the brotherhood, baked bean bather, wannabe rockstar, and space fanatic, it has been theorized by some that his flaws were just the universe's way of withholding Evan from total perfection. Evan is the most accomplished yet most caring man you will ever meet. He never made it look easy, but instead proved that there is no substitute for working hard, burning the midnight oil, and sneaking off the yard to eat dinner with family. His future is high above, onwards and upwards. - HA, JJ, JG, AS

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Jakey is nothing if not dedicated. From refusing to talk to a different girl for 4 years, listening to the same Beatles song every morning that everyone now hates, to chasing down his dream in the nuclear reactor rooms of U.S. Naval ships, Savage is the true epitome of commitment. His favorite activities include taking long trips to Walter Reed, watching teenagers play golf on YouTube, and sleeping in such a way that you would think he was dead. His wide array of Hawaiian snacks will make you lick the dust off your fingers and need to use the head so badly you go to the bathroom in your socks after a forrestal lecture. Despite his intolerance to dairy and cold brew, his second-hand keurig still managed to pump out McDonalds dark roast every morning. Known as the 'King of Dillos', Jacob is an embarrassingly red drunk but a wonderful friend. Jacob's humor is that of a 6th grade level, and after that Poli Sci degree, his intelligence can't possibly be that much higher either. Jack is a firm believer that playing less lacrosse and going out more increases his performance. Jack is the self proclaimed "King of Maryland" yet anytime we are out, he strikes out. I can assure you when Jack states "I'm done drinking" that is the equivalent of him saying "I'm not in love". Sweeney "Loves Love", which is a good thing because we love you brother.

You would never guess that the kid with a 12 pack just housed a family pack of double stuffed, 9 packs of grandma's cookies, and the cherry on top of it all is that he has not even considered doing PT since the last PRT. The only book Master Oogway buries himself in is the Enneagram, while he's actively unpacking your entire being. Josh has all of his chakras aligned, except when he's the nail on the JiuJitsu mat, then some of them are scattered around Dahlgren. Josh did what he was destined to do, perform just enough to stay a mid, and just little enough that he left himself with 1 option for service selection and god damnit it work! Catherine O'Toole Treseler does it all, and does it exceptionally well. Brought up in her beloved Boston, West Roxbury to be exact, Catherine is the best friend a gal could hope for. After infiltrating 5-1 with Lauren 2/C fall, she assumed her role as aspiring schedule deconflict-er, Camelbak representative, and reluctant mechanical engineer. Catherine spends her time running the Brigade, running long distances for fun, and running to Rickover because her lunch meeting went long. Catherine is highly predictable in the best ways. Invite her on a walk/run? Automatic Yes. See her in King Hall? She has minimum one apple in hand. At the Midstore? She just purchased her third Leuchtturm journal of the semester. 5 min before TAPS? She's still on 8-4 (#Dirty30) or 6-2 (Treseler '25). Those who truly know Catherine know she loves Harry Potter, Catholic convos, her planner to organize other planners, being #OfficialMarathonAux, and a certain fellow PS SL. Where Catherine is, her loyal companion follows - her hydration source of course (sorry Isaac). Though there is a positive correlation between her level of care and vocal volume, her passion for life is unmatched. Excited to see her in the cockpit, we love you!

Samuel Violassi

Submarine Nuclear

Submarine Sammy. What a guy. Special Agent J. Meoff interviewed me for Sam's clearance, he asked the golden question, "What does MIDN Violassi do for fun?" This stumped me, and it hit me, "Sir, Sam likes to do crossfit and homework." Which seems like a rather peculiar response for the enjoyable activities that a 24 year old frat boy enjoys partaking in. Retrospectively I feel bad for omitting some information to the Special Agent, I wholeheartedly forgot to mention that Sam ALSO enjoys eating Chipotle 3-7x/week and sleeping in the stabbin-cabin (climate controlled to 69 °F and dark enough to develop the film he found at your mothers house). Sam is such an academic weapon that Admiral Caldwell himself saw his potential to make a great submariner, and hand picked (SARBed) Sam to do just that! Sam is so eager to get down to Pennsac…err I mean Charleston that he can hardly withhold a smile. Sam, whether he likes to admit it or not, is going to make a great submariner where he will soar the skies of the ocean blue. They are lucky they stole him from the aviators! Hey 5 years sounds way better than 10 anyways.

Tristan Wallace

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

He's commonly mistaken as a 35-year-old chief within the Brigade. This is no surprise. The first time we met him, we questioned why there was a tatted SEL in the locker room. He keeps a pocket of aces at all times, yet finds himself in the most peculiar circumstances. Despite the luck, you can find him doing the most for everyone but himself. Rumor has it, he used to buy my dad beer when he was in college. He's an elder man who loves classical music, classical wine, classical bourbon, and the wildest of women. With plenty of those, he managed to continue giving his love and care to those around him. This goes to show this barrel-chested man has a heart of gold. Tough love was expected from him as you knew it came from a caring place of taking care of his people. He's an all-time guy who would do anything for the boys. There are those who leaned on him to get through this place and those who were carried back, but regardless, we're still here because of him. Tristan is the most kind and generous person, always wearing a smile and making all feel welcome.

Jantzen has immortalized himself in Naval Academy lore. Holding the Academy record for most townies with 'S' names dated via Tinder. The only MIDN to tell the barber his high-and-stupid isn't high enough, nor nearly stupid enough. And the first person to make the Jolly Rogers "cool". When he's not leveling his Paladin, Jantzen resides at USNA North Campus (the UMBC Softball house), where he can be found playing speed chess with his Fiance and harassing her cat Nanz. Jantzen is everything the Corps is looking for in a Marine. A caring friend, an exceptionally hard worker, and a Gunny impression worthy of an Oscar. You won't find a more loyal, funny, or motivated Marine on either side of the Mississippi. Quantico is lucky to get yet another Lt married out of college driving a Mustang.

Brody Armstrong

Special Warfare

Brodrick James Armstrong is the human embodiment of a honey badger. Despite being better than you in every way, Brody's physical prowess, superior intelligence, good looks, and all of his 5'3" are still yet to land him a lady after four long years. This two-time North Dakota Wrestling State Champ came to the Academy as one of the most abrasive, hostile Plebes ("Mr. Armstrong, I'm gonna stop you right there") and is leaving with the adoration of many. The truth is, Brody is the biggest softie you'll ever meet, all he wants is a nice girl to cuddle up next to the fireplace. Thank god his roommates convinced him to grow out his hair and stop being a JROTC weirdo with a buzz cut. Never one to be outworked, Brody rises in the morning with his signature "I s'pose" and attacks every day with the same tenacity of his spirit animal. Anthony Kiedis of the Red Hot Chili Peppers once sang, "North Dakota man wasn't gunning for the quota." He obviously never met Brod-dawg because this North Dakota Man is gunning for the world and his work ethic and heart will surely take him far.

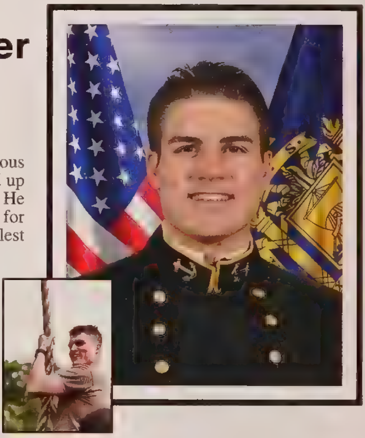
Want to know how money is lost in circulation? Well you have met the chief source of reuse, refit, and refuse to purchase. With feet made of steel and an incredible cold tolerance, he can walk barefoot on rocky riverbeds, bancroft hallways, or hot coals the same. An interesting study he would make for the American Diet Association, anything green will not be found in his palate. A fan of the finer things in life, like dairy products, authentic country music, and a cold one by the fire with some buddies, Connor is a wholesome product of the heartland. When leaving home for college, Banjo is the type of person you hope to meet. His eclectic sense of humor and mannerisms will expand your perception of the type of people who actually live in America. The dude never wears socks, never eats fruits or vegetables, single handedly keeps FB Marketplace & Craigslist in business, and has caught every species of freshwater fish known to man. We were all surprised he accepted his commission, rather than live out his remaining days on his sustenance farm, but the Corps is lucky to have this Wisconsinite join their ranks. Well… have a good one.

Michael Berger

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot



Mike is a man who defies odds. He should not have finished plebe summer, or plebe year, given the egregious dysfunction and malformation of his spine. He should not have gotten good grades, let alone get picked up for honors, given his absence of productivity in anything except playing the guitar or training plebes. He maxed the PRT despite running like a broken down washing machine. He shouldn't have gotten picked for Navy Pilot because no flight helmet will ever fit over his colossal cranium. But here he is, Mr. DTA. Coolest (marginal) athlete on the Ultimate field. Women love him, men wish they had his hair or looked half as good in a flight suit (Don't worry, he'll remind you). Beers in DTA no longer stand a chance come Friday and Saturday night: "Who's gonna carry the boats?!" Attempting to find love in a hopeless place, he will dance and sing, unapologetically and without regard for his own appearance, until the rest of Anne Arundel County has long since gone home. He's like Bob Dylan: decent guitar player, terrible singer, but a true heart of gold. He's a reliable friend and inspirational leader, but he's a really terrible singer.

Reid Bolen

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Reid, like everyone else he has ever met in his life, is a good guy. Reid is a hulking mountain of muscle with a heart of southern gold and the will of a thousand lesser men, has the ability to run further and faster than most, and has the ability (albeit unintentionally) to win over just about any woman who lays eyes on him. He fits in muck boots on the lake or in the woods just as well as he would fit on the cover of Playgirl Magazine. He probably should have just been a war historian (he knows more about the Civil War and WWII than any PhD in the History Dept). For such a sweet guy, he has a frighteningly dark sense of humor. He mastered the prison-wine version of Bancroft Sweet Tea. If you don't want to eat fish and drink Guinness then you don't wanna hangout with Reid. He's the Commander-in-Chief of the Navy Hockey tailgate. He's built like Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson. Ask him about the secret ingredient he puts in his scrambled eggs.

John Bowers

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

From the swamplands of Jacksonville hails this Florida man resembling a demented lovechild of Sasquatch and Tom Selleck. A hardened, blue collar worker from the rough streets of Ponte Vedra Beach, John Bowers started his time at this place with the reapers of the 17th company, until his affinity for CMODs sent him across the rotunda to 3-2. Although the first hairs on his chest sprouted when he was no more than five years old, he truly found his manhood when he dared the thin blue line of the GW police force to breathalyze him. Since then, John has cemented himself as Prince of the Mudholes during his career as a stalwart cross country runner. In his three weeks of offseason per year, you will find the president of the beer savage drinking club wielding the beer sword in one hand and brandishing the mighty horn of ale in the other. During dry season, you will find him done with his honors ocean engineering course load and in bed before the sun goes down. The loyalty of Miguel Roberto is unparalleled, as he has somehow remained a Jaguars fan for nearly fourteen years. No truer swordfish and no better friend, John Bowers will make an excellent aviator and incredible naval officer. Fly Swordfish.

William Brown

William Edward Brown the Fourth. Despite his name sounding like the stuck-up grandson of an English archbishop, Web would be more at home on the set of Deliverance. Widely known for mucking barn and sporting an impressive "tickler" during no shave November, you will not commit any sort of blunder in his presence, sight, or earshot and escape punishment for it. He thinks he's hilarious with the voices he uses to impersonate anyone, but really all you ever hear are variations of the world's thickest Arkansas accent. This results in some of the funniest impersonations you will ever see, if you aren't the subject of the mockery. He's always tired of someone. Only plebe to ever be ordered by his detailers to take a nap. Between a crazy hometown girl and chem, Web enjoyed his Plebe, nah more like freshman year. Know any Mid in particular? Web spent time with them in the back of a U-Haul in the hills above San Diego. Majoring in fly tying, zombie killing, and hobo-ing in the woods, Web arose to the occasion as our company XO, doing a great job and even performed well in foreign relations at the Batt level.

With a last name no one can pronounce, a brain of steel, and a heart of gold, Ellie is destined to save the world. She is truly one of the few people that can kill with kindness and still have the RBF she does. Ellie is the epitome of hanging out with your friends and doing nothing or just there for a good time. Always down to grab a glass of red wine and educate you about Italian cuisine, Ellie knows how to party with grace and eloquence. Despite her hosting expertise, she is in fact one of the most uncoordinated individuals to ever attempt a tik-tok dance or a sport requiring balls. But watch out for her on the track, because she'll dust you and not think twice about it. Hardworking, kind, and a great-listener, Ellie Canalichio is one of the best friends you could ever dream of or ask for.

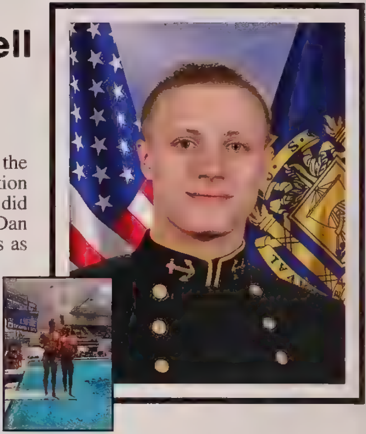
Joseph Christian Capicoy has been my day one in the academy. He is the one who will give you the best combination of logic and roast you when necessary. He is a multi-talented individual who can shrug off an exam with minimal studying and still get an A. He is the one who will cook you food beyond your imagination. He could have been able to cook in 'Master Chef' but he answered the nation's call to serve against the big Russian baddies. He is your ultimate submariner since he can use the nuclear power school knowledge to push a button that will end human existence. If he is not watching shows while people are studying, he will be hitting the gym to prepare for the eventual hand-to-hand combat in a Russian sub. On a real note, Joe is always the guy to laugh at your jokes, which is dangerous because his laugh is contagious. He by far has carried me through the Robotics Engineering major as well as carrying me in Valorant games. Apparently Big Navy thinks he's worthy of maintaining and leading a nuclear submarine, so I guess I have to go with that thought.

Daniel Cashell

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground



Daniel Kenton Cashell is the most interesting man in the world. The hooded warrior (from the worst state in the Union) dreamed of a Naval Academy undeterred by phallic medical affliction and was willing to do anything to make it happen. Unfortunately, USNA officer leadership did not share that dream, but Dan became a living legend nonetheless. A true renaissance man, Dan "I made Olympic Trials out of spite" Cashell's resume of random month-long obsessions is as diverse as his taste in music: online poker, pool chlorination, lock-picking, aeronautical engineering, Yahtzee, golf, chess, magic, underwater welding, lawn mower mechanics, and Pratt Institute graphic design students—to name a few. Dan is as passionate as they come and will always come through for those he cares about. He will make an excellent Marine, even if he can't tell the difference between traffic light colors. Long live modified NWUS (blouse only). NMSD Strong.

John Daly

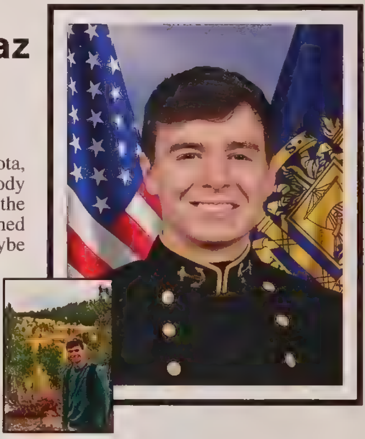
Submarine Nuclear

John Patrick Daly is the master of overthinking. It doesn't matter if it's school, crew, nuke interviews, or women; this kid will find a way to stress about it. Ever hear of the Catholic faith? If you talk with Pat, you'll learn more than you ever wanted to about the Catholic Church. "You comin' to Rosary?" He will either have a dozen kids with a nice Catholic wife or be a priest, no in-between. Expert at being deaf when you want to talk with him, and the world's noisiest person when you aren't talking to him. "Hey what're you guys talking about?" "Bro stop, I have a 2-by-10k tomorrow and I need sleep." "Are those cookies? They look good. I bet they taste good too." "Fine Pat you can have one." "I mean if you're offering." He always wants the girls he can't have and won't have anyone that wants him. His life hit its peak on the floor of the Pusser's bathroom. His kryptonite is the margarita. Don't ever forget it folks, "I am the CC." Perfect for submarines, except for his long frame. Whether on the water or under it, he's someone you want on your boat.

Silvanus Diaz

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot



Silvanus "Navy Shot" Diaz was born to fly…gliders, just ask him. A white guy from South Dakota, part Apache, with last name Diaz? This guy is so fun and quirky! Judging by weight, upper body mass, and overall marching band boy demeanor, one would never expect him to be able to beat the formidable DKJ '22 or CBG '22 in a good ole room wrestling match, but alas, he has accomplished the feat on multiple occasions, probably with some textbook squirming, squealing, and maybe biting. His build could be described as an elephant lower body with an undernourished giraffe's upper body and head. After years of physical and verbal torture from his roommates, Silas is a natural leader, thicc, and a future jet pilot with perfect vision…still has no use for a razor though. His greatest feat of strength was how he quietly carried his roommate through the Aerospace major, although he's too humble to admit his genius. No matter where the Service takes him, the woods call his name and being a stranded hobo for days at a time makes him feel fulfilled. A good man with a good heart, he will be a great pilot.

Heather Feldmann

USMC Pilot

Heather, affectionately known as Centaur, will be the first to correct your non-white socks in Blue and Golds and the first to be there for you on a bad day. Her time as Regiment Commander was notoriously known for tasking officers who had more experience in the service than she had years on Earth. Despite her love for the ocean, Heather chose to live in a fox hole in the dirt. Her intensity is only meant for the Corps, but maybe she can do travel requests for them too, as long as she doesn't eat strawberries for breakfast. Iconic front runner of the Scheme Queens and lover of marine biology (FISH ARE FRIENDS), Heather carried the Brigade during some of its darkest times. She will tell you that you win some and lose most, but this gal takes the W. If Heather isn't working double overtime hours, or googling how to hold onto a rope, you can find her cheering as NWXC's biggest RHRD fan or dreaming of enjoying Board and Brew over a California sunset. Heather will make a fine General one day as long as she doesn't do something silly like resign her commission to run for President.

He will always claim he is the smartest in the room, his perfect 4.0 being ruined by the non-STEM courses he was forced to take. In addition to his smartness, Charles fancies himself the only lightweight rower who can dunk a basketball and hit a home run. Not only did he spend his years at the Naval Academy as a member of the Lightweight Crew team, he did this while chasing the tail of a girl he met in Arabic class. Despite the love of his life moving to Hawaii after graduating, he will be earning his EGA at TBS while his future wife hangs out with the hot single surfers in Hawaii.

Carl Graham

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Armed with nothing but hope and the clothes on his back, "Carl" clawed his way out of the impoverished Alabama low country to make it to USNA. During his time at the academy, he could frequently be found at Maryland Live. He never did figure out the algorithm to the slot machines, but they kept luring him back. In addition to the casino, he was also often seen losing balls on the golf course, drinking ensure for breakfast, ordering his astoundingly bland go-to at Chipotle: rice, chicken, and cheese, shotgunning in Dillo's, facetiming Lucy, and jumping off the Eastport Bridge. Carl is a schemer; probably the most skilled at his craft that we have ever seen. Sleeping through formations, skipping mandatory events, and leaving the yard daily were elementary. He truly is a man of many talents; in fact, be sure to check out "Sky Ski 2017 Thomas Graham" on YouTube. Just do not ask him about his character and competence (he'll be back to that beach to further destroy his legs). Carl is kind, funny, a friend to all, and responsible for giving the Hammer the most freedom in 4/C history. All the best in the fleet, bro.

Of course he can. He can count to at least the 30 beers…uh… contained in each beloved rack of PBR. His pride in joining the Corps is only outmatched by his pride for spending the majority of his time as a Mid below the QPR poverty line. Find me another person more proud of being a General Science Major. That's right, you can't. Hey by the way, have you ever heard of Louisiana? Meet John for 37 seconds and you'll already have an offer to spend a week there. Geaux Tigers. Long live Coach O. "Running is so dumb. Cardio is stupid. I only lift heavy. Benjamin. Benji. Ben. Grumpy Hassen. The Big Dipper. Ben. Only a few of the many names this man has attained throughout his time at the Academy. If you're looking for Benji, there are only two places he will be… The 3rd floor bathroom in the Rotunda or at your local bar. The stories you've heard are all true, the good and mostly the bad. An academic weapon and world-record holder of most scooter falls, Benji has been one of the best friends we could have asked for. He's always corralling all of the team together and making sure everyone's together having a good time and making memories. His taste in music includes spicy licks, which will leave you feeling fired up, confused, traumatized, or maybe a bit of all three. Ask him to tell you about whales and he can write you a novel, ask him to tell you about last night and that's a whole different story entirely - will be the shortest story you have heard. Benji will always be there on call regardless of circumstances, he is one of the most dependable friends you can ask for.

Despite falling short from most amusement park height requirements and sporting the looks of a southern primate, Hoagie is the full package. MIDN LT Hogan, 8th Company Commander, embodies NHF as he can almost always be found working out or bettering himself in some way. On the ice, Hoagie is well-known for executing the dangerous but less-than-occasional "Hoagie Hit" and his love for SWEEZY. Back on the yard, he is unanimously awed for his killer truck, aka the compensator, and being legitimately feared by the plebes he detailed. Raised in the humble isle of Rhode, Hoags was taught the importance of showing respect to all opponents on the ice regardless of [REDACTED]. Oh no… we lost Austin! Nevermind, there he is in the corner making unnecessary loud grunts, unintelligible noises, and scratching his head like a character from Croods. Hoagie is loved by his teammates and his quick wit never fails to come out when someone attacks his heritage. The team and the meat locker will surely miss his presence at the BSC, but the future for Austin is bright. A complete specimen and captain of the munchkin crew, he is going to be an undeniable asset to the Navy.

Sunou Kim's choice to come here after spending two years at Georgia (go Dawgs, natty champs) is one of life's greatest mysteries. Even more confusing is how he only managed to validate one class after two years of college studies, pretty terrible return on investment if you ask me. Understandably so, Sunou was down bad for most of plebe and youngster year, but he did find refuge in playing smash with the boys. Once he got civies and DTA it was over, and we got to see Sunou blossom into the Southern Frat boy we always knew was underneath. An avid gaming laptop warrior, he was able to more effectively click heads as the Astra main for the Valorant team. Definitely a guy you want by your side walking through life since he is fiercely loyal to those who make an effort to be his friend. Or at least the guy you want at your kbbq table because if the 39 years of life he's had on earth has given him anything, it's the ability to cook up some good kbbq and to never let a soju glass go empty.

Patrick "pull T off a [REDACTED] boat" Lacore is a man of mystery. Reliably calm and collected, there are only two things in the world that will make him angry: when someone disrespects his family and swimming. Needless to say, this was quite a predicament for the Swim Team Captain. Like the noble sperm whale, Pat lives a nomadic lifestyle, necessitated by his family moving to Italy half-way through his Academy tenure. Living out of his car for several years, Pat was forced to abandon all of his belongings except that which he absolutely needed to survive: 50 Bud Lights, a ruck, a beer die table, and eleven suitcases of Los Bigotes apparel. Luckily, Pat's migratory way of life enabled him to do what he loved most, bool with the fellas. Unwaveringly dependable to be down for a good time, Pat's loyalty to his friends and enthusiasm for leadership will make him an incredible asset to the Marine Corps, as long as he isn't killed in an EDM concert mosh pit. Raelyn can always be counted on for a bright smile or phrase of encouragement. When she's not preparing to save lives, she can be found helping underprivileged teens get their STEM on or singing in the grooviest musical club on the yard, the Gospel Choir! If you're looking for a buddy to watch Lemonade Mouth with you and take breaks every 10 minutes to do burpees, you've found her. Don't know what musical a certain song came from? Rae's got your back. A veritable MIDS hacker, part-time encyclopedia, and notoriously resourceful math lady, she retains a soft spot for Baby Shark and can be spotted doing planks or core workouts jamming out to some music nightly. What kind of music? Impossible to predict, truly. While her routes to Chauvenet, Michelson, and the range are well-trodden (like, 40-miler well-trodden), the playlist of the night remains ever a surprise. Unless you are prepared to be humbled, don't lift with her. If you need someone to ask about how your day was and talk to if it wasn't fantastic, she's your gal. Between all her spinning plates, she might be a toughie to spot. Nevertheless, she makes it a great day everyday, campers.

If you're looking for him you'll find him always multitasking: reading up on his professional self-assigned reading, aggressively lucky bag editing, sharing words of wisdom about being a parent, or spending time with Ariel, all while chugging his way through his second daily pot of coffee. No one knows what he does with his money, but most guess that 90% of it went to camera equipment and the rest went to the engagement ring. 8th Company's favorite dad and lone remaining member from the original '21, this Minnesotan is one of the most intense and authentic souls you will ever have the fortune to meet. Zach is a rare group 3 major that actually cares about his classes- absolute workaholic. Ask Zach what he did today and he will respond with, "Oh, not too much, I went on an 18-mile run, I finished a book on the shortfalls of science in leadership, spent some time with Pippin, and I remediated two plebes for being absolute weaklings. I also finished my homework for the week, called my family to check-in, went to a SWO(N) meeting, started my next book, and took a nap. So I did not accomplish all I wanted today, bummer. Though, his floor always looks like crap when you walk in the room. After spending 2 years claiming "I will never date a midshipman" Zach became the most whipped kid on the yard, he went so far as to follow Pippin to Spain. His skills as a mariner were tempered in the Severn, although he has a history of falling off perfectly good boats. I am sure he will make a great SWO. There is no other salty sailor I would want leading a division or ship one day, Zach is a selfless gentleman and scholar that will make a stellar officer.

From his early years drinking the water in Flint, Michigan, it was clear Riley was going to be a big boy. A two sport athlete in high school, Riley gave up a life of glamor and prestige on the football field to competitively touch men on the Navy wrestling team. Carrying logs on HP, hitting five mile night runs in rain, and (somehow) charming every girl he met further characterized Riley's time at the Academy as a scene out of Vision Quest. We're not really sure if Riley considers himself to be a cyber guru, a tiktok professional, or a heavyweight sprinter, but we consider him to be a cowboy straight from Brokeback Mountain. Riley isn't afraid to challenge anybody, even if you are a Marine Captain Jiu Jitsu champion who you can't pin. Unless, of course, you steal his car - feel free to crash the hell of it for fun. From breaking legs to breaking hearts, Riley seems to have done it all in his time at Navy. Timothy "Stoly" Stolyarov is an international man of mystery. Before his tenure at the Academy began, rumor has it that he was sent to NAPS in order for the admissions office to spend a year figuring out whether or not he was feeding inside information to the Russian government. Stoly has many hidden talents including being able to wolf down three meals worth of food in a single sitting, napping from the end of 6th period to dinner, and telling you how he gets up at 5:30am to workout every morning. Can't get a hold of Tim? If it's 8pm, he's asleep for the night, if it's 5am, he's tRaiNinG in Mac D, if it's happy hour, he's drinking like a (explicative) midshipman, if it's any other time he's on the phone with his best friend's best friend or playing some form of golf. He has been sporting a USMC boonie for the last 5 years in preparation for TBS and can't wait to get back into the field to say his morning Oorahs. Camille Volk, just a kid from Akron and always ready to finish 'O-H!' with 'I-O!', has had a hell of time at USNA. The start of each day has strict routine (first alarm: 20 mins before, second alarm: 15 mins before, plays on phone for 12 mins, spends last 3 actually getting dressed each morning) but by the end she's a little more prepared to tackle the day. A self proclaimed academic she spends her time with her nose in a book or pointed at a computer screen while working through the rigors of an engineering degree. You can tell peak focus has occurred when she just cannot sit still, dubbed 'the iconic nervous leg swivel', and her headphones are so loud you've got to throw a pen to get her attention. Working late into the night but still prioritizing sleep, Camille capitalizes on her NARP naps. While a generally quiet individual she wastes no time escaping on liberty and was frequently running off deck to explore, nap (again), or check in at Dillos in DTA. Pass DTA collect $200 - (iykyk). We wish her the best as she heads into the Submarine force. Good luck, make us proud.

He can be found doing anything but homework; from knitting or playing the mandolin, to committing in-company frat and forcing his girlfriend to leave the company. However, his true passion lies in flicking a ~disc~ a really far distance, which can be confirmed he is actually really good at. As a member of the flat ball society he qualified for the Ultimate National Championships but couldn't go because of finals. As a Robotics and Control engineer he is the only non engineer in the room (other than the math nerds) however he insists that his major is real. Andrew is an avid outdoorsman with love for camping and hiking and not using soap. He also is an amazing cook which is surprising for someone who likes potato salad in his gumbo. He will always be a joy to hang out with if you are ever blessed enough to find him above the waves and outside of his sinking tin can.

Sean's rapid heart rate and trembling hands are evidence of panic/anxiety, which only makes sense for a 4.0 Aero Major. He releases his pent up rage with 800 trips and backflips (he has the scars to prove it). Some think Sean's proudest moment was his photo finish at Army-Navy Outdoor 2021; however, a moment that defines Sean is the mudhole Sports Night victory (which the UMBC guys won anyways). Seanathan's connections never fail him from his zaddie's billionaire contacts to his plethora of women in the DC area. Sean's music taste is composed of the U.S. Top 50 playlist, which serves him well at many vanilla functions. Despite his deceptively docile nature, he can become the alpha male at moments notice, sponsored by Michelbob. Outmatched only by Elliott, Sean knows how to elevate the hype of any social scene: UltraBar, TPC Sawgrass, GW, Collins Irish Pub. Few men can shamelessly adorn a cowboy hat or a squirrel tail. Some argue that Sean's social dominance comes from his agreeable nature and lego-like conformity (as evidenced by his hair). I disagree. No one with triple 9's on the ASTB flies by the seat of their pants to carry the party. Good friend, great man.

Danielle is a force to be reckoned with to say the least. Don't be fooled by her love of frogs, Christmas mice, and all other adorable animals… she WILL throw hands with anyone at any time. Nothing makes Danielle happier than seeing a cute puppy; nothing makes her sadder than seeing frog legs advertised on a dinner menu. She's somehow deathly scared of tiny insects, but not things that are actually scary like GETTING KICKED IN THE FACE. She makes a lot of claims about other people being psychopaths, but she's the only person I've ever met who's gotten her wisdom teeth "stolen" and then asked for thermo notes to do her homework. Her fashion sense can't be beat, but if you want any chance of looking as good as her, make sure to pick your clothes out the night before because you have to get dressed silently in the dark or you'll have to hear her loud sighs as she throws herself around her bed to make sure you know you woke her up. He is a model midshipman with morals as anchored as everyone's stares when he passes by with his soft blue eyes, sandy hair, imposing stature, and body of a greek god. Jared is certainly a spectacle to look at despite his abnormally small feet. His near perfect GPA hasn't saved him from his cluelessness while being asked to "study" by female suitors who were unaware of his sustained membership in the 2% club. Only god knew what sort of "studying" was actually desired. Jared's true love comes in the form of bonsai trees… sorry Ansley. When he's not entrenched in the hallway on the phone with his girlfriend late at night, he can be found blowing on his sax in the honor court. On the weekends, he can be found either skiing or biding his time to avoid financial ruin. Noah “however comma” Martinolich comes from the deep south where there isn’t much. As a member of the 5351 six-man his roommates complain that he is always smashing in the room. Super Smash Bros that is. Noah will smash anywhere: in front of the door, at his desk, even in the wardroom. Never a fan of following rules, his shining moment was when he got 14 days of restriction for skateboarding in the hall (after LT specifically told him not to). His bad boy days behind him, Noah went on to get a girlfriend who goes to another school and is totally real. As a total chiller, Noah still somehow staffed plebe summer two times. Ever the plebes favorite detailer, Noah enjoyed doing stand-up for the newly minted 4/C as he knows they are the only ones who will laugh at his jokes. Despite his short stature Noah is still reaching for the sky as he heads to Pensacola to start his career as a Naval Aviator (not before stopping by McGarvey’s one more time for an aviation lager for luck). We love you Noah, thanks for being an amazing roommate and friend.

Her dichotomous life is reflected in her desk that cycles between no belongings in sight to piles of clothes that cover every surface (if you need to borrow any article clothing/gadget though, she has it). Aside from the constant oscillation of her desk, Kathleen also loves to keep her vocabulary fresh and her exclamations colorful including some fan favorites of "jeebus," and "bad Larry." She has also learned to fear the sun as demonstrated by her purchases of various SPFs, refusal to open her blinds, and commitment to only running at night. Oh and did I mention that instead of being made of 75% water, she consists of 50% Diet Coke and 25% Guinness? But maybe Diet Coke and Guinness is what you need to reach argumentative excellence because Kath has also spent the past 4 years on the Navy Debate Team, making history for the Naval Academy and reaching heights as high as the National Debate Tournament. Some Navy debate historians say that her and her partner 2/C year made for the best team in Navy debate history. Speaking of which, history is also one of Kathleen's passions and she really believes Abraham Lincoln is her boyfriend. Always the first one to laugh at herself and celebrate others' success, Kathleen will surely be a gift to the Surface Warfare community and the White House when she inevitably becomes president.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Joe Walton, Walt or "Chunder"(when the PRT comes around) is a man of many talents. From his dominant physique, affinity for the opposite sex, and struggle to maintain greek life, Joe is like a shining light on a dark, dark day. Never one to show up for leg day, Joe is often found hiding in the locker room avoiding the meat locker enthusiasts (NHF) except when the cameras are rolling. Surprisingly, his teletubby frame is tough as nails especially when trainers intentionally dislocate appendages. Even though his mockingly large biceps and birthing hips are enough to keep him afloat during PRT season, they have yet to help him secure a girlfriend during his tenure. Joe, however, remains the life of the party with his Pete Davidson level comedic delivery (someone play Fortnite with him for the love of god). Whether it's using his culinary skills that would make Gordon Ramsey rage, or teeing up one-timers with the sole effort of shattering the glass (hitting the net doesn't matter), deep down he really really wishes he just stayed at UMD. Regardless, he and his golf-farmered-tan body are venturing out to Pensacola. We will all miss ya kid, and can't wait to see what a great aviator you'll become.

Justice is extremely friendly, but make sure to only talk to him if you have nowhere to be. You'll be lucky to have a conversation with Justice where he doesn't tell a story that takes 20 minutes for him to get to the point. If you ever find yourself with Justice like that, you can easily confuse him by showing him a series of circles filled with multicolored dots and a number hidden inside (hint: make sure the colors are green and red). It has been said that Justice's spirit animal is a hippo as he may look all nice and friendly, but if you mess with him... Justice is the most loyal, strong, and hard-working person I know. After fratting with the 30th company CC for just the summer, he love-chitted into 9th company where he became a staple member of the 5351 6-man room. Many may mistaken this apex predator as a masochistic neanderthal if they only witnessed his dogged efforts to tear all his muscle fibers by consistently picking up heavy things and hauling-ass long distances on land and water. However, this math wizard can be found studying the finer details of topological spaces and quadratic forms. Caleb has been known to turn into a ghost and lose ½ his body weight every 6 months or so with no explanation, but don't worry, he returns ready to continue beating his body to a pulp days later. Cade Wright

Explosive Ordnance Disposal

Cade Wright, aka the 3rd Uncrustiboi, is an elusive creature, most often found in his natural habitat in Bancroft Hall. Legend says he left Mother B once, got scared, and promptly returned to his rack, only leaving to visit King Hall (his favorite place to eat). He signs up for as many responsibilities as he can, just to complain that he has no time and can't get enough sleep, even going as far as to usurp back-to-back Company Commander billets after love-chitting into 9th Company. Rack > any weekend plans ever, so you'll never hear from him again. A 6th year senior, Cade is the type to get straight A's and then almost fail his capstone. His muscles spontaneously shrivel up and evaporate if he misses a single workout day, and he can only maintain a chest if he hits upperbody 9 times a week. He wears PT gear exclusively; and despite his best efforts, he can endure but can't max a PRT. His skills include: giving the best nicknames, dominating the dance floor at Ring Dance, and wasting several hours each day scrolling through memes. You can easily identify Cade by his 'Handsome Squidward' chin and below average swimmer body.

Good luck in the fleet you beast of a guy. Save some for the rest of us, stay fresh and stay fly. Pretty hit or miss if you know who Michael Zanti is. If you know him, you probably know him as the Rifle Team Captain or from that one thing he did Youngster year. He's happy to tell you something he knows you don't want to hear, but for some reason, most people still claim he's a great friend. Good luck making plans because he's always working on his car or trying to find his future (ex) wife. Regardless of how many times he swears he wants to focus on himself, you can always find him shooting his shot (probably with a minimum of four girls at once). Mini version of Mike Anti.

Either way, the man is built different and awesome to be around. I will always remember Bam hyping up his suitcase plebe year as we were about to all leave for Thanksgiving break. No one was more excited to leave than this guy (I still have the video…). Bam is a friend to all and a fun guy to be around. He is the glue that holds together the base section of the gospel choir. He's a modern renaissance man - He delves into the depths of science to learn more about the world, is an artist, a pinot noir connoisseur, an avid reader, and handstand guy. When she's not planning an outrageous trip, you can find her at her sponsor's house with a bottle of wine in hand, cuddling her best friends even though four other bedrooms are open. She loves to air people's dirty laundry (specifically Noah). Krystyna has an amazing ability to make everyone feel welcome. She also has the ability to make you spend more money than you have to your name. She is mediocre with a camera. I mean she only has shot graduation photos for a few hundred Firsties (little do they know they are being robbed). Somehow she got Brigade PAO. She probably did it just for the 7th wing parking pass. But really, Krys is a dedicated friend who is very loyal.

Donned the nickname "Bronk" (after the NFL legend "Gronk") for her beastly stature and willingness to challenge anyone. Think twice before getting bottomless mimosas with her unless you're okay with drinking way too many and altering your entire weekend. You can never tell when she's drunk or not because drunk Brooke has the exact same wild vibes and chaotic energy as sober Brooke. Don't ask to see her dance moves though because you will likely get her confused with Forrest Gump in his knee braces. You have to say "hi" back to her or she will get mad and make you. Has a deep emotional connection to her hair and thought it wasn't going to grow back after plebe summer, but it came back with a newfound stubbornness. Actually is only going Marines because she was once told she couldn't hang with the hair standards. Wore Blue and Golds more than any other uniform during her time at USNA. When it comes to Matt Cat there are a few colorful descriptors that jump out. Words like responsible drinker, academic weapon, and savvy investor immediately come to mind. While the Law of Averages makes these descriptions true, a few outliers can be recalled by the Echostage Medical Staff, his Propulsion prof for an astoundingly low 17% on an exam, or the FBI agent who watched him lose 12k of his 2/C loan in crypto. With Cat, trust that he will charge headfirst at whatever challenges that day holds, and watch closely because on the off chance that he happens to fail, it will no doubt be in a spectacular fashion. He's the kind of guy who will literally get his arm broken before tapping out because he hates to lose. Matt's competitiveness is not limited just to wrestling. He will do whatever it takes to win on the race course or on the die table, even if that means sacrificing a finger or a $1200 rigger. In all seriousness, a couple actual (of the many) great ways to describe this guy are a friend for life and the very first face you want to see if you're in trouble.

Hailing from the beaches of Southern California, he plays the stereotypical "chill guy" role to perfection aside from his fiery passion for the 1980 "Miracle on Ice" team. He is rock steady on the course, and is definitely not afraid to deliver some of the finest chirps the men's golf team has ever seen. With a grasp on a Miller Lite or tequila soda, Chad has learned the art of the morning wake-up and still delivering peak performance on the course through many nights in DTA, that is if he can make it past the first hour of a party without passing out. Despite any mishaps or fumbles along the way, Chad is one of the most reliable and competent people on the yard and will certainly amount to great things when he joins his favorite youngster cruise running mate in the submarine force.

USMC Ground

"Quick question for ya…" Ever wondered how many county deputies the local precinct has? If volunteer assistant to the junior deputy Ben Eason is nearby, he'll undoubtedly have your answer. Unfortunately, to get any information out of this tight-lipped man, you will have to endure his (very) high volume phone calls or fear for your life after you startle him awake. This fine young midshipman (who speaks almost entirely in dated cliches) stumbled into USNA and managed to last until 2/C year before discovering that there are no commissioning options to NCIS. Although he has been voluntarily sporting a high-and-tight since middle school, he quickly realized that it was no longer his preferred haircut shortly after Service Assignment. Despite chafing at nearly every Marine Corps tradition and custom, we are sure Ben will make a great Marine because he has racked up more confirmed kills than anyone else in 10th Company. At times he has also demonstrated a truly unique creativity in hand-to-hand combat (especially if he happens to have any oranges on hand). In addition to his main skills (listed above), his Marines will be lucky to have the most stubborn, dedicated, and hard-working officer in the Corps.

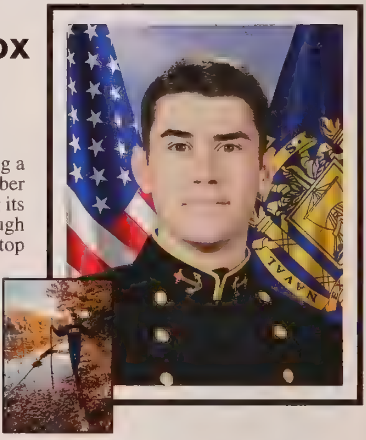
Submarine Nuclear



Though Matt "Beanpole" Fox is a Navy Lightweight Oarsmen by trade, his hallmark is having a metabolism faster than the Jamaican bobsled team. No one knows how, but the copious number of calories consumed seem to translate completely to force on an oar handle. Despite breaking its laws by having 100% thermal efficiency, Matt claims to spend his days studying Physics (although we suspect he is really just reading the newspaper and napping). Being a Trident Scholar on top of his athletics, Matt has dominated throughout his time at this fine institution. Though selected to be part of the Submarine community, it is still unclear how he will fit into one, and we are expecting Matt to have the hunch of a 75 year-old man at our 10-year reunion. There is no one better to be put in charge of 13 Nuclear missiles than Matt. With one of the coolest demeanors, Matt can bring logic and a calm, collected presence into even the most hectic of situations. Matt's the smartest man we know, a fantastic friend, and everyone who knows him will say he has made them a better critical thinker.

MIDN Leftenant Benjamin "Johnnie" "DJ Ben" "Finer Things" Frick has miraculously been cleared to commission by BMU despite suffering from nearly every rare malady known to modern medicine. Many suspect that there may have been strings pulled by one (or dozens) of the members of Ben's Admiral Rolodex. He has always had a taste for high culture whether it be by performing at the most famous concert halls with the Glee Club, playing the organ in the USNA Chapel, or consuming the most expensive food and drink available at the Trader Joe's. Hiking is no exception: Ben's $300 wool underwear, $800 Helly Hanson coat (it was half off!), and $399 zany goggle/glasses has made him a true sight in the wilderness. Only the bravest of men should try to stop Ben from pouring an entire bottle of wine into the pasta sauce. If you are looking for a cheap date, look further. In everything he does, Ben remains absolutely cool under pressure – until the last 5-10 minutes in which he transforms into a hyperactive maniac. We are certain Ben's wardroom will appreciate his skill as a bartender and the selfless dedication he puts into everything he does.

AJ is the best underground barber the Navy could offer. He's the one navy barber who won't consistently jack you up. Although this fine institution screwed him out of getting intel, putting him on a sub was the next best thing for him. They better hide the weights from him though, and don't let him lift anything too heavy, unless the Navy is willing to issue him his 4th labrum. AJ is the walking definition of a chick magnet. Charm 11/10. Hair 12/10. Shoulders 1/2. For all of his great qualities, he has the worst luck when it comes to the ladies. They have either dumped or attempted to murder him. It also doesn't help that AJ is madly in love with a missionary girl who is halfway around the world. AJ is against following rules and was always in trouble, so he decided to become the company's conduct officer in hopes of hiding behind the facade that he is an upstanding midshipman. In all seriousness, AJ is the best roommate I could have had at USNA. He's been with me through thick and thin. I will forever miss our fun times together! I love you, brother.

He REALLY loves his company mates (one more so than the rest). If he gives you the douche smirk, it's game over–just ask his special friend. He is mediocre at everything but a master of none (except Backgammon) - his words not mine. Insists political science is an actual science (it's not) and that he is in the "toughest" major on the yard but cries about people calling it easy. Waves with both his hands or it's just "being excitable" again, his words not mine. Don't worry about competing with him at flight school, he'll be competing with himself on the golf course. He thinks he'll be the next Tiger Woods. The only thing he loves more than himself is sending unsolicited head snapchats. The only man who can successfully acquire two dates to the same ball and lose both of them that same night, Connor is one of the friendliest people you will ever meet and will never fail to help you out. But if he ever tries to offer you gum, you'd be wise to decline. Greatness awaits him in Florida and I know that he will become a great pilot and an even better officer.

Brian Hand

USMC Pilot

For better or worse, Brian Hand was destined to lead 10th Company. Much of that destiny was made by his own hand since he was 1st Sergeant and actively sought out mentorship from previous 10th company commanders. His hard work paid off, as he was able to secure the CC position and practice his totalitarian leadership style. Unfortunately, 10th company's rankings faded along with his hairline during his tenure. His leadership wasn't all bad however, as he frequently practiced servant leadership by taking one for the team (even if unnecessary). When asked about Brian's whereabouts, suitable answers include punishing his knees with the Endurance Team on Farragut or the 2nd floor of Dock Street. Brian's always full of surprises; some of which could be a thoughtful gift, others could leave his other half wondering why. What's not surprising is when Brian goes out of his way to make sure you're doing alright, as he is known to be a kind and caring person who gives much of himself unselfishly to others. The Marine Corps is lucky to have him as he will be a great leader and friend to those fortunate enough to serve with him.

Making his way from Seal Beach California, Luke Harkins rose through the ranks from plebe summer slacker to the official king of the NARPs (non-athletic regular persons.) When Luke isn't stomping the intramural volleyball courts, you can count on finding him fast asleep from his last class until dinnertime. By night, Luke turns into an expert procrastinator and can be found doing anything but homework. Despite looking strikingly unathletic, Luke's prowess for niche games (ping pong, cribbage, you name it) is unrivaled in the Brigade and he won't hesitate to play until you get sick of losing. Even so, his kindness is unmatched; so much so that he'll get asked to take duty every single weekend. On the weekends, you can find Luke mingling with the local population of DTA, but don't let him out of your sights or you'll be playing an unwinnable game of hide and seek to get him back home. Nonetheless, his warm smile and care for others will serve him well as a submarine officer, and those lucky enough to know Luke know that his sailors will be in good hands.

Growing into the shoes of Admiral Rickover, he became the best sailor he can be… a rock-hard helmet. There isn't a midshipman saltier than Phil, he'll make sure you respect him as a prior-enlisted. For a man who fears the PRT more than death, Phil refuses to work out anything other than arms to include curling on leg days, don't let his massive calves deceive you. Most people cower at the sight of an O-6, but not Phil. In fact, some of his favorite hobbies are flipping two birds to a full bird, and serving time as a Bancroft inmate. There is no in-between with Phil, he either decides not to drink or he blacks out (rip clothes). He hates spending money, but loves donating his paycheck to the local casinos. Phil is truly an EDM e-boy, who is swooned by Twenty One Pilots and Illenium, and if you can get past all the thick layers, he's one of the best guys you'll meet. An all-around respectable and loyal friend, Phil is the best wing man out there, guiding others to a treasure he cannot possess, women.

Keegan "Grim Reaper" Loughran enjoys living life to the fullest. A jack of all trades, Keegan is extremely mediocre in many things including golf, poker, boating, fishing, skiing, cooking and talking to girls. This is evident in his platinum member status both with Amex Express and Tinder. He has been known over the years to be a wise and gentle teacher despite an ongoing battle with the angry yet passionate demon which resides inside his head. Be sure to get food and entertainment recommendations from Keegan although be warned that they will all indefinitely lead to the little known cultural apex of Stowe, VT. Growing up Keegan often had to fend for himself, only being given one Audi and a single room in his ski resort mega mansion. Nonetheless, this upbringing made him tough and lord knows now he isn't afraid of getting a little dirty. Nonetheless, his soothing voice and constantly messy hair style somehow seem to work for him and his natural brains have taken him far. A loyal friend and a gifted boater, Keegan is the ultimate buddy for an adventure into DTA or anywhere else he'll drive you at 40 miles above the speed limit.

Jack probably had the most regimented schedule out of any midshipman, he'll play COD for three hours everyday, listen to the drinkin bros on high volume for another two hours, get his butt kicked in madden and finish off the study period by watching a combination of shows on hulu and hbo max, all the while still managing to be in bed by 2300. I forsure won't miss how messy he left the room, but I'll always miss the times we binged Snowfall and The Americans, quoted "It's always sunny in philadelphia", watched every college football game, and engaged in our own version of "locker room talk". From Ponte Vedra, FL, Jack's biggest piece of identity is being friends with Mac Jones. Jack is an all-around athlete, and him getting kicked off the football team is the sole reason we haven't made the CFP. Physically he's athletic not just with his stature though… His liver is a world renowned treasure. Miller Lites (or as he calls them, waters) and Vodka Celsius' around the world fear for their safety when Jack is still around. Hopefully there's a lot more fun to be had in San Diego than here. Meredith Palme–erm I mean Katie Mackle - is one classy lady. When she's not making a sarcastic comment or giving you the nastiest side eye you've ever seen, you can find her killing it on the squash court. Don't be fooled by her face when you first meet her… she is actually nice. Most of her friends would tell you their relationship with Katie started out in fear and ended in love. Katie is from the country club capital of the world, so she's mastered the most pretentious of sports. Her favorite day of the week is Wednesday–not because she gets to wear her flight suit, but because she can remind everyone "WE ALL WE GOT!" This lax-now retired- goddess will hit the wall for 3 hours and then get personally insulted if you even drop a pass near her. She is not a gal to mess with on the field or in those squash courts. Katie's got serious cake–not in her blues, but in the oven. Katie takes her duties as XO a tad bit too far sometimes (literally and figuratively). If you are looking for a nice evening meal conversation, look no further! She will argue with you about what a true road trip is until the tables are being cleared.. But that being said, if you are looking for her at meal, don't bother. She runs a full-blown kitchen from the comfort of 5466. And if you are looking for a good room rant, just say what you're REALLY annoyed about and she'll hop right on the bandwagon and let you get it all out. But if you tell her she's a shopaholic she won't believe you and will continue right on to the online shopping to keep overflowing her closet.

Some may say the best sauces began with the founding of Heinz in 1869, but in reality it was through the birth of Donald Neal on January 10, 2000. Donald "Sauce Boss" Neal. Through his time at the Academy, rather than doing anything midshipman related, Donny could be seen posting videos of himself jamming on his guitar, playing games, or working on his car. There were talks that Donny was invincible… but that all changed once EE came into his life (twice). But don't worry, he got by. Donny's the epitome of the tall light-skin archetype. He has a villain origin story, posts thirst traps, and serenades women through his genuinely incredible musical talent. There needs to be a separate bio for his other half, Tre. Donny's a respectable man who works on his car and just can't seem to get out of his flight suit until he's posted at least 13 snapchat stories. But "Tre" is a bloodthirsty menace to society. Mason Reeves will go down in history as one of the dumbest smart people to attend USNA. After doing an outstanding job in high school and nearly acing his SATs, Mason started plebe year off with a bang by joining the exclusive comma club. This stems from his tendency to put literally any hobby ahead of his work. Those pastimes have included video games, skiing, golfing, and most recently poker. The amount of time that Mason has put into developing his card playing skills is rivaled only by the time he spends looking for his keys, wallet, or blue-and-golds. Despite having plenty of time for Texas Hold 'em, Mason rarely has time for anything related to his girlfriend, even though she is his first. Many speculate that he would prefer if his girlfriend broke up with him so he can do one of his favorite activities: wallowing in his own sorrow. After a life of enjoying sadness, Mason's heart physically couldn't take it 2/C year which led to an ER visit and almost kept him from being a Navy pilot. Despite the fact that a single peanut could put him six feet under, the Navy was gracious enough to gift him a SWO (N) contract, much to his excitement. Sam was only able to match this excitement by spending quality time out on the town, and he rarely came back without making a friend (or two). Sam's love for socializing has brought him everywhere from Bancroft, to the San Diego barracks, or to a parking lot at Catholic University. His many friends are made due to his baby face and his flamboyant hair, which he spends hours styling. Submarine Nuclear Hailing from Buffalo, New York, the only thing colder than his hometown is his heart. We'll see if the atmospheric pressure of being in a submarine might force Barbs to finally smile. If it doesn't, just send Barbs a couple videos of the Yard's never-ending construction projects. Something about a bulldozer doing God's work outside of Michelson lights him up like a Christmas tree. Buffalo guy. A legend among the King Hall Rice workers, Barbs has been known to house entire trays of crispitos before waging war on the 7th Wing toilets. Despite his natural aversion towards working out, "Buck" managed to crush dive school and now spends endless hours shining his chest candy. A tenacious power killer and inventor of the "vet rest day", "Bar-bare-e-show" will spend long stretches discussing reading material with the Book Club, before undressing a defenseman and roofing a shorty (see GMU). The range of his style is incredible as he can go from looking like a homeless couch potato to an Abercrombie & Fitch model in a matter of seconds. Barbs is a man of many talents and (hard) hats. The locker room will greatly miss the sweet sounds of Jon Pardi announcing his occasional presence at practice. Barbs is an unbelievable friend that will do anything for his boys. We can't wait to see what he and his million-pound brain do in the Fleet.

Jordan Bond

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Forever torn between his love for Pugs, and "Ice cold Coca Cola Classics". If you randomly find a spoon on your person, it was certainly the work of Jordan Keith Bond. A face appearing inches from your own as you awake from a replenishing slumber with a startle? Gotta be Jordan. The many items (chair, monitor, backpack, keyboard, etc.) belonging to your desk being handed one-by-one to you while you relax in bed? No doubt; it's JB. An unapologetic upholder of standards (going so far as to strip and wax his floor on a random Saturday morning), you can always expect him to be squared away. He'll drag whoever needs dragging across the finish line, and he'll do it without any complaint, expectation of reward, or drop in his own performance. He's the guy who sacrifices his own PRT time by waiting to cross the start line until everyone else has gone before him. He's an underrated workhorse, a teenager in an old man's body, someone who is very open about who he is, what he's about, and what he expects, and he's a damn good friend. -DMK/BEC/JH/PJH

When he isn't simping or making his weekly hajj to lovely Ohio, Ethan works as a vigilante, answering the call and helping to clean the mean streets of DTA. He never fails to come up with a witty comment to make his buddies chuckle. One time, he told a joke so funny that he was awarded a five day adventure in Smoke Park with special appearances from the OOW and SDO. Ethan never fails to give good advice to his friends. When a friend is stressed or troubled, he holds up his pinky and ring finger advising them to: 1. Workout and 2. Clear their mind immediately after. This method has made Ethan the cool criminal he is today. Between his silverback-like frame, and his ability to glaze audience's eyes when discussing a complex topic, Ethan is bound to make you feel inferior, to include a helpless cat. To summarize Ethan, he's the cross between a gym bro, a puppet master, and Rainman.

Samantha Chan

Submarine Nuclear

Within those six inches between her ears Sam contains the most objectively wrinkled brain to grace the grounds of the Naval Academy. Much to her chagrin, she is often teased for the fact that she truly is the perfect package; insanely intelligent, genuine, charismatic, warmhearted, compassionate and beautiful on the inside and out. In her free time when she isn't solving world hunger or plotting to usurp the United States government, she may be found perched on her well-padded (tempurpedic some have even likened it to) chair, surfing the internet with a speed, diligence, and drive unknown to mankind. No sale or good deal exists outside of the bounds of her shopping omniscience. Much to the financial distress of her roommates, she encourages (enables?) many online purchases, even when engaging with poorer folk like myself who shops as if I too have a Sub bonus, and also because Sam has quite the way with words. You can identify Sam from far away auditorily as she is often heard expressing her everyday life through noise and sometimes yelling as she is being tickled or restrained by Maddy. Sam is a light in the lives of others!

Brandon Cuenca

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Submarine Nuclear

He started with oorah devil dogs and left with an auooooogah. I cannot imagine a better fit for him and the Submarine community. The Submariner with the most motivated haircut, Brandon has made it his life mission to positively influence as many people as possible. Through his roles in D&B, plebe summer, Squad Leader or as a brother in Christ, you can count on him to be there for you. (If you are ever wondering what happened to the oldest and finest D&B, you can thank Brandon, the leader who transitioned them into the USNA Marching Band). Don't dare point out anything wrong on his uniform though … who the hell wears 8 shirt-stays at the same time? An unapologetic standard bearer, Brandon took what he learned in the Marine Corps and that pride in the service and never let that go despite being in a place where that is not the norm. God bless the people who get to live with him and his Gordon Ramsey skills. I wouldn't have had the success I had at the academy if Brandon hadn't been there to challenge me, and I wouldn't have had as much fun without calling him my friend.

The man from the Mitten. Detroit's finest, and hardest-headed. Many have tried and failed to inform him that not having concussions (which is false btw) is not a personality trait. The band kid from high school put on some muscle, and became a stone cold killer (not talking about looks, haircut sucks). No folks, this guy can hurt you 75 different ways. Boxing, Jiu Jitsu, Muay Thai, the kid has done it all. Calm and collected on the mats or in the ring, unhinged at the sound of an insult directed towards the Lions, Wolverines, Michigan, or his mama. As it should be. Despite being an "engineer", he did a statistics capstone AND got away with it. Member of the 2% club (we'll count it). God bless Lauren, she is the only thing that can pull him away from binging UFC every weekend. Sam claims to be filled with "an enthusiasm unknown to mankind", but is really filled with King Hall chicken and weak comebacks. (2nd) most likely to name his kid "Leonidas". I don't care what you're doing, this is the guy you want with you. I will stop here. Sam has killed a man for less.

Molly Gillcrist

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

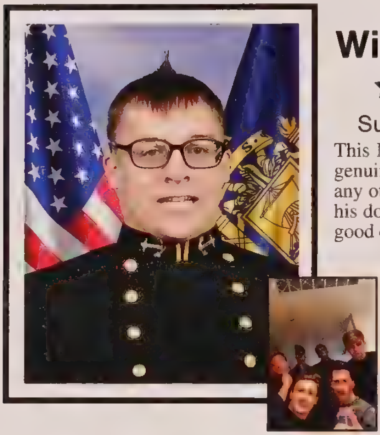
Molly G aka coffee connoisseur, the quintessential "naturally blonde", and devoted athlete. The caffeine content consumed by Molly is extraordinary and ranges from coffee-shop lattes t handmade, steamed-milk topped, freshly ground coffee. Even with a $700 Breville, Molly still keeps her Keurig because "you never know when you'll need it." This is the same mindset she uses to defend keeping every Academy-issued item since Plebe year. Molly's shopping habits continually push the limits of fitting an unlimited number of belongings in a finite amount of space. When Molly isn't shopping at Aritzia, painting professional-level watercolor cards, pressing flowers, or talking to the love of her life, she can be found conducting her weekly deep-cleansing sessions. Her loud nature is a direct translation of her passion for life, best communicated in a, "WAA" or two. Running as many miles as she reads, mind you, she is an English major, one can't be certain if Molly enjoys being fit to accommodate her culinary adventures or to ensure she remains the hot one in her relationship. Molly is the kindest of friends and the best of counsel. She brings so much energy and passion to everything she does and we know she'll make an incredible Naval officer and pilot.

Ayden Gonzalez

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Ayden weaponized procrastination during his stay at the Academy Inn and Suites. Everything from academics to NKOs to this very biography; he'll get all done, just eventually. He started his time here as a nerd on the sailing team (one Christian would contest is even a sport) before deciding to broaden his horizons to join the infamous 11th Company Dodgeball team, whose incredible 2 year-record stands at a single win, though don't ask how. On his Dodgeball off-days he bravely stands the eyelid watch while on deployment to Myrackistan from 1540 to as late as 2100, he says, if not me then who? If not now, then when? Most important to his Naval training though, Ayden has improved in the "tough skin" mission area set due to the outstanding cooperation from his roommates, delivering the highest order roasts and sanity checks worthy of a NAM. Despite barely knowing what boats were, he proudly became a Naval Architect, though some are skeptical it's a real major, the various D's he received would prove this painfully wrong. In the end, Ayden grew to love his time here, though he would not want to do it all over again; once is enough.



William Harrell

Surface Warfare Nuclear

This McKinney boy represents the Lone Star State with his tan Wrangler cowboy-cuts and genuine ostrich boots (three payments) when he hits DTA, flies into an airport, or at literally any other activity. Will is the master of the grill and an IPA aficionado (though he still loves his domestics). He's on top of the world when he's at the grill with a Miller Light and some good ol' country playing in the background. Will's strengths do not include an ability to sleep when the tiny blue LED light on his fan illuminates the entire room, self-control over his desire to try a bite of your food, spatial organization, or bromance. He has spent the equivalent of about 11 days of his Academy career retrieving forgotten items from across the yard and greater Baltimore area. Never would you guess that his Spotify playlist has almost 200 likes or that he has made a fortune on Robinhood. Will took the hardest road to nuke SWO and proved to all of us mere peasants his indisputable kingliness by pleading mercy to Voldemort. Silly-Willy brings laughs and smiles to all of his friends and is the hardest-working man we know.

Paul Hendron

USMC Pilot

Paul is the main character. He is the rootinest, tootinest, ATFP cowboy on this side of the Mississippi and is the reason why we defeated terrorism in Annapolis. A man with absolutely no filter in the worst possible way. Paul never fails to tell you what is on his mind, whether you want to hear it or not. The smartest straight B student you will ever meet, Paul is a self proclaimed code monkey. If you find him amidst late hours of the night, he's probably staring at his 42 screens coding some game. He somehow got a Marine air contract, yet never spoke about it to his dearest friends. The world may never know who decided it was a good idea to let this cyber warrior into the cockpit. Jokes aside Paul has a heart of gold and is a friend you can always rely on to have your back. One of his most admirable qualities is his sense of humor and ability to laugh at himself. My only complaint is that he joined the Marines instead of staying with us in the Navy. However I have no doubt that Paul is going to be a friend for life.

Kensley Henry

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Did Kensley even go to school here? If she is following the liberty rules, something is seriously wrong. Kensley always knows how to put a smile on someone's face. She lives her life with her heart on her sleeve with the objective of loving people. Will workout at 4am after a night out. She has a speech problem that doesn't allow her to have a conversation without saying the word "honey". She taught me how to live a little more, love those around me unconditionally, and have fun in everything I do. Let me not forget her style, shorty knows how to dress and has a clean wardrobe! I am not sure which is more miraculous, the fact that she hasn't seen the Supe or the fact that she managed to secure a family while a firstie at the Academy? Kensley is an adventure, culture, and sunset chaser. She brings joy, laughter, and truth to every setting. Think about that friend you feel a dire sense of loyalty towards because they're just the kind of person you want around you. She will make you smile even when her days are harder-which was quite often. Surface Navy, you're in for a treat!

Hunter Hicks

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

DTA's greatest hero? DTA's worst enemy (more likely)? Annapolis may never know. Hunter Hicks has knocked upon death's door on many occasions and escaped unscathed. This devildawg has managed, by the grace of god, to avoid spending any time on the block or any time hitting the books. Hailing from beautiful Hanford, California, Hunter is known for his curly red locks, his complicated relationship with relationships, and his ability to rally. Hunter is a Marine's Marine. He throws around weight, keeps his hair high and tight, his face unshaven Friday-Sunday, his vocabulary limited to "warfighter," "tracking," and "oorah," and his knife-hand ready to go. No greater friend. No worst enemy. Hunter is loved by his friends and hated by his (many) enemies. Will the hit on his head in DTA ever be fulfilled? God only knows. But Lord if that day ever comes, we know that Hunter will not go down without a fight. Godspeed, Hunter. These next 5 (and only 5?) years will be quite a time.

USMC Pilot

Ben (Jen) Jones (Bones) hails from OAKCLIFF and will make damn sure you know about it. After 4 years on the fast paced East coast, Ben has transformed into a fully-fledged urban cowboy. Ben is uber competitive, stemming from his high school days running against 'the fastest guys in the nation,' while also playing select ball. And despite his excellent physical condition, there may have never been a more profuse meat sweater. His late weeknights are always a product of him being an "aero major" and never his debatably less than exceptional time management skills. Ben loves the sport mode on his mid-size SUV, especially late at night on certain college campuses located in Durham, NC. After a night in DTA, Ben is either your best friend or worst enemy - nothing in between. Above all, Ben is fiercely loyal, a devout Dallas cowboys fan and an aspiring snowboarder.

Davis Kennedy

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

This guy is just your run of the mill six foot something white dude who sleeps an average of 4 hours a night just to have an excuse to down some preworkout before his nightly hazing, has class below "dentist appointment plus or minus five hours" on his personal table of priorities, is both the homiest of homebodies and the Dillo's Floor Sludge's most lively contributor, who manages to find the best in whatever, no matter how s*y it might be, and will take every obstacle head on, with no more than a shrug and a "sorry bout it."

You may be fooled into thinking Davis is a "guy's guy," or "for the boys." Not so fast. Sometimes the temptation is simply too strong. A young maiden? A fiery queen? The company kryptonite? Might have to. Do we hate him for it? No. When you need Davis, he'll roll out of that sweaty rack and answer the call. No bar too far, no beer too warm, no shot too foul. If you ever see a double-cheeked-up king shaking that thang around, give it a smack, shoot him a wink, and have a day. We love you. San Diego ain't ready.

Megan LaMendola

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Megan LaMendola. Haven't heard of her? Come out from the rock you must be living under. She knows everyone. Knows she knows everyone. Tells everyone she knows everyone. Did you know she knows everyone? Haven't heard [of] her? You must be deaf. You can pinpoint her anywhere by her boisterous voice/explosive laugh. Follow the sounds to the soccer field where she is saving some soccer balls (ya, she walked-on). She's come a long way since plebe year. It was a miracle if she made it through a class, Forrestal lecture, or study period without falling fast asleep. Though she may seem power hungry (section leader to 1st Sgt to CC), Megladon is really just a grinder and cares about people more than you could imagine. We say that stubbornness is her greatest attribute because she will poke/insist for you to join her at daily Mass, biblestudy, working out, ect., no matter how many times you say no. If you're looking for some entertainment, she's the go to girl, but also if you're looking for a great best friend, she's without a doubt your person. Watch out Marine Corps; she's coming (but you'll hear her before you see her).

Elizabeth Lowery

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

The Naval Academy's highest-achieving "super delinquent." A multilingual menace who operates at only two levels: mellow yellow and borderline crackhead. After spending a year building character and pretending to enjoy contact sports, Eli found a home in the back of Halsey. Eli "Mah tea-chur haytes me" Lowery manages to sell the underdog role despite being a stud in all areas. Plebe Summer detail proved her a green plebe's worst nightmare. Most of Eli's intellectual threads are incomprehensible to even the above-average thinker. Don't ask her about her day unless you really want to know, and don't trip when she uses her own self-written English dictionary–you'll never convince her that how every other American her age thinks and talks is even remotely common. Eli is one of the remarkable few who are perfectly true to themselves, even if it means pronouncing every day of the week as two words, and being the person who (at age 20) introduced such exotic delights as Ketchup and beef to her family. Exceptional friend to all, malice to very few. One of the toughest, most resilient and reliable products the great state of Illinois has ever given us. God bless ya champ. RAH

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

FAMALAY!!! A proud Caribbean indeed, Khadijah is unapologetically herself. The 'mature one' in the tribe, is all of the great things and then some: intelligent beyond description, talented, beautiful, caring, blunt and hilarious. DO NOT BE FOOLED- as sweet as she seems, this woman has a spicy side much like her Caribbean roots! Khadijah will tell you like it is without hesitation, especially to those that she genuinely cares about. But don't get me wrong, she also has a "Too Blessed Too Be Stressed" aka DGAF attitude. Whether it's listening to her short stories, talking about how disrespectful and inconsiderate people are, discussing our love for chocolate, or hyping up a cute outfit, a day with Dij is always an enjoyable one. She is most definitely one of a kind. You've been an incredible leader, loyal friend, and dance buddy, even though she puts us to shame when Soca starts playing. Don't let her fool you, her hips don't lie and she will put you in a trance with that whine of hers. Despite this 'Virgin Island Queen' stoic demeanor and facial expressions, she is kind and loving. To be in her company is truly a BLESSING. Te quiero mucho!

Thank God for good directions and Pierce McFarlane. This Texas king lifts his friends up with his 'beautiful' voice and 'rhythmic' strumming. It's surprising that Pierce is able to work harder than he types on his keyboard or slams his conlocker at 0600, but he manages. This not-so-gentle giant is the second biggest Cowboys fan in the Dallas Palace and never fails to convey his football wisdom, saying "this is a big play," "we need to score a touchdown," and "the defense needs to make a stop." Pierce is an avid commentator on the weather and will often vocally appreciate the sky five times on the way to King Hall from 7-0. He is an academic warfighter, a mere .01 shy of the 4.0 just because he's humble, or maybe because of his chili brain from rugby. "Did I play the whole game? Did I play well? Did I play in the whole game? Did I play well?" STFU. Will Pierce carry on his grandpa's legacy and redefeat the commies? I wouldn't put it past him. It goes without saying that Pierce embodies what a Midshipmen ought to be: hardworking, empathetic, and a menace at Thursday night karaoke.

Maddy's man is a strapping Navy Diver with a 4.0 GPA and a cute smile. You're wanted? That's cute. The Nuke community literally took away Maddy's dreams because they wanted her so bad. She may have not survived the first female submarine draft in history, but that is only because she is too impressive for them to pass up. You follow the rules? That's cute. Maddy breaks rules, flies under the radar, and still keeps a pristine reputation. Rumor has it she wears her intramural champion pin when she goes out to the bars for a maximum of 1.5 beers. Rich is good at smacking, talking to her girlfriend all night, naval architecture, grabbing your phone as if it is hers, losing important things at bad times, and being funny.
Old roomie, I miss you! You're definitely a true friend, inspiration and lovely person. You stay true to your word. You're a person I could come to if I just wanna talk. Always looking for ways to better yourself and truly care about others. I already see the greatest in your future. Rich is a great friend who has a huge heart. If she isn't getting on restriction for having sleepovers at NAPS then you can catch her in EI. Whether it be lovers, friends, or family when she loves, she loves HARD. You can always catch her with a huge smile on her face. Man BIG RICH!!!! Nothing but good times and laughs! Can't ever count on seeing you out but you prioritize the right things school and talking to your loved ones, can't get upset about that! Love you Rich!

Submarine Nuclear

Hailing from mighty Scranton, PA Christian is a die-hard "The Office" lover. A once Navy Cheerleader (ret.), but now a dodgeball warrior you'll find him in his natural habitat, the 7th Wing or MacD gym. He may be an Eagles fan, but besides that one flaw he'll be one of the most competent officers to grace the Navy Drowning? Good luck, he won't be able to save you. Drunk? Clash of Clans or working out. Late night watch? Clash of Clans. Cool headed but quick with roasts.The all-knowing of how to break Ayden's confidence. His laugh-contagious. His cynicism- also contagious. You can either find him in the house of gains looking for his pec, or watching streamers while making sarcastic comments about {insert literally anything here}. Don't let him fool you, his year long "3 StRipE" billet is just a sham to get out of CDO. But honestly, he's battled through everything thrown his way, and let's just say it was a bloodbath. After our 50 month journey, I couldn't ask for a better roommate or friend. The submarine force is incredibly lucky to have him on their side, and I can't wait to see him succeed

Jacob "Right-full Rudder" Ruder. A man who pursued his love, Karlie, and proposed to her in the middle of NYC as cringy as possible. He believed he was "peak phsyical performance" after hours admiring God's creation in the mirror. Ruder turned into one of my best friends and I spent most of my time in the hall and outside of it with him. Whether we were in Main-o at 2am, experiencing "real college" or in the gym Jacob never left a dull moment pass. He instantly made every situation better and worse at the same time. He instantly kills good vibes with a passive aggressive sigh. Wingman, ladies man, the absolute greatest friend. Food fights. Yogurt bombs. Swedish chef. How was detailer school Jacob? How about your 21st birthday in 2nd wing? Football games? Parades? Class meetings? Formations? Pretty much any mandatory event? The answers to these questions have passed the event horizon and now move into eternity. All hail the lord of extended EOL, the apex of absence, the walking enigma. No better friend, no worse attendee. I'm a better dude for having known you, thanks for the good times. MSM JS JM CR NT

USMC Ground

Oh you're wondering who that firstie in your 200 level Gen Sci class is? Or whose lime green Mustang just woke up all of Officer's Row? Well you've come to the right place. College isn't really built for a guy like James Sills, but boy is a guy like James Sills built for rowin' boats. As such, his GPA sat lower than his car at the end of plebe year, but like 2017 Tom Brady he pulled it out of the fire, and we sure are glad he did. If he had it his way, James would probably be a PS Weapons detailer every summer for the rest of his life. Unfortunately our illustrious Corps certainly won't allow that, so he'll have to settle for giving his friends car advice instead. There is no one more level headed and no better guy to go to for advice. Knowing James is knowing a friend for life. We can't wait to see all the great things you do now that you're free from the infinitely heavy chains of academics.

There is nothing we can say about Jared Simonelli that isn't patently obvious within the first five minutes of meeting him. Is he really that stupid? Yes. Does he run around like a monkey sometimes? Definitely. Is there anyone more dangerous behind the wheel? No, sir. Did he seriously memorize the exact troop movements of the entire Wehrmacht between 1943 and 1945 on the Eastern Front? You bet. The mini Italian Stallion. Known for such lyrical gems as "I honestly think I could get away with tax fraud," "Hey Ma… MA… Hey ma… Oh, I couldn't hear you". Slimonelli was one of the best friends I met and despite all of the rage that is contained in that little frame, there is no one with a better heart. Never have I laughed so hard with and at anyone. He is more than just a roommate, but a best friend. JRR MSM AP

Eamon Spencer

Navy Pilot

A lover of beer, Advil, the Oyster Bar and Grille locals and, above all, his rack, Eamon has been a sleeper pick since day one. For a while we were curious about Eamon's taste, but that all changed when the fire nation attacked, just kidding it was Tisha. When he's not off strengthening his knees with the elite Club Volleyball Team, Eamon is either complaining about his knees or throwing a few back with the boys. An easy victim of peer pressure, Eamon often ends up in DTA despite the slight resistance of his moral compass. Over the years, Eamon has encountered several nemeses, including the upstairs of O'Brien's, the corner of 7038 and Benji's birthday party youngster year. Despite this, Eamon has always risen above, leaning on his good looks, nice-guy charm and (slightly) over 6-foot height. A sneaky academic weapon, he always finds a way to get pretty meh grades despite a love of sleeping through class. Eamon will go down in history as one of the highest performing British athletes while hungover, but will be remembered in our hearts as the man who created the most memories (or lack thereof) while drunk.

What's there to say about Sully that hasn't already been said behind his back? He's a tall, broad-shouldered, blue-eyed glass of water, a danger to all his friends hoping to meet their future wives at the bars, an integral part of a solid D1 swim team, an engineering major who has his head in his homework when he's not at the pool, a future Navy pilot, a frustrating adherer to his team's "dry season", a hopeless romantic who will go to annoying lengths when a lucky lady has his attention, who wonders "what happened to the girl?" in movies where she gets ten minutes of screen time. This child-at-heart will binge Big Time Rush, play checkers against the computer for hours on end, and complain ceaselessly about how all he wants to do is play Fortnite or Minecraft, without actually doing anything to see this passion through. Prince Charming here will make a lady fall in love after a mere 36 hours together, he'll stand the test of maximum restriction, he'll spend his Friday nights in Bancroft, probably watching Friday Night Lights and doing homework (I wouldn't know, I'm normal and don't stay in the Hall on Friday nights), while all of his friends pillage the streets of DTA. Without fail, this self-imposed "Fringe Guy" (see Friday Beers) will go down as one of our favorite people to berate, and one of our favorite people to roam the halls.

Kelly Alksninis

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

When people think of Kelly Alarksniniss, three things come to mind: puzzles, heavy metal, and the Baltic States. Though Miss Alkskinnydipping is famous among the museum staff for her commitment to excellence and her charming smile, she truly shines when speeding down the highway in her beloved car, Remy, and playing music that "soothes her," while terrifying any passengers that may be onboard. Kelly Alkskimmilk possesses many talents, whether it be finishing thousand-piece puzzles in a matter of hours, binge-watching shows at rates that no mere mortal would find possible, or having the highest alcohol tolerance for someone so small. Yet her biggest talent of all is her dedication to those around her and the lofty goals that she has achieved during her time at the academy. Kelly Alaskaninis certainly is a name that will go down in Academy history, and the Aviation community has landed itself a darn-good officer and a fantastic heavy-metal playlist. We love you Kelly! The world isn't ready for everything you have to offer it.

Katherine Bishop

Explosive Ordnance Disposal

The Kat Bishop will happily tell you about how one day, a Luge recruiter came to her town, and her career in the most obscure Olympic sport began. After a successful tour around Europe, Kat decided to bring her talents to the Naval Academy where she swiftly found love across the bulkhead. The future Mrs. Tuley can always be found either bear crawling Hospital Point, lunging Farragut or drowning herself in MacD - anywhere far from homework until 2330, at which time she acknowledges that it will all be left for another day, and promptly hits her rack. An inspiration to us all, Kat coined the wise question, "if you don't have a 4.0 or a 2.0, why are you doing homework?". If you recall Kat as one of the nicer people you remember from the Academy, you weren't actually her friend. Brutal honesty is her only true love language. Kat's wild side and unusually strong liver allows her to drink more Four Loko in one night than water in the course of a week. She is a proud supporter of Wawa (both of them), and will forever be the matriarch of WIST, beloved team member, and roommate.

Stephen Brower

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Steve "Brick Wall" Brower, the Cave Troll of 5151, is a man of many cultures and many favorite IPAs, but one personality: crazy. This Delray Beach "hometown hero" is no stranger to the Florida weather he'll be experiencing soon down in Pensacola. While he may be able to land a plane, don't expect to get through a conversation with Steve without him saying something dark enough to make you question his mental health. Steve also tends to make a habit out of being sketchy, and appears in random locations when you least expect him. If you ask what his favorite memories were at the academy, some would include: the Physical Readiness Test every semester, being on "the block" during spring break plebe year, and his independent research of course. This slight academic weapon somehow managed to be an ~Honors~ Robotics and Control Engineering major despite him consuming enough nicotine daily to knock out a blue whale and a sleep schedule that would make you assume he works the night shift at the local 7-11. Stay tuned to this enigma as he is likely to be seen in Japan sometime in the future, watching anime and flying some aircraft above you.

Peter Brown

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Peter Brown has habitually proven himself to be a man amongst boys in all areas of his personal and professional life. Whether it be in Verdansk, econ classes, 4096 (it's not 2048), or Wordle, Pete is better than you and he is not afraid to let you know that he's better than you. He is so good with numbers that he once reportedly bankrupted a casino after his brother discovered his inherent ability to count cards without error. You wouldn't guess based on the fact that he's a voice actor for Patrick Mahomes commercials, but he is the biggest San Francisco sports fan you'll ever meet, and a staunch Barry Bonds supporter. Pete is well liked for his infectious attitude, well respected for his truly ridiculous work ethic, and well loved for his unmatched physical physique. This guy is going to go very far in life, and even though he'd rather stay in Bancroft than celebrate his roommate's dad getting selected for Admiral, he will go down as an all time great friend to anybody who's had the pleasure of getting close with him.

Emily Bush

ISC

Emily is a literal army wife. Seriously, she spends more weekends at West Point than Bancroft, which is miraculous because her Jeep never works. Bummer, because if she were around more we could see the dogs at her sponsor's. A long jog enthusiast and resident team mom, Emily stayed on E-team all four years to tell the gals stories as if she's narrating a feature film. Em is always happy to tell you about NorCal, go camping, or get up to just about any granola activity. You can often find her designing Wolfpack stickers, playing Xbox, geekin' over squirrels and racoons, or slamming margs at Pussers. She'll always say yes to going out to grab a beer or marg. She might get her drinking habits from her "missionary" trip to Austria. We are thankful for that trip though, because when she returned, we inducted her into the Wolfpack. She is a great addition to 12! She has the wisdom of an 80 year old and brought much needed level headedness (and WAWA) to the pack. We are excited to see which Army community she finally ends up in. Until then, dinner at 1800?

Aubrey Calef

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

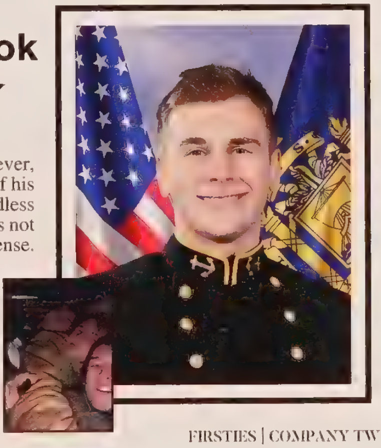
Starting off strong with BCG's and moto youngster (iykyk), how could the rest of Aubrey's career not be just as hilariously questionable? Throwback to the English presentation where she cried over the beauty of nature. California tree hugger much? But she sure as hell has a mind of steel when it comes to fighting for those she loves. Her caring side demands that she have a comfy place for friends to come, relieve their woes and seek advice on the male species – even though her type is race car drivers into hot wheelz (Ricciardo fangirl). This SWO Mommy (not Momma cause she classier than that) can be found buying out 1845 Coffee Shop's entire tea stock or huddled in her rack with the latest spicy novel. Weekends? Spent living out her grandmother fantasies winning baking competitions before they even start. A true queen, her resilience embodies "bend, but don't break." If you need her? You know she'll be there with brownies, EDM music, and a surprising large amount of random knowledge. In all seriousness, Aubrey will make a fantastic officer and anyone lucky enough to serve with her will be rest assured to have someone looking out for them.

Grace Conlin

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Goblin has been a full blown Jarhead since the day she came out of the womb with a rifle in her hand, just in time to celebrate the Marine Corps' birthday. Her one true hero, General James Mattis, inspires her to be the only midshipman to stay up all night writing Brigade emails and challenging Nimitz Library with her collection of Marine Corps history books. Logically, her sport of choice is hardening her body by punching walls and kicking people for fun. A typical night for Grace is drinking her 5th cup of coffee around 0230 and then promptly falling asleep on the floor because getting in your rack is a sign of mental weakness. Despite her personality, which can only be compared to a full-blown crackhead at times, Grace Conlin is as intelligent as she is empathetic. Everything she does is to make herself harder to kill and easier to trust. She will never stop working to keep her friends happy and ensure her Marines get to come home.



Cameron Cook

Intelligence

With the same understanding of social cues as a goldfish and the personality of a golden retriever, Cam's ability to annoy yet be entirely innocent at the same time is an absolute enigma. One of his strongest characteristics is his ability to defy noise-canceling technology and provide an endless stream of words that has led many to invest in earplugs. Cam is a great example that GPA does not define you; as a 4.0 student, you would never guess that he is SAT based on his common sense. For instance, after two beers, Cam begins actively looking for bar fights; sadly, it would likely not turn out well because he has Captain America's personality without the body to match. Although Cam is reminiscent of Will Ferrell in Other Guys, he has a heart of gold and is a great friend who always looks out for everyone. A founding member of the 1800 Dinner Gang, Cam is kind to everyone and seeks to include anyone willing to respond to his incessant GroupMe messages. If more people had Cam's heart, the world would be a better place, and if more people had Cam's stomach, the Big Cheese would be a franchise.

Brendan Corcoran may seem like a pleasant and charismatic member of society but his true friends know this is a ploy to avoid exposure of his psychopathic tendencies. The true Brendan is only witnessed in the wee hours of the night when he stitches the same stitch on a leather belt for three hours straight. He feels no emotion when women fall for his "mysterious cowboy" online personality. Brendan has boots for every such occasion, whether that be walking to Dry 85 to drink alcohol that no one likes… or walking to Dry 85 to drink another kind of alcohol that no one likes. If the Texas Ranger was the last human left on Earth he would not workout; this would be because he'd have no one to brag about how long he rucked this morning. Brendan's mother confirms that the man's first words as a baby were "Howdy Y'all" followed by a two fingered salute. Brendan will be roaming the plains "Somewhere Down in Texas" with either his summer or winter cowboy hat 'till the day he dies.

What can be said about Anthony… soon to be Dr. Cossetti? He goes by many names, Tuna, known by his former baseball teammates, Spaghetti, or Antwan. He hails from the Philadelphia area, "the city of brotherly shove," fitting for his aggressive personality. It's not a Tuesday night if you can't hear Anthony slamming a chemistry textbook and yelling in frustration at 2am. No one can argue that Anthony is driven, by enough caffeine to kill a water buffalo. All things considered, by some miracle, Anthony has the cleanest record and best resume in the room. Medical Corps selectee, chemistry major with a biochem concentration (can't forget that, he won't let you), former D1 baseball player, and already engaged. How long has it been? Doesn't matter, true love is true love, even if she is Canadian. Aside from his love for authentic Italian food and real Philly Cheesesteaks (wid-o-widdout), he is a seafood aficionado, ask him the best way to eat halibut. Needless to say, Anthony worked hard to get this far, Navy is lucky to have him in their ranks. I hope he never forgets where he came from… free medical care after the military would be nice.

Nicholas Forys

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

In his time here Nick has successfully built a travel agency empire for extravagant vacations, luxurious airbnbs, and sleek rental cars. The only thing missing perhaps is the touch of a fine YOUNG woman. As a commuter, he spent many a night cooking supper for Elliott, Eddie and our beloved guest T-T-Tina. While staying off the yard, Nick mastered his Gordan Ramsey skills and perfected the pilgrimage to the bars. He's a hard worker, and an immaculate scholar and though he often humbly donated the fruits of his labor to the fine establishments of Dillos, Pussers and O'Brien's, nothing quite suited his fancy as well as the YOUNG crowd at ACME. Nicholas is truly the life of the party: He's the first to start it and stays running strong long after it shuts down. When he indulges it truly shows, although I'm not sure if his redness is his blush or the carpet burns (just wait til he emerges as a beautiful butterfly). Nick embraces the work hard play hard mentality, and this will take him far in Pensacola, as a Pilot, and in life. He will bring the energy (but never the girls) wherever he ends up. He would make a great leader. He would.

The hardest decision Mike "Mugman" Garnett has to make every day is whether he's going to wear his ten gallon hat or his freshly shined helmet on his aggressively tiny head. You know when Mike is in the bar, because you'll be blindsided by an ungodly stench and shortly after you'll hear him yelling "It was me!" His favorite hobbies include: taking pictures of animals he didn't actually hunt, running away from his friends after two drinks, and making sure everyone he comes in contact with remembers the Alamo (which isn't real). Mike is a white claw drinking, cowgirl boot wearing, temporary tattoo having short king that truly makes people's lives better. Among the first things on his to do list after commissioning is that he has a bone to pick with Ferdinand the Bull on the Iberian Peninsula. He will never say no to a good time, and this VAB is always willing to lend a helping hand to someone who needs it.

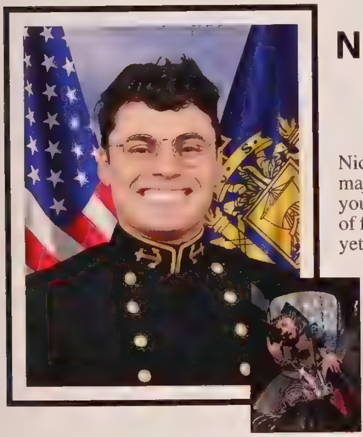
"CC HERTELENDY" though her name may have many different pronunciations there is only one Ciera Hertelendy. Strangers sometimes ask her to be their body guard. She has survived a torrential storm. She LOVES H&M clothing, Outback Steakhouse, and teenage humor. CC is easily one of the best people to know at USNA. You never know who you're gonna get, either a nice girl with stale dad humor or someone who's ready to aggressively kick in doors and throw tomatoes. No matter the occasion, CC is the life of the party and her smile/"Hey Buddy!" will make your day. She's one of the few people to take seriously when she says "DTA not ready for me" so if she's had a few, do yourself a favor and make sure you stay out of her way…just ask any of the Army women's basketball players. CC's superpower is one that most men wish they had – being able to attract the attention of any girl at the bar. So if you guys are looking for a girlfriend, hang out with CC long enough…you might just find one. CC is the greatest person you will ever meet. Next stop: Cali babbyyyyyy!



Nicolas Hugh

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Nick Hugh is a natural born leader, specializing in leading people astray. Nick is a true economics major, always finding an easier way to do things… generally from the comfort of his rack, where you can find him literally any time he isn't hurling himself from a plane. He is an expert in the art of finesse, a proud member of the comma club, with only one SAT grading period in his time here, yet he has never had a brush with an ac board. While Nick is a part of the 12th company wolfpack through and through, he has spent more than his fair share of time in Smoke Hall with 31st company. The only thing crazier than his weekend antics are the women he has dated… turns out red hair is in fact, a red flag. If there is one thing Nick knows how to do aside from parachuting, it's having an inspection ready uniform, with some helpful "coaching" from the likes of his Battalion Officer, The Deputy Commandant, and the Commandant himself. In the words of one spectator at Ship Selection, "that's a man that's just happy to graduate." Main or die!

Nathan Hyden

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Hailing from the state of many lakes, Nathan "NATO" Hyden is a product of Minnesota hockey. A mere 7 rounds away from getting picked up in the NHL draft (probably), Nate took his talents to Wisconsin for a year before he realized how much he missed living in his brother's shadow and decided to come to USNA. An avid online shopper, NATO's wardrobe has a special place in Navy Hockey lore. When NATO walks in the locker room on gameday, one could scarcely utter the words "Wow" before the room complements. NATO could always be counted on to score a big-time goal and fire up the boys. He brings a genuine passion for the game and for NHF. Despite only working out when the cameras were rolling, NATO's occasional visits to the meatlocker were cherished by all. Nate Hyden is a guy you can count on, and one who is respected by all… especially older women. Nate will forever be remembered by future Navy Hockey teams, even if it's only through the Hyden warmup (presumably named after his brother). Watch out Pensacola! When Nato gets down there, the skies will be safer than the local moms. Dibs on 23.

Dalton Jackson

Naval Flight Officer

Dalton "Salty" "Cuphead" Patrick "Swayze" Jackson, born the son of THE Colonel overseeing a fried chicken empire covering the globe, accepted an appointment to the Naval Academy on the false promise of a brand new mustang. This promise was made to him in fourth grade, when he stood as tall as he does today, a powerful 5 foot 7, with shoulders wider than door frames and chest hair keeping him warm in the winter. When he speaks to you it may seem as though he's looking somewhere else, but don't take it personally, his nose is simply pointing in the direction of the nearest food source. When he's not imposing his male dominance over an unlucky little Timmy, he's looking for one of his four vapes that he has in a constant rotation. In all seriousness, he is a crooked-nosed, barrel-chested softy who you can trust with your life, rely on for a laugh, and wallop with unrivaled class. All love for this VAB.

Jacob Jancek

Jake "don't tell anyone my middle name is Worrie" Jancek is one of the most determined people I have ever met. In his first attempt at high-jump, Jake kneed himself in the face, concussing himself. Later, he broke his back trying to pole vault. As painful as these were, they did not stop Jake. Away from the track, Jake had an incredibly clean conduct record at the academy, reflective of the fact that he somehow never was caught. He also possesses the most heightened senses of anyone I know. His ability to hear someone chewing a bagel from across the room while wearing noise canceling headphones is truly remarkable. Further, Jake lives with a strong code of integrity, which is shown through his brutal honesty. While this can easily be confused for bullying, it's actually just the way Jake shows love. You could not ask for a better friend than Jake. He will be there for you at the drop of a hat, no matter what you need. He is the epitome of a ride or die and those who are fortunate enough to become his friend will have found a brother for life. #NoFoldertoRecordHolder

Known to those in his classes as Mike Garnett's best friend and roommate, Jimmy "the Adj" Katson is a friend to many. Jimmy likes to keep to himself on the weekends, usually hinting at vague plans such as "going home to McLean." You can be sure Jimmy will always be there for you if you need him, even if that is at 3am; just shoot him a text and give him about five minutes. It's a safe bet he's not sleeping. Running solely on Colombian coffee and enough mint tea to kill a horse, Jimmy excels at his chosen craft, whether that be a not-so friendly game of footy, throwing down parlays, as the greatest adjutant the Brigade has ever seen, or exercising his uncanny ability to make anybody feel uncomfortable. In a stark aberration from the expected, James decided that nuke school sounded fun and enthusiastically signed himself up. In fact, at the time of writing, he has actually recently passed his nuke interview. Congrats buddy! Jim is truly selfless, a champion of women's rights, and a man of deep cinematic appreciation. We wish Jim the best in Japan. The surface nuclear Navy is getting a good one.

During the darkest of times at the academy, Nick carried morale on his back. Whether it was the sweet chords of his guitar shaking the walls with his amp, dog photos, or loud music. Nick could, and can be counted on to raise morale. Not only managed to make bank service selecting subs, but secured an ivy league woman way out of his league, for whom he will one day become a trophy husband. I pray his sub lives up to his standards of cleanliness. Infectious spirit, and a friend who's always there, whether it is to vent or construct a bootleg social media site. Above-average EQ and below-average tolerance for BS are married together perfectly in Nick. Can be found absolutely shredding into the wee hours of the morning in which he will then rely on a sweet jolt of energy from a nitro cold brew and zyn packet. Belongs to the religion of the Cincinnati Bengals.

CMO may graduate with a bachelor's in political science, but less commonly known is that he will also receive a PhD in the Irish Exit. It was hard to tell if CMO took any classes as he was always watching Bravo TV or the Bachelorette. CMO showed his full commitment to this institution on the weekends. He could easily be found in the closest drinking establishment. You would never want to bet against CMO, no matter his state of mind. After spending his early mornings sleeping on a drenched bed in the pencil position, you could find him on a 10 mile run at a 630 pace, or taking two final exams. A model midshipman, he redefined the limits of doing the bare minimum. His clean conduct record is a feat of nature considering his lifestyle. You can always count on CMO to buy you a drink, give you a place to crash, and avoid King Hall at all costs. Despite his casual demeanor, Chris is perhaps the most caring and thoughtful friend someone could ask for. He looks out for others always, and is as loyal as they come. He's got a big heart to match his towering stature.

Max Oberman

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Max will tell you all that you've never wanted to know about Iowa and his two older brothers in the Navy. Has he tried to set you up with them yet? Somehow he manages to make everything he says sound like the most exciting thing since sliced bread. But of all the stories he tells, the only one we actually want to know is the truth about the closet tinkler. We know it was you. Max can often be found chatting up some LT in their office. While not schmoozing, Max can be found boozing in DTA or dying on any hill in any argument about anything. No hill is too small for Max. To this day has never turned down a beer no matter the time or place. His "oOoOoOoO-RAH MaRINE Corps! sEmpEr FI!!!!" can be heard echoing down the streets of DTA on a quiet night. With the least Bancroft-like room on 7-1, Max hosts much attended reality TV nights. He is known in Paris for his excellent pronunciation of si voo play and in Japan for sleeping in 7-11's. A better friend can't be found, and we look forward to seeing where Max ends up, but no matter where he is, you will probably hear about his dead dog, Tango (RIP Taco).

Ai Robbins

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

That primordial squawk, squeal, bark or grunt you just heard? Probably came from Ai Nagata Robbins. The creature hails from Yokota, Japan, where she made Tokyo nightclubbers jealous of her freakishly good sense of rhythm. The extra surface area her flat feet have in contact with the ground must let her pick up on vibrations better than most people. It also makes her dress shoes look like deflated balloons and is the reason why her bunions swell to the size of little nuts. And don't even start on her toes. Jazz enthusiast, with an overall impeccable music taste (probably because she's always on aux and never in the driver's seat), lover of ugly dogs, food connoisseur, and the perfect definition of "crackhead energy", you can find her single-handedly funding 49 West Coffeehouse during her studious escapades, searching up Mike Wazowski memes, or by the garlic odor emanating from her room because "King Hall is just so gross." Listen to her try to swindle a free drink by speaking in a British accent, bark in approval, or her chaotic conversations with her sister to immediately brighten your day. Wise beyond her years, and owner of the largest heart and most open ears. Her vibes? Immaculate. So is her fashion sense. No better friend, no worse enemy (and you never know which one you'll get from her). Even though she didn't know she wanted to be a Marine until one day before service preferences were due, her work ethic, endless compassion, infectious energy, and charisma make her an invaluable addition to the United States Marine Corps. They got a good one. Bark.

Never seen a mountain he couldn't climb but just can't seem to climb his way into a relationship. If you didn't know Logan was from California, don't worry, he'll tell you. Logan is excited to be a Marine, but he was secretly hoping for the golden handshake so he could nurture his inner Alex Honnold. Did you know that Logan sews? He has plenty of other cool masculine hobbies too, like… painting? Or making backpacks! You'd never know he was an Aerospace Engineering major based off of his charming and rugged good looks. If you want, though, he'll be happy to tell you about his research, and if you're able to stay awake, you'll be an expert on thermoplastics in no time! He also has a very distinct chuckle and voice- "Huuh huh uh hhuhhh". One of the boys, but can also be approached by the girls, though never in a romantic sense. He's going from overachieving at the Academy to testing his mettle in the Corps. If it doesn't work out though and you end up living in the Subie out West, just know that we're all very disappointed. Our Japanese Prince. INDOPACCOM member. Granola guy. Log Dog.

Elliott Schultz

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Elliott "tinder-swindler" Schultz, son of the PC colloquial and Swordfish. Who is he? One of few to attend Navy Day School while living as a free-man. Many say his only claim to fame is a silly plebe video he made, but he makes real money playing rage-cage circuits on the worst die table in history. Elliott spends much time in the buck (but none doing the "Pho"): Grand Canyon, Garden of Eden, even Black's Beach. Overlooking Winslow's high plains, he soared like a manscaped eagle into the gorge below, baptizing himself as a legend among men. BigWalt will keep flying Navy, proving he doesn't need 2 pounds per inch to soar like the breeze. As a Swordfish, he never quit giving his all for his brothers through east, west, worst, or best as a runner and videographer. The gamblingman is willing to skirt the law to get the job done for him and others. Youngster year and beyond, his secret batmobile Big Blue (balls) got him in-and-out of trouble. From outsmarting gate 8, or should I say fivveeee?!, "hard" ROM, and failed summer-school, Elliott's confidence seldom fails him. But as soon as he's curved by a broad, he swears he's a man of God. "The Planner" knows how to maximize the fun wherever: Clay St, SD, Georgetown, Jax, YONKERS. As he rolls deep with the bird scooter gang, "birds of a feather…" he remembers his boys (only requirement for good time) and protects against any rivals with iron fists.

She's 12th company's therapist, but like, the one that yells at you and tells you to get it together for therapy. She has one blanket for every time she executed a march-on, and I can't remember a time she wasn't planning her move to Pensacola (she's coming, Duchess). She's a fierce friend, a prolific napper, an unbothered queen, and she's gonna be a hell of a pilot. Go get em, Eds.

Elijah Stewart

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Born in the arid tundra that is North Dakota, Eli was the only child in his grade school until freshman year of high school. He lives by FDR's timeless words, "speak softly but carry a big stick." When he decides to speak, Eli adds unnecessary syllables to all his words. Surely, this Lucky "Baege" bio will not convey his calm, cool and collected demeanor. He has a knack to sense imminent danger, conveniently removing himself from a party when it's sure to go awry. (i.e. The Night of the Fatal Fives) Standing at 6'9" Eli is a gentle giant giant, but a psychoanalysis would tell you it stems from being the runt of the litter, with two sisters standing at 7'7" and 7'9". You'll never know the reason for his giddiness, it could be a nap, a good lift or maybe even some squeeb. 7th wing's personal XO, he's been known to break necks in the gym-so you best rerack your weights. If you're lucky enough to cross paths with this larger than life teddy bear, he'll surely be the first and last person you'll ever meet from North Dakota.

Frank the Tank has the thickest ankles of any midshipman ever at the Naval Academy. He came into the world with a high and tight, the vocabulary of a seasoned sailor, and a Bud Light. Growing up behind the bar and in the backwoods of Mass, this future jarhead has been known to steal the hearts of anyone that locks eyes with him. It could be his raspy voice, or maybe his nose…who nose. He even dropped his entire second class loan on a mint truck- "Wanna buy it?" This future Marine Aviator has a heart of gold and is not afraid to tell others where they can and cannot vape. Might just be a Dunkin Donuts CEO one day. To this day he has never been spotted without a Bud Light bottle in his hand, and is a regular at every bar on the east coast except Dillos. While Mr. Big Chest barely fits into a pair of chubbies, he blames his lack of squat depth on the 7 different knee surgeries from the physically demanding sport of soccer. In the end Franky is the guy you want in your corner, he'll always have your back no matter what.

Though he wasn't quite who his roommate expected on I-Day, he's better at basketball than we could've ever imagined. He's an overweight tin of Tiger Balm. He's the Navy Men's Tennis Captain, former Rookie of the Year, etc. who for some reason still prefers any other sport to tennis. He made it 7 semesters and 1 month without getting kicked out of tennis practice. According to him, "My door is open except when it's closed"… which is all the time. He hasn't an ounce (or shall I say gram) of American cultural awareness. He mispronounces words like "Adidas" and "weekend" without apology. He'll never say no to a boy's night out, of course followed by the obligatory "Can Jess come along too?" Speaking of Jess, where is she? Oh yeah, Derrick got her kicked out of 12. Big D farts in his sleep and chases down his cocktail of vitamins with goose excrement every morn. The lad manages to misplace everything, except his super squeaky shoes which he won't change because "they're comfortable." He bought a $1500 bike and rode it once. Somehow he's aged 10 years in 4. He accepts wumbo with a stoic resolve. Derrick Thompson everybody!

It's a quiet Wednesday night, time is 0300. You're deep in sleep after a long exhausting day, dreaming about a tropical beach, escaping from the realities of living here in USNA prison. "MEEHHHHH!" You're alarmed and jolt awake, thinking to yourself what that noise is?! The door slams shut. You peek to see who could possibly be inconsiderate and loud at this hour: it's Victoria Tran…Lover of a massive CHONK dog that goes by the name of Koda. Believes that she would be a Corgi if she was a dog, when in actuality checks all the boxes of Chihuahua energy: chaos. Have you ever seen her sleeping? Probably not. She's likely roaming the halls looking for her issued USNA gatorade bottle that she manages to misplace all the time, but when found is never seen more than 15ft from her. If you ever convince her to go out with you on the weekends to break her involuntary "dry season" of 2 years, she's guaranteed to step out in spirit gear. In all seriousness, she's an absolute unit in futbol (mad feet skills, making ESPN Top 10); an absolute genius in the books (cough effortlessly got into grad school in Scotland cough); has the biggest heart (will listen with open ears for hours so you can vent it all out). Some say she was made for the Marine Corps, but the depths of the sea became her true calling for duty. The nuclear underwater tube club is blessed to have such a caring, competent, and dedicated leader. Semper Deep Sub-MARINE-r!

Samuel Vagner

USMC Cyber

Sam Vagner has lived up to his name LTCOL Leslie Dancer in his time at the academy. Having rolled his ankle more times than the Rolling Stones have rolled stones, if you ever need to find Sam you can often find him on the sides of the tennis court cramping every physical muscle in his body. If he's off court he is probably in hopper with his head in hands mumbling algorithms to himself, or in DTA strolling between the bars, smoking cigars and drinking whiskey. Sam Vagner takes a serious approach to everything in life. After being called abrasive in MIDS peer evaluations for the past three years you would think Sam would be more approachable. You would be wrong. Sam has used this traumatic experience to push himself to become more serious in every aspect of life. An amazing addition to the Marine Cyber Team, Sam can always be trusted to add more work than necessary with his perfectionist mentality. All jokes aside Sam is without a doubt one of the greatest and most caring guys you will meet at the Academy and will go through hell and back for his friends.

USMC Ground

The King of Cap, the self-proclaimed most athletic amongst us, the Squeeb' master himself but known to all as Huncho. Since the days of Plebe Summer and sweating 3x the amount of any normal person, he has sworn to us that he would've gone to the league if he hadn't gotten hurt, simply for being the "ideal male height" at an impressive 67 inches tall. You are lucky to know him and his cordial personality, but you surely know his stigma as well: he could without a doubt sell an eskimo their ice with his expert gaslighting. With more commitment issues than Bruce Wayne, this 'Dark' Knight will surely tell you he might follow through with the weekend plans, but you can rest assured that you are one of his many maybes. While all of us here have merely adopted the dark, he was born in it-molded by it. Brandon's vocabulary is limited, not because English is his 2nd language but simply because he fights with his hands down-and wins- and he's got the heemers' to show it. Plus a sprinkle of CTE. When he's not flaking he's the life of the party and a great friend.

From I-Day, Dre made a big mark. On our company, on the floor, and on his face. When not on concussion protocol or taking souls on the football team, he can be found in DTA. And you SHOULD find Dre in DTA. His taste in drinks is questionable (green apple Crown???) but he is the best drinking buddy you could ask for. He'll roast you, hug you, buy you a drink, tell you the funniest story you've ever heard, and do it again night after night. Dre is always a good time, and always there for you in the bad times too. He's the king of running jokes, grudges, drunk pasta-cooking, and late night wardroom talks. Don't touch his hair, don't touch his food, don't touch his toes, do touch the ceiling, and you have a friend for life. A big man with a bigger heart.

When he's not going to the movies in civvies or browsing Twitter in class, the Yuldabeast is likely chasing his daily bench PR. After watching countless hours of Lamar Jackson highlights, Kyle often gets around to doing some work at around 1 in the morning - as long as work means sending a text to his classmates asking about a cyber lab. While his past is mysterious, many will tell you how violent he is after the Ravens lose. Most don't know but him and Brandon Volontiya are actually twins - especially when they start their podcast. After a couple of beers, Kyle will show you why people call him the Patrick Bateman of DTA, which he uses for his elite vision when it comes to squeeb. Although disputed, he claims to have the best heemer in company. If you're reading this it means they haven't recalled the Lucky Bags yet once Kyle is revealed to be a sleeper agent. Always ready with a joke to crack to lighten the mood in any situation, his short frame, massive heart, and big back will make one hell of an NFO.

Hailing from sunny San Diego, it's no coincidence her initials are GPA. She survived Plebe Summer by the strength of the links in her cable, but quickly decided to find a new chain due to some unfortunate circumstances involving "you know who". We began our bond through our "first date" at Top Golf, but that quickly expanded after her Firstie fall semester. Giselle's love for cheer kept her sane until those cursed stripes hit her collar, but you know what they say, "firstie brass, youngster … prior?" Although her dad has more Instagram followers than her, Giselle is still a driven, hard working, amiable person that will make a great addition to the SWO community. Just promise us when you make it big to start laying off the alcohol, tomatoes don't make good leaders. Promise no tickle fights while you're gone and next time you decide to wax the floor, make sure you bring a diving board. We love you and are so proud of you, Giselle "Gizzy-Wizzy" Alota. Until Paris…

A woman with a heart of gold, and a fiesty, fiery, fearless friend for life…If there was such a thing as a Diva Viking, Alexa is exactly that. If its not up to her standards you better get out of her way because the fiery red head will come after full force and I do mean physically… she even bites like a vampire " Diva Vampire Viking girl"..I often compare her to the Tasmanian Devil because she is crazy…This is the type of woman you want to have in your corner throughout life. Don't let her go too long without food because she turns into a creature. ...One minute she's telling the waiter I wanted sweet potato fries instead of French fries the next she's saying we should go bridge jumping. You will receive the viking rath if you keep her waiting. Never gets tired during physical activity, but always gets tired on a night out in…sketchy. The definition of both a lover and a fighter.

Coming in at a dense 5'9" and with the volumetric restraint of a humpback whale, Hill "Mountain" Atwell is a character. Specifically, the one finding free pitchers, enjoying nights at the Tombs and consuming 4x Naval Bagels. His accomplishments– AN Ball Run Commander, Honors QuantEcon, and rowing Heavyweight Crew –won't ever leave your mind as he simply won't let them. As charming as he is intelligent, seducing his way into a C in Calculus II, a conservative estimate put Hill's belt loops just above his IQ (he's thick like peanut butter). In truth, Hill is a good man with a heart of gold and unmatched loyalty. He has friends in every northeastern hamlet and southern dive bar along with a rolodex of people to rely on. Checking in on his friends and being there when it hits the fan is his nature; unless you're trying to focus on chemistry or being 'young in the city.' Hill is the best brother a man could ever ask for. ER, JJ, JG, JS, ST, AS

Look out everyone, it's John, from school! Renowned for the most comical CDO emails this side of the Mississippi, this "Florida Man" native is no stranger to uncontrollable nights - be it painting his friends shoes with a fresh coat of his previous meal, taking a brief nap on the streets of DTA, or even his occasional ability to taste colors once a certain BAC has been achieved. A Florida native, John never really adjusted to the Maryland climate, breaking out the leather jacket as soon as it gets below 75. Nothing gets him more excited than the thoughts of motorcycles and The Lonely Island music videos. True potential for the first Navy Esports Admiral: the sarcastic and red-headed meme master is feared within the walls of Bancroft Hall for his Apex Legends abilities, although his homework pays the price by bearing the weight of his K/D ratio. Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Ahh where do we begin? Is he Neptune or the son of Poseidon? Colin embodies the definition of a sea man. We are convinced his veins flow with salt water from the Seven Seas and a dash of Rum Punch. Colin's home is behind the helm where the sun meets the sea. He is a man's best friend and a fish's worst enemy. An absolute menace to all creatures with gills. A beer's worst enemy. Bancroft's greatest home chef. He is a simple man who thrives off of Vitamin D and frosty Coors Lights, but his fair Irish skin won't tan a damn bit. His wardrobe consists of articles found in Goodwill trash cans, yet he still catches the eye of all the rockets at the bar. All jokes aside, Colin's work ethic is unmatched. This RDR will ride or die for you like no one else. His dedication to the boys is evident. It is truly a blessing to call Colin your friend, and all those who gain his friendship in the future are luckier than leprechauns. His obstacles faced here and throughout life just make him that much more capable in helping those around him. As a member of the Black N, he could tell you all about his wild times at USNA. Wherever he ends up in life, just know he will be successful.“My roommate was an enlisted sailor, he has a bunch of tattoos and is teaching me a lot of new things!” I later found out that is something I should have not written to my parents during plebe summer. Marttin is the kind of guy who will be there for you whether it’s good times or bad. He’s faced many highs and lows himself. No joke, he almost got kicked out of the Academy. Luckily a yellow and black sweater showed up on his desk instead of a kick out the door. Those experiences have shaped him to become the person he is today.

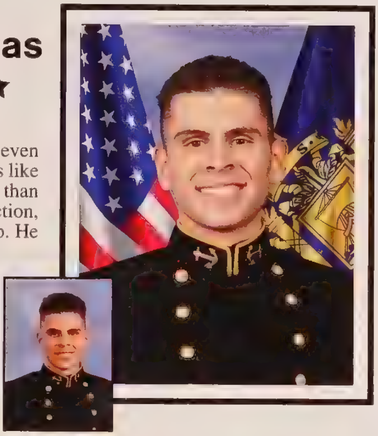
Joshua Freitas

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground



Joshua “Freight House” Freitas is quite possibly the most stone-cold man to exist. Rumor even has it that he feels no pain. Don’t be fooled by his medusa-esque gaze, as the truth is Josh is like a pineapple, beyond the prickly, hard exterior is a sweet man who works damn near harder than anyone else on the planet. His close friend circle might be smaller than his Rubik’s cube collection, however that just goes to show how special you feel when you’re integrated into his group. He is a lover of whiskey sours and celebrating his birthday, although the average person would never know that since he spends 22 out of 24 hours a day at the boathouse. Anyone who has rowed next to Josh knows he is unafraid to absolutely send a workout and race the person next to him no matter the circumstances. He will make a seriously fantastic marine (and damn those Marpats fit him nice) and they are such a lucky community to have gotten him.

Sean Gibbons

Submarine Nuclear

Sean “Big Cat” Gibbons, friend, foodie, and future submariner. A man of refined animalistic qualities. You can commonly find Sean bear crawling from a long night in DTA, practicing his mating sounds around (or should I say under) the dinner table. In the top 0.00005% of Taylor Swift listeners on Spotify this year and highly organized thanks to not just one, but two Taylor Swift calendars on his desk. Spends more time on the toilet than on his homework. The first and last to yell “beat army” at any lecture, bar, or gym, Sean always finds a way to make others laugh. A member of training staff not once, not twice, but three times, Sean cares more about the people around him than anyone. He never falls short and is always there to pick you up, with a quick Bento’s stop along the way. His dedication to everything he does is incomparable, memorizing every lyric to every Taylor Swift song is just one example of this. Sean brightens the lives of those around him and will no doubt make those dark sub days much more bearable for all those serving with him.

Taylor Gray

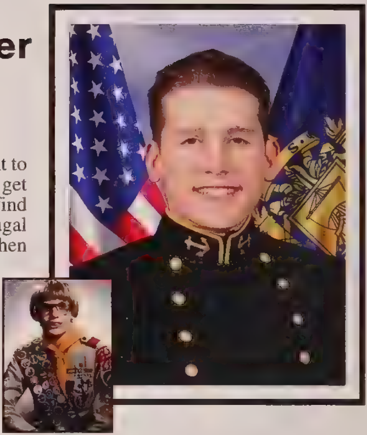
USMC Pilot

Taylor Gray has donned many hats while at the academy. From bearshark to ballrunner and volleyball captain to parking b$%#,TG lives a life of contradiction. No Coors Banquets are safe when TG7 is around. Proud member of PUPPIEZ. The biggest question on a night out, will she make it out past 10?! Not only has Taylor Gray mastered the art of rise and rally, she is a fiercely loyal badass. Do not be fooled by her resting Brigade Ops face.Few people better embrace what it means to be for the people while being one of the people (sometimes too literally). A motivator on and off the court, she is sure to keep your life entertaining, be it through conduct offenses, surprise rack inspections (Shoutout EZ ‘22), or professional mice extermination. Should you lose sight of her, spot the big hand motions, next level loungefit, or check the Physics department to find her. Still trying to “make it make sense,” Taylor will continue to be a force of death, but now from the cockpit. An extroverted introvert, if you know her you understand her love and hatred for this institution. She goes to battle for those she loves.



Luke Haider

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

I can honestly see Luke being the 80th Superintendent of USNA. He is very blunt, gets straight to the point, and does the hard things nobody wants to do. He is like an onion where you have to get to know him to peel back the layers of who he really is. When you get to that point, you will find a determined young man who values friendship and loyalty. Luke is the funniest/ smartest/ frugal person I know. Instead of splitting an uber to DC, he would rather uber to New Carrollton then take the subway into DC to save $11.83. He would also much rather sleep in the back of his car on a long road trip than spending the extra money for a hotel room. I can go on for days with jokes about Luke, but I am very fortunate to have met someone like him. He is a God-fearing, hard-working, and very motivated man. Luke will be a great father and soon to be husband. I would trust Luke with my life and would let him lead me to battle. He is a great leader and will be however successful he wants to be.

She [not] a runner, she a trackstar. Track Captain and mechanical engineer, one wouldn't believe the hours she puts in behind the scenes to set the standard. On top of breaking school records, she holds the record for how many hours slept in a day. Fueled by Oreos and cheese crackers, Katie doesn't believe in the necessity for fruits and vegetables to be a superstar. Wonder what King Hall tastes like? Katie does too. She holds the record for least amount of meals out of the infamous cafe in her time at USNA. Instead she uses her Slytherin sorcery to cook-up meals on the fly. That's right. She's a Slytherin. While the NARPs climb into bed for a restful 8 hours, homework begins at midnight for Katie as she also holds the record for most hours spent reading fantasy novels. Despite all these records, Katie always finds time to make those around her smile. If you're ever in need of an impromptu dance party, a hype-up session, or planning an exotic vacation, Katie's there for you. A friend who constantly puts others before herself, Katie will be a stud in the fleet just as much as she is at USNA.

Not for the clout but he claims Tyler to be an absolute genius. That boy Slab is a lover boy at heart but says otherwise. Will make a great "unc" one day. I can't count how many times we have done spontaneous things. If you need a partner in crime James is the one to go to. Did someone say independent, because this man needs nothing but his own vibes to have a good time. Claims to have founded Mardi gras and I heard he was throwing a flat screen at the next parade. All jokes aside he's a down to earth dude and I heard he's looking to settle down so all the single ladies hit him up.

This guy was the person who threw up during a beat down during plebe summer and afterwards dropped back down with us while the puke was fresh on his breath. What else is there to say about Mason that hasn't already been said? He upholds the truth to a fault. He's smart enough to juggle two of the hardest majors while having a minor, but kind enough to give you the softest hug when you need it. Besides working with magic rocks that make things go spinny spinny, I will remember Mason for his commitment to anything he applies himself to -even if that includes watching nearly one thousand episodes of "One Piece" Firstie year.

Just by looking at Dylan "Plain Bagel" Horton, you can probably figure out that he hails from the mythical and diverse land of Nebraska. A master of conversation, he has learned such hits as "top ten airpwanes I saw today" and "most underrated parts of Nebraska." Someone once told Dylan to think carefully before he spoke. The pause you hear comes not from indecision, but from the sheer magnitude of information hidden behind those aviator shades. Easily the most dependable guy you'll ever meet - ask him anything and you'll always get "it depends." Decked out in his uniform of dad sneakers and a cornhuskers quarter-zip, you'll find him standing beside a DTA dancefloor. The undisputed king of judgmental staring while his company-mates pound drinks. A man of culture, he enjoys a cuisine of burgers, chicken nuggies and beef-and-broccoli (no broccoli). Blood of the Red Baron, he eats, sleeps, and breathes aviation. Have you ever longed for a 3 hour conversation about airpwanes and the weather? D.R. Horton is your guy. He knows what he wants and how he wants it, so clear that runway because I think he might want to fly. Air go woooosh, airpwanes go brrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrrr.

When he decided to start running, he jumped into a marathon program immediately, and when he decided submarines was the community for him, he did an internship at Naval Reactors. When Sam decided to start using nicotine, his sheer dedication has continued to keep him from quitting early. When he decided during his Plebe Year that he wanted to get big, he got too fat and had to cut Youngster year. When he started playing Rocket League, he worked until he reached pro levels, and when he bought a keyboard he had to buy the most obnoxious one possible. On a given weekend, Sam can be found as far away from the Academy as possible, pretending to be a UMD student. Sam is extremely dedicated to the people he cares about, and during the week he never misses a chance to FaceTime them, even at the cost of his roommates' sanity. Sam's dedication and energy will be a great asset to the submarine community, as long as they can manage to keep his attention for longer than a week.

Matt Landis was blessed with a face only a mother can love. A big man with an even bigger disdain for emotion, he's about as easy to read as an ancient novel in an unknown language. Happy to make himself comfortable on a bathroom floor, he is no stranger to a crazy time or an unexpected shower. This native from the worst state in the union is even able to put the "mess" in mess dress before the night has even started. When you see his left eyelid begin to droop, make for the hills. What he lacks in brains, he makes up for in brawns. Jokes aside, Matt will make a great Marine Corps Officer, and in any form of competition, test, or fight, if I was a gambling man, I'd bet on Matt.

Keenan Lawrence

Keenan's easygoing, fun loving nature makes him a perfect fit for both the Aviation community and any family looking for a golden retriever. Dedicated to the physical mission, Keenan can frequently be found working towards his dream of "tan, blond, sexy Keenan" in the halls of MacD. However, this unit is also dedicated to academics, often sporting fake glasses to help himself feel smarter as he tackles his coding assignments. When not in the gym or spending 12 hours on a computer science project, he can be found on Facetime, where it's a 50-50 bet whether it's with his girlfriend or with his other love, Padre. On the weekends, "Kee-Kee" is always ready for an adventure, as long as someone else provides the car. Keenan's positive attitude is as constant as the sunny weather of his native San Diego, and no doubt his perpetual smile will be a huge asset for when the Navy needs to remake Top Gun in a few years.

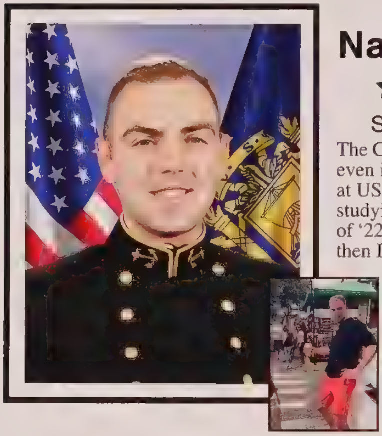
If you'd like to keep anything within its designated container, I'm sorry but Katie is not your girl. Though she has enough coordination to shred the gnar and pavement every weekend, she spills and misplaces everything she touches. The infamous DJ Janice's hobbies include drinking oatmeal, getting ripped at the poker table, vaping with the Dep Dant's wife, mixing sick EDM beats, and anything not meshanicel enginiearing. She's very fond of getting her hair swept back behind her ear by a doting fella who can't wait to date her, and then proceeding to forget about said fella and incident. She's also a gal of many talents: expert traveler, professional boozy-coffee maker, athletic beast, and master crafter (who would've thought!?). Pico Na$ty, her (un)trusty steed may never leave her side. She's the type the day before the early selection deadline, change her mind from flying high, to Semper DEEEEEEEEEP. Katie, as much as she can't keep liquid in a glass, is a loyal friend you can always count on for a good time and will make a chaotic but trusty addition to the naval force-- after she turns up and finds a multi-million dollar sugar daddy in Monterey.



Nathan Matalavage

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Submarine Nuclear

The Chico California native, Horace Nebbercracker. A man you are all probably familiar with even if you don't recall the name. The old man from Monster House? That's right. He's here at USNA, passing on his gift of anger and spite to our very own Mother B. You can find him studying in his hobbit hole or complaining about his major(s). The last retiree of the crew class of '22. If the only way to save the world was to repeat every lyric of Billy Joel or Jimmy Buffett then I would feel safe sending Nathan as Earth's representative. But don't let his old age fool you. The man is fueled by nuclear knowledge and a thirst for rum and coke. Eyewitnesses have even testified that he outran and evaded seven different police vehicles in Key West after a four hour battle with Captain Morgan himself. The man in salmon colored shorts put his own spin on the running of the bulls. Nevertheless, the keeper of the condo is one of the best friends you can have, so long as you don't give him a reason to hold an indefinite grudge.

Justin McCabe

Justin in one word? Dedicated. Regardless of the task, he puts his heart and soul into it. Juggling being Company Commander, conducting independent research in Ocean Engineering, and putting his body on the line every week as a proud member of the 13th Company Volleyball and Pickleball teams was no easy task, but he managed to do it all. His hard work is esteemed enough in the company that he was a squad leader not once but twice. On top of that, he spent all of 1/C year in the midst of planning a wedding across the country. Yes, in case you somehow haven't heard at this point, Justin is a proud 2% Club member (and a second-generation one at that). His dedication to Kaylee is truly unparalleled, as it came at the cost of every Spring break with the boys. However, despite his accomplishments, Justin is also incredibly humble. No doubt his humility is helped by the fact that he somehow managed to be picked on by both his younger and older brothers growing up. Justin will be a great success as long as he always remembers to put in the work and put in the hours.

Has a history of polo without actually knowing what polo is. Whatever you do, don't ask her about her favorite flavor of muffin. Or who her favorite football team is, she may just say the New York Yankees. One drink, two drinks, BOOM "Youuuu're my best frienddd". Lover of instant ramen, grass flavored lattes, and tall blond boys with no calves. Already embracing the nuke retirement lifestyle by driving a ~Mercedes~ and being an IMPECCABLE golfer and pickleball player. We have tried to corrupt her these last four years, but she is too genuine, kind, and wholesome to do so. Emily is the kind of friend you can count on for anything (except weekend plans). Max is better stretched out than any man on the planet. I have seen him stretching his giant thighs more than he was actually in the water. With great thighs, comes great responsibility. I have only seen him in two places: the pool and WesB. Maximus is the only guy that you can count on to always speak his mind. I have never seen him bite his tongue at great personal cost. He listens to, on average, 6 different songs per year, and I suspect will never let his sailors know how he needs a pixar movie to unwind after a hard day of almost completing an assignment. A grown man with a bedtime, and I have never been more jealous. Dependable in the sense that whenever I needed a friend to cover for me, give sound advice, or remind me why I was here, I could go find Max -- because he was also out looking for that friend. If we needed to lean on one another you could place your bets that we would both lean the wrong way and fall. I should play the lotto based on how lucky I am to know this guy.

Who is Alex Schuerch? Few, if any, are qualified to answer. A casual observer may claim he is a man of contradictions: illogically logical, carefully reckless, insanely genius with an emphasis on the former. Perhaps. Another might call him the most interesting man alive if the most interesting man alive was a borderline sociopath who enjoys travel and pyromancy in equal parts. While we cannot deny any of the above, allow us to pass on what we've come to learn these past four years: he's a man of integrity, curiosity, and charm. He went from that guy who was running around in the middle of the p-way with 9 minutes left on a time-hack to running marathons for fun. For him, there is no adventure too troublesome or any detail too small. He stood by our side during our lowest lows and brought us to some of our highest highs. Of this, we are certain: he is our best friend, and there is no limit to what he may do. Bon Voyage, YP warlord.

Though a future Marine, Seamus was able to grow his hair out to a [redacted] inches before being shaved. A tough-as-nails kid from upstate New York, Seamus isn't afraid of a scrap but is really as amiable as a golden retriever. He is world-renowned for blacking out; whether from a good time or a right-hook. Seamus spends his free time listening to punk music and falling for girls who won't date him. The life of the party wherever he goes, Seamus always finds a way to brighten the room around him. Whether he's dragging you to a concert or dancing away to new tunes, Seamus epitomizes fun. Her social life is aided by the fact that Cora doesn't seem to even take classes. During the school day Cora can be found running marathons on the treadmill, immersed in Netflix's newest drama. Known as the slug grabber, Cora is unafraid to get her hands dirty (just keep an eye on any hard ciders). Commonly found at any company event at the griddle or with a tray of freshly baked cookies. Cora is also famous for her speaker Darnella, who is always blasting Cora's "good vibes" anywhere, either at formation, the sidelines of intramurals, or a roomie jam sesh. If you've never seen her dance to 'Timber' by Ke$ha, you're missing out. Cora cares not if you are a fan of her "good vibes," because they WILL be playing (loudly) no matter what. Cora's Sailors will be lucky to have this energetic, caring SWO-mama.

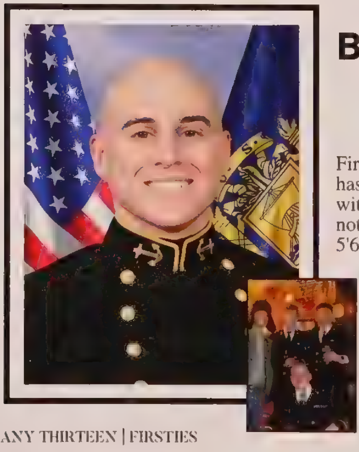
Rosemary, aka "the Porch", is very sweet, nice, and non-confrontational. A perfectly well-behaved and civilized young lady. She has never offered a word or action of aggression or antagonism towards even the most disagreeable heathens. Truly a wonder she decided to join such a company, and what a blessing to the vulgarity of our common ranks! Staring intently at you across the table intellectually resting her chin between her index finger and thumb while preparing to debate the structure of morality and its implications on the human condition, Rosemary Weston is one of a kind. A kind and gentle soul, earnest and driven in her search for the Truth. She drinks Irish coffee while delving into the complexities of Fibonacci numbers. She asks the hard questions in life, like what truly defines an island. She'll go on hikes and speak in riddles, and all the while you're scratching your head as to whether existence comes before essence. You want to pray the rosary? Too bad, cuz we're talking about the limitations of human knowledge, and how that affects our assumed reality. But while she makes you question your existence, her kindness and amiable countenance will answer it for you.



Bayly Woodley

First and foremost, Bayly Woodley was bred to be a Marine. He has the patience of a saint and has calmly dealt with having roommates more akin to zoo animals than humans, all the while with a smile on his face. Brings the term southern charm to Missouri, kind of a funk fellow. Do not make him laugh… don't. 7 feet tall and bulletproof has never more accurately described a 5'6" man whose sternum could be broken by something as trivial as being run over by an ATV. His only known weaknesses are said to be road bumps and crazy blonde chicks. Never one to back down from a challenge, he can do anything he sets his mind to provided that it's related to bullets, booze, or most importantly: the boys. His Marines better be ready, because I would follow this man anywhere - if only to see what messed up stuff he is about to get himself into

Sierra is known to be invited over for Thanksgiving, and in those two days become more loved by the family than their firstborn, despite being caught numerous times with a horseshoe of longcut packed, spitter tucked into her permanent shoulder sling. The Rock Woman herself, the one and only waterfall hunter and shark eater, moon-landing denier, definitely crunchier than granola, and certainly capable of riding any party out until she is carrying the host home has transformed the lives of many…even though she can't read. And do not let this woman near a karaoke mic; she will slay and ruin anyone else's performance for the rest of your life. All jokes aside, it's impossible to not love Sierra. USMC Ground

Garrison "Crimson chin" Brooks is far and away the brightest example of how labels don't define one's merit. An obvious quota admission, Gary proved again and again how anything is possible with enough caffeine and nine-day old yogurts. Gary has been assigned to four different rooms, but has managed to move in to just about every other one, and in the process has lost all of his possessions, buy replacements, and lose them more often than he does laundry. Yet, there is no denying that Gary possesses the rarest of qualities associated with being 'blue collar'; his eyes make it okay to make out in refrigerators, diligently care for a mouse named 'Kreacher', refuse basic hygiene, and wear hats like a Floribama native. Gary and his roommate live in squalor like an old married couple of hoarders. The least athletic member of 14th company, Gary makes his impact with a mind-bendingly complex warm up that intimidates, displaces, and unsettles everyone. He oozes little spoon energy. He is unmatched in emotional intelligence, connectivity over the most absurd, and dedication to his peers. The Corps will one day initiate a natural bush-stalking, gear-humping, swamp dwelling, bleeding-heart liberal 'kreacher' in Garrison. Rah brother.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

The old man of 14th company enjoys the simple things in life: 17 chocolate milks a day, a well-earned chair nap, and supporting his god-awful sports teams. I’ll let you ask him his favorite teams because there’s no clear explanation. Ben is mentally and emotionally unavailable between 7-9PM when his beloved Canes are playing. A jack of all trades, he recently began mastering the DJ board, much to the delight of his 23 SoundCloud followers. As a proud member of the Gentlemen of Annapolis, Ben spends most of his time at the BSC either pin-seeking or tailgating in the parking lot. The man fears nothing. Dog leg lefts? No. Long Par 3s? No. Parking meters outside Dillo’s? Slightly, but he still won the war despite losing the battle and obtaining a beautiful shiner on his right eye. People often mistake Kat for a bunny hopping across the tennis court. If you ever catch her with something in hand it is almost always something containing caffeine. For someone who grips it and rips it as hard as Kat, she sure struggles in the weight room trying to grip dumbbells. Her fiery attitude along with her iconic side eye is something that will be missed when she moves on to bigger and better things. You gotta give her credit for making it to commissioning day. Katreina graduated without getting in trouble; she rated as well as she skated. She has always been one to rise above any proposals/challenges that got in her way! Katreina might not be the poster-child for commitment, but even though one ring didn’t make it far, there’s a class ring that will adorn Katreina’s hand throughout her career. She brings her best talents to her wardroom in Norfolk, including her ability to go on a weekend bender and still perform on Monday. She has the amazing ability to make anyone around her feel special and laugh. She has the sweetest soul and kindest spirit. Any command should be honored to have Kat as their DIVO.

Concert this weekend? Say less. No dude, you CAN'T see John Mayer too many times. Pussers on the dock? Thank you sir, may I have another? Drinks on me. No drinks on you. Greta is playing in Philly in 2 hours, can we make it? I'll drive. No, you drive. There's no drama? Don't worry, I'll start some soon! Legend has it, for the amount of John Mayer concerts Adam has been to, he may very well be John Mayer himself. He likes hanging out with other people who like John Mayer and actually possess the musical talent to make him forget his deepest fear of realizing he has none. Rebranding No Homework Thursdays to John Mayer Thursdays is his greatest military achievement. Always down for a good time, Adam will relentlessly invite you to join his weekend plans to max out your credit card on a good time. He knows no home besides Acme and concert venues. Most people invest their loan but Adam had other plans, Sob Rock tickets and Acme buckets. The USMC isn't ready for JM's top fan whose most prized possessions are his complete John Mayer discography on vinyl and his (padded) Spotify wrapped stats.

The SheNADs locker room is not home without Liv. You will hear about whatever her current crusade is before practice everyday, whether you want to or not. She will never…EVER…lose if she can help it - not even a Google Forms Hunger Games. Not shy about having "a disagreement", I feel bad for anyone who is not on her side. An avid dance cup lover (and champion) and of fancy drinks. Giver of advice, professor of opinion, you want Liv on your team (and thank goodness we do). A professional procrastinator, hippie momma, Mamma Mia enthusiast, and the most talkative introvert. My daily rant buddy and my ride or die. This wild gal can be found eating everything in sight or demolishing every college sailor out there with no mercy. She is an absolute beast who will fight anyone. After living with her since I-Day, I can say she is the kind of friend that a person cannot afford to lose. This woman will stop the world for the people she loves and cannot be stopped by anyone.

She is passionate for all things beautiful and fierce. Blaise is a lady of complete girlboss energy. She has the wits, the looks, and the selflessness. She is all three Powerpuff Girls in one: Blossom + Bubbles + Buttercup = Blaise. She is known for being sweet and bubbly but could also ruin your world with one look. Yeah, you guessed it, she's an Aquarius. She is a literal mother and therapist, for anyone and everyone. She will diagnose any trauma while using her tarot cards, crystals, and zodiac signs. But she can also chill and teach you how she designed the makeup for Euphoria, sing along to Burlesque late at night, or binge-watch all of the How to Train Your Dragon movies. Blaise will go on to make the world a better place. But one last thing…will Blaise ever get her drivers license…?

For this reason, and this reason only, Ian is a legend and Joy to be around at McGarvey's BBW. Do not let his sharp looks deceive you, however, for he has many undisclosed flaws including abysmal dance moves, minimal knowledge of classic movies, and inability to complete any Guitar Hero song on easy. A God-fearing man and proud KENTUCKIAN, "Xander" B. Evans once faced a difficult choice: be a man of the cloth or the uniform. Four years later, we still wonder how he would look in a clerical collar. When he's not at the chapel, Xavier is probably standing CDO; and when Xavier's CDO, you know s is about to go down… everytime. Just ask Joseph Rory Curran, MIDN, Ret. If you know an obscure indie movie that you think nobody else knows, X has probably already seen it twice. Cool, calm, and collected, he mediated many heated debates in 7260. Don't be fooled by his deadpan expressions though—he's just deep in thought, or trying to restrain himself from strangling the nearest heretic. Xavier can often be found at his desk staring through his eyelids in full uniform because getting into his rack is just too hard. X holds it all together by averaging 6 Zyns, 8 Hail Mary's, and 2 cold brews a day. His legacy as Zyn supplier will live on for generations as Midshipmen and Marines alike work his connections in the industry. A servant leader and better friend, the USMC is lucky to have this new Devil Dog.

Few people can claim they have met the Most Interesting Man in the World, and even fewer can claim they've met the person Dos Equis based him off: Calvin Fry. Don't let his unassuming rural Indiana accent, love for bad puns, or 30-minute-long jokes catch you off guard. This joke-loving stud is one of the smartest and nicest people and he's always having "another exciting day." Calvin Fry iconically eternalized himself as the symbol of 14th Company by blazing into the p-way in pure compression shorts, shoes, and blue rim (tucked in of course) on the first day of Plebe Summer. Calvin arguably peaked at that moment, soon afterwards he committed himself to the misery of being a nuclear engineering major. However, Calvin loves what he does, and can often be found trying to decipher the hidden secrets of the neutron or (more likely) taking Netflix breaks and then deciding to go to bed after a long night filled with homework breaks. All in all, Calvin is sure to succeed as a submarine officer and will bring his iconic laugh, enthusiasm, brains, and talent to any wardroom who has the fortune to have him.

After missing out on his big chance at love Youngster year, James became the center of an international incident at the #3 night club in the world. His athletic talents are unmatched (provided he's wearing his trusty ankle brace), as evidenced by his National Championship title, tenure as Team Captain of the Fencing Team, and status as a founding member of the NAFAC volleyball club. If James had one stone left unturned while at the Naval Academy, it would be his metamorphosis from 'Slim Hendo' to 'Thicc Hendo', prophesied by his plebe summer squad leader. A lover of golden candles, coffee, and other fine beverages, James (alternatively Hames, depending on the circumstances) can frequently be found at the center of DTA and Singaporean nightlife. James is uncommonly kind, unless he feels threatened in even the slightest way: beware his flashing saber, verbal retorts (sometimes missing the mark), EU suspicion, and warrior instincts. In typically atypical fashion, James Henderson is expected to stumble into the ranks of a criminal organization following his time in the Navy. - CBS, CCF, JRM, PHF, SWK

MIDN 1/C Langford AKA poptropica AKA princess baller is a Capable, Upstanding, Noble, and Talented young woman who will do absolutely amazing things in the fleet while making everybody laugh cause she is sure to say something dumb. Her accomplishments during her time at the Academy include being a two sport varsity athlete (even though she claims she hates working out) all the while having a part time job at Dock Street and completing 92% of her time as a midshipman before getting fried (it was bound to happen tbh). As for her academic accomplishments the Dep Dant said it best "She got Marine Corps with THAT order of merit??? Well I guess that is a testament of her character…" Her red flags are making fun of you out of love, becoming a menace after drinking red bull vodkas, asking if you want to go drinking at 2pm, and believing she is the thickest person in the room. Despite her flaws, she is one of the coolest, calmest, and quietest people you will know and most importantly she loves kissing the homies goodnight.

Julia is one of the most mysterious people you'll ever meet, with the ability to stay silent and gather information about you, all while revealing nothing about herself -- her days of sneaking around her parents have made her a steel trap. Her morning routine is as follows: wake up 5 minutes before formation, go back to sleep, get dressed in 37 seconds, go to formation, return to sleeping bag, wake up at 7:47, speedwalk to class in Hopper, defying physics to make it on time, everytime, somehow. Despite having a closet full of colors and zebra pants, she'll never pass up an opportunity to hit the town dressed as Dwayne "The Rock " Johnson and order a sugar-free margarita with 33g of agave. Julia is a staple of 14th company life, a reminder of everyone's ability to be more, and the living embodiment of virtuous living (despite the self-destructive tendencies…) She will pound the ground in the Corps until there is nothing left but dust beneath her black boots.

Unequivocally and proudly the inkiest gymnast in the NCAA, Big D could have been voted least likely to come to the Naval Academy in high school. Absolutely despising the outdoors, the mere thought of being dirty, and any situation where he cannot wear tastefully fitted pants and sport a beard, the Navy did not seem like the life for Dhiren. Nonetheless, he survived plebe year (narrowly avoiding his Train-O at a party) and built up to captaining NMG through the 2022 season. A natural leader, Dhiren's classmates have been trying to be as cool as him since the very start as we are reminded every year at Christmas. No person has ever perfectly exemplified a Napoleon complex more than Jonas "the Compensator" Madison. From his white-collar upbringing in a suburb somewhere near Chicago, to his participation in SOT(T) being the crux of his personality, Jonas has always felt like he's had a lot to prove. This chip on his shoulder mentality has led him to live life at full throttle, causing him to pull trig in solidarity after workouts, walk into a tree and be concussed for a full semester, and attempt to find love every weekend despite still being in love with his high school ex. As a company "ringleader", Jonas "doesn't need alcohol to have fun" Madison has been known to provide everybody with the means for fun no matter where they are. As a serial bad decision maker, he's managed to accrue over 180 demerits, 89 days of restriction, and countless late DTA nights with questionable memories. Although he's been kicked out of more strip clubs than companies (both nonzero values), the most alive he's ever felt was asking his detailers to correct his classmate's room, a high he's been chasing ever since. Jonas has been described as a great leader (not a compliment at the time) and proud supporter of the Girl Scouts. Despite his multiple and extensive shortcomings, both in physical stature and personality, Jonas is a friend anyone would be lucky to fight alongside, and will fit in perfectly in the Marine Corps. In the comeback story of the century, Jonas went from the most hated plebe over plebe summer to a vital part of 14th Company and the brigade as a whole. He's found a perfect home in the Marine Corps and his Marines will be lucky to have a leader like him.

The biggest fault with Connor is his ability to function off water alone. Don't know how he got through this place without caffeine. Although he is built like a string bean he does have some redeeming qualities. Connor embodies the mantra of work hard… and now, he has learned to play hard, too. Connor is the life of the party, the perfect coffee drinking buddy, and mediocre on the aux (but he's getting there). Despite that, we keep this kind bean pole around. He runs nearly everyday and has even gotten shin-splits from running so hard. In his free time, he folds laundry and goes out exclusively with femids. Gymnasts wish they were as flexible as Connor. Loyalty has never been a question for this soon-to-be young lieutenant, who studies hard and burns the midnight oil (often while spinning his rifle, winding up his watches, or verifying that all of his pens do, indeed, still click). Few would be as likely to follow or lead you into battle than Mark, and there are a lot of gems to learn from him. It's a good thing the Midstore ran out of sardines, though. A true combat engineer at heart, Mark loves to tinker with literally anything, pursue the mission relentlessly (except academics, which must wait until 1 AM), while loudly proclaiming his hate for engineering and constantly wishing that he had chosen History as a major instead. To sustain his drive for work Cam must constantly consume 'macros' by eating dry grits, downing almond milk, and carving out the center of his pancakes to create 'syrup wells'. His idea of a great night involves a roommate movie night (minus James Henderson) of some god-awful 1960's film that resulted in well-deserved studio bankruptcy. Outside of the Hall he's a big fan of mother nature, as this man studies, grows, eats, and ss plants. Ask him about any plant, he'll be ready to give you a 6 page report on why they're so cool. On the condition that Cam can keep his telltale sign of annoyance — a loud "HMMMM" — under control and off enemy sonar, it is all but guaranteed that Cam will find immense success wherever he treads.

Hide your snacks, hide your coffee, hide your dog, Beining will take them all, because she somehow manages to lose everything that she owns. "Beining why don't you have an Ike, it's 20 degrees outside?" "Beining, how come you only have one airpod?", to which she responds "Bruh I lost it." Never not running, even when she's walking, Beining is always on a mission. Beining lovessss Virginia Beach, the Church of Latter Day Saints, and her iconic prius, Chickadee. She also dabbles in rock climbing and the occasional Zyn when she's feeling adventurous. Need a Spotify playlist? Beining already has one made for you. Need someone to take your watch? Beining already submitted the duty swap chit. Thai Food this weekend? Beining is there. Ms. Xiao, Ms. Ziao, Ms. Zaooo, Michelle, Bagel, Beining takes on many names. Certified company mom, the plebes are her children. She will take their CMOD for them, buy them dinner, or sign their come around sheets anytime, any place. Beining is also very welcoming. Her sponsors adopted the whole 14th Company over the past 4 years, shoutout to the Fenn family for getting us through. The best shipmate, the best friend, Beining has a heart of gold that will never fade. She loves her classmates, her friends, and the people around her. A future DEVIL DAWG, Beining would give anything for the Marines she will one day lead. Thanks for all the memories, B. Xiao, you're a friend for life.

Austin Abke

Surface Warfare Nuclear

The resident old man of 15th Company, Austin Abke has been a steadfast pillar of the 15th Co. class of '22. Although a Colorado native and a 2 year alum of CU Boulder ('Sko Buffs!'), Austin has never popped pos on any drug test at the academy (fingers crossed this continues in the fleet). Despite being an absolute unit on the intramural field (ask anyone on the intramural ultimate frisbee team) and now the Gaelic football field (go Navy gaels), Austin is a poli sci major who hits the rack at 2100 sharp on most weekdays. 'Grandpa' Abke is a loyal member of the 2% club and a soon to be loyal member of life alert (those shoulders and knees won't be lasting long). May your enlisted feel your fatherly presence as we all have. Here's to a pleasant fair winds and following seas in the dinky engine room of an aircraft carrier, Stin!

Naval Flight Officer

Andrew "That S#!T was so easy" Alexander boogie boarded here, all the way from La Jolla. He is the CPO (Chief Pizza Officer) of sauce town (San Diego), California. In his spare time between making pizza and lifting calves, he is also the spice lord. Never will you find Andrew eating without some sort of hot sauce with his meals or without his room smelling like it. Boasts he can make a whole pizza in 30 seconds (or was it 15?), but never has proven it. Andrew is part horse, sporting calves and thighs larger than what should be considered legal. He has served as a faithful sauce consultant for 15th Company's illustrious sauce program. However, with all this authority he has only destroyed the throats of those unlucky enough to try his unlabeled "secret" sauce. Andrew "chill vibes" Alexander epitomizes everything a runaway Californian stands for. From his usually out of reg haircuts, to riding a longboard through the hall, and even being the owner of the largest drug rug sweatshirt collection in Naval Academy history.

Never have I ever met someone who is so put together but all over the place at the same time. Ricky is a menace to society and DTA. He loves to dance with mothers, daughters, and every age group in-between; with all of these options you would think that he would be able to find someone who loves him just as much as he loves himself. I love this specimen and would do anything for him because I know he would do the same for me. Nick is the kind of guy who would literally give you the skin off of his body, just not the right bicep or left thigh. Going NSW but cant even get out of bed in time to make it to class. Heavy nicotine addict and binge drinker who likes to fight his roommate double his size. When he isn't acting like a FLID he is putting diesel in his truck that takes gas. As big of a moron as Nick is, he is the most caring, kind, and loyal friend you could ever ask for. You have made an impact on more lives than you could ever know, Navy lacrosse will miss you brother.

Alexis Bell

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Naval Flight Officer

Alexis "Lets bully her" Bell, is the ultimate zookeeper of her squishmallow kingdom. The two places you'll find her: "at lacrosse" or deployed to her "rackistan" (possibly hers, who's to say). A beast D1 lax player (#wawg), yet NEVER been seen drinking water - only DC, celsius, and juice. Still a literal child- and poor iPad kid-, with her juul binkie, cheetos, easy mac, and PB&J's, abell has yet to grow up and has the worst diet on the team but somehow the fastest 100 time. The CEO of scheme queens: never been seen doing homework and never been fried (literally HOW?). Some *think she DOR'ed (on the edge for about 3.5 years) but that's only because Alexis doesn't concern herself with "irrelevant" people. DTA wardrobe consists of strictly ripped jeans and crop tops, and repeated weekend events (hint: probably involves long pulls out a brown bag "it hits different"/ heartbreak for this "certified sad girl" - who's on the starting lineup roster?? Can't stay on her feet. The most fiercely loyal, funny (savage) person around, "Sexi Lexi" is who you want to have your back (hunnaP). A brick wall on defense but lowkey a softie, Bill's a 4lyfer. Submarine Nuclear

Nothing screams California more than Sean. Long flowing hair, an obsession with the Dodgers, a crippling walnut allergy, and, of course, a passionate hatred of California. On his rest days Sean likes to go for long relaxing 20 mile runs armed with nothing more than a bang, Hokas, and true crime podcasts. His nighttime routine includes the following: complain about lights being on past 2230, sigh very dramatically if they aren't turned off, and use the head every 5 minutes (even though he has stage fright come urinalysis)

I can't mention Sean "Cyber is JV Comp Sci" Chen without touching on his ridiculously low alcohol tolerance. What you lack in your ability to hold alcohol you make up with your bleeding heart. I will never forget your terrible jokes you made and am more than grateful to have you as a friend. Hope you put those social skills to good use 6 leagues under the sea, don't flunk power school!

Jacqueline Cherry

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Submarine Nuclear

Jackie is the most indestructible person I have ever met, always finding her way back to the Yard (typically via the shoulder of JG '22). Sadly the same can't be said about her class ring. There's no better feeling than seeing a chipper Jackie stumble out of her room after hearing the loudest THUD imaginable knowing full well she just supply-dived off her rack (if she made it into her rack). Although an academic weapon, Jackie may or may not ask you to write her essay the night before (every time). Thankfully, since going abroad she's a changed woman; she no longer needs a leash, but she keeps her phone on one. Although there was a 24 credit scare, Jackie may graduate on time (pending remediation). Jackie's vegan until Saturday night rolls around and Taco Bell calls her name; it's hard to remember small details after waterboarding yourself at Acme. Although the ultimate heartbreaker, Jackie is the sweetest friend in the world. Her brains, beauty, and kindness will be a huge asset to the submarine community. Can't wait to visit you in Charleston (where I'm sure you will have gotten to know every bar); you will be missed. SGG

Oh Johnny, where do we begin. Do we go back the year you "carried" Jared and earned the right to have your name on his degree? Do we go back to when you peaked in high school? Back to the 'ville? Or should we start with you being nationally ranked as an Irish dancer? Are you country, 'hood, or an Irish native? You never fail to amaze us with how easy it is to pick a fight with you. Johnny may be the smartest yet most illiterate sounding member of 15th Company but just remember: Johnny does NOT instigate arguments (not). Johnny has ensured that everyone he meets knows the name of the great city of Coatesville, PA. Despite founding an entire ECA to bring Irish sports to USNA (go Navy gaels!), Johnny "Wheelman" Clifford's greatest lasting legacy may be as a member of the infamous Penn State Three. They say if you can dodge a wrench, you can dodge a ball and Johnny sure can dodge a ball. Let's hope it carries over to torpedoes while he's leading some of the Navy's best and brightest. A Strong, Confident, and Competent individual who will make 2022 proud

Matthew Conlon

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Mattie's personality is a mixture of a grizzly bear and a slug. Never have I met someone who is so upbeat and energetic, yet can sleep a day away without hesitation. Matties nights are spent coming back to the room with a massive amount of food that he swallows in 3 milliseconds so he doesn't lose time to play Playstation. Nobody can come alive at night after a few too many beers like Mattie does on the O'Briens dancefloor. It is a sight to see a 285 pound lineman throw it back on his nearest friend. Somehow Mattie has been able to escape the grasp of USNA despite skipping class whenever he feels like it. Mattie is not only the best roommate, but one of the best people I have ever encountered in my life. Having a friend like Mattie Conlon is truly a blessing. Girthalicious; Mattie with the Fattie. Where can one even start to analyze this science project of a man? Mattie has the laugh of a 8 year old child that wears a helmet to school. He is a great friend and loves to Party. We are going to Party it up on the Tortuga.

Taryn Cortes

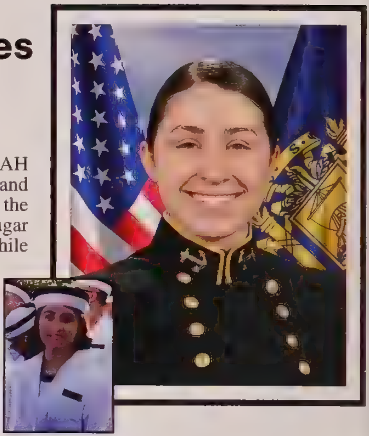
Submarine Nuclear



When I think of Taryn, my brain is ambushed by screams of "HOOYAH 15" and "HOOYAH SENIOR CHIEF". Hailing from Long Island, "Tay-rine the Sub-Marine" is one of the kindest and hardest working motivators at this fine detention center. Taryn's laugh can be heard around the world and it will infect each and every person along the way. Her room always smells like sugar cookies and the door is always open at a crisp 90 degrees, which is one of the few worthwhile reasons to make the hike to 7-4. On top of being a great student (which inevitably got her Sub drafted, making her one of the first five women in USNA history to be drafted), she's a Timb wielding, twine burning, hard hitting lacrosse player on the Navy Women's Club Lax team. She gives the best hugs and is always willing to take some time to ensure everyone is doing well. Taryn is the answer to all your hopes and prayers. She may not be a future rifleman, but she will gladly wake up Putin 5 minutes before his alarm with some TLAMs. We are all extremely lucky to have come across such an amazing friend as Taryn.

Ryan Cunningham

USMC Pilot

Ryan's love for DTA runs deeper than his love for his high school sweetheart. There have been countless times where he has ended up in his rack with a wet towel as his blanket after a long night out, but that never stopped him from going back out the next day. He's the guy that knows the answers to all your questions due to his late night youtube binges. If you don't know it, he does. A quote that describes his day to day mentality is "Sounds like a whole lot of not my problem", which he coined himself. You might hear him yelling from his room how much he hates this place, but do not worry, he's lying to himself. Ryan loves the military and probably has more military knowledge than most. Despite his many days in what he likes to call "the shadow realm", Ryan has learned a lot from his time at the Naval Academy and will make a great Marine Corps Officer. Fair winds and following seas buddy; I'm glad I found the brother I never had. -DH

Colton DeVelasco

USMC Pilot

Even though Colton DeVelasco is a mechanical engineering major, he still somehow manages to go to bed early, to the frustration of literally everyone. In addition to being a whiz in academia, Colton is also a retired professional halo player. Colton is the poster child for, well, having the face of a child, but also achieving the impossible. Yes, he was in the friendzone, but now he is marrying his childhood sweetheart. That's impressive considering he has the social skills of a homeschooler. He also has the traps of a Greek god from his days at that tire shop. Oh and that's not a sharpie mark on his arm its in fact a tattoo he designed himself

Colton's favorite thing to do is probably talking to his fiancée or talking to his roommates (just kidding, he's always just on the phone with his fiancée). Colton is now looking forward to freezing his butt off at TBS and then a sunny Pensacola vacation for flight school. In all seriousness, I couldn't think of a better guy to call a friend and a Marine. Those who got to know him are blessed and those who will get to meet him are lucky.

Jacobo! You will never know another man who so thoroughly enjoys his meal in King Hall, until he is forced to stand up and scold his classmates for throwing Peanut Butter. The reserved, wholesome man that you encounter as you walk the halls unleashes the beast every Saturday when he sets foot on the sidelines of Navy Marine Corps Memorial Stadium. It's honestly a miracle a broken blood vessel was never reported. As the most aggressive, yet elusive, command voice in the Brigade, Jacob keeps his staff in line and the meetings off topic (and over time). A man with a passion for Alpha inspections, two handed waves, spinach salads, and hours of calisthenics, Jacobo is sure to reach new heights as an Aero nerd and Naval Aviator! Beer earning dawg, denizen of the 7-3 backshaft, and true Columbia enjoyer. A man of simple needs: Ashton, food (often just 8 milks and 4 cereals), his xbox, and the sweet sweet companionship of his fellow dawgs. This Exton boy got too lost in the five points sauce to ever think straight again, and spent all available weekends either at gourmet shop or in "traffic" on the way back to MD. JareBear has forever been the connoisseur of good vibes, and spent four years demonstrating his DTA vision to the rest of us. We have seen the light. A perennial "I want to go SWO" liar slogged his way through some cheeky rhabdo only to secure a one way ticket to the sunny beaches of Coronado. Then, he mistook the ticket for a movie admission to the first thirty minutes of lone survivor… on 13 separate occasions. Dawgs are the most loyal of all animals, and Jared is no exception. Bad at lacrosse catch. USNA bridge cig enjoyer. Youngster car driver. Soiler of v-neck undershirts. 8 weeks of summer training participant. ROM coffee maker. Perpetually broke. SGG. PMDO. Jackson finished USNA like he started: no hair. Dogwater at fantasy. Most likely to not tell you he has a surgery until its done, he's blind, and needs a ride. Clueless when asked out on a date. Wrestles you when drunk to escape and fight the OOW for snacks. Jumped post office railing. Incredibly functional drunk, can convince anyone, the CC to the Batt Commander, to calm down and look away. Only 2/C 3-striper; the stripes may have been black and his billet may have only lasted 24 hours but he was still the best head restrictee (trust me, I've met a few). Uh-oh stinky. Sparky waaaah. WF. Free wins. Super skate. Technically a 12 striper, if you think about it. Best lab partner around. Reaches a level of intelligence after 2130 the night a lab is due not of this Earth. The estranged uncle of IST. No one runs faster looking like a disabled child gremlin. Unique ability to poke holes in his Vans three days after buying them (not for himself of course). He'd say he got the girl, but she got him. In the Women's Network, thought it might help him understand them. It didn't. SGG

Willy "The Perminator" Juice never shied away from standing out of the crowd. At 6'7", Espolòn Blanco's only ever sponsored athlete never really had a choice. Will carved his own path every step of his journey, forging himself into a man for all seasons. Will's not only a Peloton connoisseur with a soft spot for Bon Appetit test kitchen chefs that wear bell bottom corduroys and Carhartt beanies (@mollybaz). He's also a national team rower with a bronze medal to his name. Being the humble gentle giant he is, Will would never tell you this (Unless you're a 5'9" brunette at a local Georgetown university bar). A man with as many talents as Will Geib proves a rarity to most, but one with his heart and character is virtually unheard of. Transitioning from a family of 20 to a family of 40 should have been easy, but she still managed to cry every day of plebe summer (seriously, what's an O-4?!). "Say something!" We've come a long way since then, but despite the mentorship of BP'19, Ava "SchmAcme" Harding still managed to be the first KIA of mountain weekend, the first prEOL casualty, and the one plebe who had the courage to princess Leia our fragile company XO. Can be seen wearing a "pump cover" to DTA and in the middle of the SOT team's dance circle at dillos, despite her thing for skinny runners. Ava proved herself to be a ride or die - always a dependable shooter to go out and loosen up the liver with. A four striping, deep conversation-having, nepotism-enjoying, claw-sipping family woman with a flair for smashing lamps and kicking bushes. From "what is a chopping" to Batt CDR, this poly-sci and fly gal is a dedicated one. Some may call her "abrasive" (16 people exactly), but I call her my best friend in the whole world. Collin, :, Coll-o, CHCH, Carlo, Mr. Steal Yo Girl, Weatherboy, Buddha, etc. Webster's dictionary defines friend as "a person who you like and enjoy being with." While we have ruthlessly made fun of Collin's inability to eat any meal without at least 8 tablespoons of mayonnaise, inability to eat any meal without said mayonnaise ending up on his face/hands, and inability to eat said mayonnaise at less than 100 decibels, we all miraculously remained the best of friends through the most trying of times. CHCH arrived here as a trombone playing midwesterner with an eye on the submarine force. Now he leaves, a cigarette smoking special operations weatherman. What may have molded such a delicate transition? An onslaught of "constructive criticism" endured through three years on our dearly beloved 7-3. Fighting for the first four weeks of school. The slap. Winning that game of chicken with Jared. Downing 2 lokos in some sponsors' basement. Making friends with a deer before the Army game. 21st in ROM. Weakest shoulders in Annapolis. SOBO on the AT. Survived the freight train. Jared's cataclysmic bee-hive firestorm. A thoughtful friend and superlative roommate. Enjoy browsing weather.com for the next 20 years. SGG. -MEW, JMF

Fifi managed to have an impressive 4 years despite passing out during her CVW. At 4'9", 80 pounds, if you'd seen her 4 stripes and perfect uniform/shoes, you'd never guess last Saturday security yelled at her to stop dancing on the bar. Don't let those stripes fool you - she has some fantastic weekend stories - yet is still the epitome of "has her crap together". A true Jack of all trades: Lobonkowski racked up more yards than Gronk, is the only person to go drink for drink with Scant, and is goated at pong/beer ball. Fi "Iron Shawty" Lobon makes your life better the second she's in it. Plus, she's probably the only NARP turned walkon who ended up with several Nattys. A great sailor in every regard — including her ability to outdrink the boys and her affinity for unzipping the sk-… nevermind, GoNADS! While a master of many things, she can't: brush her teeth standing up or finish a whole meal in one sitting. He’s aged well for coming to the Academy after several party-filled years in Florida’s public colleges, but his clothing has not. Rocking his signature look of dad jeans, worn-out Asic runners, a wind breaker older than he is, and his bent aviators, all in his lifted F-250. Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Michael Scantling

Special Warfare

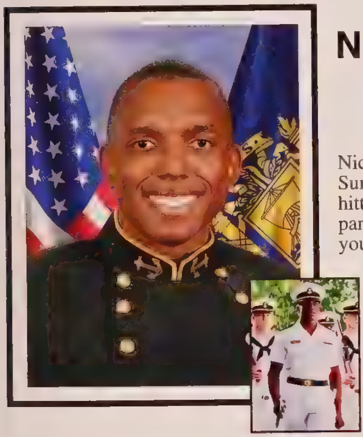
Dear Mrs. Scantling: prepare to meet your son (and possibly the story of your grandson). If you looked up self-control in a dictionary, Michael Scantling would show up as an antonym. Always the first to buy a tower on Thursdays, and the last to show up to formation on Friday mornings. Scantman is no stranger to the 'Dillos dance floor nor a stranger to the early morning $50 venmo request. BIG fan of little marines. A wise man once said, "man I hate Mike Scantling, that dude can blackout 3 times a week and still run a sub 16 minute 3 mile." Allegedly from Ohio. No weekend is complete without Scant's traditional call to action, "LETS GET WEIRD." If presented with a bottle of fireball, he will finish it – no matter the size. Who can blame him though, he has the most room to store it in that "big ass noggin." Drunk selfie extraordinaire. Postponer of Army-Navy. "Three guys on me… I finished them." Freight Train's only hater. "I'M POSITIVE." Mike is the king of good times, quick runs to the general store, and anything that makes his boys happy. Enjoy getting your boys wet and sandy. SSG.

Walter Scott

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Walt can be summarized by simply asking yourself two questions: Would I let him dog sit my puppy, and would I drink at least two beers with him. The answer is clearly maybe to the first and yes to the second. Born in a steel mill outside of Pittsburgh, Walter was quickly embarrassed by his sister who graduated from the naval academy during his plebe year. Determined to make himself standout, Walter began to make a name for himself during his first weekend as a youngster in the great city of Virginia Beach. Not satisfied with this, Walter became a founding member of the infamous Penn State Three and was the first member of the 15th Co. class of '22 to go for an extended stay on the 'block. His reputation as a criminal firmly cemented, the penthouse's resident 'riddle wrapped in a mystery inside an enigma' pursued a career as a quietly Marine Corps-motivated poli sci major with a side hustle as the cornerstone of the nascent USNA Gaelic football franchise. In all honesty, the Marine Corps is getting a good and honest grunt, one we know will be a great officer.



Nicholas Thomas

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Nicholas Evelyn Alexander Thomas is an enigma. Scarred by his shin injuries during Plebe Summer, he has devoted his life to becoming massive and having huge legs, allegedly without hitting them (buys new shirts every week because his arms keep bustin' through the sleeves; his pants stay baggy). If he asks you to be his PRT partner, start looking for a new one. He will replace you when you turn around. He has an uncanny obsession with glugging milk, protein powder, and the Marine Corps. His TikTok algorithm is truly questionable and may be a testament to his character. Also, don't ask Nick about Jill from San Diego, it's quite the sore topic for him. Nick "I can piss where I want to" Thomas. The man, the myth, the legend. The right twix, king of the 2 am Tinder date. Break a car without driving? Leave it to him. Want a terrible haircut? He is a nasty barber. Avatar wind master. King of gains. Jester of cardio. His friendship and goofy grin. One of the best guys I know (The coolest twin out there). Did we mention not to ask him or Jill about his Tinder date in San Diego?

Jovan Vasquez

"Jay-von": the kind of guy who you invite over to the party cause you know he will get along well with everyone. But then your girl and all her roommates are more interested in inviting him over than you. And you just keep inviting him because the ladies want him there. He still remains the dude who was voted "most motivated" in the group chat plebe year. Bovan is our favorite JROTC flag officer (he followed through with the stripes to prove it). From sweeping his plebe summer room butt naked, to YP weekends in VA Beach, to the mean streets of Quantico: he's a man of many talents. The 43rd Commandant of the Marine Corps can teach MCMAP, drink a beer, and chat up the local mid girls at the exact same level of comfort. He has networked the Brigade to an extent which I had not thought possible, earning 7th company friend zones and odd comments about how he'll steal your girl from 28. This Devildog has earned the adoration of an entire class of plebe girls, his companymates, and anyone out there willing to listen to his tales of dedication to our service of arms. SF Jovani.

Davis Wagner

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Davis' time at USNA was one of highs, lows, and bathtubs. Davis was known by everyone as the untouchable man. Davis has already solved human interstellar space flight and time travel. He just did it while in a bathtub and couldn't remember the equations in the morning. Some say the sketches are still carved into his butt cheeks, it was the only writing surface he had. Proudly hailing from Pennsyltucky, neither COVID lockdowns or the conduct system could hope to contain the force of nature known as Davis "professor finesser" Wagner. His exploits are legendary. Has a confirmed kill on a lime scooter. Could win a dogfight against a SU-57 using nothing but a Piper Cub and an AR-15. Must have secretly perfected hypersonic travel because he can go anywhere in the world and back in the span of a weekend. Had his wallet stolen by a CIA agent. Stole the agent's "beverages" in retaliation. Secretly a savant aero major who bleeds red, white, and beer, he's a future barfighting-PhD who'll work for a 3-letter agency. When Davis jokes about taking the rental car to Tijuana, you better buckle up because there's a better than fifty-fifty shot he'll do it.

Marcus Wagner. You can find him in DTA rocking his Sperry Top-Siders, khaki shorts, salmon Oxford shirt, and aviator sunglasses. And yes, it is in the evening. He wears the glasses to attract the ladies. Marcus, has shiny shoes. If you didn't know, he will tell you. He will also tell you he has an ungodly number of knives and an unhealthy obsession with spending money on guns and ammo. Why? Because Texas, that's why. And if you ask dear Marcus a question, even slightly or remotely related to past events, he will deliver a passionate history lecture that will have you on your ass, nodding your head, for 30 minutes. You didn't ask for this, but Marcus was going to give it anyway.

Josiah Watanabe

USMC Pilot

Josiah Watanabe realized that the Coast Guard wasn't for him and settled on the United States Naval Academy. Over plebe summer he was known as the shortest and quietest plebe in the company. Once you were done trying to figure out what he was yelling, you would notice his incredibly shredded physique. Most days he devotes all his time outside sleeping in the classroom to working out and keeping his roommates up doing homework. Josiah Watanabe sings to most any Black Pink song while getting ready or in the shower. Be sure that when he is getting ready that you have a pot of coffee on as we are fairly certain that he is made up of mostly coffee beans. His early plebe days of wanting to be a SWO have thankfully passed and he finally realized his true calling to the Corps. He is one of the most motivating Marine Selects you would find. We are hoping that when it comes down to his aviation career, they will have a booster seat big enough for him to use. At the end of the day, Josiah Watanabe is a great friend and someone you would easily call your brother.

Mitchell White

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

When the phrase "So it was said, so it shall be done," slipped out of Michael White's cake-filled mouth in a small, smelly 7-3 room, the world was never the same. Michael presents a paradox: a low-key bootlicker who embodies the mission of the Naval Academy while simultaneously embodying the phrase "I am up to absolutely zero good". Beginning with his reign of terror plebe year, characterized by a high (kissing) body count, Michael always found ways to bend rules and break hearts (even if it was his own). The most impressive thing about Mike is that he didn't want to follow in his dad's footsteps and instead wanted to carve his own path as a jet flying, USNA alum ("Is that Vanna's kid?"). A devoted 8 semester training staff member, Mike spends his free time asking plebes to unzip their blue and gold jackets to make sure they have a blue rim underneath. If he asks you how your day is, be prepared to explain why in at least 500 words. "Hey, thanks man." Axel aviation mentor enthusiast. Restrictee wannabe. SGG. "Oh yeah, my neighbor the Blue Angel/Navy SEAL/Astronaut/4 star admiral…." FLY NAVY. -JMF, CHCH

Hailing from the beautiful and loved city of Cleveland and inspired by his desire to beat everyone at everything, his love for TGang, and his ability to be convinced to go out into DTA at a moment's notice, Mason "Barfeezy" Bartlett is one of a kind. As the best basketball player on the men's volleyball team, his burden to bear is great, good thing he finds solace by booming on the girl's team at their practices. Absolutely HATES fratting, so he decided dating his coach was more acceptable. Only here to have fun but is imprisoned by his undying need to be good at things. Never invite him to play a game or sport, because he will almost definitely figure it out in about a week and beat you so bad you consider quitting. He learned squash in about a week to become company champion. Be sure to say hi to him in the hallway, or he will be sad for the rest of the day. Proud Human Resource Officer of TGang. With the incredible movie "Midway" inspiring him to select Navy Pilot, he'll be a great pilot and better friend for years to come.

Matt "Does Every Sport Known To Man" Benedettini. He tried soccer for a bit, then triathlon, and now marathons. What is next for this Italian who can't speak Italian? The man who you can always count on to not go out with the boys and continues to feign "being broke" or "another time." Overall, Matt spends his leisure time in his rack, not having to go to briefs that he scheduled himself, or finding every reason to run off the Yard. Seriously, he will develop a knack for a sport one day. Well, at least he found the right school eventually. Matt is absolutely ripped and has more power as a striper than he knows what to do with. He is truly one of the best lads I know. No nerves, have fun, compete. If you are missing Matt, be sure to check the Naval Academy Instagram because he makes an appearance every other post. Matt is a gracious host to all his friends at his sponsor's house, even if the cups get a little messy in the kitchen. Matt is very much an overachiever and is a very honorable man, one of the best people I know.

Jon started Plebe Summer at 135 pounds, pale as a ghost, and SIQ. Jon B was more Gollum than Grand Rapids All-Star. Luckily he's been eating his Wheaties, but despite putting on 35 pounds of yut he still flexes in the mirror and proclaims that he isn't even big. As the forgotten descendent of Chesty Puller, he majored in Marine Corps and minored in political science. Jon leveraged his severe lack of homework to go around brightening up people's days. A servant leader, he has a passion for community service, especially when he can use company funds to ship 1,000 pounds of food to his house. The king of "lifting weights and being a good dude", Jon is beyond excited to join the beloved corps so that he can spend the workday communicating in grunts and the nightshift bailing lance corporals outta lock-up. Always down to throw down, Jon is the undoubtedly loyal mad lad you want in your corner and one of the most positive and "send it" kind of guys you could find. You'll be hard pressed to find a dude with a bigger heart and tighter haircut than this ruck-marching and white monster slamming devil dawg.

Navy Pilot

Do not let Paul's baby face and short stature fool you, for he is by far the crankiest man in the entire brigade. Even his closest of friends get nothing but a blank stare passing him on their way to class. As a man of prestige and talent, Paulie B can rock the baby on a yo-yo, play the Top Gun theme song on harmonica, and manage to run between a 10:25 and 10:29 on every PRT while lugging around the biggest dump truck in all of '22. Paul can likely be found holed up in his room each afternoon with a nice shoe of griz green while shopping online for whatever piece of overpriced equipment is going to magically cure his violent snap hook on the golf course over the weekend. He has a true passion for the aviation community, which is fortunate considering his intelligence was inches away from landing himself a spot in the next nuke school class. In all seriousness, this passion is what will help Paul be an extremely competent officer and even better person in the years to come.

Jeremiah's the kind of guy that would rip it to DC in an uber based off a flip of a coin because we just watched the Dark Knight. He also got picked up for crypto but doesn't know what that entails. He may say he loves you after 1 date but just knows he means it, sometimes. One of the few English majors I've met that still doesn't know how to read but somehow makes it through. Keeping it consistent with the rest of the room he was one of 1 the lowest to be picked for his service selection. As it should be. He may not have known the difference between Colombians and Mexicans when we first met but after 4 years ago ago he definitely knows his Colombian food now. Miah is the kind of guy that'll listen to your girl problems and remember your dog's name. To top that, Jerry has the juiciest caboose on this side of the Mississippi. Whenever you need help he gives the best hugs and is the guy you can count on to get your drunk roommate back safely. Finally the best part, if he met my mom before my dad did I would be half black...apparently.

Hailing from the unknown, possibly fictional town of Wausau, Wisconsin, Benjamin Jerold Diny AKA Dinbot is the ideal midshipman. He procrastinates, worries about everything and still accomplishes anything he wants to. If you see Diny around be sure to give him a thumbs up and thank him for upholding the standard by telling you privately that he saw someone you barely know breaking the rules. Don't forget to check your chairs for thumbtacks before you sit down if he has been by recently. As long as he has been awake for at least 30 minutes he is a great thinker and a hard worker, but if he just woke up do not expect him to function whatsoever. If you see him asleep on the floor fully dressed, feel free to wake him up. He'll give you a thumbs up and go back to sleep. The rare occasions Den Biny loosens up the collar on his SDBs to let loose and have some drinks, he has violent food poisoning the next day. One can see an inverse correlation between the quality of Dart's hair and his skills on the ice. As he evolved as a player, his hair devolved to straw, all the while still maintaining his strikingly above-average looks. Darts can best be described as a toddler in a grown man's body, due to his tendency to collapse in a fit of rage or sit in a corner spouting unrecognizable verbiage. Despite successful attempts to look as stupid as possible, Darts takes NHF to heart, making him a beast off the ice. On the ice, he is average. Darts is built like an ox and has the mental fortitude to match. Darts was far from a direct to USNA, graduating high school when the Black Eyed Peas first premiered. While he managed to play through pain, old age took a toll on his ankle integrity, making him an unfortunate recipient of the famous BMU scooter for plebe and youngster year. Despite his love for herbal teas, Dr. Darts couldn't heal himself. Regardless of all his setbacks, he pressed on and made himself one of the most personable, determined, and trustworthy guys on the yard. The boys are going to miss you.

Many people come to Sam for advice, stay for his specially brewed coffee, then leave because the former. Whether you need hot cortado, a friend to share some crispy air, financial advice on living with crippling debt, or someone to discuss Hemingway or 20th century absurdist theater, Sam is your man, if you're lucky enough to find him when he is not wrenching on Norma Jeane–his extremely reliable, financially prudent 1965 Mustang that he definitely has no regrets buying. Sam once turned down a free ticket to Hawaii with the Coast Guard (good choice)... now he finds himself heading to Hawaii anyway with his ideal summer bod, the result of a diet of nothing but black coffee and waffles from Grump's Cafe. Kade is the result of a DARPA experiment to augment the human brain with a quantum processor. It was by all accounts a resounding success, but it required that his blood alcohol and Bang content be at least .07 to prevent his overclocked gray matter from overheating. Don't call it a comeback: Kade is the defending lightweight champion of the world, and has spent many nights deleting stiff IPAs on the mean streets of Annapolis (or visiting the shadow realm assisted by trashcans), only to come back to the hall and swear "bro, I could totally still sauce a ret2libc right now" as he struggles to find the keyboard. When he's not programming miniature brains, he can be found on the roof of Dahlgren eating pizza while contemplating the Drake Equation. Don't let him fool you when he says he's in the navy: he's spent a grand total of 3 days on a sub. In all seriousness, Kade is the hardest working, hardest hitting, and most colorfully dressed renaissance man I know. He's a great mid, a better friend, and is bringing all 160 pounds of twisted steel and sex appeal with him to England and eventually Navy Cyber. Killer.

Ben and I have one thing in common, we both love soccer. The only difference is I was too good to be on the varsity team, while he was just so much better that the team couldn't do without him. He's not a very visible guy, but he's very much present when he's around. I will always remember the day Ben took me to an Asian restaurant in New York so I can try something new only to watch me out-eat him. What an embarrassment! I'm glad I know this fine marine corps officer in the making. 4 years of being the roommate of a professional soccer player for the Seattle Sounders, wow what an honor. The most motivated, hard work, dedicated to the stoics kid you will ever meet. Claims he "doesn't drink alcohol" because "my body is a temple" and then proceeds to be carried out of Pussers. Classic. The definition of a Team Guy, NMS is better off because of him. This kid saw the beautiful streets of Quantico and said "yes, this is paradise for me". The Marine Corps is lucky to have him, and he truly is going to enjoy digging all of those holes.

Being a very intelligent and educated student at THE DeMatha High School prepared him for the most rigorous 4 years of academics USNA has to offer- Oceanography (Honors). However, it did not prepare him to mingle with girls, though his abilities have skyrocketed over the past four years (it is easy to improve from 0). Why is Jordan so mad? Just ask him- he will gladly explain it to you! His glory days of hurling 83mph fastballs prepared him well for the most respected team on the yard, JV Squash. After a heartbreaking loss in the company squash tournament (don't bring it up), he hung up his non-marking shoes and goggles and shifted his focus to intramurals. So, ask him for a copy of his 16-Co-varsity-intramural- flag-football season highlights video! Yes, he has been in a plane that flew through a hurricane multiple times- no one really knows why or what he accomplished though, other than spending weeks on Caribbean beaches. The submarine community is very fortunate to have such a hardworking, honest, and generous individual. If he hasn't already enjoyed his 12th Dr. Pepper of the day, he will gladly share one with you. If Dan tells you his girlfriend is in town, don't even bother asking him to hang. "Dude lets just go hang at 31's it will be so much better." His classic "NOW I'm fired up" is a complete lie because the man is always moving 10,000 mph. Could not be more excited to see Dan get married in 3 years and spend the rest of his life with the only person he ever talks to. If you ever buy yourself something nice, make sure to hide it from Dan, because he hates stuff and will make sure you know it. A social butterfly some would say. If you are ever with Dan, be prepared to stop and talk with almost every person he passes and for him to answer a phone call every few minutes. Got the nickname forky from Toy Story because she doesn't know how to act. Gets drunk and thinks she can survive a punch from isaac then complains about the bruise for the next month. Has major fomo. Such a homosiri. If she starts taking deep breaths, FIND A TOILET. Could defeat China as a one man operation because they are mean to dogs. Bondedo. Chip, queso, motorboat, and falling out of a car is somehow one incident. If she's crying, don't hold her hand and laugh while looking out the window. Garlic in a shaker bottle. "Leave him alone you bastards!" Starboard Drive. "Kids breakfast is ready!" Signs of anxiety: walking fast, peeing a lot, bouncing your leg. Friends, a friend, coffee, a juul, and immaculate vibes. Questionable alcoholic…but likes it? Hits the gym so hard the gym gets sore. Sister and… Isaac. Met her on a street corner. Equestrian team - that's all I need to say. What happened to your chin? Hopelessly addicted to "snacks." Parents pay her friends. Shockingly durable, witnessed her face plant on the corner of a stone bench and body slam bleachers to save a volleyball, somehow came out unharmed (kinda). SLEEPY! THAT IS ALL.

David Nelsen. King Beast Slime, Swordfish, Arizonan, Disc Golf connoisseur, and accidental sub 4 miler. Truly an anomaly of a human being. One could compare him to a chihuahua with his great level of energy and incessant yapping. Some would describe David as funny, but that's mainly because he never shuts up. Our friend goes by many names... Dave truly is a ladies man. If it's just gonna be all dudes, he'll let the cat out of the bag. You may want to inquire about one special CMOD desk, his ballad entitled Cold Cuts, or his rapunzel date in Flag. Dave is a prime virtue signaler; he NEVER uses big words with the King Hall staff, refuses to idle, and always recycles. Agreeable Dave is so nice and non-confrontational because he grew up with only sisters. Don't ever try trash talking him in spikeball. It's comical that Dave is headed down to flight school since he's actually an abhorrent driver. At least there's no parked cop cars to smash into in the air. In all seriousness, David is a sweetheart, a national treasure, an entertainer, and the most loyal friend ever. No matter how short a time his mile school record stands, he's a legendary Navy XC runner and he'll do amazing out there in the big world.

The scrappiest white hispanic around, you can see Liam picking fights he can't win all across the yard at varying times of the day just to see him lose and try and fight the same person again the next day. He lives in creative mode, doing whatever he wants, when he wants; writing up and executing the most heinous plans at a moment's notice. If you think he's at peak performance in the pool, then you clearly haven't seen him crushing Friday beers. I have never met a man with more sons, or a longer wingspan. He loves to hit the surf, in fact, he is the surf, causing people from old dominion to DOR at the slightest touch. Isaac is a dangerous and courageous man. Hey man say man James Jimmy Jakes Jimothy Jimbob Tuley crawled out of an oversized platypus egg from a Georgia swamp that his dad mistook for a football. After months of coddling, being lasered through goalposts, and time near the 'bama championship ring, out popped a hairless, amphibious animal-human hybrid creature. Though part platypus, he always wished he was a seal instead. Probably explains why he's naked all the time. To transmorph himself into Phoca vitulina he continually locked himself in a rickety shed with a bunch of dogs that engaged in REDACTED, handcuffed him to an ass-bike, and shouted "Nightmare! Nightmare! Nightmare!" in unison until he grew retractable fins like sharkboy. I've had the privilege of spending some memorable moments with James. Whether that be our beach vacation last summer, or getting lost on High Knob, James was always right there by my side. Well let's change it to "a Hillbilly North of Philly" and that's all you really need to know about Mac. If you have ever wandered around Bancroft and heard a duck quacking or a goose calling that means that you're very close to finding this handsome fellas' room. If you ever want to have a massively long conversation with Mac all you have to do is just mention the words fishing and hunting since that is all this dude ever thinks about. He is too invested in these activities to even think about doing any schoolwork. This guy loves waking up early to shoot some guns, making him a perfect candidate for the Corps. But in all honesty, Mac is a good guy and an even better friend because he is always down for a good time and will always have your back no matter what. Navy Pilot

A New York Nuisance, a Dallas Delinquent. Luke Ackerman, one of the most controversial members of 17th company, hails from remote unpopulated Northern California, and you can tell by how bad he is at interacting with other human beings sometimes. A man who can quote every Navy regulation, and only care about a third of them. How much bling does a guy need? Just a little more, and it doesn't matter where it goes. Probably shouldn't wear that old engagement ring, though, and I'm not sure they'll let you take those piercings to space. When Luke's not in Mac D throwing around the equivalent of a refrigerator like a feather pillow, you can find him piping in 4th wing basement or scouring King Hall to meet his macros for the day. The soon-to-be astronaut is going places: Pensacola, Mars, any gay bar within a 35 mi radius. Some call him a renaissance man. Everyone else is probably right. An amazing friend who will drop everything except his rocketship mug to help you with whatever you need. His big heart and dedication to helping others will take him far both in the fleet and life. To infinity and beyond, Mr. President.

In 1777, Morocco was the first nation to publicly recognize a newly independent United States, setting the stage for the greatest gesture of goodwill in the history of mankind, giving us Ahmed "Bambi" Baameur. Thank God he got out of accidentally enlisting in the Marine Corps because 17th Company would be lost without him. His trademark Speed Racer beanie and big brown eyes can melt the coldest of hearts (too bad they're colorblind) and his athleticism is second only to his can-do attitude. Ahmed is an outstanding citizen. I have never seen him succumb to any vices. He always drinks within his limits, knows when to not buy-in again, and if you give him a color-blind test he will pass with flying colors. The only bad thing about Ahmed is that he is too buried in the books to go out regularly. But that's just the type of person you're signing up for with Ahmed, just a great dude. If you're ever feeling glum, all it takes is one of Ahmed's signature "Go Team!"s to turn your day around. Insha'Allah he will achieve his dream of becoming a successful pilot!

Most likely to: get shot in any hood; overpay for street hotdogs; talk about rowing and chemistry more than vegans talk about themselves; mention he could change his oil but still pay someone to do it; disappoint his father by parking a car; marry a dominant woman; never learn to fold laundry. An avid fan of high-brow classical music like Rainbow Kitten Surprise, Luciano enjoys lengthy discussions about beekeeping and his unforgettable catch phrase: "Haha, yeah." He's had countless academic successes here at the Academy, yet every time you begin to think he's intelligent, he does something absurd that takes you right back to square one. The jury is still out, but there may be some kind of savant thing going on. Despite his four main personality traits–chemistry, high school rowing, Pittsburgh, and strangely-timed, bizarre comments–Luciano is a mentor and teacher in his faith. Though he can't get enough naps, Luciano "Leatherneck Lover" Barrante in fact loves his friends slightly more. If Charles was given the choice between rescue or infinite supplies to live on a deserted island, he would choose the supplies. The man has gotten so much money back from reporting incorrect Chipotle delivery orders that the DTA Chipotle is threatening to declare bankruptcy. Our smooth-brained Staten Island native finds his happy place yelling at other motorists on the freeway. His desire to take up dangerous activities like skydiving only stems from his longing to finally feel something. Others may claim unexplainable prowess when ingesting alcohol, but eyewitnesses state that they spotted a rogue Sicilian leaping from a two story building when a hotel party came to an abrupt end. Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Although not classified as a high achiever, Hayden possesses an uncanny and incomparable ability to operate at peak physical performance while hungover. Though he holds many fears, such as 500-word essays and successful women, Hayden's greatest fear is the sun itself. Hayden has many sayings and is known for infamous quotes such as "You Muppet," "Bro, I swear I pulled 405," and "Dude, I think she likes me, I may have a chance." Although the Naval Academy was never his first choice, he sure has settled into the man we all wanted him to become.

Ryan Magnuson

Navy Pilot

Ryan Magnuson, Mag, Magalag, is a Long Island native and certainly won't let you forget that once you get to know him. His calm, smooth demeanor makes one think he might be trying really hard to be cool or that he was dropped on his head as an infant. Mag spends his weekdays on the lacrosse field or in his rack looking for the next scheme out of class/events. On the weekends Mag is a regular at the bars tearing it up on the dance floor or hanging out with someone from one of his classes that he won't talk to sober. His Sundays consist of him laying on the couch taking care of his favorite 5 S's. Nonetheless, he pulls it off quite well and does this with style. Ryan's spirit animal is Tank Evans from Surfs Up, who he tries to embody in his everyday life. Most importantly, however, Mag will be a force to be reckoned with in Pensacola. Those who get to fly in his cockpit one day will be lucky.

Wilson McClelland

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Wilson was born to fly; he grew up fast, but once he became a youngster decided running wasn't actually his thing. Although he may no longer max his PRTs with ease, he sure does look good after getting into lifting. He now lives out his life on the club soccer pitch and intramural volleyball court. While not really a beer guy, he still Carpes the Noctem with tweas or a cosmo, probably. He is a fan of Fed House cider towers, rum and cokes, and girls from out of town. He prides himself on completing homework early while catching tonight's game and being the first of his roommates to go to sleep. His favorite holiday is Thanksgiving, where he goes home to Michigan to watch the Lions lose a football game every year surrounded by his family, but never forget that 2022 was the year Michigan defeated Ohio State. While we have all spent the last four years trying to determine if he is grumpy or sarcastic, he can always be found excitedly supporting 17ers at their sporting events.
Fun Sock Friday. Carpe Noctem.

Do not even attempt to get into an argument with this guy, because he will put you in a body bag in a matter of seconds. This former enlisted devil dog hung up the MARPATs for a few years to receive a degree in the easiest engineering major he could find and a masters in cleaning up trash in the oceans, all while wearing the most oversized SDB jacket you've ever seen. Brody works out more than 99% of the brigade and will be the first person to let you know it. Despite being extremely physically gifted, he lasted a combined 5 days on both the heavyweight crew team and rugby team, ultimately calling it quits due to multiple shattered bones. He refuses to drink beer and sticks to his strict diet of superfoods and vodka sodas, yet always questions why he never remembers the events that took place over the weekend. Upon graduation, Brody decided it would be a good idea to extend his already lengthy military career as a pilot for the Corps. All jokes aside, Brody is about as down to earth as they come and will be a great Marine officer after his return from retirement.

Leave it to Leetasia to score tries on the weekend with Women's rugby then get surgery the next week, get hurt every semester (yet somehow BMU isn't concerned), never work out but is buff, always on the phone(with her baby sister who can't talk yet while simultaneously talking to you), ALWAYS has AirPods in, always snacking, and can only dance when drunk. When I saw her nameplate I thought to myself "Midgette" … "I wonder if she really is one", then I met her and found out she wasn't hehe. She was quite shy and she came across as a quiet Christian girl. Christian girl? Yes. Quiet? Not even close! Her laugh is beyond contagious. Huge asset to the Marine Corps. Lee is also honest. If you need someone to tell the blunt truth, but cover it as a joke THIS IS YOUR GIRL!! You may not hear it unless you're an ear shot away, but you will hear that laugh for sure. Little did I know the day I met Midge would be the day I gained a sister. She's one of the best people to have in your life.

USMC Pilot

"Cap" is the pinnacle of leadership. From leading Navy B Hockey on the ice to directing the boys to Acme Bar and Grill on a Tuesday night for some voddy reds and outdoor hoons, Owen is always seen on the front lines. A supportive and dedicated friend, he genuinely cares about his people and is always there to offer advice or simply listen. That is, if you can pull him away from his camp chair in front of Guy's Grocery Games. Norts is quite the skilled hockey player, his pigeon chest seemingly taking flight down the ice as he leads the team to a hopeful yet unlikely victory. His hockey prowess pales in comparison to his ability to leverage the ugly, greasy, scumbag nature of our opposing teams to craft some of the finest chirping heard on ACHA ice. He certainly loves getting groovy to Low (Apple Bottom Jeans) by Flo Rida with Forrest Gump and Bill Belichick's right hand man. Going on adventures with an Air Force python and a holy brother, Cap showed true battlefield readiness, as expected of a Marine. For these reasons and countless more, Owen Norton will make an excellent officer and a better man.

Wesley Nourachi

Submarine Nuclear

Wesley Nourachi is the reason that the Navy should not have hair regulations. His flow on I-Day was unmatched and it was a damn shame to see it go. Despite having to conform to the same haircut as every other dude here, Wes continues to stand out by being an absolute genius and a calming presence for his otherwise rambunctious roommates. One of the few 2%ers left, he's probably spent more total time on the phone than on homework over the past 4 years. Wes lives by the quote, "don't let school get in the way of your education". All the nerds out there are nodding with approval, but this is just a facade for him. Wes may take some sick partial derivatives while discovering the fifth dimension (he said it's love by the way), but will first consume massive amounts of data for his actual education through YouTube. His humor, while niche, is infectious and ever expanding. Just like the universe. He may be the reason our group chats have green text bubbles, but we love him anyways <3.

When Cade Ogden declared himself a crossfitter, everyone thought they were having deja-vu. Maybe because of the many who came before him, or was it because this was the 35th time that Cade told them that he does crossfit? We will never know. Just like most of us will never know the perseverance required to achieve the rank of green belt in MCMAP. Excuse me, green belt with a tab. Cade hates heat in small spaces, anime, and weakness. Just from what you have heard so far, you can tell that Cade is one hard dude, but his thiccc shell does not reach his core. He loves Jesus, his fiance, ice cream, tossing the 'ol pigskin, shooting hoops, and shooting games made for children. Cade's many friends will tell you that he's an all around good and reliable dude that does not belong in a casino. Unless the Marine Corps is anything like fantasy football, Cade's gonna make a great Marine. Semper thigh, my caked up boy.

Never forget the Colombian Borat describing his adventures at Blue and Gold only for training staff to publicly identify his illegal and dangerous activities. From hitchhiking, Hot Wheels Modeling, hiding in car trunks, to being changed by Christ; he'll keep you on your toes. An agent of chaos or a hero, the world may never know. Despite his lack of a functional immune system, smaller than average stature, and ability to create decibel levels of snoring that are completely disproportionate to his size, I can't think of anyone I would rather have my back. A lover of speedos, leopard print pants, women's thrift store shorts, ugg boots, and civies at Double T Diner; his fashion sense is unmatched. He fears neither man nor machine and this will serve him well down in the swamps of Quantico. However, his love for others will serve him most of all and I am sure his Marines will feel as lucky and blessed to have Chris in their lives as all those who have had the pleasure of knowing him these four years. Please marry up and stop consuming dairy.

Brenton (Peter) Pieper is a man of many talents. He speaks fluent cyber nerd, can hold his own on the Dillo's dance floor, can pick an excellent bottle of wine, and his brain is larger than that of Megamind. Furthermore he will never forget a single detail, I promise you he does not. With his masculine charm, devastating dance moves, and inhuman QPR, Brenton is almost the model midshipman. Alas, he's spent an hour a day for the last four years silently giggling at memes when he should've spent those hours learning how to swim, an essential skill for when he's a SWO in the coming war with China. Brenton's life is so difficult. He has trouble holding intelligent conversations with the average cyber major, he had to choose between MIT, Penn, Cambridge, and Harvard, his parents prefer his two younger, more intelligent siblings, he's had to maintain a long-distance relationship with a sane female who's out of his league, and he's difficult to look at on a moderately sunny day. So the next time you think you have a big brain, remember Brenton, whose heart is as large as his brain, both only second to his love of sarcasm.

OH HI MARK. Mark Roh is a true freak of nature. Everybody knows him for having the physique of a greek god, his charming smile, pumping out 40 pull ups, and clutching out exams. This awarded him an OOM of 1, but was short lived as he chose Computer Science as his major. His performance declined and he failed a summer class, resulting in an academic separation. Wooing his chain of command, he convinced them to let him be retained. You would think he learned his lesson by rekindling his fire for edumacation. However, he instead chose to spend an ungodly amount of time behind his computer screen which resulted in a shattered mouse clicker and his game account being banned for profanity.

This star-crossed lover's many nicknames go to show his wild popularity around the brigade. While his roles change, one constant is our love for him. Never will you find such a fiercely loyal friend and someone who will absolutely demolish you for being the way that you are. Christian has the gift and curse of always telling it like it is, and we wouldn't have him any other way. Quirks include his love of whiskey, talking about the Linux OS, attracting broken girls, surrounding himself with Asian women, and being the go-to guy for a good shoulder to cry on and advice whenever anyone's down bad. Sometimes, if you listen, you can hear his maniacal laughter in the wind… or more likely in the P-way. Came here with no knee cartilage and is leaving here the same. He has better luck cracking AES than picking up women in DTA. Play to your strengths. Girls are dumb, stick to the whiskey and video games.

Gabriel Rudasill

USMC Ground

Gabriel Rudasill is a man for the people. The one you can count on at any time. The one who will always listen and support you. He is the one who will give to others, but not to himself. He is one of the most genuine, kind, and caring people on the yard and actually lives by the motto "just be a good dude." Although, he does struggle with running and sometimes defecates during. Gabe excels in academics, giving advice, and ruining relationships while drunk. And despite the topographical map on his head, he sucks at land nav. His feet must get cold, why else would there be a TON of socks in his rack. Hopefully he buys thermal boats for TBS. We say that his cluttered desk is just evidence of a busy mind, but he is just messy. If you ever walk into Gabe Rudasill's room and his area isn't littered with miscellaneous clothing, shoes, and papers all over the floor, it's not his room. All-in-all Gabe is an approachable, down to Earth guy who I know will be extremely successful wherever he goes. Or at least that's what I would say if I didn't live with him.

Jimmy "Definitely Jumped" Selby is a special young man. As the most handsome member of Trident Brass, he's damn good at blowing [trumpet] and may just be the least athletic person on the yard, but you can't know Jim and not respect his unwavering commitment to being himself. He also demands respect as the only person who may just have bigger ears than HW '22. Now leaving the Academy, he has abandoned his family legacy in the Submarine Force, disappointed his father, and somehow maintained an unfailing love for Halo. Jim is probably one of the most easily flustered yet completely unbothered people I've ever met. When he's not simping, you can find him running (and running), doing push-ups with two broken legs, or eating an entire sleeve of oreos. Some say it's difficult to get into the Naval Academy if you are from Maryland, especially without any type of legacy to help you. It must have been through charisma and intellect that the Academy wanted Jim, because you couldn't possibly think of another person, or reason, or ears, that could have helped his application. He sure is a quirky guy, and we're certain the aviation community is getting him.

As a self proclaimed "Detailer for God," the only thing she cares about more than our Lord and Savior is taking care of people; few Midshipmen have put up with as many SIMPs as she has, and the argument could be made that more attention was given than necessary. One of the world's biggest mysteries is how so much stress can fit into one tiny body. If you are taking her to a restaurant, make sure they have a kids menu available. Caitlynn will do more for the Navy than the Navy may ever do for her, but as long as her taste in service assignment is more flexible than her taste in food she'll do just fine! Caitlynn is fiercely passionate and protective of the people she holds close to her heart, and we would follow our Nordic Queen into battle any time, any day.

Throughout human history, some questions have perplexed the minds of renowned philosophers, wise men, and thinkers. Where did we come from? Are we alone in this universe? Why are we all here? And perhaps most puzzling of all, how is it that TJ hasn't been kicked out of the Academy? Once a small boy who loved shining shoes, doing chow calls, and reminiscing on his glory days in NJROTC, TJ now refuses to go to anything even remotely mandatory, pushes the limits on hair regs, and continually looks for ways to keep his ineffective SARM usage from being discovered. With DSLs that would make Kylie Jenner envious, he is truly one of the most attractive humans on the planet. The quintessential white guy, his personality consists entirely of golf, fishing, surfing, and Toyota Tacoma. Possibly the most liberal person I know. Is either incredibly kind, or hates money. Hailing from suburbia, North Carolina, Nate struggles with his identity as a city boy. His trucker hats, NASCAR obsession, and slight southern accent (only when he's around real southerners) make it seem like he might actually be from the South. On the other hand, his round-toe cowboy boots, disdain for whiskey, and soft hands say otherwise. This charade extends to his love life where he's so incredibly desperate to find a country girl that background checks go out the window. We all miss his Fat Nate phase, and sure do wish he'd come back to us, but we're at least okay with the guy we have now as he brought us Banquies and Toltec if nothing else. Despite never doing hard labor or seeing the country, Nate puts down beer like a blue collar good old boy and has a damn good taste in music. Being a high school football and lacrosse stud prepared him well to attend a Maryland state school such as the Naval Academy. As one of the few "athletic" members of the heavyweight '22s, he kept that strong connection to the sport of lacrosse and its players. In the summer of 2021, Walsh managed to mark his territory nationwide: on the shores of Coronado, in the toilets of Quantico, and on the streets of Michigan Ave. While at school Walsh abides by the theory of Nap time, all the time, unless someone turns on a Fisher song. During his infrequent waking hours, James can be found binging every show on Netflix or hosting the entire heavyweight crew team in the room he shares with his three NARP roommates. He will undoubtedly have an incredible career in the fleet. Just wait until he writes his book in 20 years to read about it.

One may wonder if he has the mental maturity of a developmentally disabled four-year old, but he'll quickly remind you how smart he is by rattling off useless information about polyatomic ions or unsaturated hydrocarbons. Having almost love chitted for every firstie dude in the company, Hunter has finally decided to try kissing girls instead, and settled down with his sponsor family's nanny. It's not weird. Hunter is sure to have a good time down in Florida, where his unwavering devotion to open-toed shoes will finally be appropriate. He is unflappable in the face of adversity and is stress-free at all times. His smile, his liver, and his brute athleticism will serve him well on the die tables of Pensacola. His one flaw is that every time he starts to gain weight, he falls deathly ill and loses it all again.. Ryan has done a total of three hours of homework in his time as an honors Political Science major, and between his weighted blanket and half-dozen fans, he sleeps more than a housecat. Anyone who knows him knows they can rely on him to give the shirt off his back in a time of need. He'll be remembered for going head to head against brigade medical and winning. Caroline, also known as Carol, is 18th company's token 9 year vegetarian. You can always catch Carol talking with others despite her "having tons of homework to do that she's going to grind on". Carol is also in the 1% club. This is someone who is dating their high school sweetheart while simultaneously dating their ex-boyfriend who is also a mid. You can find Carol at all times of the day eating cheese, dancing in the mirror to Mariah Carey and telling others "I don't care what boat I'm in". She has short legs, big beautiful green eyes and an impressive party in the back. She's the epitome of a quirky girl. She loves the color yellow, has 356 playlists and sprays pillow mists on her clan of stuffed avocados every night before bed. Despite these personality flaws, you will never find a better friend than Carol. Her friends know her as a Jesus-loving, dependable, joyful gal who is fiercely loyal, quick to listen, and wears a smile no matter the situation. Those who will have the pleasure of knowing her and her avocado family in the future will be loved and cherished by the lovely Caroline Coleman herself.

At any given time, Thomas can be found doing one of three things: singing, speaking French on the phone, or reading manga for hours on end. He was pretty aimless career-wise coming into USNA and at some point just decided he wanted to fly things, and the crazy, big-nosed boy actually got it. While the Computer Science Department views him as an absolute failure, his friends and peers view him as someone who is very down to earth and is always willing to be a listening ear and give the best advice he possibly can. A conductor of many experiments, you can always find Thomas researching just how much he can drink in one weekend. From Friday afternoon to 1755 on a Sunday, he is constantly pushing the human limit for science. The only place that hates Thomas more than Acme is the USNA men's Glee club. He shined as a member of the barbershop quartet but unfortunately his true calling was the intramural volleyball team. Thomas is the kind of guy who is surprisingly great at a lot of things.

For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of alcohol poisoning and chronic knee pain while serving as a Midshipman at the United States Naval Academy. Creech was procrastinating on a computer science project when she received a text reading 'Come out!' Turning off South Park and taking the last sip of her Orange Creamsicle Reign, she uttered 'Heard' in a dense Kentucky drawl and proceeded to DTA using the weekday liberty obtained via maxing every PRT. As she moved towards her objective, Ja'Whaun Bentley of the Patriots dropped from the ceiling and tackled her before running off, crumbling both of her ACLs and her rotator cuff. Dragging herself to O'Briens by her fingertips, she repeatedly repelled sleep from all sides. Upon arrival, she paid the Iron Price for her drinks. By her unmatched obstinance, physical prowess, work ethic, and her genuine care for others, she brings great credit upon the Naval Service and her beloved Corps. This act was in keeping with the highest ideals of the Women's Rugby Team, 18th Company, and the Georgetown, KY Buffalo Wild Wings. We will miss our crackhead and wish her well in her future extermination of America's enemies.

Official mascot of 18 when wearing the fuzzy yard dog costume, but doesn't need it with his fuzzy chest. Always the first one to tell everyone how Italian's do it, because it's obviously better, given that their food is superior. Sweats profusely so 0/10 recommend standing next to him on the bulkhead. For someone whose spirit animal is objectively a Grizzly bear, he cannot sleep. An official wetter of conversation, because conversation is never dry with Nick around. If I could count the number of times I've wanted to smack this incredibly loud, knows-just-what-buttons-to-push bear of a man upside the head, I could buy all of Sicily. Only person to ever arrive at the true culinary enlightenment of korean fried chicken krispy kreme doughnut sandwiches with Chick-fil-a's milkshakes. Probably one of the first people to complete Plebe Summer without a belt. He's a kind hearted big man, an aficionado and man of taste, and all around incredible individual. Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Danny is one of the most unique and simple creatures on this Earth. Its never a bad time when Danny or his alter-ego "Cholo" are around. With Danny around you will most likely be called "American Boy", wrestle to the ground, or laugh until you (or him) pee your pants because of the way he acts when drunk or sober. Moreover, don't be shocked by this hairy muscle-man body, this strong-boy is also the biggest Star Wars fanboy anyone has ever seen. I did not know how cool it was to have Star Wars seat covers, or have bumper stickers, and collect action figures…and I hope to never know. He will also spend half of his Second Class loan on action figures he won't let anyone play with. Danny is one of a kind in how he will do anything for anybody no matter how busy or stressed he is. A trait many people do not have and will never have. If you ever get to meet Danny you will be filled with happiness, love, or stuck cleaning his drunk pee. If someone asked one of his friends to compare Danny to anything, a Bulldog or Pitbull would be sufficient.

Jake started his Naval Academy career in a bold way. He sought to conduct the most epic spirit mission of all time, attending a UMD frat party in issued sweats on a Thursday night. He knew that his cool navy sweats would help him talk to the ladies and he was ready to "step it up." His efforts proved in vain when the uber driver, a TAD posing as a mall cop, put him in MIDS to be fried. Alas! What a night he could have had! But it turned out to help Jake in the long run, because his time on restriction molded him into a model midshipman. Jake has the record for most formations attended and shiniest shoes in the brigade. But don't let his Master Sergeant-like appearance and standard-upholding behavior hide the fact that his secret idol is Soulja Boy. His firstie summer followed Soulja Boy's lead when he pulled off the impressive task of one block of leave, then another block of leave, then another block of leave: 3 blocks. Jake also dominates his competition both on and off the tennis court, especially against Slick Rick, Bancroft caution cones, Club Excalibur, and bottles of Grey Goose at Russian barbecues. Joking aside, Jake is as loyal of a friend as they come and we can't wait to see him take his talents from the tennis courts to America's most secret computers.``+

Elizabeth "Grimdawg"'s quietness is just a cover for her ferocity. Her last name combines a word meaning 'merciless' with the designator of a Soviet air-superiority fighter. Centuries ago, the DoD realized that a sonar technician working on a platform lacking sonar assets was a waste and recruited her for the DARPA super soldier program. The result is Grimdawg: a fine-tuned instrument of death. She adds a notch to her K-Bar for every case of traumatic encephalopathy she inflicts on another. When she isn't punching people or shining shoes, you can find her gazing longingly at space and maybe enjoying a nice hot cup of tea before receiving the next call of duty. Beyond upholding the standard, Grandma Liz brings great historical perspective to 18th Company. It's always nice to have a salty prior tell you that standing that extra watch isn't that bad. Even with the late hours staying up trying to barely stay SAT, Grimdawg looks out for all her classmates and is an honest, reliable, and kind-hearted person. We're glad she finally drank the Kool-Aid and wish her a warm and fulfilling future of deleting J-20s over the South China Sea and leading the Martian secessionist movement.

Nick aka DJ Slyk is one of the only people that I have met who is always having a good time. He always has a smile on his face whether it's Plebe Summer, water polo practice, or watching film. His biggest claim to fame is being the Godfather of BM. He ruled Mexico with an iron fist and fought the good fight against Rade. He holds the record for the most times being kicked out of practice for being too good. His generosity resulted in Navy Water Polo being able to hire an additional coach. Nick is infamous for his extremely creative Snapchats, he would never be so bland as to just send his face... I have never seen Nick do homework, but I have heard him talk about how much money he will make with his OR degree. There is no one on this earth who matches his skills in finesse, especially with customer service. Nick would never tell you this but he is originally from Sacramento and he loves the Kings. An avid Redbull drinker, Noah takes "Redbull gives you wings" much more seriously than his counterparts by being a part of the USNA Parachute Team, or the P-Team for short. Many think that he truly believes Redbull does give you wings, and is waiting for the day he won't need to pull his chute. If you can't find Noah sleeping in his room, he is likely sleeping elsewhere and is well known for his record of sleeping 24 hours in one day. Class was generally seen as optional for MIDN Hensley... similar to how he saw informing his father about his performance. However, varsity ESports practice was an absolute must. Nobody at the Academy grinds harder than he does and it shows when MIDN Hensley becomes a Pro-Gamer (Valorant: a low quality game entertaining today's youth for hours upon hours). Above all, Noah is an amazing friend. He is always willing to lend an ear and is a great shoulder to cry on. Standing with pride at 73 ¾ inches and a whopping 135 pounds, Noah showers others with love, just as sunlight warms the skin. He will do amazing things in the future!

John "Nobs" Jack has truly transformed himself during his time at the Academy. Over Plebe Summer, John used his JROTC experience to keep his classmates in check. Four years later and it's a daily occurrence to hear "where's John?" While John wouldn't be caught dead at anything mandatory, the last place to look for him is in class (you've come a long way from worrying about OWLs). So, where is John? The safest bet is that he's off the Yard on liberty. If he's not there, here are some other good options: writing essays to his girlfriend, operating a con-locker kitchen, getting arrested while skateboarding, or just waiting until his roommates are asleep so he can take a shower, make food, and start his homework. Of course, he could always be in the gym working on another body transformation (dude did the dirtiest bulk, failed the PRT, then completed the EOD screener and a 50-miler). While it's true that John has lived by his own set of rules at USNA, we wouldn't have it any other way. He's always been a great friend, whether it's traveling the world or talking about life all night. The Corps stole a good one.

On the surface, Caroline Johnston is just another well dressed, fake tanned, blonde haired product of one of the most expensive private boarding schools in America. But just like the submarine she will one day lead, there is so much more below the surface. Her passion to serve this country started during her short time at Georgetown, where she knew she wanted something more than living as a D.C. socialite. CJ showed up to the Academy with wide eyes and rosy cheeks- cheeks so round and rosy, in fact, that they have earned her the nickname 'peaches.' Truthfully, since coming to the Academy, CJ can be described as an old soul, indulging in riveting novels, fine coffee, and the occasional graceful vomit at a music festival. Don't let her group three majors fool you, CJ is incredibly intelligent, quick witted, and more than ready for power school, even if she decided her service selection the day it was due. Her humor and banter are unmatched, and CJ goes above and beyond to make everybody feel a part of the family. We will miss our fearless CC (and are awaiting our invitation to her house in the Hamptons).

It's not easy to describe this guy in words, but let's start with his snapchat username: @Pushdaddy. Aside from being the most out-of-shape looking midshipman ever to crack a sub-8 minute PRT, Pushner's time at the academy has been what many would describe as "electric." Pushner excelled in his double major, earning a QPR of 4.0 in both crew and sleeping. He continued his "work hard" attitude on the weekends by drinking every non-IPA alcoholic beverage in sight while attempting to wheel any bird within an earshot of Annapolis. While his friends ended up going out to town for a few drinks, Pushmonster sharpened his hunting materials (the most lethal being his cowboy hat), preparing for any beast that might cross his path. But what he enjoys most is being a menace. Whether in the Jungles of Chicago, on the top floor of Aldean's, in the FAU Boca house or on the ODR, Push is a force to be reckoned with. To start, if you're ever wondering why Zach looks like he has a metal pole for a spine, it's because he has the back of a 70-year-old (just watch as he bends over like he's PRing on deadlift.) Pair that with the pastiest "strawberry-blonde" you've ever met and what do you get? Apparently, a physical monster that crushes SEAL screeners and runs 100-milers on 2-weeks notice. Unsurprisingly, Big Roach will be the first to tell you that "it's all mental." Yet, that Physics final he failed proved that he can't grunt his way through every challenge. Hopefully, his willpower translates to Hell Week. We're only concerned because he's used to the Friday sleep-ins he implemented as CC. (Coincidence that he had first and second period off on Fridays?) That said, we wouldn't have done it with anyone else. His humility and dedication will make him a great SEAL and an even better friend. Andrew Anderson

Surface Warfare

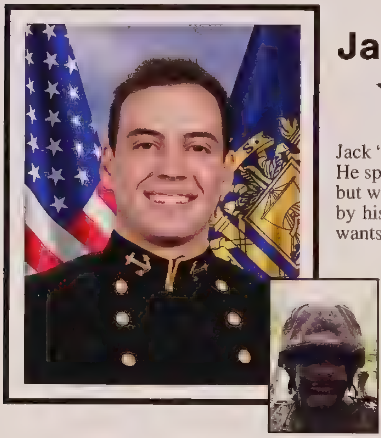
Where do we begin with Andrew Conner Anderson from Anderson, South Carolina. The first thing we learned about our dear Andy was that he was redundantly named after his hometown. More affectionately known as Andy to us in 19 or Conner to anyone else on planet Earth, plebe year Andy earned the nicknames "Molasses," "Betty White," and "Andy 'Hurry Up' Anderson," but we quickly determined that he makes molasses look like Usain Bolt. Andy quietly spent his waking hours hazing himself out at the SOT shed for hours on end, telling his friends he would meet them downtown after his workout, knowing all too well he is a one trick pony who can't stomach more than one night in DTA. Andy, a die hard Gamecocks fan, felt pain nearly every Saturday while livestreaming the Cocks from Navy-Marine Corps Memorial, but hey, next years the year, right? Despite thriving as a Quan-E major, Andy set his sights on learning the Arabic language, and three years later he will confidently tell you that he does not know Arabic. Old Molasses will be happily heading to Norfolk, Virginia after graduation to somehow break a perfectly good warship, and some poor daughter's heart.



Jack Bailey

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Jack "The Human Dorito Chip," "Bubble Butt" Bailey has a knack for only the finer things in life. He spends his leisure time playing the formidable game of beer die on a table that he helped build but will never get around to painting. He enjoys ripping the slopes on a pair of skis accompanied by his companions and his trusty boda bag. When you go out, Jack will park his car where he wants, when he wants, and he will eat the ticket just to get 'good seats' at the bar or casino. Jack is one of the most reliable friends you can have—clearly one for the boys because when girls from the University of Minnesota try to attack you on spring break, Jack will be swift to 'extinguish' them by any means necessary. In all seriousness, Jack is one of the best guys you could know, and 19th company is lucky to have him… even if he wasn't a memorable detailer. Jack is headed to Pensacola where he will soon pair his weekend benders with Naval Flight training, and we have no doubt that he will be successful throughout his career.

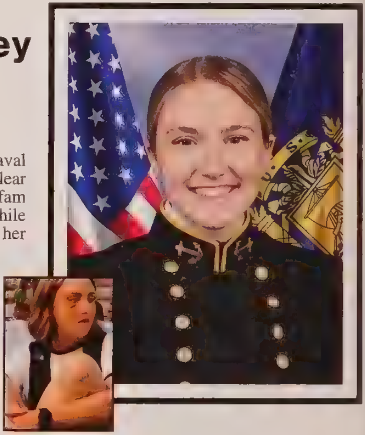
Emma Brindley

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot



Emma "Mr. Brindle" Brindley is the queen of spending her Naval Academy career away from the Naval Academy. Whether it's St. John's College or a semester at a Budapest Mathematics school, it's still unclear if Emma actually attends this school. In fact, she validated plebe summer entirely! After she took a corfam to the dome, she was never the same again. She then proceeded to double concuss herself on her chair while making her rack just days later (coincidence?... I think not). In the rare glimpses you may have seen of her during plebe summer one MIDN LCDR was able to declare her sloth spirit animal. Emma has a particular set of talents including: throwing back pineapple mimosas with the gals (or brews with the boys), obsessing over her dog Lilly, asking for advice and then proceeding to ignore all of it, awkwardly entering your personal space, and generally being a supremely gifted bossy pants. She chooses violence on the daily; if this interests you, be warned that she will probably ghost you unless you're kinda a douche. Overall, she's a great friend to have in your corner, and you can catch her (likely stressed) in flight school next year.

Jack Carminati

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Submarine Nuclear

Jack "Legs" Albert Carminati hails from the hallowed grounds of Buffalo, New York. However, this man was not known for breaking tables. Instead, he broke smoke alarms searing steak and eggs, hearts with his stunning 5'7" shmedium figure, and the bank on his many trips to Davis Pub. He really hates regulations, just ask him about the ATF, licenses of any kind, speed limits, and Congress ("why do we need them?). Beware, you may think Jack hung up or fell asleep during your call, but he is just pondering life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Jack may not have gotten the best grades because he "didn't come here to play no school." He traded in the pencil for a good IPA, Bourbon rocks, and the occasional natty championship. He still managed to get picked up for Subs, and ADM Caldwell graciously allowed this pipe smoking menace into the bubblehead force. Buffalo's prince is earning a commission. If you ever lose Jack on the weekend (which you probably will), just look for the accidentally-ripped jeans or some well-loved red Nikes. Watch out Charleston (and all the unsuspecting women there who will soon be swooned and handed a business card).

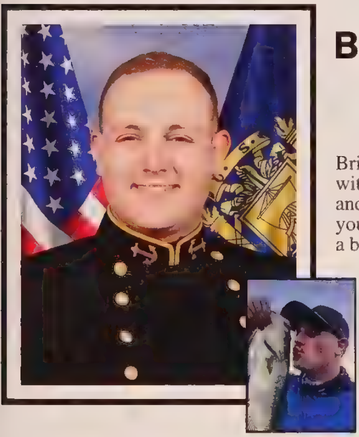
Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Jayla Darby

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Jayla is what it means to bloom where you are planted. There is no task too big for her. People all around her look up to her for guidance and direction. She balances her mama bear energy with the ability to throw it back like nobody's business. She'll even get down in SDBs in Dillos while on Shore Patrol. Ain't nothing stopping this girl from a good time dancing. If this hasn't convinced you that she's a ride or die, then you also know she's a keeper because the first time you meet her she'll make you cookies. She has also been known to post up at your gatherings as a bodyguard, collecting cover fees or throwing people out as necessary. Can also be counted on to attend every nail appointment you request. If you're lucky enough to be friends with this woman, she'll have your back forever. Whatever you need, she is there for you wherever you may be. She isn't popular because she wants to be, rather because she's the type of genuine person you want in your inner circle.



Brian Dunn

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Brian Dunn. He's a man of many words and many things. One simply cannot have a conversation with Brian that does not exceed any reasonable human length. He takes twists, turns, backroads, and highways to get to his main point, all with that southern Ohio twang. Walk into his room, you'll find a guitar, a banjo, golf clubs, the latest and most advanced fishing poles, boxing gloves, a boat, and then more items associated with whatever new hobby he picked up during his time at the academy.

The man who would constantly ask to shave his back but gets rejected. The man who spends his entire day either sleeping or watching tiktok.

Through all of these crazy quirks, no one can ever say that he is not genuine. He's been a fantastic friend, roommate, and classmate, and we can only hope the fleet does not change him.

Caroline Finley

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

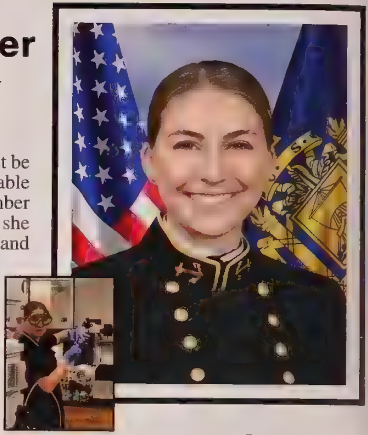
Navy Flight Officer

An alumni of the prestigious New Orleans "école à la maison," Caroline easily lept into the new environment that is USNA, quickly finding success and many sources of stress. In her time at the Naval Academy, Caroline has mastered the art form of using big words just to make other people feel stupid (specifically, James Henderson). Her love of sushi, air mattresses, and overpriced champagne is only matched by her utter disdain for mandatory events and physical exercise. Her only flaw is the fact that she met her fiancé when she was in high school; she has a lifetime of dueling to make up for it. A natural leader, Caroline fearlessly takes the helm for the NAFAC volleyball club, as well as the Supper Club. Quick-thinking and loyal, Caroline will always have your back, whether it be while you're running from the homeless in Hartford, CT or you just need a pancake after joining the Truman Rejects Club. A woman of culture, Caroline's escapades have taken her to many countries and, on many occasions, to the fencing storage room. She was recently voted most likely to be successful, as well as most likely to kill someone– truly a striking pairing.

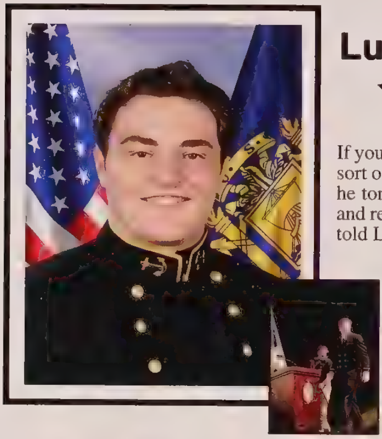
Taylor Forrester

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot



Taylor "Trixie" "T-Dawg" "COVID Survey" Forrester is small but aggressive. Taylor may just be the only person to take to Migos' "Fight-Night," especially because she seriously claims to be able to beat up anyone in the company. During her time at the Academy, Taylor was an active member of the track team for about 2 days, then played rugby for approximately 36 seconds, before she decided to tackle someone with her face (= tampons in nose). Consistently the most competent and well-organized person of the group (her corkboard pictures are arranged by the tack colors), Taylor is the person who raises her hand in class to ask a question after the bell, and she will mess up your curve. Need to clean your room for the Alpha? You're already behind if you didn't start two weeks before. A true mom at heart, she will destroy a brunch with the gals and might be the only person under the age of 30 that prefers red wine. T-Dawg is always up for one more adventure even if it means hiking up a mountain in the dark. If you see her around, remind her to relax and maybe toss her a beer.



Luca Fratianne

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

If you know Luca, you are either very happy about that, or he has hurt or damaged you in some sort of way (or most likely both). Luca Hood slid into my life early on the football team where he tormented me with jokes until a beautiful friendship flourished. He is truly one of a kind and refuses to change for anyone and he has continually blazed his own trail. If you have ever told Luca no I can promise you that he did whatever you didn't want him to do even if it was at a detriment to himself. If there is one word that describes Luca is RUCKUS. No matter when and where Luca will find very creative ways to cause ruckus and you always have to keep your head on a swivel around luca. Always shined during army and air force weeks, even one time starting a water balloon war in bancroft and getting Army week locked up. Luca is always the life of the party and brings an energy that cannot be matched. Easily one of the funniest guys I know and don't be surprised if you see him doing stand up comedy.

Courtney Fullilove

A legend, Courtney Fullilove. A proud member of the 2% club, while he's no longer on the dating market, he is always on the streets of DTA.The only person who can drink every single liquid in the bar, and then run a marathon the next day. Being sober? He barely knows her! Fulli has the most diverse music taste in the entire world. If you show him a song you're probably just reminding him that he added it to his playlist years ago. His ability to pull off literally any clothing style is astounding. THRIFT SHOP KING. Positivity is key, but even Courtney had some of his darkest days at St. John's College. Ask him how he got through! Fair winds and following seas, you're in too deep now.

Tanner Gage

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Tanner Jo Gage ventured from the hills of Lynchburg, Virginia to come to this institution. In his time here, there was no shortage of sleep-ins, horrifying workouts, slipping off the yard to get a bite to eat, and cold showers. He's a man of faith, and a man of the rack. This Tri-King was the first to lend a hand to a friend and also the first to vanish on the weekends to a little beach town. Boxed in his room during ROM, earning a spot on Navy Barstool unwillingly, and has a resting heartbeat so close to zero that you may think he's dead. His brother plays college basketball yet he struggles with ball related activities (avert your eyes on the court, ladies). Tanner was the kind of man who had mannerisms that one could not possibly begin to fathom unless, like me, you lived with them for an extended period of time. One of the best friends I or anyone else could ever ask for. Appearance like a lion, heart like a lamb, personality of a somewhat middle aged golden retriever. -NAK

Kidd Hu

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Kidd Hu is an anomaly. We will never understand how a man who rarely eats dinner or goes outside can randomly decide to run at 2100 and come back 50 minutes later claiming to have run 6 miles. A man of few words, you could live four years with the guy and know just about as much about him as you did on the day that you moved in. When he did speak, however, it was with unsettling accuracy on the new crisis of the world (he predicted the Covid pandemic about four months before lockdown) or some crazy hypothetical question that makes you question his sanity. Nevertheless, Kidd is a loyal friend that will have your back at any moment with the small price of a Coke Zero and without a doubt will become the first millionaire of 4328. Good luck in the fleet, buddy. You won't need it.

Kyra Johnson

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

A self proclaimed master of MCMAP, karate and karaoke, Kyra has been in the unsuccessful fight for anchorman since God created America. After being baptized by collapsing 7th wing ceiling tiles, she decided to join literally every musical activity under the sun. But with her questionable singing talent and failed Harley Quinn impressions, she'll somehow still find a way to steal the show with a voice that would make Beyoncé proud. Don't let her good looks and sweet song fool you, though. A record breaking 6 years of Navy instruction later, Kyra still won't be able to tell you what makes an apple fall DOWN towards the ground. However, intelligence is relative, and while she won't be dancing in the dirt with a pack of crayons, her absurd ability to inspire and bring out the best in people doesn't exactly come from textbooks. This fact is unbeknownst to those that doubt her, including herself. She's a tough, rock-hard, stale-as-hell cookie. If you were looking for Wonder Woman, this is as close as it gets folks. A Spartan, a Tiger, and a Cowgirl walk into a bar. The SWOs better be damn ready for what's coming back out.

Lukas Kaiser

Civil Engineer Corps

Lukas KAISER journeyed from New Albany, Indiana to Annapolis. He grew up a tobacco farmer to only have dreams of becoming a Sheriff and mowing grass the rest of his life. His time here has been filled with a simple acronym: IHTFP. Though he's had his bouts with this institution and its people, Lukas has thrived as an Ocean Engineering major, participant and coach of the intergalactic champion sprint football team, and future CEC officer. A true family man, dedicated to his wife, I mean fiancée, I mean girlfriend, Claire, Lukas dons a wonderful picture of his girlfriend on his corkboard, in the form of a ZTA composite. But the leash of a relationship has not slowed this man down from having his fair share of fun. He struggles to get down in DTA now, as the Lord God has robbed Lukas of his beloved knees, giving him his signature gimp and donning of Blue and Golds to class. But with all of his distinct and almost inexplicable qualities that make him the enigma he is, Lukas KAISER has done his family name well. With Love, ANFB and the Real Ones.

Mary Kang

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Maribus has got the biggest heart and is the most dearest friend you could ever ask for – at least that's what I heard on NPR this morning. If she isn't fighting for what is right, she is being the best relationship advisor, life-advice-giver, expletives-speaker, 5-star food maker, grill-mark chicken re-griller, stay-up-until-0400-talking-about-things-you-would-have-never-said-out-loud-er, unsolicited hug giver, and the sweetest, most loving person anyone has had the privilege to meet, all wrapped in one tiny bean! Mary uses the "F" word as an adjective, noun, adverb, and verb. I can always count on Mary to keep me up late talking, but I would not trade her care and advice for the world. Her heart is almost too big to comprehend, and her love for others is unmatched. Mary is as multidimensional in her talents as it gets. Not only does this woman exude the purest love and kindness to those around her, but she fiercely defends and supports those she deemed worthy to receive this love. Unafraid of any challenge, she perseveres through first period Aeronautics, Glee Club catastrophes, and everything in between. Men? Jail. If you have this woman in your corner, keep her and never let her go.

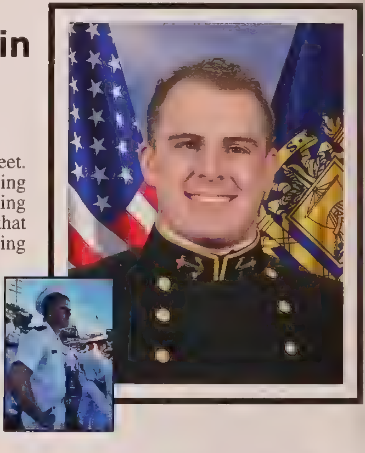
Nicholas Klock

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Submarine Nuclear

Tricky Nicky Klock is as generous of a guy as his zyn consumption. As loud as Arrowhead stadium, and dressed as a preppy middle aged father of 3, this bull is simply one you can not miss. This die-hard sports fan can be found any given Sunday tearing it up at Acme with a vodka soda watching his beloved Kansas City Chiefs while managing to wake up half the town in the process, also a real pain to his roommates once he returns to the hall. He's more than happy to tell you how long a submarine is, whether or not you're interested.

Far more of a menace than expected on the court, the barstool, and the classroom, he is a man that can't be stopped on any front. This type of passion is what landed him the iconic nickname of the "Bull" by his teammates on the links. As if burying a 8-footer on the first playoff hole to take down Army wasn't enough evidence. This bull may not appear to be the most intimidating of the herd but do not be fooled, he is the toughest person you will ever meet.



Matthew Martin

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Matthew Martin, also known as "the Crimson Chin," is the youngest old man I ever did meet. You can often find him listening to obscure 80's music, researching farm real estate, or typing away at his typewriter. A total renaissance man, he is also skilled in the areas of debate, commanding a YP, procrastinating (not doing) his EE homework, or voluntarily entering essay contests that showcase his depth of naval history knowledge. While he survived Leatherneck without getting rhabdo on the E-Course, his SWOtivation ultimately won him over, and he will soon be sailing the high seas in Yokosuka, Japan, as the only USNA grad going that is not into anime. He is known to be a very bluntly honest individual, but if you get him five Heinekens deep, you can find the sentimental teddy-bear at his core.

Benjamin McLellan

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

A fiend in the Casino and a menace in Summoners Rift

Originally from the STD capital of the US, Douglasville, GA, Ben McLellan found his home with 19th Company. Ben famously plays video games into the wee hours of the night forgoing the need to sleep or eat anything but ramen noodles. He is known as "Hackerman" who enjoys bypassing ITSD in order to get the fastest Wi-Fi possible for his gaming and takes the time to explain to his clueless roommate how subnet masks do not play a role in his Hackerman activities. Ben also finds the need to make questionable noises progressively louder in your ear as he gets closer to you. Maybe that is why he is going to make a great SWO, as the living quarters are quite close, and will be able to do this long into the night. All this aside, Ben has broken from his shy-boi phase and has become someone that people love having around… until he chews on your ear. Ben is headed to the USS Decatur in San Diego, and they have already been warned to keep massive amounts of 2% milk onboard for 'ol Benny boy.

Breanna Mealer

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Bree "Big Diesel" Mealer… what can I say. For someone who played every sport known to man, you have no coordination. How does someone go an entire season without being injured and then gets a concussion during one of the most important track meets to happen??? And it's only a 60m run??? Bree will drop it low in the club and hop right back up, but roll both her ankles walking on a flat surface… completely sober. Mind blowing. Bree is an avid supporter of women's empowerment. I mean only someone who supports women would be able to single handedly get men to do all of her work while only providing them conversation completely unrelated to said homework. What a woman. Bree may be from Severn, but those knees scream Baltimore. I mean 4 drinks in, and she is baltimore club-dancing, but she swears she's not lit. She's "always posted." Key takeaways I've gotten from Bree: you only need Rainbows, Uggs and Sanuks to make it through the four seasons, mango white claw tastes like armpit funk, Twitter is in fact a safe space to talk trash about anybody, it is possible to flood your washing machine with too much detergent and sending emails throughout an entire class period does in fact help you learn the material.

If "Big Ash" is making fun of you and poking at your insecurities, you've made it. Ash is quick-witted and never afraid to laugh with (or at) his friends. While he might make fun of you on the surface, in actuality Ashray Namala is one of the kindest and most genuine people on this planet. Ash has impeccable taste in music, and bumps the smoothest, jazziest, most niche tunes in his iconic Jeep. He doesn't just listen to music though--he is probably one of the most talented musicians on this side of the Severn. Whatever instrument it is, you can bet that he probably plays it better than you. Not to mention that he is a wizard at the technical side of things. Most importantly, though, Ash uses his incredible talent and personality for the glory of God. 10/10 Best worship leader there is, and a great example of someone who pursues Jesus with all he has. If you think you can handle his humor, then there is no better friend than Ashray Namala.

"Olive" Oliver lost the right to his name after a vicious spikeball match between him and his previous roommate, also named Ethan. Despite having a chest that even Kate Upton would be jealous of, Ethan is known by all as the "19th company complaints officer." Capable of getting nearly anything for free at the push of a button, his Karen training has definitely paid off, especially if it involves a chipotle bowl. He can't go a full day without at least a two liter Coke cooked to perfection or without having commented on his last crossfit class. You can find him set up comfortably on his Sponsors couch for 100% of the weekend, and maybe even then some. He also couldn't help but wince at a sip of beer but now drinks IPAs. He will confidently try to give you relationship advice like he has 'seen it all' despite getting engaged to the first girl that his mom set him up with. However, from his down bad days of a plebe on tinder premium to being engaged to a wonderful woman firstie year, it is safe to say that Ethan has definitely "glowed up."

Snowball fights on duty weekends, hammocks and fall vibes, yacht excursions, never a dull moment. This woman can EAT HER WEIGHT in dark chocolate. It's equally likely that she'll ask you how your day is, or shoulder check you into the wall. She literally decked someone on a random Thursday night like she was a 3-time All-Pro NFL middle linebacker. Unless you're a curb - prepare to get run over if you happen to be one. She's so competitive, she'll brag about how much less sleep she got than you. All she wants for Christmas is to tell you how bad her day was. Taylor Prickett? Carolyn Forrester? Mike is seen throughout the prestigious naval academy as a half mortal man, and half wild beast. He shows his true prowess when he is backed against the wall with a 12-gauge shotgun in hand. When asked about the current political climate in the Balkan region he simply rebutted "whichever politician has the best aesthetics routine", the crowd filled with political theorists erupted in applause. It was beautiful. Mike is the only person who can score a reservation at an up-scale Japanese restaurant, this is purely because of his close relationship with the duchesses to the Japanese throne (She's a model). Mike is well known to have never put on any sort of warming layer or ike jacket over the past 4 years. From the dock jump to freezing on the sidelines, Mike has been an incredible brother and teammate. Big Meg is a great friend who is always willing to pretend to listen to your problems. She fits an ungodly amount of sarcasm in such a small body, perhaps how she survived four months on only fried rice and plantains. She has split her time at USNA between getting sent to ISO and solidifying her spot as USCGA Public Enemy #1. Meghan enjoys running, reading (only to add more books to her shelf for clout), listening to only 3 genres of music (the holy trinity of MGK, Fall Out Boy, and Post Malone), ignoring her teammates' phone calls on a Sunday morning, backseat driving except when you actually need to know where you're going, and defacing Uncle Scott's shrubbery. Meglodon also enjoys the casual vodka sour or five but is always reliably responsible unless it's in a Walgreens parking lot. She feels best when drinking lemon vitamin water, wearing her Nick Miller socks, or making her signature :p face. She feels worst when forced to interact with humans, receiving hugs, or eating meat. Drew Slezak

Navy Pilot

Drew is somehow the luckiest and unluckiest person I have ever met—from almost being kicked out of the Academy to everything else going his way—it's hard to know which one it really is. One theory is that since he smiles so big, it forces him to be optimistic to the point that he simply cannot fail. He is probably the most unassuming 'Black N' member, but somehow he's got the restriction days to back it up. He is liable to lose an ungodly amount of money at the casino but then "make it back" in unrealized cryptocurrency gains. Drew will keep you posted on all things you don't want to hear about, from his "grind season" to Fantasy Football stats—always talking way too fast for anyone to understand him. When he's not talking fast, it's with nonsensical words that are objectively not funny at all, but still manage to make everyone laugh whenever he says them. He's insanely competitive and busy getting big, but he's one of the best friends you could have. The guy can make the best of any situation, and always finds a way to come out better without anyone noticing that he was going through anything at all. It's hard not to love Drew. - The BEST of 19th & 5th

JR (John Rogers/Robert/Ryan/Reuben?) is the definition of an enigma of a man. Depriving himself of all forms of social media he is the last person to understand any sort of modern cultural reference in any capacity. His ability to exist in a room without being noticed is a stellar trait that is undervalued in our society. The king of being passive aggressive and ignoring confrontation, JR's idea of a perfect weekend is to go camping by himself where he simply sits at his campsite and reads a book. Don't get me wrong, JR has some very redeeming qualities which is why we keep him around. He is an excellent cook, capable of roasting meats or pumping out delicious pastries. If his girlfriend/fiance/wife (since 8th grade) could describe him in one word, it would probably be "Loyal", JR always has your back. His resiliency and ability to bounce back are what make him a great man to have around. As he heads out to sea soon, the fellow JOs onboard are very lucky to be assigned a great friend.

Keelie Stork

USMC Pilot

Want to make some chill, go-with-the-flow weekend plans? Keelie is not your gal. She may tell you she's cool with whatever; but little do you know, she has every activity planned out to the minute (and you'll probably end up at DuPont Circle or some random spot in D.C.). She's frequently found vibing in local coffee shops, listening to Glass Animals on repeat, and thrifting quirky outfits at Goodwill in the name of ~aesthetic~. (Did someone say jean on jean?) If you ask around, you'll find out she's an active member of 19th, 22nd, and 24th companies. Outside of her NWR presidential dictatorship, she's known to procrastinate all of her work and stay up until 3am every night just to complain she is getting less sleep than you (aka grinding harder). She's slept a total of 5 hours in the last 4 years and has to drink coffee every night at 2200 just to feel something. She has many talents, including skiing into fences, butchering TikTok dances, and taking 7 business days to text back. Keelie will be spending the next decade eating crayons in the Marin Crops and trying to expose birds for the frauds that they are.

Ethan Tack

You will not find a more competitive individual than Ethan "Yack" Tack. A product of Dix Hills, NY, Taquito is the quintessential physical embodiment of the term "Mamba Mentality," until you tell him he sucks and is hella slow, at which point you will own more real estate in his head than Donald Trump owns in Florida. Keeter's hobbies include Rubik's Cubes, eating dessert, fighting his gf 18 miles into a marathon, being a cocky SOB and vomiting on senior citizens. A VHS tape of him drinking from a water fountain outsold 50 Shades of Gray last year, and the sight of him scientifically testing the liquid-holding capacity of his bowl-shaped chest cavity outsold even that. Takeets prefers to sleep upright, with his eyes open, in the backseat of a car. He is as good a friend as you can find, and he has the work ethic of a Russian horse to include eating his body weight in food for breakfast…and lunch…and dinner. Word on the street is that he's a hot topic in the O'Brien's bathroom… NMSD Strong.

She once helped draft an email to a friend's professor to get them SAT….you gotta love those Group 3 majors, out here doing GOD's work. You can be your true, messy self around her and she never judges. She has super powers: Taking care of her four baby siblings from states away, becoming an asset to the Rugby team despite never playing the sport. Seriously, I am thankful to have met this badass chick and be lucky enough to be on her good side. She will make an insanely good Marine. She is the most caring, straightforward, blunt but brave person! Regardless of what life throws at her, she will turn the dial up a notch and continue to tread forward! Joseph. Wardroom warrior Whalen. Josephibus. MARPAT Joey. A stone-cold cookie who takes a year or longer to warm up to you through mutual frustration over a cheesecake order. A true nonfan of affection, her roommates are sure to smother her with unsolicited hugs on the daily. By Friday, she's able to convert the affection she's received throughout the week to fuel the gift of reciprocation unto her defenseless roommate in the form of mixed martial arts. Staircase Beans. One tequila, floor. If you need a wedding planned for your cousin's two hamsters, Joey can make it the most spectacular wedding you've ever seen. Can spend hours talking and forget what you even meant to ask. Somehow relishes in running and physical pain. 6 pull-ups, 5 min mile on a bad day. And the USMC couldn't be happier to have her. Capable of committing fully to a bar crawl on Friday, providing a banging tailgate on Saturday, complete w/ German relics, then bar crawling again. The best person to give advice over a jar of nutella/salsa. Trustworthy enough to hand over your credit card for a $2k purchase. An overall amazing person. Look out USMC, you got a good one!

Jake "Jacob" Wilson. The only man to ever be cut and brought back to the Baseball team. Despite his negative social savviness, Jake may be the smartest man alive. Living at St. John's last fall followed by his "vacation" to Israel in the Spring, Jake still doesn't think COVID ever happened. Aside from COVID, odd Israel goes to war when he was there but was just fine once he left; coincidence? Nah. He is an Arabic major but quite honestly should be an English major in order to justify our quotes. Jake, a maverick, hates wearing pants in his room. When Jake is in his natural pantsless state and someone knocks on the door and asks if everyone is decent, Jake sighs loudly, tells the person to wait a moment, and reluctantly puts his pants back on, effectively ruining his evening. One of the best gym partners, a very dense man. Kinda odd. If he's not in the gym, he'll definitely ground fight you. This translates to him selecting Marine Ground where he will be a helluva officer. Jake has been a great friend over the past four years but don't tell him that, he doesn't know.AA,BM,KQ

SWO Cryptologic Warfare

Edwin, aka Edweeno, or the 40 year-old living in Striper Alley was a man of many talents. Not only did his past experience as a Nuke make him a thermo god, but his expert taste in fine alcoholic beverages and his ability to rub elbows with literally every Senior Officer on the Yard made him a true renaissance man. More importantly, his ability to talk skincare and the correct tailoring of a suit jacket make him capable of addressing any surface level issue. The sacrificial lamb in just about every meeting, few have thicker skin (though lots have thicker hair). Edwin is a man who goes after what he wants, and on a Saturday night you can find him three too many Orange Crushes deep and convincing himself that the next girl he sees will be THE one! We can't wait to see how this strategy fairs with Sangria in Spain! Even still, few compare when it comes to being there for their friends, no matter the hour… the Seven Seas are lucky to be graced with his Yeezy demeanor.

USMC Ground

YMBG. Nicho (not nee-ko god damnit) is truly the only one of his kind. His accolades are that of legend. The youngest train-O in USNA history. Creator of Shaftown. Thunder Wagon commander. O-ring king. The guy with the most hours slept w/in 30 minutes of polishing off a Bang. The greatest love of his friends, the greatest menace to his enemies (Petr). Do not let his unmatched sense of humor lull you to look away from his dangerous side though. Stand clear when he boutta spaz. If you're a ceiling tile on 2-4, any food with no nutritional value, or OPFOR using the head at Leatherneck, you're done for. In some of Nicho's wisest words: "everyone wants to drive on the turnpike, but no one wants to go 90mph." But behind this pirate who escaped the high seas, is a man of impeccable personal character. Lucky are those who will be by his side in the fight. Just remember Nicho, all of your problems are because you're not drinking enough water.

Conner Beasley

Explosive Ordnance Disposal

This Texas ginger can be found taking a floor nap, crushing an energy drink, or purchasing a manual car a week before a cross country road trip with no idea how to drive it. Conner showed up plebe year with no addictions, no study habits, and no style. He graduates having developed a crippling caffeine addiction, study habits based on the idea that any paper can be written 12 hours before it's due, and a level of style made possible thanks only to the personal coaching of the Air Force Academy's women's soccer team. They say everything is bigger in Texas, and, in this Texas boys' case, Ben King can confirm that we mean EVERYTHING. Some may say he's a man among mortals for his insane feats of endurance, crushing Ironmans and 100 milers for no apparent reason. A warrior, a scholar, and one of the best leaders here, Beas is a damn good friend, a devoted company mate, and one of the hardest workers the academy has ever seen. USNA made a smart choice letting him in the second time around, and we know he's going to do incredible things as an EOD officer in the future.

Trevor Brooks

Trevor "I'll just get my grandma to buy me a new one" Brooks will forever be a Bancroft legend. Not only does he have the most experience with the travel office known to man (was it six study abroads that got canceled?), but upon his return from Spain, he became "Strevor" the brigade striper and savior of King hall. The two things he loves to tell you about most are his recent Hinge matches and the new tweak he has in his insert most recent minor injury. For Trevor, there is no such thing as being under the weather. It was either lung cancer, terminal pneumonia, or dying from COVID. He's fast to order a Truly and even faster to send you the Venmo request. Oh, and if you haven't heard about his semester in Spain, you will soon. Of 20th Co, he is the best dressed, has the largest head, and this "Future King of New York" will be by far the wealthiest. Trevor is truly one of the sharpest, most dependable guys on the yard. With his natural talent, intellect, and looks, there is certainly no shortage of success headed his way after graduation.

Navy Pilot

Joe came to the Academy a spry, well behaved, eager young buck. A two year hiatus in Taiwan for a Mormon mission, which was meant to strengthen his spirituality, trust in celibacy, and hatred towards the other guilty pleasures of life, did the exact opposite for Joe.

Fast forward to firstie year, and Joe is now a rusty 29 year old functioning alcoholic. An aspiring Naval Aviator, Joseph was born to fly. He accumulated hundreds of flight hours operating the Xiaomi M365 through the late night streets of multiple cities, often accompanied by a female passenger. On one fateful mission, his trusty Byrd crashed and cost him not only his second torn ACL, but his freedom. Axle imprisoned our war hero for over 100 days until he earned the coveted Black N. The legend of Joseph Cooke will live on long after his time on the Yard, both through the hearts of those that love him and the younger generations that will admire him. He will do great things as a pilot (if he stays away from scooters) and will continue to make the lives of those around him better due to his positive attitude and unlimited travel rewards points.

Nicholas Ghosn

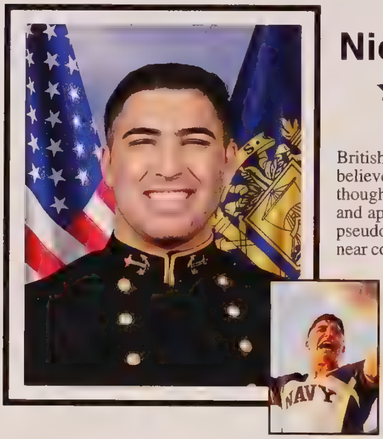
USMC Ground



British Anthropologist Arthur Keith once postulated that "Evolution is unproved and unprovable. We believe it only because the only alternative is special creation, and that is unthinkable" Arthur Keith thought this mostly because he had not yet encountered Nick Ghosn. Nick "the missing link between man and ape" Ghosn, is living proof of the theory of evolution. After escaping from a thawing iceberg, this pseudo-simian stole a plane, and crashed in the vicinity of USNA. Since his arrival, Nick has been in a near constant cycle of hypertrophy, and hibernation. Nick splits his time nearly equally between the gym, the sticks, and the unconscious realm, although he has been known to occasionally rouse himself from slumber to make it to an odd class or formation. He excels at the natural tasks of the hunter-gatherer: wrestling, hunting (with Brandon Sherrill), and political philosophy. His apelike charm has served him well, and has been known to capture many girls in DTA. Although he communicates mostly by grunts, he is known to break into song, dance, or a flawless 5 paragraph op-order in an expressive display of primitive creativity and intellect. Hugh Hajdik

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Hugh Leroy Hajdik was actually my 8th grade science fair project that I couldn't let go. I programmed him using rudimentary java script but he has nearly achieved full self awareness. In some aspects he excels: movement (upgraded hardware), books (advanced search functions and processor), and being a roommate (desire to please his creator). There are some functions he is still mastering; fashion (AI lacks sophisticated computer vision), climbing stairs (I think his gyrostabilizer needs to be reset) and fighting (robots have no fear of death). His aggression settings seem to be misconfigured, as a gentle "whatchu gonna do?" can trigger him into a fit of rage. Hugh's program has made him a lot like his creator. He feverishly perambulates to the gym, sneaks girls into the room, and loves breaking MIDREGS with me. The best part about my project is that he is continuously upgrading himself. I fear soon he will be as heavy and large around the shoulders as me. In the event Hugh becomes fully autonomous and challenges human existence, you have my permission to unplug and factory reset his ass. He will probably make a bunch of silly noises and maybe speak a little Chinese, but he'll boot back up in a few minutes.

Quick. Name a woman. Any woman. Could you do it? I could. The only woman that actually exists is Aline Johnstone aka Taffy Lee Fubbins aka Wells. She's not like other girls, got it? She buys her clothes at Trader Joes and gets literally everything else she needs from Claire's. Blasting Shrek at full volume in the library during exam week and walking outside to find everyone staring is the LEAST embarrassing thing that's ever happened to Wells. I would say "she does it all" but she really just crochets and listens to true crime podcasts (that's all life has to offer though). Her sweatshop houses the communal dankorage while manufacturing enough product to clothe a small village, yet she still refuses to go into fashion. Maybe sapdaddy can convince her. Wells' fun and quirky years in the military have just been c'est la vie, but she'll make quite an interesting civilian. She can run a mile with a glass of milk in her hand. She's the only person who knows if Sean Kingston is okay. She thrives in chaos. Seeing disturbing content from Wells is a burden we all bear but also crave. Thanks Wells. Freaking thanks.

Jeannie, a meticulous planner and avid Texas Roadhouse connoisseur, can do it all: 4.0, combat sport athlete, agility queen, engineering major, and future pilot. But, don't take Jeannie out to KBBQ unless you want to be humbled by her slow turtle-like process of eating all the meat AND asking for anther platter when everyone has already unbuttoned their jeans. Everyone will be sickly full but Jeannie will claim to be "only at like 50%". When not eating, you'll catch her at the nearest Goodwill or Costco freaking out about oversized t-shirts, fuzzy sweaters, and bulk size items. Also, don't add her to a group chat because she'll turn your blue bubbles green. At Jeannie's favorite pastime activity, fencing, you can always find her happy to practice with her most beloved teammates and making great banter with the newest coach. Whatever you do, watch out for Jeannie's feet—quick, small, agile, and fitted with chunky filas! Some are jealous of her toes. Regardless of these quirks, she has terrible bearing and laughs at thing that are meant to be not funny. Jeannie is a freckle of joy to all and will be a delight to other aviators as a commissioned officer.

Jack McBride is an inspiration around the world. This is a man that has truly set his priorities straight after serving hard time. Jack has grown to value business before pleasure. Monday through Friday is when you will find Jack conducting his regular routine. In the AM Jack is staring at his computer screen as he prepares to make the next big time investment. In the afternoons Jack gets fired up for tennis practice as he develops a plan to get kicked out of practice. Friday to Sunday is where the Jack you think you might know has left the building. There is no middle ground. Jack is either maxing his credit card or scheming free drinks. After getting too hammered too early, Jack runs around making conversation with those of the opposite gender. 30% of the time the night ends successfully as Jack goes to sleep early to prepare for his 7am tennis match. 70% of the time Jack is waking up on the floor of someone's house in Baltimore with a bottle of Tito's by his side needing to whip the Porsche to make it back by a thread for EOL, TAPS, or Navy men's Tennis competitions.

Although most people think he is quiet, he is actually one of the funniest people I know (You owe me 25$). Dude is incredibly jacked for a sixth grader. Imagine living with a man for 3.5 years and never actually using his first name. He might actually be the rain man. He's an enigma, he's short yet so tall, his teeth are finally straight, and he is the absolute worst person I've ever met. In 25 years he'll either be the commandant of midshipmen or he'll be in a ditch in the middle of the Ozarks, I think he wouldn't mind either. Do yourself a favor and mix your next whiskey with some sweet tea in honor of Montez, I promise you'll totally regret it. Once quoted saying, "On a cosmic scale, you are worthless". All jokes aside, he is very humble and works harder than anyone. He is a genuine friend who embodies the idea of living life to the best of your ability.

Thanks. Scared of the water. Permanent eyeliner. Part time slam poet and full time e-boy, Mikey is huge thanks. He has spent the last four years here performing his job of carefully curating his brand as the most mysterious person you'll ever meet. It's a full time job, but his hard work has paid dividends. You can never pin down his next move. He could be spending the next 25 hours playing xbox. He might be getting his ears pierced for the third time. He could be balancing the hefty load of being a varsity athlete that's never been PE sat. Throw him in the trash. He's the type of guy who can guess the price of a kid's coffin just by looking at them, and if that's not mysterious I don't know what is. He's also been known to skate around on his skateboard that has zero grind marks while whispering, "Black Phillip, I conjure thee to speak to me". He might as well be a mall-grabber. Whether it's by buying expensive shoes, sharing the Franklin Bakehouse posts on his Instagram, sending quality TikToks, or single handedly ending racism, Mikey will always be the one who lives deliciously. John Harrison Osment was born on the crest of a wave and rocked in the cradle of the deep. He always wanted to be a Sailor, envisioning himself at the helm of the Navy's finest Littoral Combat Ship, ripping through restless seas in an impenetrable aluminum hull. Sike. Jack "Baby Gap" Osment was born to lead grunts. Don't let his gorgeous green eyes, his perfectly shaped eyebrows, or his dainty hands fool you -- this man is one of the few and one of the proud. He will undoubtedly go off to wring the necks of our nation's enemies (if his hands can wrap around them) or go off to write the next book on why the Marine Corps is still relevant. Gandalf himself wrote on Jack's character and said, "Frodo and Gollum had a baby and it was the most lethal and small handed man to walk God's great green Earth. That is Jack Osment."

She will wipe your tears, hold your hair back, but she will call you out if you leave dirty dishes under the sink. One time, Hannah slapped me. It was awesome. She speaks in pop culture gibberish and makes no sense half the time. However, the moment she starts singing I can't miss a word. She is wicked smart and takes no prisoners with her beautiful iPad notes. Peg leg Pete will make fun of you for injuring yourself, despite how falling off the mates desk took her out for half of youngster year. If you've seen her out in DTA, you'll know that no one can out-dress her, even if she was at Naval Bagels that morning in USNAs. Did you know she's from Jersey? You don't know real bagels. YMBG. Years ago, when the Earth was mostly molten lava and its key elements were still being formed under immense pressure, Barrett Austin Pierce was born. Rather, Barrett was forged. Like a diamond, this hunk of solid rock named Barrett Pierce was squeezed and pressed and smashed into existence. His density rivals that of a Uranium Sabot Round. Scientists (the real ones not the political scientists) have proven his wild origin story by simply testing the man's ability to float. Like a bowling ball with an impressively furry chest, Barrett slices through the water in a straight path to the bottom of the pool. Since his creation Barrett has evolved to manage an incredibly popular group Tinder page, guide his friends through the deserts of Arizona, lead a company of midshipmen as Plebe Summer CC, AC Year XO, and be a true rock of a friend. As a man you can always count on, he will indisputably go off to lead Marines with his whole heart.

Have you ever gotten Brendan to laugh at a joke? Me neither. Brendan "REDACTED" Reynolds has emotional bearing like no other. He started his high school career waaaay back when and is excited… no, sad… or angry..? (we actually can't tell) to finally graduate in May. However, his concerningly old age comes with great wisdom, as he has long been a voice of reason for the hockey team. Not only is he well guided mentally, but he is an absolute physical unit and a near-perfect embodiment of NHF. Brendan has excellent stamina in all aspects of life…on the ice, in the pool, or in the weight room. From the moment you first meet him, you know he has your back. Just ask any of his countless fans that come to Navy hockey games. Renny's actions speak louder than his words and has the respect of anyone in his presence. Humble and disciplined, Brendan "Prefers not to be in Pictures or Videos" Reynolds has left a lasting impact on Navy Hockey and some huge boots to fill on the team. If there was anyone we'd all confidently stand behind in the line of fire, we'd look no further than Brendan Reynolds.

To the man who literally swings from the rafters of Dillos, haunts the community with his vuvuzela, and beefs with Navy Hockey moms, JP Schuchardt, aka the Missouri Menace, is a creature like no other. USNA has never seen a man so committed to his rituals, whether that be running the exact same 3.6 mile loop for four years, never missing a single mass in his life, or strictly avoiding eating anything green. If you're trying to find him, he's either pacing the room jamming out to the latest Big Booty Mix ferociously squeezing his grip strengtheners, working out without his phone (good luck contacting him), shooting with his high speed buddies, or on his floor cranking out a CO2 table. He's the only person I know to go 3-1 with the T-11 parachute static line at Airborne School. The only thing the self declared 20th Company Holdup Prevention officer hates more than holdups is Brigade medical. Despite the quirks, there is no person we'd rather have by our side in a tough situation. JP has the strongest character of any man I know and he is going to do great things out in Coronado.

Brandon Sherrill

USMC Ground

One of Sherrill's favorite games to play on any given weekend is shack or shiver. Some nights he shacks, some nights he shivers, but every night he drinks. Ask him about what happened at St. John's and you will hear 1 of 3 cautionary tales you've probably heard before, and only a select few know what really went down. Whether he will go down in glory or infamy has yet to be determined, but I hope to one day work as hard as his liver does.

If you were shown a picture of B. Sherrill next to a picture of Future, you would not be able to spot the difference. This toxic king finds new and innovative ways to break hearts in different ways by Tuesday mornings. Ladies beware, when asked his astrology sign, the answer will most probably be "women." He will play games with your hearts, but he can't play spades to save his life. ERRAH.

Sarah Sorensen

Navy Pilot

Sarah Grace Sorensen is known for unmatched excellence in all areas, but to us she is an amazing teammate, roommate, and sister. Sarah will head to Pensacola as the most overqualified Naval Aviator to date, as she excels graciously as NWSD team captain (beating Army for 33 straight years), Olympic Trials qualifier, double major, and Trident Scholar. Her team is also known to be a sparkly group of women who truly wear their pride on their chest. If you ask any professor in the OR or Economics department, they would tell you that Sarah personally optimized the matrices of these two majors herself. She is always reading and has a book pile that grows daily, but don't dare ask to borrow one. Sarah definitely has a few quirks that make her whole. Her stubbornness will always prove you wrong (or rather, prove her right). If you ever somehow prove Sarah wrong, you will see some brutal hand gestures that reveal Sarah's frustration. If you want to experience that firsthand, simply indicate that she drinks her coffee too slow. All in all, she is truly one in a million and we would all be lucky to have a friend like Sarah.

Submarine Nuclear

Those who knew Gabe were absolutely shocked to learn that he selected submarines, after countless hours of grueling exercise and physically demanding screeners on Warden field, Gabe had earned a varsity letter in perhaps the most physically demanding sport on the yard- Drum and Bugle Corps. Surely Gabe would have found a home amongst the hardest of SEALs had he not been called to serve below the sea by his aversion to sunlight and the farragut loop. Gabe's professionalism will be well received by the submarine wardroom just as it was by the Best Western that bore witness to Gabe projectile vomiting the remnants of his liver while properly plebeing his cover in FDBs. Gabe is perhaps the most well trained Sailor in the fleet, well if he ever gets there. Gabe joined the Navy to see the world, too bad he's only seen the classroom, maybe the next ten years won't be so bad. He gets roasted by everyone, including an Egyptian vendor who shouted "Hey cowboy, where's your horse?" based on his Indiana Jones adventure hat. The most important thing to know is that when you need a friend there is no better man for the job.

Hobbies include sweating and discouraging swearing. “StowShow” “Be in my one second a day.” Laughs like a witch cackles. Honored DD. Queen of chow calls - "can you turn the shower on?" Prays before alphas. Smoothies at 6am. “Wanna talk about your feelings? No? Let’s talk about why you feel that way.” Despite 4 years as an Honors English major, Avery has never written a paper -> uses the Siri voice text = misspellings, run-on sentences, and open prepositional clauses. “Does Avery know what a coherent sentence is?” An absolute menace to her company by lending essential oil diffusers, her miracle hands, pictures, and notes. She’ll force you to confront your feelings then make a homemade smoothie with absurd amounts of spinach to heal your soul. Outdoorsy spirit, loves to camp (but definitely won't sleep in the car), and a mountain mama (discounting Longs Peak). Definitely not a fan of frat boys. Beat-drop master, our favorite DJ on the bike. Constantly voted most likely to get hit by a car. Persevered through armed conflict with a sidewalk, walked away with a broken elbow. Certified weapon. Simultaneously one of the hardest and most fragile individuals. SDB jacket wearer. Phenomenal athlete, even better storyteller. That’s it, that’s my story. Hardcore follower of the WOHO lifestyle. In the dictionary, you'll find "Absolute Unit" - rumored she's the reason Waldo went into hiding, beat the sun in a staring contest, and 9-1-1 calls her in emergencies. Whenever you need to bum healthy SNACKS or share the blame of crashing a CYBERCOMMAND website, Lucy's the high-speed, low-drag spaghetti-python-programming, pickleball-playing devil-dawg you want. Her presence gives you a dramatic dose of motivation. Talking to her shows the excitement life holds and how capable we are if we care. If the world's fate rested on winning an argument, put her in. Her "did bad" grade is everyone's "did pretty good!". She talks like she's commanding a platoon of Marines and her voice drops a full octave when bringing a Battalion to attention. Has a solid head on her shoulders and gives good advice, even when not wanted. Drives a cute, but geriatric, Volvo. Rarely follows rules, repeatedly fried; fratted with an upperclass, in-company plebe year. Usually found running too-far, with too-much weight, doing too-many reps. 280mile American headband. Regretted 90% of staff picks as Batt Cdr. Enduro for life. The best, most-loyal, most-tenacious microwave-lifting, stair-running, van-napping teammate and friend anyone could ask for. He thinks they should just do better. His fascination with the submarine force is undermined by his room's love of trashing politicians, and surpassed only by his knowledge of regs and obscure big words. Formerly an EMT, Sean is the guy everybody comes to when they have any medical problem whatsoever, even though BMU is literally just down the stairs next to his room. 6008's only engineer, he can often be overheard explaining how his roommates' free body diagrams look like crap or their understanding of basic engineering terminology is lacking. Robert claims his leadership style is the opposite of what the Academy pushes down, but he cares more about the well-being of his people than most, and always prioritizes being a reasonable human-being first. Looking like a mafia enforcer out of a '70s cop show, he might not seem very intimidating, but he's tough, resilient, and refuses to tolerate stupidity. He's the kind of guy you'd pass on the street and expect to be married with three kids who works on his car in the garage all day before cooking burgers out back in a "kiss the chef" apron while sipping a beer. Navy Pilot

Nick sure knows his way around a puck and the puck knows its way around him. A self-proclaimed "Henrik Lundqvist", after watching countless seconds of a how-to-hockey video. Nick's lifelong achievement is and will always be the moment he started a "Let's go Rangers" chant in the middle of Madison Square Garden and had like 5 kids cheering with him. Don't tell him I said that. The only thing that goes faster than Nick's money at the Rangers team store is his obsession for buying new leathers at the uniform store. Kinda weird, guess he's just got a thing for classy black shoes. And the only thing Nick cares more about than the Rangers is his juul his girlfriend and family. No doubt Gordo will be a better pilot than he is a responsible adult (hopefully). A great presence to be around and amazing friend/teammate, Nick will do great things in and out the Navy, so long as he doesn't need thermo anymore.

Hailing from West Virginia, a well-known comedian in 4-0, A-Dawg or Haymaker is known for her questionable taste in men, superior chugging abilities, and exquisite flannel-enhanced lifting. Can be found in the weightroom dry scooping preworkout and yelling "LIGHTWEIGHT BABY". In mother B, she lovingly greets her friends by shouting "B" at all hours. She has managed to read roughly 1 book in 4 years as an English major. Ask her about the essay she wrote on moby dick and redneck french. Her invention of sleeveless SDBs dramatically changed the lives of midshipmen. Being deadly to hit the bars with, particularly during ring dance and finals. Once informed the CDO that she lost her titties after a wild night at Obriens. Rumor has it she'll do anything for a bloomin onion, McDanks, and hard cider. She no p*ologist. Definitely the person I'd call if I were stranded on the side of the road, taking heavy fire, or trying to avoid meth-infused areas. I actually don't think she sleeps. She's the closest thing to a superhero I've ever seen. She always puts everyone before herself (there's a reason her OOM is 1000+) making her a fine addition to any wardroom.

Towering over his family at 5'5", he hit puberty young and had a full carpet of body hair since the third grade…Dominated the hardwood, until everyone else hit puberty and shot past him…Major Napoleon complex. 54 inch waist, 10 inch legs, certified tuna can… Largest belly of any midshipman to max the PRT all 8 times…Overall fits the MIDN stereotype: NARP naps, scarfing down donuts in king hall, Fortnite with the boys, cracking a Bang at 10 pm. People struggle to find Ben's weaknesses but Tucker knows: Fruit punch and Gummy worms. His friends never let him live down the moments they do get dirt on him, such as having immaculate room standards, perfect attendance at mandatory events and formation, and a movie on the wardroom couch. Smelly naps no less than 4 hours per day. Never one to fold in life unless there is a poker game with zero money on the line. In the oceanography major he relied on Derek, the Charlie to his Raiman.. Ben will embark on a 32 hour odyssey with Rory after SOAS without sleep on caffeine to be there for Peter. Have fun and good luck at the Coronado Beach Party!

Navy Pilot

Seth was born to fly. A pair of aviators was his first piece of clothing and his first words were "Talk to me Goose." If you hear a plane flying overhead, it's either Seth or he's watching it and trying to tell what type it is. "The Weapon" came to the academy wanting to be a Marine (thanks Coinslot) and would often wear MARPATs for their comfort. Leatherneck said otherwise, and he proved Tucker right as a Navy Pilot all along. Whodja feared the PRT with his life and hoped his outrageously tall socks would help him run faster, but this credit goes to the women's running group of the Marathon Team. He majored in Math with Econ or as his roommates liked to call it "the Group 2.5 Major." You could say Whodja won in the end as he always made his 2100 bedtime. He spent his time watching movies as a plebe, shining shoes, and checking out the menus at all the great local restaurants…Dillos, O'Briens, Fed House. We know he'll spice up a squadron wardroom with his Tony Chachere's and his caring heart. Our brother will do great things as he flies into the DANGER ZONE!

Sam is a middle schooler trapped in a high schooler's body, and if you're around for more than 10 minutes you're bound to learn something you didn't know that you couldn't care less about. Even though you might live at the opposite end of the hallway, you can hear Sam's voice every night. He is very much like one of those birds that can imitate any noise that happens around it and repeat it constantly. You're trying to study? That's too bad. Here are ten different noises, three facts about an enzyme, and the same reference to some internet video that you've heard for the last six weeks. Constantly contorting his body into shapes such as a spaghetti noodle, a table, or a raindrop, he is definitely an entertainer – until he has about 4 drinks, then he starts to reminisce on his glory days as a plebe summer detailer and that one time he kissed a girl. Found his soul sister watching netflix stand up comedy: John Mulaney, if you're reading this, Sam Hupp also has feminine hips and it IS the thing he's sensitive about. Don't worry, he will always go to hell and back to make your day.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Derek "Fragbomber" Kegelvitz continues a long line of quiet academy midshipmen. It all started with his brother Dillon…wait it was Dalton… that's not right either, it was Darren who started the academy Keglovits dynasty. He showed Derek life existed outside of Coudersport, PA (hard to believe right). The Keg bloodline is rich in service and warrior skill. The brothers often band together to build the greatest Call of Duty squad ever. He spends his days studying film of himself and others to improve his game, with hopes of going pro despite his struggles as a streamer. The man of few words believed actions spoke louder than words. That's why every weekend 2/C year he went to "his sponsors" to do homework and play CoD like a good midshipman. What would you know, at the end of 2/C year he was suddenly dating Val Watson (hmmm). From the sponsor house to hunting trips, not much time left over. Continued buzzing his head through youngster year. Bring the lunch pail, put on the hard hat, get grimy. Without a doubt, Derek will have the best man cave of any of us when he retires.

Kind, fun, and loving personality, but depends on how much food she has eaten. Quite possibly the bougiest person at USNA. Could dress a highly fashionable village with her 12 costco sized suitcases. Gotta dance all night in heels at Ring Dance? Go run 16 miles to warm up. Says it's going to be an "easy day," yet not-so-sneakily sets a pace only elite cheetah's could hold. Does it all with perfect hair, a huge smile, and not a drop of sweat on her lululemon-only outfit. Loves a good solo walk around Farragut to call Chip and Cathy. Sprained both of her ankles at once. Famously took an Ocean E exam drunk from bottomless mimosas, but don't worry, she got an A. Loves a good witty caption, so she probably could have written this better herself. Happily engaged to her plebe summer sweetheart, and usually our most wholesome, best influence in the 4062 mansion.

Wei-Ling will claim that her life has been entirely boring, but then suddenly—without warning—drop a bomb on you that will completely change your perception of her and reality. Yes, she's introverted and just a little socially awkward, but her awkwardness makes her that much more endearing. It will take her a full day (if not more) to finish one cup of iced coffee, and she will promise that she will clean and move her dirty Tupperware from the sink, but it will probably take her a full week to do so. She rarely gets pop culture references or certain sayings, but she has definitely improved these past four years in that department. She will occasionally demonstrably mispronounce a word (such as dolphin or gun with the long barrel), but then you remember you yourself can only speak one language—instantly humbled. Everyone must know that she sleeps with her eyes open, but everyone also must know that she is one of the smartest, kindest (but stubborn), and most determined people I know, and I am glad to call her a friend.

Wei-"L" AKA Punk a former crew rower (but not retired) and quite the character. She is known to sleep through damn near anything, and has never missed a watch because she was sleeping. She is surprisingly good at volleyball (good luck hitting her serve). Her favorite 1/c is definitely Kishten kitmitrick. Wei-ling will tell you she is ready to drink a 6 pounds milkshake and then confesses her lactose intolerance after you get there. She is a jack of many trades and is like a mystery novel. She is very academically inclined but her street smarts could use a little work. Overall, she is a great friend, a kind person, and cannot wait to see how Japan treats her. Wei-ling is honest, transparent, righteous, and caring. She is invested in her friends' well-being and checks up on them. She makes herself available when her friends need support. She is open about her struggles and confronts them while reflecting on how she can solve future issues. I have only known her for less than two year, but she makes me feel like a sister to her. She is a fantastic and creative artist, and she is always down for a game of volleyball. She has become a close and invaluable friend to me, and I am really fortunate to have met her.

Plebe year is also when she chose the wrong major, creating the most cultured and internationally-informed math major at the Academy. Her hobbies include dressing like a grandmother and being an integral part of Navy Women's Rugby. If Margot's knees can make it through any more PRTs, the submarine community is the luckiest one in the Navy. They are getting a kind-hearted and competent officer, who cares deeply and is passionate enough to speak her mind when something is wrong. Anyone who has met Margot Behrens is better for it, and probably knows a little more about Hungary than they ever wanted.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Naval Flight Officer

A true, Subaru-owning Washingtonian, Jess needs to be buddy-carried back to her room after one sip of alcohol, loves a good b*tch slap, and practically became immoble after PRK but thankfully she's 100 pounds soaking wet so we can manage her. ;) Jess is one of the most caring, generous, best-listening humans I have ever had the privilege of knowing. Although she always finds herself in precarious situations which often causes her to stick out her tongue and squawk, somehow she comes out unscathed with a somewhat concerning optimism. She's always got your back, unless she forgets to set an alarm; she can and will sleep anywhere and everywhere. Although she left 22 for some second-class-ass, she is the best friend I never knew I needed. My Dry Bar, sushi eating, 2/C loving, "roomie", best damn friend!

Tristan Cosby

Submarine Nuclear

"Law and order." These are the first words I think about when I hear the name 'Tristan Cosby.' The son of a Border Patrol agent, he will be the first to tell you that Canada cannot be trusted, both politically and socially. However, the one citizen he legally vets into our nation is Jordan Peterson. He's very conservative, maintaining an engagement longer than his relationship beforehand with his beautiful fiancé, Elisse. However, visitors to the Rush Room frequently inquire about the young blonde on his corkboard: his sister. Tdaddy is a writer currently writing a seven-book installment similar to Harry Potter, for which I am presently drafting erotic fan fiction. In his zero free time, this unrelated Cosby is a Comp-Sci major who works out in the room with both bands and karate. Tristan's love for consistency is perfect for the submarine community. My favorite anecdote about Tristan is that whenever I try catching up with him on the phone, he always ends it prematurely with, "You're probably busy; I'll let you go." He's an absolute grinder who puts others before himself. I am blessed to have lived with this man these last three years. Semper deep!

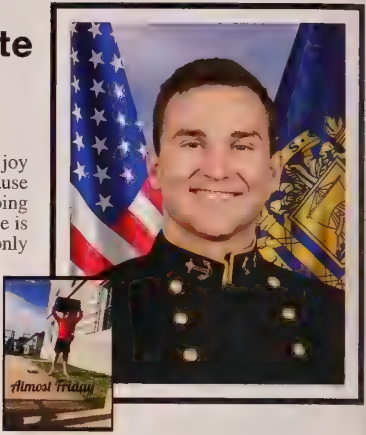
Where's Aimee? Chances are the redhead is taking someone's watch, doing her homework, working out with the SOT team, or painting a punny card (all at the same time). A staunch supporter of animal and human rights and a mind of steel, Aimee's only Achilles heel is a McDonald's cheeseburger. Whether it's running 50+ miles on a broken hip or going to plebe morning workouts as an upperclassman, Aimee's favorite person to torture is herself. But Aimee's philosophy is work hard, play hard. And play hard she does… but never too hard to not be able to take care of your lightweight a. Spontaneous adventures and a game of Never Have I Ever are always close by with "Marsoc" around. Careful, she may have you hiking out of the Grand Canyon at 3am, but there's no one else you'd rather do it with. The Marine Corps is lucky to have her…if they can keep up.

Jonathan Dollahite

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot



JD, or maybe you know him as Jon, unless you call him Jonathan, Dollahite is the pride and joy of both Utah and room 6160. What gets JD up in the morning? That's a great question, because everyone else is usually in class by the time he is awake. JD is the definition of "ride or die," going as far as upstairs at Dillos totally sober. There are few people more loyal a friend than Jon. He is the type of guy who will share any laugh, any burden, any chick-fil-a lunch with you. Jon not only listens to anything you have going on, but also provides honest, steadfast, and wise advice. He is the type of friend most people dream about having, and the type of man that the Naval Academy is legendary for producing. JD's biggest flaw might be that his body literally can't handle milk or that he listens to a little too much country to be from Utah. We will all miss laughing, talking, and drinking red powerade with Jon, but Naval Aviation is lucky to have gained him as a teammate and incredible future pilot.

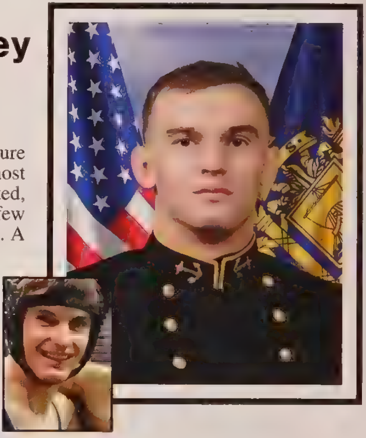
"The Giver. Sniper. Plebe." Each of these words perfectly describes Shane Fagan's Academy experience. This hometown hero peaked in high school, only to hit rock bottom immediately after in plebe summer. Fun fact: he is the only recruited sprint football player in program history. Did he tell you he plays Sprint? It's like regular football, with a weight limit. Despite his good habits, he's surprisingly faced the most conduct adjudications on the team. Shane's flagrant violations have turned him from square to bad boy in record time. Leatherneck was the most impactful training in his service selection; if you ever hear "semper deep" echoed throughout the hallways, it's probably him. Shane is probably the most outgoing, well-known, and liked midshipman in the brigade. Does this guy have a fault? He's a physical specimen who hopes his unique strengths will help his petty officers sign off on his checkouts quicker. As a 15-credit quantitative economist, this aerospace of group 3 major frequently dominated Netflix, Xbox, and his rack. Too bad it took him over two years to start growing his hair out. The Rush Room was lucky to have Shane, and the Fleet will be happy to receive him. ANFB

Shane Finney

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground



Hailing from Carlsbad, CA, Finney's early struggles were easy to pinpoint if you just saw a picture of him from his youth. Finney wasn't always the wrestling athlete he is today, as he spent most of his adolescence playing video games and not talking to girls. Still extremely uncoordinated, Shane found a way to walk on to a D-1 wrestling program despite snapping his leg in the first few days of tryouts. Just a few tears shed and some "self care acts" got this man back on his feet. A man of habit, I have never seen someone consistently wake up to the 0745 bell to quickly get into his blues and hit a sit down breakfast before attending his 1st period. To all the Caroline's he's loved before, you've missed out. Is he laughing or choking on air? A cyber major for some reason, I'm not sure if Shane can speak comprehensively about any cyber topic. Shane definitely took a longer route to the marine corps like some of his buddies. I have walked in the shadow of many men but none larger than Shane's and I am forever grateful for that. -JFO -RTM

Imagine if Jimi Hendrix didn't die at 27 and went to the Naval Academy instead. This is essentially the story of Brendan Fritz. This Baltimore native hails from the nicest neighborhood before entering the upscale district of Newport, RI. Most people think that becoming a Navy Seal is one of the highest accomplishments one can achieve. Well, Fritz is actually more known for his ability to go absolutely cracked on the sticks. Video games aren't the only thing this roast machine of a human being is good at, you can find him attempting PRT's with no quad. Rumored to be the most capable Fortnite player in NMG history, Fritz has really established himself as an NMG legend. I'm thrilled he gets to be a naval officer because he worked as hard for it as he does economics, which is surprisingly a lot. His annual Christmas cards always spread joy, and he finds himself neatly wedged between the best and the worst the brigade has to offer. It's been a pleasure to get to know him, and I can't wait to see him on Wall Street one day.

Big Gig has the widest smile this side of the Mississippi. A proud member of JV IST (SOT), this Roll Tide fanatic is quite the physical specimen. His years at Greystone Preparatory School for the Fit and Handsome have surprisingly not helped him secure a girl in his time here. As a humble poli-sci major, his plebe QPR is higher than what he's graduating with, and his IQ test isn't too impressive, either. Nonetheless, this former XO sure loves upholding the standard after making his rack halfway through the semester. His personality traits include flannels, quarter zips, trucker hats, beer, country music, Copenhagen mint, and tennis shoes. This man is absolute toast. Straight burnt bread. Christian's best advice for underclassmen: "Just put out and be a good dude." His twin sister may have commissioned before him, but hey, save the best for last. All jokes aside, Christian is a true brother in arms who represents the best of Annapolis. I couldn't think of a better guy to be under a log with, because he would do all the lifting for me. Good luck, "naval officer" and have fun doing small boat stuff in San Diego!

I'm assuming she got many of her admirable traits from basically running a zoo growing up. As her plebe summer roommate I was always in awe every night when I would find out about yet another talent she had. She's a connoisseur of many things, from avocados, to pineapples, to Starbucks cold brews, Chipotle, random clothing brands I've never heard of, Jon Pardi, and the best part about it is that she's always willing to share. There are very few people who can make their friends feel as good about themselves as Ansley. She is tactful yet gritty, elegant yet hardcore, and thoughtful yet down-to-earth. She is the perfect balance of well-roundedness and there really is not anyone quite like her. This chick is the wing woman of the year. If you ever need advice on how to slide in someone's DM's, please just knock on Ansley Green's door. Despite balancing many things, she has an incomparable ability to prioritize her inner circle of friends, and I cannot be more thankful that I am a part of that. My only regret with this lady is not meeting her sooner. She is going to make a tremendous Marine Corps officer because of her passion, spirit, and selflessness. I'd hate to be on the opposing side of Ansley as a Marine and thankfully I won't have to be. Just please don't bring up the fact that her 13-year-old "puppy" Charlotte is getting old. ;) I can't wait to see her break barriers and continue to shock the world with her endless talents!

If Bobby "hey bud" Hatfield was 40 years older I could be convinced he wrote Johnny Cash's line "I'm a flag waving, patriotic nephew of my Uncle Sam." Not only does this song play on repeat in his head everyday, it also played over his fiancé's ship selection. Speaking of service selection, Bobby seemed to be the one most confused by his choice. Most people knew he would be a SWO when he started wearing a SWOter because it was "cool," when he got his craftmaster pin, when he exclusively talked commerce warfare, when he started dreaming about conning during an UNREP, or when he thought a YP MO would be a good anniversary date. Known for shiny shoes, a vested interest in British politics, his love for BBQ, having strong desire to lead a naval vessel into combat, and being the best friend you could ask for, the CHURCHILL and "the glorious surface Navy " are surely getting one of the best. Bobby is a man who lives out the love, the faith, and the work he proclaims in the best ways possible and takes seriously the call of Christ and the call of the profession of arms.

She may have transferred from the Air Force Academy (best academy) just last year, but she has become one of the best people to be around. She is a freedom-fighter, justice-doer, and best advice-giver. She is very headstrong and can achieve anything she sets her mind to, I have never seen her fail to accomplish any of her goals. She is usually the loudest person in the room and can either make people laugh or shake their heads. She is always happy and bubbly around others. Most importantly, she is a true friend. No matter what circumstances life throws her way, she is always there for the people who love her and always going out of her way to make other people happy. Jorge loves challenges so much that she decided to choose her second language as her major. But among her favorite challenges is the PRT, as she gets to show off her fast running skills. At some point in the history of mankind, two opposing forces collided to make Mitchell Johns. Although scientists are unsure of his true point of origin, studies have pointed towards two possible locations: Leesburg, Virginia or the upstairs toilet at Dillo's. When he's not hand-crafting cappuccinos in the room like the L-barista he is, he's aggressively slamming weights or plugging the gaps like the L-beast he was (ret.). Mitchell "Jitchell Mohns" Johns is the true definition of a midshipman, and you can tell by how many logged chow calls he has from plebe year. Also, did you know he was an extra in two movies? No need to ask, he'll probably just tell you. Mitchell "I haven't washed my rack or my Ike jacket in 4 years" Johns is destined for great things in the Corps. A booming voice that can be heard from anywhere on the yard, including the BSC. A cliff bar for breakfast and lunch... and dinner. Only person to ever beat army on a drop shot and go a whole semester without going to King Hall. The amount of times I have heard her from behind a closed door on the other end of the hallway is absolutely ridiculous, most people's first interaction with this woman is a blown eardrum because she is simply so excited to see other human beings. That's part of what makes her such a great team captain. Beating army, thinking Diff Eqs was a fun class, hitting cats with Ol' Faithful…. You name it, this girl likely has it on her resume. She has to train for a 12:40 mile and a half, yet somehow beats insanely athletic people at golf and tennis, left handed. She tends to be late, probably has something to do with her limping around all the time. Rooming with her was the best decision I have ever made at USNA even if it meant only a couple of hours of sleep a night due to late night talks and vending machine walks. Room 6111 for life:)

Despite being from Ohio and only sending smiley faces with noses :-), the self proclaimed “NKO Genie” is quick to share a laugh, a snack, or one of his many recovery tools with you (but not his headphones for a movie). Ethan did decide to take the easy road at the Academy by doing powerlifting, marathon training, and studying as a pure Math major all at the same time. If you were wondering, yes he does rate the seventh wing spot as the BATO, and yes that billet will be absolved next year. If you are reading this 20 years in the future, when Ethan is either a general or a trophy husband, you might be asking, what did Ethan do in his free time. The answer: MCMAP. Genuinely, Ethan is one of the kindest and most enjoyable people to be around and has quickly become a brother of room 6160. There is no other Mid that breaks the stereotype of what a Mid is quite like Andrew. His knitting skills, love for essential oil diffusers, and plant collection would rank him high amongst the grandmothers who send care packages every Christmas. Just like those grandmothers, you would also find it hard to see Andrew running at any point other than the PRT. Not only that, when you are in need of a quick tailor, extra spicy ramen, or to be put in your place, Andrew’s the guy to go to. When he is not spending his time thinking of his next outfit or Instagram caption, he is making memories with his friends or making some art piece to gift them. Those who are not his roommates or Jorge Ilagan, make sure to bring him small gifts every Sunday to stay on his good side or else he’ll abuse his power as company adj. If you've ever walked past 6123 and thought there were one too many plants in accordance with midregs, those would be his--mind you, they aren't potted. All in all, he's a great guy who advocates Kumon for kids and won't let you forget he's from Jersey.

Furthermore, aerospace engineering continued to humble him, eventually culminating in the ultimate betrayal of a particular upperclass youngster year. As I scroll his Instagram for content I frequently pass both a beautiful blonde girlfriend and a handsomer brunette grandfather who somehow snuck into the brigade of midshipmen. Regardless, Jake is the type of guy people know about because of how he interacts with others. There was no doubt he was going to be a Marine; have you seen him in the weight room? Somehow this lady fell for a dude who wears the same SpongeBob shirt and cutoff sweatpants shorts every weekend, calling it “Miguel Culture”. The only thing that changes about this dude is his first name. He goes by Miguel in the summer and Gregory in the winter because he gets so tan in the summer. Everything else is constant: loves cheese, is dummy fast, will always die laughing at the dumbest meme, has a piece of grass in his mouth. The most dramatic thing about this dude is when he gives you a car ride listening to Hans Zimmer the entire time. Imagine driving down the highway with the Interstellar soundtrack going HARD. She is a die-hard Duke and Coach K fan, and turned down varsity athletics and freedom for prisoN* club court time. Like the monster from the Pixar classic, she is literally the scariest plebe summer detailer you will ever see. She also maxes the PRT, probably because she gets extra workout time being excused from parades. A lesser known fact about her is that she studied in China growing up, becoming fluent in both Mandarin and security clearance forms. Sully is the youngest of three sisters, yet has so many blonde-haired blue-eyed cousins in 22nd Company. She'll never get over the trauma of the plebe chop, nor will she get over her favorite training corporal and Sea Trials squad leader, Ryan Koehler. The single hardest-working QUEEN there ever was, however occasionally she'll think her MechE grades are out of 50 when they're actually out of 100. Seriously, the ratio of time spent studying to the grade on her exams is way too high - You'd figure she'd get 98's on all her tests, yet they usually fall somewhere within the 82-88% range… Apparently the U.S. is just 82-88% confident she'll be able to work a nuclear reactor. She'll still fit the perfect image of a submariner, though, since she's already on the paler side. Somehow, Anna became a Bowman Scholar, however this accolade was at the cost of the entire Material Design Department's budget. The Clown of the Railgun Team and a pounder of White Russians, Anna's a combination of sociopath yet most amazing human you'll ever meet. She has a way of remembering every detail about stuff that's important to people close to her, and takes every lemon life has to offer to make a damn good cocktail. Ellicott City, MD was not the vibe, so Thurm the Worm set his sights high and somehow stumbled his way into Annapolis. He would've gone to UMD, but his ex says otherwise. This ese used to have such a flow, they almost put him in the girls' haircut line on I-Day. Not only can he withstand several G's in the cockpit, this man has never seen a bad hangover in his collegiate career. He may not beat you when it comes to his QPR, but he definitely has more matches than you on Hinge. This club lax faceoff guy will beat you both on the line and in the race to Banditos as soon as the weekend strikes. You know you've made it big when he puts your name down on one of his 400 iPhone notes. Tom will soon be flying high in Pensacola, but let's hope the 30 protein shakes on board won't weigh down the plane. -SDF, SAB

Bonnie Tom

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Bonnie Tom. There's a lot of fight packed into this 5ft 5 rhinoceros. She's not perfect by any means. Can she cook? No. Can she clean? Also no. Despite this, she's managed to frat the majority of her time at the academy. Where is she when she's not busy playing rugby or searching the Physics stack exchange? Not on the yard that's for sure. How to get on her bad side? It's not hard. Chew too loudly, be late for a watch, or offer her a lukewarm beverage. Don't let this confuse you though, Bonnie is the best friend you could possibly have. She'll fold your socks, dust the blinds, and run a marathon with you. Her inability to keep quiet when she's passionate about something is only topped by her inability to write a paper in less than three weeks. Bonnie Tom, or Bonald, or Tonnie Bom, or Bon Bon is the toughest person I know and, while her stomach is not, she is the solid rock you need in your life. A breath of fresh air, she is unapologetically herself. There is no one else you would want fighting in your corner, most likely in a pastel-colored jacket.

Trevor Tucker

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Tuck is a psychopath, plain and simple. In the movie "The Town" there is one scene where Ben Affleck's character says to Jerremy Renner's character "I need your help. I can't tell you what it is, you can never ask me about it later, and we're gonna hurt some people." and Jerremy Renner's character responds with "Whose car we gonna take?" In this scene Tuck is Jerremy Renner. This is the perfect example of Tucker. He is a one of a kind guy who is all about his boys and what he cares about. No one wants to be on the wrong side of Trevor Tucker. He drinks like he is 300 lbs and can hold his alcohol as well as any Irish person and anyone heavier than him. He will fight you, and win, no matter the size. He is not afraid of anyone or anything. One of his favorite pastimes is putting Fox in a chokehold any chance he gets. Tuck is a great Human being and a great friend. Anyone who knows him would agree with me and I am proud to be one of the lucky few.

Derrick Vernon

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Hey there, stranger. Do you like to be choked? Well then, meet Derrick "Gage" Vernon. This Urban Cowboy from Altus, OK embodies the dying ideal of the American dream. Who else would consider investing a sizeable portion of their 2/C loan into both cattle and a truck? Dairy is the oldest of six, yet still possesses the playful energy of a 22-year old college student who is about to lead marines. When he's not on the mat, you can find him at the computer repair center. His excessive "anime" addiction has gotten him into trouble one too many times. Gage has had both several roommates and lovers in his time here. Nonetheless, he finally found his home in 4th wing firstie year, fulfilling both requirements. Despite the excessive la Croix and dip cans in his room, he still manages to have the highest QPR in the room as a cyber major. I'm pretty sure it's because he shaves his chest every week. All in all, Gage represents the transformative experience USNA has to offer. From a broken ankle to breaking ankles, I'll hesitate to tell this future warfighter to "break a leg" in the fleet. Semper Fi.

Matthew Williams

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Matthew "Matty Ice" Williams could make anybody laugh about anything at any time. I've never seen so many people laugh so hard about the 1998 Honda CRV than when Matt brings it up at our cycling practices. His energy is contagious and uplifting. Humor aside, he is one of the most competent people out there. He may not look it with his 5'9" and 150 lbs frame but Matt is a physical beast. PFT? Max. PRT? Max. Cycling team record for fastest Farragut lap? Next question. Matt's best quality, though, is his commitment to his values. He wants to be there for his friends, so he will literally drop anything if somebody needs him. He wants to expand his knowledge of the world and the people in it, so he reads, studies language, and takes a leap into a whole new culture and country for a semester. He wants to be a man of God, so he prioritizes his Faith and is always glad to welcome friends into that community with open arms. He's selfless, charismatic, and kind. And in all of these things, he's consistent. The Marine Corps is getting a good one.

Gabriel Acosta

Navy Pilot

Gabe, Gabwhey, Acosta is the most MOTO non-MOTO guy I know. He has an elite personality and knows how to get the job done more times than not. Gabe is a part of an exclusive club of so-called "weightlifters" called crossfitters. Lifting big weight and eating big meals is an exclusive part of his personality and it shows through his monster chest and incredible squat max (thanks to his short femurs). Gabe is the first person to tell you how hard, rigorous and prestigious the Naval Academy is but then skate his way through it, while acquiring an engineering degree. Gabe manages to drink 5 cups of coffee, chug a bottle of pre workout and still be "healthy". He'll always be known as a man who says "sometimes you gotta shoot a hostage". All else aside, Gabe is a man you should be honored to meet and will always have your back. Gabe has been one of the best friend's a person could ask for and I am more than excited to watch him grow into a future Naval Aviator and bodybuilder.

"Guys, let's go to my house so I can take care of my dogs who do not need me". Isabell doesn't like to get drunk with her closest friends, only strangers. Somehow she finessed quitting the track team multiple times and still ended up coming back each time. Coach's unadopted adopted daughter. Runs like a chicken but looks like an angel. Definition of bougie! Won't spend $8 on food yet will spend $500 on Prada heels that she's worn once. Loves to go out, claims she knows DC…never knows which bars to go to. Uses a GPS when she supposedly has lived in VA for 12 years. Still manages to get lost going to her own house WHILE USING GPS. Has more boyfriends than my class size. Has more fun on dates with her dogs than with any dude she's ever been on a date with. Quotes movies like Harry Potter, Lord of the Rings, and Pirates of the Caribbean. She is a foreigner, country girl and city girl all at once. Most indecisive person known to man. Could have been casted for Carrie in Sex and the City. She has a great wardrobe. Good luck trying to convince her of anything!

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Nathan Betts

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Grown from the same corn in Field of Dreams, Nathan comes from a town so small the church is also the bar. He showed up to plebe summer with aspirations to be semper deep, but a few too many hits to the head and a love for the dark blue crayon later, he was donning marine green. Despite this mental deficiency, he managed to join the 2% with his fiance Emma, who he met in high school (well, she was, at least). At USNA Nathan was admired for having the shiniest helmet on 6-2. He was also pivotal in expanding the physical horizons of his roommates, and his mastery in bending men should warrant a Navy Cross. He has developed a taste for the finer things in life, like handmade pasta, pretentious tea flavors, and leaving Ring Dance 17% red wine by volume (leaving 15% of it around various parts of the yard). We have no doubt that Nathan will have an industrious career as a Marine Infantry Officer before finally making Emma priority #2 in his life. His first, of course, is always satisfying his Napoleon complex by manhandling his roommates and never losing a game of chicken.

First and foremost, I would like to thank my Lord and savior Jesus Christ for getting me to this point. I know that without Christ, I would not be where I am today. I would also like to thank my family, friends, and loved ones for the love and support they provided me throughout this journey. Specifically, I would like to thank Otis Brown Sr, Linda Brown, Faith Brown, Aunt Edie, Uncle Gary, and the Blackwell's for being my backbone and figures of inspiration. I would also like to thank my family who have moved on to their heavenly home yet supported me in all aspects of life; Mama, Papa, Grandma, Uncle Bobby T, Aunt Janet, Uncle Guy, and Aunt Frannie. They each had lasting impacts on my life, and without them I would not be where I am today. Last but not least, I would like to thank my Grandfather, Robert Thornton Brown Jr. My Grandfather was my best friend, my role model, a second father figure, and the man I aspire to be. Prior to his passing, he provided me with more life lessons and wisdom than I can count. Thank you Grandpa, I love and miss you.

Joshua Carson

Surface Warfare

This hunk of a man will never cease to have you questioning your life or why you decided to take a shower that day. Coming from the pleasant town of Waldorf, Josh came to the Academy with eagerness and zest. His first disappointment came when he found out day one that the jockstrap was not part of the UOD. If you ever have a conversation with Josh, he'll tell you about his ten year plan for his life that restarts every time he spends more than 4 hours alone. Don't be surprised if Josh tells you he can't hang out for the weekend cause he "has to lay spread eagle on the damp grass of HP" or "howl at the full moon." Josh spends his free time doing things like stretching his toes and doing the airplane down various roads at the Academy. His song for ship selection was a classy "silence. No noise please." Josh's movie would have no extras, too much baggage. Although Josh may only find love on a commune where they also don't use soap, Josh will be a caring officer dedicated to his people. Go for broke. Hold the line. Life is a pilgrimage.

I-can-no-mo-walk. A goofy town for a goofy kid. This Wisconsin native was the talk of the town before the Academy. Despite always being second best on his team, Alex was a talented runner…almost making state all four years! With the Academy as his goal in life, Alex took the best route to get here. He purposely waited a year after high school to attend Marquette where he graciously donated $30,000 in order to validate 3 classes at the Academy. Known as the "Nostradamus" of the stock market, Alex has invested his money with prowess and precision to a point where he is now an expert on debt. Alex begins each semester with a new zeal for life. "It's not about how strong you finish, it's about how strong you start" he always says. After a night with the bottle, Alex will often try to fight you. If this happens, just give him a toy to play with and he'll settle down and fall right asleep. Keep up the good work in the fleet stud!

Alejandro Corzo

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

A god-fearing man, and an even better friend. Alejandro J Corzo is the definition of the perfect midshipman. He is so perfect, he made sure to be remediated for both conduct and honor violations. His declining PRT grades, his increasing usage of Turkish Royals, and his grueling prison workouts have somehow allowed him to achieve peak performance year after year. Ask him how to achieve his peak performance and he'll tell you it takes a lot of naps. Ask him where to smoke a cigarette and he'll tell you the breezeway. Ask him who the smartest man in the world is and he'll say himself. Tell him to not use so much mayonnaise and he'll ask you when cowardice ever achieved anything in the world. It's a rare occasion to cross paths with Corzo and not smile. There have been very few days living with Corzo that I have not laughed. He's taught us how to not take things too seriously and how to always turn those frustrating experiences at the Academy into the best times that will be some of our best memories. As it's his time to go, the legends of the MIDN Corzo will last generations.

Sidney Credle

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

A charismatic firecracker with killer looks, Sid will be quick to tell you that he's from an ordinary southern state. "There's nothing special about NC," he'll often say, "except for my massive beach mansion." An avid fan of sports, Sid reminds people that he's a big fan of some mediocre college team in Raleigh, too. Sid is hard to find in the afternoons, mostly because he has a 4 hour bike ride or 15 mile run that needs completing before dinner. "What can I say… don't forget to build your aerobic base today!" He's even harder to get a hold of in the evenings, as he's either drinking unholy amounts of Bai or talking to massive crowds who only come to 6225 to see the BRO himself. With his earbuds, face masks, temperature adjustments, and lighting conditions, no one has perfected sleeping more than Sid. "I don't ask for much," he says, "but when I do, I ask for a lot." Sid continually impresses with smooth talking skills and getting away with 6Ks, but nothing is more impressive than the lengths he'll go to avoid a Friday sixth period. Good luck at flight school, Sid! We'll smell ya later.

Dan Curren

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Hailing from California, MIDN Dan "not Daniel" "no middle name" Curren came out of the womb sprinting and spitting financial advice. A traveled warrior, Dan is intelligent and quick to seek out the truth and answers when no one else will. He stands up for what is right and never brags about his awards. While "Best Dad Bod" Award goes to Dan, he should also be awarded with "Big Heart" because he is one of the few who will stop, discern something is wrong, and care for you. Some of Dan's greatest achievements include running the first and the last fastest marathon, speaking the language of an island about to be underwater, and being able to speak to bikes. For some reason, beautiful women flock to Dan and he inevitably has to turn them down to focus on being busy. Dan has come a long way since he began his journey at the Academy. Even though he never learned how to grow foot bones back, you can breathe through your nose when you're around him now. But really Dan is highly dedicated and unstoppable when he cares about something. As long as Dan never snaps, we will be safe and he will excel.

Troy DeWitt

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Despite being from Pittsburgh, "Boy-toy" Troy DeWitt is the epitome of an old man from Colorado stuck in the body of a 20-year-old. Whether it's because he complains about how every muscle group hurts after hitting the gym, how he is a self-proclaimed IPA critic driving a Subaru, or when he grunts when sitting down, Troy never fails to express the inner dad inside each of us. Though, like every good father, he is kind, selfless (buying several drinks for newfound friends), and is passionate for the weekend. Several days before Friday, the itinerary comes out detailing every stop, miles to the destination, and allotted time on the road such that every mile is accounted for. Though in true dad fashion, we never keep to the schedule usually due to muscle pain walking down the steps of Bancroft or wanting another hour of sleep. Even with all his quirks, Troy is always a face I can count on to cheer me up after a long, hard day… though it's usually due to his facial expressions when lifting. Enjoy napping on the beach in Pensacola and try not to scare anyone off with your sunscreen! - AAK

Somehow a fan of New England sports only when they're winning, he'll let you know that Tom Brady has always been the GOAT despite only having stepped foot in Boston on a layover to New York. The sweet innocent man we all know and love as Colin Duffy, turns into a new man as soon as he leaves the country. We will never know exactly what he had left in Barcelona, but in Malta his trace will be forever known. Once in Costa Rica, Duffy held up a bus of 40 people while he was busy on the beach. Foreign women stay well away because after 1 am outside of continental United States Duffy is finally able to flirt with women.

Twas a sunny summer day when Berdo the Nerdo was born. A man of many talents, namely disappearing at 2 am and showing up the next morning with a cup of Dunkin Donuts coffee and a story of curb stomping ready to go. While running has always been his bane, a man hath no commitment like Berdo. From early morning runs, runs on the pipe, and lots of throw up, he came out victorious, despite the best efforts of a certain Sir who must not be named. You can often find Berdo yelling Inky Johnson quotes or reciting The Young Man and the Guru – they helped chisel him into a Jocko look-a-like in the summer of 2020. He won't talk for hours and then will be your best friend in the blink of an eye, all you have to do is talk about how fat Vinny is and he lights up like a christmas tree. It's hard to say for sure if anyone knew what to think when they saw this behemoth of a man with a 2012 Justin Bieber cut check in to I-Day wearing a faded flannel, baggy jeans, and probably Hokas, but if you were lucky enough to know Griffah well during your time at the academy you no doubt have memories you will never forget. His energy is contagious (if you can keep up), and he was the centerpiece of many legendary nights. Although no bison grazing the plains of the tri-state area could ever feel safe with Griffah on the prowl, he's a gentle giant deep down. In about one week's span he managed to medal at the rowing world championship, fight 8 guys at once at a music festival, and complete the In-and-Out 4x4 Animal Style challenge while wearing a blue rim, proving that he is ready for any combat scenario he encounters in the undersea domain. Griffah is a man of taste, and believes all things get better with age like whiskey, women, and homework assignments. The sub force doesn't know what they're in for, but you can sleep peacefully at night knowing it's his quivering hand hovering over the nuclear launch buttons.

His plebe year, he mastered the 6-hour video call before COVID was even a thing, yet still failed to stay in the 2% club. Instead, he fell in love with our big, fit TrainO and Sidney Credle's childhood bestie. Some of Zach's greatest achievements at the Naval Academy were being 1 of 2 trailblazers of a weird company interest of a specific group of women, being hated by every mech-e for breaking curves, and being hairy enough that he could lay down and be a rug. Zach also quickly shifted away from the sky as his massive brain sent him to the bowels of an aircraft carrier. With no sugar in his diet and supplemental vitamin D coursing through his veins, Zach finessed the N-SWO bonus while being finessed during interpersonal conflict demonstrations in the room. Taking his raw cynicism to UMD, Zach is ready to break more curves, and hopefully be spladled less.

Hailing from the armpit of America (New Jersey), Sean Kee began his USNA career as a shy, color-challenged Plebe. Four years later and he still can't tell you what color a stop sign is but a fine young man he has become. It has not been without difficulty though. From having one roommate who disliked him so much he went to another continent for a semester, to another who desperately attempted to heal his broken heart and keep him from evil (tinder women), Sean has had many shaping influences. Sean is also a man of sheer * will, best evidenced in his weird commitment to scientific running form and the gadgets he straps on his body to monitor his performance. Perhaps best known for playing the Wii theme song on piano and getting hammered off 3 light beers, he will surely be remembered for his heart of gold and loyalty to his classmates and friends. You don't want him to spot you when benching, but there's no doubt that when the going gets tough no one's more reliable than Sean Kee. I have never met another person like him who sleeps so much, yet is willing to spend an unlimited amount of time and money on unique weekend plans. If given the chance, Alex would fly to Europe just to get a French baguette and fly back, all in the same day just because he was hungry. Whether it's living it up at Echostage, bungee jumping off bridges, or taking road trips (definitely within the liberty radius), he always finds ways to have a good time. His signature line given approximately ten seconds after getting back to the Yard is, "Another successful weekend. What should we do next weekend?" Although he looks harmless, he is secretly a master marksman and the smartest person in the room. A future billionaire with the mindset of a 40-year-old dad, Krup never fails to talk about the heat in his hometown of Tempe, Arizona, how he hates IPAs, or how he loves Lululemon and smoked meats. Have a blast ripping up the skies in flight school! -TRD

Katelyn McKinley

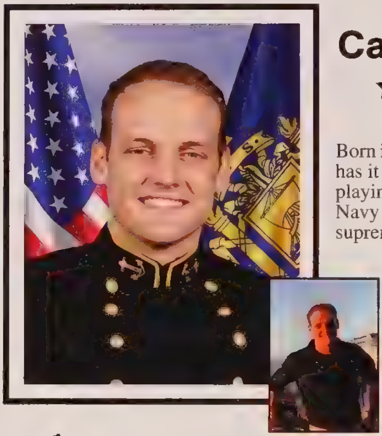
USMC Pilot

If Kate is telling a story, expect her to get sidetracked 164371234678 times and finally finish her story hours later. She also has a great memory. If you ever try to quiz her on different Mids within the Brigade, there's a 90% chance she knows their first/last name, company, and a random fact that she overheard from a fifth party.
Kate is also very cultured and "studied" in Ghana for a semester, but her palate is about as plain as her love life. Her procrastination skills are IMPRESSIVE, but her grades as a technical major are even more impressive since you will never catch her doing school. Kate is a reliable friend, she will be there to give you a hug or brighten your day…just don't expect her to be there on time. She is the most athletic baby deer to be seen, with the best passes, kicks, and high tackles on NWR. Kate is a natural leader and the most genuinely positive person you'll meet, as long as you don't hear the sassy comments she mumbles. Her future Marines are lucky to be led by the kindest, most supportive, sociable, and caring friend.



Caleb Meyer Hagen

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Born into a Middle Eastern family, Caleb immigrated to the United States as a young boy. Legend has it that he was weaned on Coca-Cola and ate a rare steak before his first tooth came in. After playing every position on his high school football team and 20 years of college, Caleb joined the Navy under suspicion that saltwater would heal his receding hairline. Here at USNA, Caleb reigned supreme in the classroom, in the hall, and around the track until he tragically tore his ACL after being TKO'ed in Plebe wrestling. Caleb was resilient and bounced back, getting runner-up in the Brigade Chess Tournament, serenading old folks with his superior violin skills, and bowling a 219 at the local alley. Despite almost failing the rope in choke, the man can lift more, swim faster, run harder, and jump farther than your average Joe-Bag'a-Donuts. Be careful though, cause he might just steal your girlfriend/fiancé with one of the five intros he knows on the guitar, swing dancing, or chivalric mannerisms. To some, he might have a punchable face (ask the homeless guy in New York), but if you ask 23, he was the face (&CO&SEL) we didn't deserve.

Madison Milbert

Medical/Dental

Hailing from Kingston, MA, this NWSD 21-22 backstroke momma knows what she wants, when she wants, and how she wants it. And you will know. A Chem major, Med Corps select, and an absolute beast to race against, she knows how to get. sh*t. done. …except turning off her desk light when she leaves the room. As the Brigade-HO(e), she fields passive aggressive emails from cynical Mids (the worst kind) and attends 120933 meetings with THE Saperstein on top of her crazy academic and swim schedule. But that will never slow her down because not only is she a beast, she has 1) a packed fridge containing fresh produce 24/7 and a bountiful supply of kombucha, 2) an espresso machine with a special assortment of 5 exquisite flavors, 3) her essential eye mask to protect her coveted beauty sleep 4) ~lavender oil~, and 5) obviously Nick Derrico to keep her going. This B-HO(e) knows how to treat herself and will encourage you to do the same. A perfect bundle of love, compassion, drive, determination, empathy, and strength. Anyone who has had the opportunity to have interacted with Madi Milbert over the past four years should consider themselves blessed. She leaves her mark on everyone she encounters, as a leader, teammate, companymate, and classmate. The definition of a role model if you ask me.#Queensht #Feminism #Grlpwr. In short, good luck trying to mess with Madi Milbert. You won't. -KK -GB

Vincent "Terry" "Iron Spleen" "Stromboli King" "Crimson Chin" Motzel. Total brother in arms. Food, water, and shelter are the only things he lives for. Knows the game, plays the game, wins the game. Not much to say about Vinny other than he leads and he wins. WoW, what a guy. A fearsome boxer, Vincent fears no man but God… and that one kid from Air Force. Will wake up every day at 5 am to go for a run and then proceed to absolutely inhale a 16" Billy Club from Jimmy Johns in record time. Which in turn, results in the perfect male body figure he has. Vinny can go toe to toe with the best of them, crushing bourbon and beer while falsely claiming how Minnesota is the best state in the entire world and going on about the Boundary Waters and his notorious Duluth Pack. He can often be found in the late hours of the night in a kitchen listening to his folk music as he finishes every last wounded warrior.

Rebecca Peasley

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Rebecca (Becky P): the sweetest yet most aggressive gal there is. The woman runs on energy drinks and coffee (nobody has ever seen her take a sip of water) and 4 hours of sleep. This isn't because she's doing homework, oh no. Instead, she is found watching Netflix, Hulu, or her favorite: Disney+. Her ability to complete an entire semester's work in one night is truly incredible. Her greatest talent is being a heartbreaker, especially amongst the 23rd company men. The number of men that send her the "u up" text is longer than the list of assignments that she hasn't done, but the only man she wants in her DM's is Dwayne Johnson. From throwing on the track team plebe year, then blessing the Rugby team with her athletic talents for the past three years, Rebecca is truly a phenomenon. Although she's a complete beast and will outlift you anytime in MacD, she is also one of the kindest souls here at the Academy. She's a 6ft tall amazonian goddess that always knows when you're feeling down and has the perfect way to make you laugh. She will always have your back and will brighten the cloudiest of days.

Meagan Quispe

Meagatron has accomplished so much while at the Naval Academy. She is famous for being the most resilient person to walk these halls. She has managed to double her QPR since plebe year, fail almost every STEM class she has taken, and give up all of her summer leave to summer school. It is honestly a miracle she has come this far. Her primary form of communication is though tiktoks. Don't even try speaking to her if you aren't up to date on what's trending - you won't understand a word. This tiktok obsession has left her with the attention span of a toddler, and will forget what she was thinking about in the middle of a sentence, and continue to talk about something unrelated leaving your desperately confused. Despite being an English major, Meagan's vocabulary stops at two syllable words and she can only speak in sentences with one noun. All these things combine to create a brilliantly funny and clever person whose company is unparalleled. I have never been in her company and not smiled, or laughed at her jokes. She is a beautiful person inside and out, and the SWO community is lucky to have this Queen.

This future bridezilla will have the whole navy quaking in their (steel toed) boots. She may be small but she is a force to be reckoned with. She will walk over any naysayers in her gucci shoes. Adina Samloff is full of surprises, whether it be drinking the whole bottle of "lemonade" in the back of an Uber, driving at NASCAR speeds, being a master lock picker, or being the life of any bonfire. There isn't much she can't do, except learn how to get a security alarm to shut off. Adina is often off finding an adventure no matter where it takes her. Whether it is clubbing in Cancun, wandering the streets of New York, visiting every beach in San Diego in one day, waking up at the crack of dawn to catch the sunrise, or more importantly to get a good parking spot. Her heart is too big for her chest, but she wears it on her sleeve proudly. Adina, our Jewish American Princess, with her fleet of foreign friends or lovers, is someone you definitely want in your corner. Adina will always catch you completely off guard, either with the craziest stories or random public chokeholds. We all know that she secretly loves pork. The squadron she ends up in is going to have the best NFO parties, if she can even remember them.

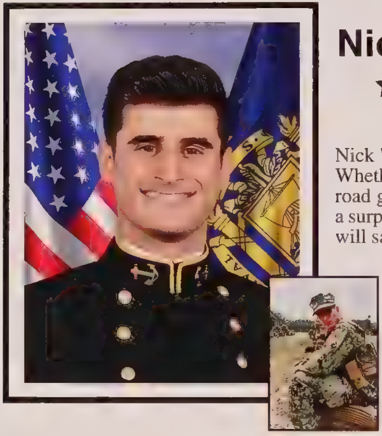
Gibby, a queen who is known for a lot of things, some of those being smacking things for fun, dropping it onto high stools, and always keeping it 55th street because she stay being 5mous. Never the one to shy from a challenge or opportunity, to this day straight gas is the only person in the history of the Naval Academy to not flake on plans. For this fact alone she should be regarded as the finest graduate of this prestigious institution. Gibby is known as the room trash can. The girl can eat anything and everything and stay the same size. She is a big fan of noodles. She always gives the best advice in a crisis- like directing her friends to follow her into an active shooter scene to seek cover at Obriens. Could you think of a safer place? To be honest, gabby is one of the nicest people I've ever met, but she will and would mess someone up if they crossed her and I love her for that. And by mess someone up, I mean leave them with enough emotional scaring for approximately 3 albums and a local tour just from existing. Nevertheless, we love Gabby because of her quick wittiness, caring personality, and her ability to make you feel like the only person in the room when you have her attention.



Nicholas Sigman

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Nick "Stix" "Stickyman" Sigman shimmied his way to Navy Pilot like a true Naval Aviator. Whether it was the time spent burning it down at Dillo's while we watched our own team play road games to surviving Bloody Sunday after putting a hole in my wall, many would say it's a surprise he has done this well. He'll say he's a normally attractive dude, the Hooters waitress will say he is a chiseled Greek God. He truly cannot keep the girls away. When he breaks out the Champion pullover, it's game over for your chance at meeting a girl that night. For a man that wants a "loving relationship" though, he sure does attract toxicity. His shot at the 2% club ended before it started. The only constant love in his life are his "all genetic" pecs that make Arnold jealous. He does research supplements a little too much… Regardless, I feel for whatever stands in Nick's way. With an ungodly amount of caffeine on his side, there is not much that can stop him–especially after all of the late night BUD/S training. I couldn't be more proud to call STIX my brother.

Airi Sloan

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Ah, Potatosaur. Where would we be without her? This deranged, beautiful, never-sleeping maniac was solely responsible for the founding of The Coup: a band of raccoon friends she pulled out of the dumpster with a stick. Airi has become the focal point of my friends at USNA.

I don't think I have legitimately seen Airi get genuinely worked up over anything. She brightens everyone's day in the same way a cat on speed would and has a heart as big as a blue whale's. Unphased and spikey on the outside but cares more than anyone else on the inside (Like a hedgehog or softer porcupine). Still, don't let her blasé attitude fool you. She is fan-girling, crying, and needing affection on the inside. Our pure chaotic queen. Not afraid to reveal she is the bad guy during a game or construct the great wall of Airi. Despite her tendency to bite, unwillingness to hug and occasional body check, we will always love her. I think it is impossible to have a bad time with Airi around and I feel blessed to have had such a chaotic presence in my life here at USNA. We are so lucky to have her.

Weighing in at three hundred and fifteen pounds, Jack Streeter or Regular Jack is a force of nature. A loyal sleddawg, Jack can be found on Rip Miller at 1830 daily because, "we just get better practices in man". Jack's silky lacrosse moves are only paralleled by his fluid body weight, which has been known to vary by up to 15 pounds on a three day. An avid Boston sports fan, who grew up in Florida, he has been compared to a puppy, because, like a puppy, he has very limited cognitive abilities and a propensity to piss everywhere. A can of peppermint zyn, MLB the show, and MOBoard's and he's set. Put him near an Irish Bar before eight PM, and he'll have you cleaning urine off your floor in under 12 hours, guaranteed. A one time resident of Water Street, he is known as the best cook east of the Mississippi. Jack is always a dependable friend to call whenever you need out of a sticky situation. Always found with a smile on his face, Jack is one of the best people you will ever meet. A great man who will be an even better Admiral some day.

Ian Timmins is the type of man that will make a 300lb lineman take a step back when he gets in their face. Even though he is in the gym every weekday, he spends his weekends at the Boneyard lifting 12oz weights like it is nothing until they inevitably make him pass out from severe exhaustion.”Gains by Timmy” has helped me achieve strength comparable to Chris Bumstead and the agility of a person wearing cheetah pants. Ian is the type of man I would gladly fight till death with in a foxhole somewhere out in the desert, and I am lucky enough to have known this humble man for 5 years. Love you Yims.

Riley Wharton

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Hailing from a made up town in Kentucky, Riley came to the Academy wide eyed and bushy tailed. He brought with him an impressive resume as Supreme Commander of allied forces JROTC (KY). He had 17 swim records to his name in his hometown where he often had to fight off his Amish friends and 80 year olds for pool lanes. At USNA, Plebe Riley could be found practicing rack races while his friends were out getting ice cream on Saturdays. It was during this time that he first fell in love with waking up at 0500 to stare at spreadsheets. When Riley wasn’t listening to Jocko podcasts or convincing himself that walking to the library was a good use of time, he could be found in the Jewish chapel. A man of good taste who preferred to enjoy the presence of God and women altogether. If you ever find yourself looking for someone who will miss TAPs or sleep talk with you, Riley is the man to call. You may know him as a part-time rockstar, peanut butter enthusiast, or even a “GOOD” ole southern boy, but we will forever know Riley as a best friend. Good luck, partner!

This of course only happened when he wasn’t trying to fry 90% of the 23rd Company Hell-guppies or calculating the optimal MJT. He really hit his stride at the academy when Axle single handedly chose him to take charge of a group of misfits known as Plebe Summer Weapons Detail…JULES, NO! He is largely considered the single most accomplished weapons commander because only TWO of his people got ARIs and suffered through CAB torture…BRENDAAAAAN! At least he will be forever not-known as the first midshipman to graduate while actively taking Ritalin. That should serve him well when he’s commanding his destroyer in 20 years…or in med school.

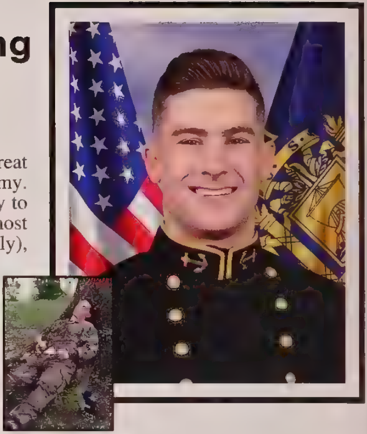
Collin Armstrong

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot



Collin Michael Arms, Penalty Poacher, Team Guy, Rutabaga, Striper–Collin hails from the great state of Alabama…or is it Tennessee? Collin has endured a lot during his time at the Academy. Whether it was the hours spent "recovering" in the training room or being voted most likely to claim he's always broke and never has money, but spends $3600 on a bike, Collin made the most of his time on the banks of the Severn. As the most handsome man in the brigade (no like actually), Collin has single-handedly enabled NMS to take over the entire safety chain of command and it is hard not to chuckle when you see SIMP TRAINING next to his name. There are some things that just never made sense about him, like sleeping with only one blue magnet for his entire time here. There's a good chance you will find Collin at the gym sharing one rack with six other dudes or failing to max a PRT every semester by a few seconds. Aside from breaking the rule of no pogue on pogue macking, Collin has been able to stay out of trouble while at the Academy and has a bright future ahead of him.

Lindsey Asbury

USMC Pilot

When you first meet Lindsey, you might mistake her for a mute. It is okay. Slow to speak, she is just an active listener. But who knows, she really does not talk. Lindsey can say anything sinister with a straight face, and nobody would question her. Seriously, she could have a body hidden in her issued luggage and nobody would know. Despite this personality trait, Lindsey is super personable. This devil dog has the passion of a thousand pitbulls and isn't afraid to OO-RAH her way through life. Known for her stinkies, she is using her role as CC to implement changes to the 6-3 bathroom as we speak. When she isn't blowing up the bathroom, you can often find her gaming until 3 am, and somehow maintaining her importance and presence in company and her stellar grades. Oh and then going on marathon runs on the weekend when she's not growling at passerby at midnight outside of O'Brien's. While she has the heart of a 260-pound linebacker, let's just hope that's enough to get her borderline midget figure through TBS.

Wilson Ayers

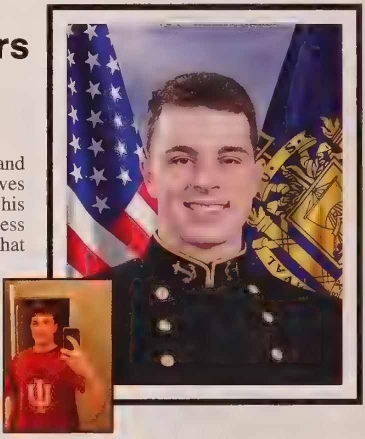
USMC Ground



Wilson. Rodney. Krampus. Devil Dog. The man most loved for his remarkable good looks, and most hated for his delicious tik tok dance moves. Krampus apparently has a girlfriend who lives in Europe… Needless to say, everyone is skeptical. Although he is the slowest member of his room, he contends that a 3-mile run would be much more representative of his physical prowess than the established 1.5 mile test. A critical member of the dangerous nights crew, he claims that his hair is only pushed back and not slicked back. He dreams of being swept off his feet and eloping with his boyfriend, John Mayer, and often recounts nightmares wherein he is not in John's top .001% of listeners. Although he allegedly ran an Ironman, it is clear to all that Wilson staged the event in pursuit of attention, Instagram likes, and an excuse to get a tattoo.

Paul Bechu

EOD

Despite Paul being heir to the Philips throne, he has unfortunately been abandoned by his forefathers, shipped off by his disappointed French family to serve a foreign power as a scuba diver. He claims his family consists of multiple sisters, a story which cannot be corroborated similar to his tall tales of "friends" at UMD. Paul's rough family life has left him with an eating disorder which leaves him forced to eat at a pace unachievable by an average person. His hunger for toxic females is just as strong. They latch onto the love handles and never seem to let go. Paul likes to spend his free time trying to figure out how American football works. Struggles with simple daily tasks such as refraining from vulgar language due to English being his second language. Lives life to the fullest and enjoys sucking paint off the ceiling during his sleep, trying to lose his love handles, emotionally unstable women, scuba diving, lifting, calling himself "cracked", bragging about his computer monitor setup, and getting free electronics from his mother. You never know what he is going to say, but you'll never miss the massive snail trail he leaves behind.

David "Gray" Benson is known as a lady killer on the IC Sailing team. Having an affinity for older women he could be considered the biggest heartbreaker. He loves the finer things in life (boats, margs, Lulu, and Zyn). Gray "Diesel" Benson is not a morning person unless you greet him with an iced coffee with a splash of cream, he'll tell you if it isn't perfect. You will not find him underdressed (picture a wool sweater in Dillo's). If you need anyone to research the operations, he's your guy. Gray "Oxford Dave" Benson, is so smart that he turned down grad school. His wild ways are surprising at first, but it will always be a good time when he is involved. This three-striper loves his friends and family but he will bully you, out of love. Try saying no to Gray, I dare you. Never one to turn down a beer (Coors preferably), he is a notorious peer pressure-r, even if it's a terrible idea. Picture Acme on a Thursday when you have an exam the next morning… Gray loves the song "Pump it Up" and carrot cake. This future ENS Benson is going to tear up Charleston soon.

Milan Bess

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Milan hails from Ohio, and his parents tried to make their children forget this by naming them all after world cities. He is known to many as the Lebron of Annapolis due to the many buckets he has put down at Acme. His responsibility has led him to being the first choice phone and wallet holder, doing both exceedingly well. In Breckenridge, he showed the world that anyone can ski, but only true masters can leave early to have Coors Banquet in the hot tub. Winner of the "Unnecessary Dash" from Eastport to 6th Wing, Champion of the Pre-OL movement, and player of experimental rap while on aux, he's the bravest Midshipmen there is. No one else is brave enough to wear the outfits he chooses, and I applaud him for that. "The Playboi Carti of Ohio," Terrence, leads from the front and brings the energy - except when he doesn't. Underclassmen have been counting down the days till he graduates so they finally have a shot at the, "Handsomest Midshipmen" title. The surface fleet gains a level-headed, well-spoken, and most importantly, cool guy.

Ian Coyne

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Ian "Clum" Coyne is a mediocre hockey player, an above average Fortnite player and a frequent consumer of Acme Bar and Grill, Ian has established himself as the honorary owner of that fine Annapolis establishment. If it wasn't for his shoulder injury he probably could have been a national champion both in hockey and Fortnite. Bad influences in his life including Billy from Acme haven't helped his case either. Ian argues that Vegas is the biggest threat to national security but it's really because he's a degenerate gambler. He likes to pair his betting with a Bud Light casually, but when he's feeling fancy he goes for a Narragansett. Get enough beer in him and the dance floor turns to Ian. The girls can't resist Ian's moves. And if you are blessed to see that neck get groovy, let's just say you're in for a treat. That being said, it has been a privilege to spend time with Ian and we are looking forward to all the great things he can do in the future. We love you, we'll miss you, and big Navy is lucky to be getting you brother.

The same initials as our Lord and savior Jesus Christ- this woman was born powerful. A damn force to be reckoned with. If you are looking for a good DD J.C. is NOT your girl. She'll yell at you in her loud New York accent. She's the definition of a NY driver. Remember when driving with her, J.C.'s never in the wrong- the people around her are. Don't let her dance in the windows at bars, she'll break the glass…I feel like when J.C. was a baby, she fought rats in the NYC streets. That's why she's so good now. In the ring she's Mike Tyson and in the hall she's the woman in charge. Like Medusa, if you stare at J.C., you'll be met with problems. J.C. had a staring contest with a mirror and won. She fights the way she lives–attacking every obstacle head on and going ham until it's over. She's always there when I need someone to talk to or slap some sense upside my head (literally). A QUEEN who left this place better than she found it. She'll be the finest Marine Officer with a lil bit of sass and attitude. Stay Dangerous My Friend!

Ryan's favorite pastime is giving deer the ol' Texas heart shot with his trusty bow. A true outdoorsman, he can be found on any given weekend hunting for anything from tree rats to turkeys or battling angry blue crabs from the Naval Academy footbridge. Ryan is quite the charmer when it comes to the ladies as our beloved former Deputy Commandant actually let him (very) near his daughter. Rumor has it he went into her house once and drank all of the DepDant's whiskey. During the winter months, Ryan can be found hibernating in his rack and if woken up will unleash the fury of a full grown grizzly bear. Ryan frequents DTA and learned a valuable lesson about not taking drinks from strangers in Acme… he does not remember this experience. Ryan is relieved to be finally finishing college as a 6th year senior. Come graduation, he will be trading in his cowboy boots for the boots of the Corps. Although he's a future 2nd Lieutenant, Ryan only answers to two people— Chesty Puller and Jack Daniels.

Known as "crazy eyes," Megan is the truest friend you will ever know. I just want to enjoy my day in anger and solitude and then here comes Megan (in a marshmallow suit) and her contagious smile - trot trot trot across the field. Somehow I can no longer be angry because the kindness and ability to literally never complain (unless prompted) exudes from her continuously. BUT then she lets it slip that she already ran 10 miles before practice and probably another 5 after practice and you want to go back to your sad little bubble again. A rockstar. A light for everyone even when she herself is in a dark place. A critical thinker. An absolute physical specimen. A backwoods lovin, long-run runnin' country-music listenin', friend. "Lemme try that." personality type that sometimes lands her in the dog house. To know her is to love her. She is going to make the submarine the brightest place in the world even though there is no sun…not quite sure how she'll survive on a sub with the amount of distance she likes to run though…

We love a smart queen even if she would "jump in front of a train" for her 20 year old dog. No one will ever forget she is a PA legend because it will always come up or she'll say "Wudder". Known to workout an hour before a game and pass out before Ring Dance (too much champagne?), this Diet Coke lover probably drinks more caffeine in a day than anyone you've ever met. Joey Gibbs, or more commonly known as "Flat Mid" on the 2022 Parent's Facebook page or among friends as, "Goey Civvs" after being fried not once, not twice, but three times for trying to skate by with more than his rates. Joey is a gamer, eternal youngster, bigger goofball. The most innocent and cosmically cursed individual to ever roam the earth, He perfectly toes the line but always manages to make it through by the skin of his teeth. Known for sending pictures before explaining his mishaps, Joey is a genuine goofball who absorbs the most random and hilarious things that bad luck can provide. Such as, catching every single disease known to man including, Covid Twice and Hand Foot Mouth, and diving headfirst into 6 inches of water getting a concussion and a sprained neck and back. He has shaved off half his eyebrow before and had a friend draw it on with mascara nearly every day for three weeks till it finally grew back. He is a fun guy who always looks out for his friends while forever trying to pull a prank on them at the same time.

Leah Gonzalez

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Leah is known for bringing the heat - whether it's starting a fire in our Bancroft room or tearing up the dance floor at Dillos… although the latter she never really remembers. For someone who blacks out every time she steps foot in DTA, we don't really need to worry too much about her. She always makes it back to her rack safe and sound. Nothing will make you yell "AYE CHIHUAHUA" like our punta Leah. Like a little yappy chihuahua, she has a big bark, but a bigger bite. Make sure you stay on her good side. If Leah just called you fat, it is probably because you are. She will always tell you like it is, even if it hurts. But in all seriousness, there is no one you would rather have by your side in the South China Sea. Leah is the most loyal, genuine friend you could have and will get her SWO pin in the next 5 years.

Louis Hunter

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Probably the most genuine guy in the Brigade. He will school you on suspension systems while he blows off his own school work. However, he was smart enough to dodge getting catfished by a townie looking for a green card. Always wears a trauma kit on his Type III belt so you know you're in good hands when things go south. Has great friends that'll help him change his alternator that broke on him during a date, in DC traffic, in someone else's driveway, in the dark, NASCAR style before the cops showed up with a tow truck called by the property owner whose permission we didn't ask. Too capable with machinery to be a Marine so he's going to drive a ship. That or the Marine's knew he would try to jump their trucks over hills so they sent him to something that can't be jumped - yet. Will follow you to the ends of the earth - or straight through a barricade, if you happen to drive under it and his Jeep was too tall so he went through it. Louis is a reliable guy to get a few beers with, heavy emphasis on a few. More than a few and one of you (probably Louis) will be visiting the orthopedic doctor the next day. At the end of the day, if you want someone to go with you on a hike or someone to lend a hand fixing your car, there's no better choice in the Brigade than Louis Hunter. I'm not sure what he talks to his girlfriend about because the only thing I've heard him talk about is manly topics. Did Weapons Detail just to get EE Was mad that someone thought his jeep was being jumped when he was helping somebody Likes rolling down hills Has too many expensive hobbies, maybe he'll finally be able to store all his stuff Always has 3 knives SWAT-C legendary recon team (The OG team not the bureaucratic stuff) Thought about sailing for a year liked it a quitThinks you can get a pilot license for flying a jeep Too good at hiding in the woods Never got a parking pass but had good friends Known for wanting to be known for infamous jeep ATFP grind for formations keeping the brigade safe His jeep is always in the shop but according to him its all upgrades

Andrew Jarrett

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Andrew "Andy" Jarrett, grew up a blue collar boy outside of Philadelphia, yet in meeting him he'll have you believe he grew up on some farm down south with his fake North Carolinian accent. Andy runs like a gazelle, thinks like an Einstein, and goes on rants like Donny T. He'll talk for hours, to anyone, about anything. If you ever get asked to spot by a random guy in the gym benching 185, it's Andy. He doesn't care about much which might be the reason his friends say he's not the first to get social cues but at least he's good with the ladies. He's an adventurous dude that won't turn down a trip anywhere especially to Coronado or Bucky's. His adventures get him in bad situations but the trips to Acme turn out the same. He's smart with the ladies and moms fall in love with him. Interesting fact, he has a twin sister that no one knows about or seen. A great friend that anyone would be lucky to have in their circle. Thanks for all the good times, the Navy is lucky to have you. Love ya brother.

Navy Flight Officer

"Standing in at 5 feet 10 inches tall, your starting point guard from South Korea, Gene Kim." At least that's what Gene always dreamt of while he was growing up. He decided to end his career as a child actor in a heartwarming Disney movie and pursue his dream of managing Navy's Varsity Basketball Team and averaging 4.0 PPG with the club team on the side. For this fine young fellow, ball truly is life. When he's not busy being with the team, you can find Gene hiding in his room cranking 90's and yelling loudly at his Playstation. Gene is also great at Charades; he's very good at imitating a brick wall, because when you talk to him, nothing gets through. It has been a pleasure watching his weight loss journey and grow into the man he is today. 201 quarantine gang, golden double stuffed oreo boys forever.

Submarine Nuclear

William Henry Kunetka is both a family man, and a ladies man. He says he got almost a 4.0 QPR but that could never be confirmed. Will struggled early on. Some previous childhood trauma turned him into the biggest of all iPad kids which made him an easy target for bullies (the plebes). Will is a man of many talents, one of those talents is being able to repel any and all girls that come his way while he's out in town so he can focus on what's really important: The United States Submarine Force. Will dreams of standing the late watch and not seeing the sun for months on end. He loves to put on his ridiculously sound-proof headphones and listens to EDM or the Blake Eyed Peas. Will had a connection with South America that none of his friends could seem to explain. From almost going to study abroad in Argentina, until he was kicked off the program for a substantial mishap, to having a powerful understanding of their native tongue and to finding his Brazilian wife, also a mother of four, in Ocean City he has a robust relationship with the Latina community.

Three things guaranteed in this life, death, taxes, and Cal Long growling at a stranger at 1 in the morning. Cal is the original menace to society, but if you need someone to do something dangerous he's the man for the job. If you look up "that one guy in the friend group", you get a pic of Cally boy. Would do anything for anyone in the group. Carried me a mile when I couldn't make it on my own. Somehow still managed to tear down a stop sign in the process. Never quit attitude. I want this dude in my fox hole over anyone I know. One of the most genuine and loyal friends I've ever had. Always down for an adventure even if it involves sleeping in his truck on the Jersey shore. Nobody I would rather have my back, and proud to have a brother I know I can call on 24/7. The Corps is getting a good one. Cal is like an insect, flying through the air. He moves gracefully but at the same time can ruin your day. I love you bud thank you for being a great roomie.

Navy Pilot

The real flat Stanley. Nate is a true Coloradan in his love for hiking and climbing, but somehow has never skied. He has been dubbed "the squirrel" by his roommates because of the racket he tends to make while his roommates are trying to nap. He also earned the nickname "Pickle Thief" after being caught green handed enjoying his roommate's coveted jar of pickles at 2am when he thought no one was looking. Mr. Krabs is his role model. Too cheap for a drink in DTA, but will splurge for a five star motel. Nate is always down for a spicy snack, especially Takis. Claims to love spicy food, but also sweats at the sight of soy sauce. Nate has had more than a few memorable experiences with dating apps, for all of the wrong reasons. You can always count on Nate when you need help or someone to hang out with. When he isn't scaling some treacherous cliff face or frozen waterfall he is the type of guy to always offer to cook his friends a good traditional Filipino meal. He is one of the most organized, intelligent, and competent people and will maybe make a good pilot.

Louis "Big Rig" Margay is a man of few words. He's an avid lover of ice cream and mini kegs. When he's not zipping through the Severn in a sailboat he's attacking his academic work like no student we've seen before. He particularly loves studying Chinese and his fictional economy in Suganda, for even though it is a fictional project he has developed a bond with the Sugandis people, a bond that will never leave him. On the weekends, the Big Rig is quite literally a menace to society; he cemented this legacy after completing the In-and-Out 4x4 Animal Style challenge on a Sunday in Chicago. Louis has also taken the crown as the most skilled Land Navigator in the entire Naval Academy; he started his journey to claim this title one fateful Saturday night in DC circa 2020, after a 4 mile trek home on the side of dark sketchy highways. He officially earned the title of most skilled Land Navigator after navigating a 6 mile trek through the jungles of Florida with no compass and no technology, only a strong will to succeed. Louis has more gadgets than 007 and is prepared for any situation. His rather large and white teeth make Conners jealous, it is often believed that he actually had dentures. He enjoys long walks, not on the beach, but several miles home from bars at 3am with a dead phone.

A member of Sprint Football and a Naval Architect, this blue-eyed wonder was made for the Academy. Despite a crippling Clash Royale addiction, Colin has held a 4.0 throughout his time at the Academy. Using his perfect QPR and wit, his career path changed from Marine to Submarine in a single ruck. Colin will always play the devil's advocate and dismantle your original plans for a more logical and less painful path. Big heart and even bigger eyebrows, Colin is one of the best men to come through this institution. When integrity meets handsome we achieve Tommy "Could Lose Parlay" Menoni. Tommy is too handsome and athletic for his own good. This has resulted in him somehow pulling a girlfriend who's nearly 10 inches taller than him, instantly making him the beta in the relationship. It's also so hard to not be envious of his looks. Just ask the ROTC kids from his last beach vacation… They hated him. But for where he lacks in his weaknesses, he makes up for in his strengths. Like competitive worm eating. I know, I didn't know it was a thing till I met Tom, but it is. I once watched him put down 12 earthworms in under 60 seconds with no chaser. This has contributed to his popular nickname: wormy. In all seriousness, Tommy is one of my closest friends at this place. His charismatic nature will pull you through any crappy situation guaranteed and will always bust out a one liner that will make you laugh until you can't breathe. Although Tommy is joining the dark side he will always be known for the light he brings.

Mark Mercer

USMC Ground

Mark hails from the great state of Texas but his true home is the theater which is fitting due to his uncanny resemblance to Bill Burr. When he's not taking a bow on stage he can be found slapping dingers for the club baseball team. He also likes to wage war on the deer, turkeys, and rabbits of the eastern shore on some weekends. Mark is a reserved kind of guy, but get a few drinks in him and he might crack open a cold one and roll it across the table to you like a grenade-- a true Marine at heart. Mark was relentless as a Train-O but was no match for the crazed crowd he encountered at Dan Flashes every weekend. Over the past few years he has developed to the point where he might be considered as a new member of the turbo team.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Derek Nguyen

Navy Pilot

At five feet and nine inches of pure intimidation, Derek "Drip Commander/DonJuulio" Nguyen has an aura reminiscent of a certain Surf's Up villain. Derek made his way out of the gutter of Ellicott City to pursue his dreams of water aerobics for the Naval Academy. One of his favorite past times is getting suspended with Dan Cashell from Thursday morning practice. Years of being confused for Dean's younger brother lit a fire under Derek, eventually driving him to hold the coveted title of "Breaststroke Captain." He is known for impeccable style and is always dressed to the nines, but by "nines" I mean $9 from Goodwill. His quick wit can only be described as the swift hand of justice, and justice is severe. When he's not insulting you, you can find him doing one of two things: looking for a girlfriend, or yelling at kids in a Call of Duty lobby. Any given weekend Prince Conners can be found surfing off the coast of Assateague Island at 0400. He is a shining example, pun intended, of what a class act looks like in all aspects of life, but especially on the tennis court. If you catch Conners on court you're in for a treat, as you will likely see benevolent displays of sportsmanship such as Conners cursing out his opponents, hurling his racquets at the curtains, and screaming at Jake Fishkin for being a simp. "Conners, you're going to need to pray a rosary." He also has an unmatched ability to clean. Cedar Ridge, may the home rest in peace, was once completely flooded and instead of going upstairs and locking himself in his room for a nap, Conners cleaned the whole house by himself! Truly inspirational. Known to kaw kaw kaw his way out of any sticky situation, he peaked at fleet week youngster year. Jokes aside, Conners O'Brien is a one of a kind friend and teammate, and is one of the most hardworking, outgoing, and loyal people you will ever meet.

NMS Team-Guy and son of an O-6, Toisch embodies it all: the commitment to the guys, to his love of the game, but more importantly to the sideline as an assistant referee. When he's not spending time watching his own team play away games at the bars in DTA, he can be seen in the gym building that beautiful physique. You would think all of that work destroying his traps would be for the ladies, but he continues to turn down every girl he meets. Seriously… he can have a 10 all over him and they still won't meet the Ryan Teuschl standard. Apparently, Ryan's drink of choice doesn't really matter because according to him drinks don't affect him! Despite all of this, he has maintained a near perfect GPA while managing to complain about how bad his test scores are after nearly every test. Ryan will hold a legacy full of great moments here at the Academy that will never be forgotten. Sabrina "Bree" "Brie" "Chocolate lover" Vitale is the biggest sweetheart you'll ever meet…but don't go near her when there's work to be done or she'll show you her New Yorker side. This lovely lady is truly one of a kind. She is as real as they come, and will tell you like it is. Her patience is unmatched, and she radiates positivity and kindness. If there was an award for being a workaholic and overachiever, Bree would take first place every time. She is the queen of stress and work, but she still likes to relax and have a good time… occasionally. When Friday hits, she'll take a 3-hour long shower, cover herself in anti-stress lotion, light a candle, and watch some Jersey Shore. Chocolate… that's her weakness, along with the guys who are way beneath her, who she blesses with her presence. You'll occasionally find her taking her wellness walks around Farragut or watching her shows during meals to avoid King Hall. Bree is the one friend you don't have to talk to all the time to know she is there, but she'll be first in line when you're in need. In other words, she is truly a blessing.

Destined for greatness in all that she does, oh wait...except basketball and drinking (probably the only person in history to have actually waited until turning 21 before having a drink). She's had a wonderful career as a Navy Cheerleader...I mean Dancer. What's the difference? Her smile lights up a room, so don't get me started on the boy situation...always claiming to have no male suitors while being chased by every guy at the Academy. Despite what people may think, she can be quite indecisive..."Should I get the convertible Audi or the BMW? Diamonds or sapphires in my class ring?" All minor in comparison to the best decision she ever made...living her best life by the Bay. I'm sure glad she did...she's a loyal friend, hardworking, funny, smart, and about to embark on a great career in Navy Medicine.

Navy Flight Officer

Andi blazes her own trail. She defies others' expectations and takes the route of seemingly most resistance. A mom you wish you had, she is caring, honest, and will call you out. Andi doesn't buy into the sugarcoat culture. She tells you how it is, keeps it real, and takes us from just passing through life to feeling it. Probably one of the kindest, most outgoing people at the Academy. She managed to show up every week to practice with her hair freshly done from the salon and never let anyone forget her fiery Puerto Rican background. She was this tiny ball of chaos always willing to help, even if she knew nothing about you, and would always be there for you. One of the nicest and most genuine people you will ever meet. Her only flaw might be that she cares too much and will annoy anyone until they talk about their feelings. Andi consistently sacrifices anything in her life if it means taking care of her friends. Anyone who has had her as a friend would confirm this sentiment. Her selfless personality makes her a contagiously positive influence, and those she leads will be blessed to have her.

Navy Pilot

How did Lui manage to spend four months in Israel and never speak more than two sentences in Hebrew? The same way she managed to get three stripes after not buying into "the institution" for four years. You can catch Lui on the rugby pitch demolishing her enemies and (unfortunately) her own body, OR, you can catch her out at a variety of fine drinking establishments. With her old age she hides many secrets and can hang longer than most of the young kids she goes out with…just don't let her fall asleep in the Uber back home, or you will have to buddy carry her to bed. Lui conveys her love for her closest friends by talking to them frequently but never hanging out with them on the weekends. It's her "unique love language". She will roast you under her breath with a sly comment if you do something stupid, yell at you when you do something outrageously stupid, or just say nothing (which is how you know you really screwed up). She is a ruthless, straightforward, no B.S. S.O.B.—but make no mistake, she is one of the most level-headed, genuine people to have in your corner

Hunter is a nerd among nerds. Always down to hang out and play games with his friends, he is genuinely a really helpful and kind friend. He always says hello with a bright smile on his face. Hunter has saved us and his underclassmen many times with his car, and if you ever need to call on someone for help, he is the most dependable person. We're lucky to have him. He loves airplanes and aviation. He makes endless movie references, and is the biggest weeb to have not yet visited Japan. Hunter is definitely one of my OG pals here at USNA. We had many great times together in D&B and he has shown himself to be a dependable and relatable friend even when I turned in my horn. From a weekend in San Diego, dice rolling chaos, late-night talks, to being passed out at Calvin's, thanks for being one of my first best friends at USNA!

Where do we start with Timothy Berzins aka Timber, how about the greatest comeback story there ever was? I'm talking about 6'4, 285 lbs, get out of my way Timber to the now (still 6'4) 225, caring, humble man who takes the time to listen and be there for his people. I guess this comes from the fact that the Timber family is the size of a football team and a half. A fiend for 7 Eleven taquitos and Bang Energy, you could often find Timber slinging laser passes as intramural flag football quarterback. To leave this on a serious note, Timber is the life of the party. Literally if it wasn't for Timber we wouldn't have Yellowstone Fridays where we chill at his bonfires pretending like we're cowboys from Yellowstone. Timber is one of the finest midshipmen at USNA, but he is an even better friend. He will undoubtedly be one of the finest officers in the Marine Corps, and his future Marines will be lucky to have him.

Isaac is a strange little man. He spends his days making Kanye references that few people understand. Blasting his music gets old at times, though he makes up for it with his interesting well choreographed dance moves. Every night he plays war based strategy games until early morning. You would think he would fall asleep in class based on these late nights, but he makes up for it with his afternoon nap. He was on the sailing team once and based his service selection of SWO on remanences of the old days. Always keeping his hair barley in regs so he can one day, once again feel the wind in his hair while sailing down the "big severn" on a DDG. He is a wild man who will stand up to others "just because". Once scared our other roommate so bad that our 3-man became a 2-man. Another interesting fact is that Isaac is part of the 2 percent club. I should specify that the man is currently single but is part of the 0.002% of MIDS who got stuck in Singapore during COVID extended spring break. This makes him the most eligible bachelor in the two percent club. BTH

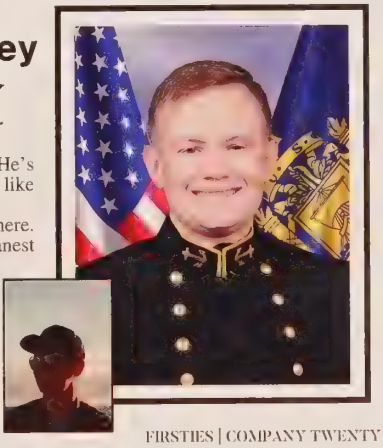
Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost



Mark Dickey

Naval Flight Officer

Mark is from Missouri outside Kansas City, and he's got the body of a trucker to prove it. He's pretty much like every other rural country boy, except he decided he'd try something new, like date a foreigner and travel by air instead of F350.

"Open the damn blinds, Mary!" Big McDonalds fan to this day even though his ex works there. Flannel shirts. Ketchup on his eggs. The man knows the caffeine content of any drink. Cleanest and most tidy guy you'll ever meet. Hell of a writer. He's a great friend to have on a rough day. A deep thinker. Probably owns a dozen guns, but has only ever shot one. The man was born to play soccer and you better get out of his way once he starts running. Mark is the handy man of 25th Company. If you need some kind of hammer or wrench or bolt cutter, then Mark is your guy. A good driver, but also a terrifying driver. Above all, M.R. Dickey will have your back and will always stay optimistic when things seem most dark.

Gil, Queen of one liners, Eby, number 2 on the field but number 1 in literally every guy's heart. This local annapolitan bully enjoys slapping drinks, dumping drinks, and falling in love on the dance floor. In case you didn't know, she met a short king last night (turns out he's a jester..). She loves a good cobblestone walkway, and wonders if a spider has ever walked a mile in its lifetime. Don't come for Gil on the field or at the bar, because she lives by the phrase "If a dog bites you, bite it back." An unintentional kleptomaniac at heart, if you're missing anything just check the trunk of her Toyota Tacoma (rumor has it the steering wheel was never the same). Holds the world record for most calculus class taken at USNA (like a cockroach.. you can't get rid of me b*!!). If you're looking for her, she's probably getting tazed in Ocean City or "in 7th wing" (IYKYK). There are two kinds of people: people on Gil's team, or losers. We all choose Gil everytime. She may not have been the best mid, but will be a killer Marine.

Gate's parents knew his capabilities right from birth, giving him his initials DDG. He certainly is a destroyer in every sense of the word. When Gates is not working out at the shed, he can be found pursuing girls with a first name that ends with an "e" sound. (Haylee, Marlee, Polly, Ashley, and way too many others to remember) Gates is one of the most selfless individuals you will ever meet. Often he spends his Friday and Saturday nights out at the bars just to come back and lend a helping hand to a shipmate with homework. Gates has the chewing power of a horse while simultaneously having the ability to smell like one when he gets back from his SOTT workouts. The Special Warfare community is incredibly lucky to get Gates. Nobody will ever have your back the way that he does. He will even be willing to jump on a "grenade" if it means success for his team. But seriously, an incredible friend, man, and team player. This is just the beginning of great things Dom will go on to do with his life. SMP, TMB, MJC, EST

Whether it's pullups, Mech-E, skiing, or being flung into the air during home football games, AllieG doesn't know how to be mediocre at anything. She loves routine and rarely misses an opportunity to go to the Pennsylvania Dutch Farmers Market to get her weekly ham and cheese log, even when she got her wisdom teeth removed and couldn't chew. Her 10-minute ab routine is deadly, but she crushes it all the way through the bicycle portion which is the bane of her existence. Speaking of bicycles, she is an active member of the Halsey cycling gang. All in all, Allie is the sweetest, most caring person you can ever meet and anyone who knows her should consider themselves extremely lucky. The Naval Aviation community is blessed to have her and everyone has no doubt that she will make a spectacular officer in the future.

He's a super happy and upbeat individual… unless he's sober. Aggressively violent, yet pleasantly compassionate. Will spend $800 on an oversized white t-shirt. His instagram captions will make you question his sanity and morality (SOME ACADEMY BOYS. AN ALBUM COVER BY EARL CARPET. A FADED IMAGE OF REALITY SLIPS INTO FOCUS). Hank does not wear Supreme… he is Supreme. He does not sleep. "If I had a dollar for every piece of s(tuff) on his floor, I'd be a millionaire." Henry's favorite president is Donald Trump (nononononono). Warning to future debt collectors: he will never have your money, all he has to offer is his unwavering love. All jokes aside, Henry's empathy, self-reflection, and ability to listen have made him the confidant of our class. The amount of trust his peers have in him is only rivaled by the confusion they have about his music tastes. Hank is for the Art and Henry is for the Heart. There is no greater man or friend. Want to take a guy's only picture? Don't even think about it, Saige will definitely make sure she's in it. Saige is best known for dating the most basic boys she can find at the Academy. She likes to keep her options open and even tested a guy's commitment by making him walk around on shore patrol with her, even when they weren't dating. She may be tiny in size, but she's full of bluntness, badassery and even some love. Her humor may be a little dark sometimes, but she will never fail to make you laugh. Saige is one of those people who isn't afraid to call you out when you're in the wrong, which is an issue if you're not ready for it because her tact isn't always there. I know 25th Company would not be the same without Saige and the Marine Corps Aviation community will be lucky to have her in the fleet, the same way I was these past four years.

Son of a Marine Corps Colonel and the unofficial Class President, Ryker “Staff S’arnt” Knight, has a personality almost as unique as his name. Known fondly as the “Thirstiest Man in the Brigade”, Ryker is famous for making weekend trips to hotel rooms in DC, being booed by the entire Brigade, holding extra EI sessions with Judo teammates after hours, and waking up still impaired after two shots from the night before. A California boy from the urban sprawl of San Diego, Ryker will go to his grave insisting he is a Texan, even as two of his biggest hobbies are surfing and skateboarding. During his time at Annapolis, Ryker gained such a reputation for his choice in fashion that at one point he even received “compliments” from mall-shopping high schoolers. Destined to be a Marine from birth, you would never know it by looking at his room, which more closely resembles that of a basement-dwelling gamer than a professional in arms. Known by some as chunky monkey, Matt “Four 32oz Trash Can’s” Kunkle is a man of inglorious skill. Matt earned his stripes by piping down the watch and becoming the next Brigade Adjutant. In Brigade staff meetings, it was not uncommon for Matt to be the most animated mid there, often presenting legendary matches between the next Brigade Adj and a bush. Are you going out tonight? Automatic. Close Dillo’s? Automatic. Mimosa’s? Automatic. Shots? Next Question. Many of us wonder, and I suspect we always will, how Matt is able to overindulge to inhuman levels and proceed to get up three hours later to go out and run five miles around Farragut. Due to his ungodly kidney, there is only one meme that comes to mind when describing his affinity for the night life: goofy with a murderous intent. Despite being a DTA frequentist, he mostly just stands in the corner and repeats to himself “just smile and wave, Kunkle…” If you ever meet him, you must ask this one question: What is 8-4? Though his motives are highly suspect, the Marine Corps Aviation community will be receiving an outstanding man whose reputation precedes him. -MSM, AJ, HTT

A small town girl (literally 40 min from the nearest city) from Iowa thrown into a military and city life that I’ve been blessed to get to know. When I say you can’t find someone more loyal, kind, hardworking, and patient, I mean it. Don’t get it confused though, a Mama Bear is still a bear, so she can be feisty given the right circumstance, but it will always be for the betterment of someone that is not herself. You can say selfishness is natural, I mean you're born into this world alone and you’ll die alone as well, but Mackenzie is someone who chooses to go against the status quo even when it doesn’t necessarily benefit herself. Truly a people's leader, and I can't wait to see the legacy she’ll leave in this world.

One does not acquire a list of such diverse hobbies by being boring or illiterate. Jack may just be the most interesting (and literate) man in the world. However, there is more to him than just birds and hobbies. A list of adjectives to describe Jack would take several breaths to read. In alphabetical order Jack is: able, accessible, acclaimed, accurate, admirable, aesthetic (-ally pleasing), affectionate, aged (his soul, not physically– he was in his 20s at USNA), alive (see previous), alluring (not in a creepy way), amazing, and amiable. Clearly that is just up to "am" in the dictionary so there are far more words, and even more breaths, but I digress. Those who know Jack are a lucky bunch. He has always cared for people on the deepest of levels, and always has an intelligent remark to share. His bald head goes perfectly with his in-no-way-compesating-for-anything overly large build that he has accumulated from all of his hours pumping insane iron on the powerlifting team, and, if the bald head and massive biceps weren't enough to scare you to the core, Haydn insists on wearing size large shirts that he must have grown out of around the same time he started losing his hair. Surface Warfare

Legend, lore, liability, lost, lucky: Landon: the most likely to survive a hyper sonic missile. An expert conversationalist – especially with LTJGs on cruise. The only time B'Dubs is not talking is when he is hidden under a table in King Hall, after a bad night in Baltimore, and when the conversation has to do with a couch. Instructions for Caretaker: Brandon is a highly volatile creature. Treat with extreme caution. Keep him clear of knives, fires, and anything that could possibly be used as a weapon. Brandon is a sensitive beast. He is liable to be compassionate and caring. He will comfort you in your darkest moments with nothing short of genuine and complete love. Future Caretaker, treat our Brandon well. There is no one more deserving of your patience, kindness, and understanding than the most loyal and savage dog in the Brigade. His attention to detail, zeal for the standards and hate of the Marine Corps will take Brandon far in the Surface Community where I have no doubt he will kill at least three hundred pirates, or something like that. In all seriousness, Woods has the biggest heart in the Brigade– fair winds and following seas, shipmate.

Sloane Yates

USMC Pilot

Think of adjectives to describe the color yellow: bright, warm, inviting, beautiful, radiant. All of these are qualities of Sloane Yates. Sloane's many activities include being able to stitch any piece of clothing, being the loudest person in King Hall, surfing, and rescuing her friends from the bars in DTA. Can't find Sloane? Look no further than the local coffee shop working on her part time job with NAFAC. Sloane is like a chocolate croissant- she's the perfect amount of sweet, alluring, classic, and she's also… extremely flaky. If you need a can of CheerWine or a dose of Southern Hospitality, look no further. In short, Sloane Yates is the perfect Yin and Yang of complementary forces that are equal parts "Hey girlie" and blatant eyerolls or side-glances. She loves with her whole heart, but God help anyone who crosses her or her friends because Sloane buries hatchets, but keeps maps of where she puts them. Unlike the rest of us, Sloane doesn't have to tour apartments because she will continue to live in men's heads rent free. We love her almost as much as she loves her Cowgirl hat - and in the words of T.S. "Long Live!"

Amy Yunginger

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Amy Patricia Yunginger was birthed in the lands of Lancaster, PA which may or may not be a make-believe land of the Amish and churned butter. She has become one of the most respected and empathetic members of 25th Company. She's been a stone cold killer since training day 0, and her bearing hasn't changed since then. On top of her unrelenting determination to become a Marine with a capital M, you can find her in the waters of Lejeune Hall. There have never been waters she hasn't swam through, ice cream she hasn't inhaled, dogs she hasn't petted, and people she hasn't made laugh. It is quite possible that Amy was always meant to be a dog, specifically a GOLDEN RETRIEVER, but there was a mix up somewhere and she became a beautiful, loving, empathetic human being who lights up every room she walks in. There simply is not a place that Amy has not been able to brighten up anyone's day, apart from a certain McDonalds in Washington D.C. You'll be hard pressed to find a person like Amy. Simply put, USNA is a better place because a certain Amy walked through those doors plebe year.

Bronte Bacchetta

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Hi Bronte. Hi Bronteee. Plebe Bronte BB ‘22 Bacchetta (buh-keh-tah) was constantly greeted at the Mitscher tables by various male midshipmen in passing. For some reason her laundry always gets stolen? RIP to her pig socks. Now she can be found in the chemistry dungeons of Michelson or in Wes B doing some mid-distance workout that normal people would evaporate trying to complete. In true chemistry nerd fashion, she is a member of the American Chemical Society and has a periodic table blanket which she sleeps with. It took us 4 years to finally convince her to use a Nalgene instead of reusing plastic 16 oz water bottles. Speaking of hydration, Bronte’s favorite beverage of all time is Rao’s tomato sauce; legend has it that instead of blood, tomato sauce runs through her veins. It really doesn’t get more Italian than that. While her major is grueling and her sport is bleak, Bronte has somehow found the secret to happiness, which is evident from her iconic giggle. She laughs so much, she has a visible 8-pack that everyone is jealous of. Sources say her stoic training includes 4 hours of sleep before a 7-in, and two cold showers a day.

Stephen Bishop

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Motivated, Energetic, and Assertive, are three words that have never been used in the same sentence as Stephen Bishop until this very moment. While Stephen seems to be a calm and reserved individual who has a love for otters, his quiet personality is simply a cover for his secret rambunctious self that is locked behind the closed doors of the Formula SAE shop. While at the Academy, he finally learned how to dress himself, but he is still a child at heart and will for sure be the pilot to draw obscene pictures in the sky. Stephen loves being consistent, so his slow, reserved personality extends to his physical abilities as well. Thankfully, you do not have to run fast to fly fast. In all seriousness, Stephen’s care for his friends is felt deeply and everyone is excited to see his progress as he achieves his dreams of Naval Aviation in Pensacola, Florida!

Mark Burgess

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

When HMC Burgess was told he was going to USNA he had to take out a 2nd mortgage to cover his ACE loan. It was hard to tell his kids their X-mas gifts would be a lot smaller due to his pay cut to $125/month. A walking enigma, terrorists are confused when the see a 2 star general standing crosswalk guard on ATFP and Marines are amazed when he steps away from his walker and bicep curls his way to 23 chin-ups. But we are forever grateful for his mom's home baked snacks. This seasoned prior has taught us very important things about the fleet like how much he hates F-F- games and also how he doesn't believe in the moon, and thinks it's just the back of the sun. His mother single handedly led this company through every tailgate, Holiday EOL, and dark ages we’ve experienced. If you hear a train-horn at 1am don’t be scared it's just him snoring. Will drive over 1,000 miles to move his gf because he’s whipped. Has never rode a motorcycle before and you will not find a more motivated Marine out there.

Lorenzo Cerda

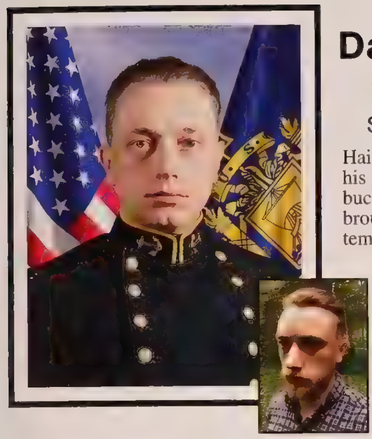
Special Warfare

Lorenzo “grew up in the ghetto”…if you call a gated community in Maple Grove, MN a ghetto. He is the only man that is not only willing, but even excited to talk about ex’s, high school drama, and the conversations starting with “Hey guys…so I made a mistake again last night”. While at the Academy, Lorenzo can generally be found in one of four places: at the SOTT shed, talking about SOTT, dreaming about SOTT, or being a wrecking ball at Dillos. If you are thinking about bringing your sister to Annapolis, don’t worry about creepy guys dancing with her because Lorenzo will be instead. He can be described most accurately as a lovesick child that happens to squat 400 lbs and drinks mimosas like they're water on Saturdays before blowing all his “passive” income (thanks dad) at Sam’s Club on Sunday. A beautiful couple, Lorenzo and food are never far apart. With his two entrees at every meal, Lorenzo’s quads stay well inflated, which are complemented by his trusty “running” (booty) shorts. Lorenzo truly is one of the most hardworking, charismatic, and loyal friends you can have and will no doubt make a great retired SOTT officer.



Daniel Clum

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Submarine Nuclear

Hailing from long-lost Wasilla, AK, A.K.A. the North Pole, Daniel "DC" "Killer" Clum ventured his way to the Enlisted Navy before learning his talents would be more suited teaching young bucks why the officer life isn't that much better allegedly. Although his criss-crossed venture brought him to the warm lowlands of Annapolis, this did not stop him from bringing arctic temperatures to his room: DAMN SON! WHO NEEDS THEIR ROOM THAT FRIGGIN COLD! Need a pocket knife, flashlight, multi-tool, wrench, sewing kit, toilet plunger, or any other obscure tool? Clum is your guy. One of the most interesting people to strike a conversation with because you have no idea what it could be about. He reads such a wide range of books and has a million different hobbies that are all equally impressive. This rock climbing, scuba diving, mountain climbing, anti-social media badass is arguably the last of a dying breed of mountain men; his kindness and chivalry are second to none, and any and all sailors in the SEMPER DEEP community will be lucky to serve under him. Fair winds and following seas, Clum; we will find your IG and Snap someday…

Rijul Deka

Submarine Nuclear

Neel, "that was my nickname in high school", is what one might call cockroach if they looked as good as calvin klein models. He is adaptable, survivable, a good observer of his environment, and like a cockroach, his drive to survive exceeds the powers of a WMD. A hopeless romantic, Neel has all the criteria that would lead to a wonderful flame, and yet he is surrounded by unappreciative folk. The king of thirst traps. The queen of any relationship. The prince of (White Works) India. The princess diva. The jack of all things guitar, not the master of singing. Wiz101 grinder, master chef, loudest whistler known to man, when his ex makes tik toks of him he takes it on the chin, roomed with terrell suggs, android battery sympathizer. Criticizes the technological monopoly of Apple but buys an iPhone to stop people from making fun of the green bubble. What he lacks in taste of women he makes up for on the tennis court, guitar loop covers, and using his hands to communicate. Neel is humble, reasonable, and one of the most level-headed guys I've met (unless you catch him caught up in 4 of his company mate's adjudications).

Kasey Dietzel

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Kasey "Ditz" "Dietz" "TROUBLE" Dietzel is a tall, blonde queen with some of the best posture you have ever seen. Most would say they've never seen her drunk because she's so cool, calm and collected at all times in the day. "Few word do trick" Dietzel, it's basically a puzzle to decipher what she is actually texting you about considering half of the sentence is missing. Cindy Timchal's shining star ever since one random afternoon in March of 2021, everyone on the team "should want to look like Dietzel." Because of her 1000 sisters and her world famous street dog (rags to riches baby), Kasey BEGS for attention by saying she was on Ellen once even though she wasn't the star role. Once overdosed on caffeine while she had the flu (2 cups of coffee and 2 Celsius .. yikes) and also cannot tolerate dairy (even though she can inhale a Dry Dock pizza better than anyone else). Dietzy is a beautiful person inside and out, and would do anything for her friends and family, and we are all lucky to have a friend like her.

Ian Donahue

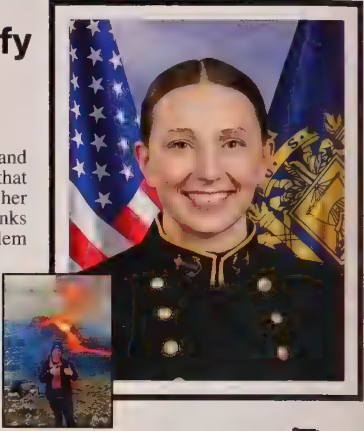
USMC Pilot

Ian may be hard to pick out of a crowd, but he is the life of any group he is a part of. A proud 64" of muscle mass and Guinness, he's like nature's most muscular onion, his rough exterior of 5.11 pants, the in-season flannel, and the occasional tactical kit hide layers of devotion and a sense of humor that make him one of the most cherished members of our company. Known across the Combat Arms team as the best shooter, the best looking, and owner of the best truck. His masculinity is equally matched by his unwavering love of Rocky and Kevin. There is no one more excited to be getting out of the Navy than Ian. Almost getting out of the Navy after two years, he left nothing to chance come service assignment. Through Plebe Summer Dilly Dilly's, Top Gun Serenades, studious Thursday nights, covid violations, too many trainings, and weekends spent 10 miles from the Yard pretending it's 100, there's no one you'd rather have beside you. The Marine Corps is lucky to be getting one of the most high quality, high character, and most loyal people I have ever met. -JJ



Cailin Duffy

USMC Pilot

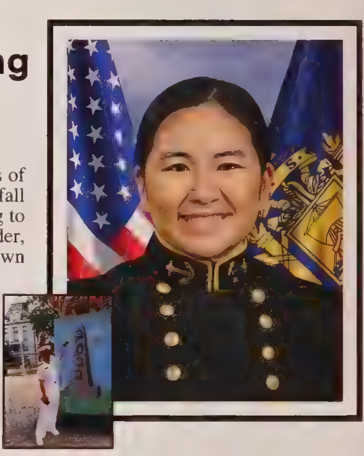
Cailin is the most respectful yet sassy woman I have met. She'll call everyone by Sir/Ma'am and her email etiquette is flawless (she'll still ask you to proofread it four times), however behind that façade is the first name calling and facial expressions. There is no need for words with Cailin, her face says it all, especially when 'Alex' corrects the MATLAB code or some 3/C in Iceland thinks they are the best thing since sliced bread. Some would call her a helmet, but she has no problem telling people how she just "has standards." She is frequently seen watching Men's Rugby, grinding in Mac Diesel, or running endless miles around the yard always trying to better herself. Behind all that motivation, hair gel, and determination is a very kind individual. Cailin would do anything in the world for those she cares about and will stop whatever she's doing in the drop of a dime in order to make someone else's day a little better. There is nothing you can put in this yutters way that she won't find a way to get through. She'll grow up to be an amazing Marine and one hell of a pilot.

Cody Dykstra

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Cody will probably show up to your wedding in his Reebok Crossfit shoes, blue jeans, and his trusty plain gray sweatshirt. Plebe year he was very distant, but in recent years his intimacy has improved…even when his boys are in the same room. Although an Econ major, he has carried the rest of the Company through every engineering course, but still hasn't figured out how to get his 4-year in-company crush to fall in love with him. With the brain of Albert Einstein and the smile of a seasoned inmate, he claims he fails every exam yet frustratingly breaks the curve every time. Cody has slayed everything in his path…except girls. He is one of the most considerate people on Earth, except when he banishes you to the couch after using you for your car to advance his love life. A great member of any social outing, he is the only Mid in recorded history to have a conversation with the Supe and not remember it… Cody will always have your back, be a shoulder to cry on, and be the first person to keep you from running back to your ex.



Heather Feng

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Heather Feng, reigning 26th company Nap Queen. She can sleep for unprecedented amounts of time, in the most austere environments. Not a day goes by that she does not accidentally fall asleep in class. This aquatic weapon is quiet at first but behind the scenes is secretly plotting to make you successful which is why Heather is a great friend. She's an expert mouse killer, coder, and a SME on parking Regs. Typing python with her right hand and treating mice to their own personal Travis Scott concert with her left hand. She's the only member of 7th Batt, which definitely makes her stand out from the other two Feng sisters; she is known to have the ~highest tolerance~ in 26th company. She's a big snack collector, but a painfully slow eater. She's the best listener on the yard, whether it's about your bad day or Folklore. Her one snapchat singlehandedly jinxed us into a pandemic (spring break foreverrr), but did she care? She slept through ROM. This SWO mama also led the YP CCC team despite her not knowing how to drive a boat. Good thing she'll be going to BDOC soon :)

Morgan Fuenffinger

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

The king of the waffle stomp. Really just wanted some orange juice during plebe summer. Met a girl on tinder only to get his kidneys stolen. Also it turned out she was a Portuguese spy. Somehow took the three lowest scoring plebes in ProKnow and turned them into the three lowest scoring plebes in ProKnow. Spent a year at NAPS on the wrestling team, that makes 4 years total on USNA related wrestling teams. Lost his squirt gun and continues to blame his roommates. Once locked a roommate in a con-locker for over an hour. Asked to be 1st LT for the company only so he could pick the best room, not knowing how hard the job would be in Alpha season. When he learned how much he would have to do, he just… didn't. Picked a ship out of Washington because he "loves hunting and fishing" but has never actually been hunting or fishing. Isn't actually good at poker, just really good at bullying people while playing poker. In all seriousness, Morgan is a true friend that anyone would be lucky to have, when he's not on facetime with his fiancé.

Jackson Garner

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Jackson Garner tops out as the best the Academy has to offer. He provides unmatched loyalty, thoughtfulness, and support to his friends and a constant source of lamentation for the future husbands of the athletic brunettes on NWSD to listen to. With a stellar personality just like Pete Davidson, Jackson captivated audiences with clever humor, and also just like Pete Davidson, Jackson had the kind of look that made a group of girls say "You're the funny one!" Built like a baby giraffe with quad injections, it's a minor miracle that Jackson ever fit himself into a crew shell or a doorway for that matter. His athletic prowess is even more impressive given the lack of tendons in his left shoulder (A problem that could not be solved with Joe Rogan brand bone marrow and liver concoction). Apparently the bunny hill was too much for Jackson to handle, much like only dating one woman at a time. Nevertheless, he persisted. Jackson is the epitome of quiet resolve and determination. He's as selfless as he is hilarious and has quite literally carried his friends when they were at their worst. He's a spark of joy in any life he enters, and my only regret is that I didn't meet him sooner.

Stephen Gaudin

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Born on the bayou, Stephen Gaudin (pronounced GO-DAN!, ideally with a slight cajun accent) is a LSU superfan and a Joe Burrow fan-girl. Despite allegedly tiny wrists, he's able to lay down the fattest beats ever heard to man on the snare. An Aero god, he's able to calculate the minimum time needed to study to effortlessly ace any assignment, so as to maximize his time spent playing Minecraft or Rocket League with his girlfriend. He may be a band geek, but he always clutches up on that PRT run, and becomes a party-animal if you get him a ten-gallon cowboy hat and enough of his Michelob Ultras. Skillfully draft-dodging subs, Stephen was destined to hit those Pensacola beaches one day, especially with his ability to rock a pair of aviators and to grow a bushy blonde mustache. Stephen has mastered making others pull the fire alarm, and melting plastic. The only trait which may exceed his confidence is his intelligence. His wit is instantaneous and unforgiving, may LSU keep producing players he may lust over forever.

Patrick Giambruno

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Coffee connoisseur and perpetually sleep-deprived, Pat enjoys pain and that's why he chose to be an Aero major and voluntarily gets punched in the face everyday. He occasionally tries to compensate for his youthful facial features by wearing one of those newsboy, grandpa cap things, but sadly the boyish freckles win out. Pat always gives 100%. That is, he gives 10% to his school work, and 90% to researching random fighter aircraft on wikipedia in class. Great balls of fire! In tune with the finer things in life, Pat's passion for flying machines, exquisite timepieces, and copious amounts of caffeine is matched only by his determination to be 5 minutes late to everything. If you want a pilot who is either on-time or on-target, he's your guy. Pat loves to throw uppercuts at boxing practice like nobody's business, and occasionally shows off by doing the splits when stretching. He's always down for an in room ground fight at midnight for fun (or to break a drawer). He occasionally compensates for the fighting by painting something Bob Ross-esque, or a plane, that will inevitably end up taking an entire semester. Oh and if it hasn't been mentioned yet, he likes planes.

Jamal Glenn

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Glenn the sheep, AKA Guwop, AKA Baby Calves. Known to spend all night screaming at 12 year olds who flame him in Madden or his ex who verbally backs him into a corner. Voted Army's MVP in the 2020 Army-Navy football game for his lost fumble recovery, subsequently gets a sponsorship through Butterfingers. Has been known to keep a pet mouse and feed him leftovers during ROM. Claims the discrepancy in the sizes of his arms are due to his "injury". A cyber major by trade, still can't figure out how to unlock his school issued laptop. All jokes aside Jamal is a workhorse on and off the field, and has learned to deal with his roommates snoring like a champ. Almost cost his friends $1000 for missing a tackle in the 2021 Army Navy game. Will not find a more committed member of the company. Will leave food out for an unknown amount of time to be consumed and have problems later wondering why. His favorite pick up line is claiming he is a world champ in Taekwondo but fails to mention that this happened when he was five years old.

Briana Green

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Briana looks like lots of things. GotG's Gamora if you're being nice, the worm alien from Men in Black if you're being honest. Don't be confused by the innocent doe-looking eyes, she can be quite vicious. Waking up Bri is as risky as poking a 300lb bear. She will throw anything she has around her at you and give you the "get the eff away from me" look. However, during waking hours, she is so delicate that she won't even hurt a fly. She sucks at cards and straight up cannot back up her trash talk. But don't worry, she's not all bad. She's a great battle buddy and phenomenal cushion to fall on when a bush gets in your way. Bri is always down to have fun from late night swim lessons to urban exploring. She'll go on runs with you to help you prep for the PRT, do homework with you to help you study, and always be there to listen to you when you need it. She is a beautiful human being inside and out. This alien looking woman is smart, caring, and a superstar who graduated from USNA with a degree in Netflix.

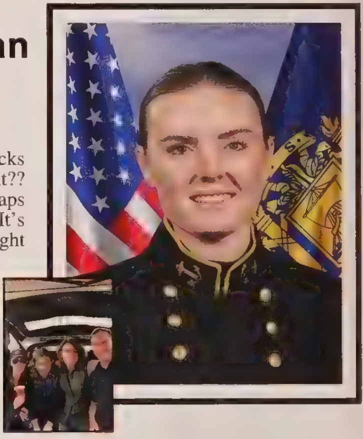
Surface Engineering Duty

Quite possibly the only individual with a 1:1 horizontal to vertical ratio, Seanathon Patrick earned his title "The American Workhorse" early on in his academy career as he guided us through plebe summer with his experience as a prior nuke. Since then he has adopted a Socratic lifestyle, becoming the modern-day philosopher and sage of every group chat he doesn't check. Even though he has never been seen doing homework he always remained academically SAT. In a move that every financial advisor would advise against, Sean used his loan to buy Bitcoin. Time will tell us all if that was the best or worst decision he made while at the academy.



Christine Hogan

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Christine, Ween, Weenie, is a woman of many names and many talents. Some may say she lacks a certain talent- like getting into the Academy on her first try, but third times the charm right?? Christine took her reputation as a civilian college veteran in stride by enjoying sports period naps too much and granting herself special liberties because she was "over it" by youngster year. It's a miracle Weenie has never stood restriction for all those special liberties, until she was caught for parking firstie year. But, after 6 years of college, Christine has grown into an amazing woman and leader. She is a friend to everyone she meets and leader on and off the lacrosse field and it is no wonder that the Club Lax team voted her president. She always pushes to be better, which might have caused an almost broken back during Leatherneck. She sure does know how to party. McGarveys will definitely miss her, as will the rest of USNA. Ween will follow in her dad and brothers (and bffs) footsteps and enter the Corps after graduation where she will no doubt be the best officer and leader to her Marines. Semper Fi & Go Goats!

James Joyce

Special Warfare

Jack, or James Barrett Joyce IV, as he made us call him during Plebe Summer, is "special" in more ways than one and will continue to pursue a career that compliments all of them. On the rare occasion that his heart rate drops below 200 bpm, he is an exceptional conversationalist, constantly reminding the world how easy it is to keep a 4.0 as a Poli-sci major. He is the luckiest man to ever walk the halls of Bancroft. From getting three classes canceled a week, 20 minutes of homework assignments per semester, and any billet he went up for, it was always clear to his roommates that the Big Man upstairs had a favorite. Some might say he lived a nearly perfect life during his time here until that fateful August day that landed him on Alaskan Airlines' no-fly list. Jack's true grit and positive attitude landed him where he is today. Now, looking back, I realize I'm the lucky one for getting to experience the Thursday night room parties, Kent Island weekends, and every day in between with Jack and his great sense of humor but horrible one-liners.

In his time as a midshipman Jan has spent every minute of every day working towards his self-improvement from the comfort of his rack, Acme, and the rooms of lucky girls he meets at UMD. Jan is known by many names to include: Space Force Commander, man in the clouds, and Santa as he always finds a way to leave a nice gift for the people he meets in life. He is the fastest guy on the tennis team and possibly the Brigade, but only when it means he can leave practice early. Although he has never come to morning practice on time, we all know it's because he was up late studying for Thermodynamics, as long as Thermodynamics means taking a $60 Uber to UMD to go to Cstone and not talk to a single girl. Jokes aside, Jan is one of the nicest and easiest going people you will ever meet. He tries his hardest in all areas and has big ambitions for the future. We know that he will make a great contribution to the janitor community. NMT22.

200 words will never encompass the magnitude of Sam "Slick" Lick, he's kind of like the CIA, he has a finger in everything. This would be screened by the Writing center, but unfortunately he runs that business… along with Parking, harassing Edie Lareau, alcohol (angry orchard) chits, and probably some foreign countries too. Our nation can sleep peacefully thanks to Sam's ability to argue over policy as an elite member of the model UN fraternity team, and his evasive skills on skis. An example of his clandestine abilities is the way he appears to be a Midshipman while really being a Graduate student at Georgetown. His roommates have yet to find the bounds of his skills, but two things are for sure, he can serenade you with strings, and his loyalty is unwavering - after 4 years of being wanted by any man or woman who has met him, he has been true to only one. To any community or organization he joins, we expect great successes will bless them, but he will never take credit for his diligent work. To his production land of NH thank you for gifting us Sam, the ultimate partner for a quest to middle earth.

Surface Warfare

Ni! A product of the Maine backwoods and the French cosmopolitan high-life, Anthony has so much worldly experience that he is suspected to have lived a former life as a James Bond-esque secret agent. He's a physical specimen who can ENDURE through any physical challenge. A hopeless romantic who, like a bee, was able to use the power of his bumble to attract a mate. He's been able to make the most of the Navy's free healthcare so far, receiving a new, retro-fitted labia labrum, and two new eyeballs. He's a bomb-down-the-mountain skier with no fear, a chef of the finest beignets, a purchaser of at least two meals at every restaurant, and a connoisseur of Yuenglings, who is so cool that he oftentimes wore sunglasses indoors or a pirate-like eyepatch. The most humble man to have ever lived, he'll reach into the dirtiest of puddles to scoop out trash, will always sneakily pick up the check, and will say his name is "Ted" so as to not inconvenience others with the pronunciation of more than one syllable. His second-to-none kindness, empathy, and toughness will serve him well in the fleet as a leader on warships and in the teams.

Trey Morse

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Trey "Grill Master" "Glory Days" Morse comes from the middle of nowhere Illinois in a town where he claims to be king. If you look up peaking in high school in the dictionary, there he is. In Annapolis however, Trey has accepted mediocrity and tried his hardest to fly under the radar (major success!). Doing his best to be a part of the three mile club, Trey would put in as little work as possible to pass a PRT, often crossing the line at a brisk 10:29. If you need to talk to Trey, you better do it before 2100 because he is already in bed sleeping. Oh, you want to find Trey?? He is probably on the golf course where mediocrity would be an overachievement for him. Trey can set up a mean tailgate, but will inevitably argue with cops and get relocated. But at the end of the day, he'll always make sure there is enough beer in the coolers. In all seriousness though, Trey is the most easy-going and personable friend you could ask for and will no doubt be just as loved anywhere he goes.

Wanted by every CDO since she typically cuts it close to TAPS, Katie can be found hanging out with her girlfriend, thinking about when she will get to hang out with her girlfriend, or in the infamous frog pit. A menace, it's understandable she's the way she is given the fact that she was mistaken for Neel as plebes since her hair was so short. Looking at her bookshelf, you might think she is a history major by the dark academia aesthetic, but do not be fooled, she is actually quite the nerdy math major as she finds proofs "exciting" and actively slanders OR majors. She is a fiend for coffee, strawberry ice cream, and ritz toasted chips. She finally did Brigade Boxing as a firstie to get the chance to punch a plebe in the name of sports. Her superpowers include identifying mushrooms in their natural habitat, having an artificial hip, and toeing the line between verbal and physical altercations with creepy dudes in DTA. Remind her to bring her driver's license if she ever wants to do some O-course practice runs because you'll never know who you'll run into. She's not like other girls, she's wretched.

A record breaker at heart: most urinalysises at usna, least time single, and one of the only two people to finish a 5-liter beer tower at Fed House before they deemed it "dangerous for human consumption". If you want to know how it went just ask the bushes outside of Lejeune. The world has never been in more danger than when Jared dons his hardhat and enters the consumption vortex as "Pump It Up" by Endor starts playing. Born in paradise, Jared relies on being from Key West as his only personality trait. On any given weekday, you can overhear Jared being both greeted by plebes as "gunny" and getting chewed out by one for having a beard despite shaving 30 minutes before. Despite his slow start (AC unsat), Jared has finally found his stride in his Operations Research major by dominating electives such as "Intro to Buddhism" and "History of Soccer." To a man that truly peaked in high school (that beard and something about a Playboy model..?), your Marines will be as grateful for your never-ending support as your friends here are for everything you've done for us.

William Riggs

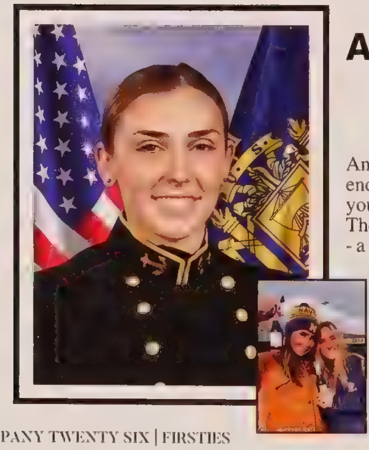
Naval Flight Officer

Where do I even start with this man… OG Class of 2020, but he hated his class SO MUCH that he needed to come be one of us; we couldn't be more thankful for that. He's the number one man to have in your corner in a fight and the number one person to NOT have in your corner when avoiding a fight. Riggsy decided he needed to destroy every 133 pound wrestler in the nation, and what better way to start that ascent than at the USNA Prep School. But, at NAPS, his head had one too many kisses with the mat and that was enough to cause problems during OG Plebe Year and have him join our fantastic class. Spring Break, America's Backyard, COVID Fight Nights, Vegas (we don't talk about that one morning…), ski trips, and so many more great memories. A man always down for a good time, a free beer, and will follow you till the ends of the earth. Love you brotha!



Anna Shevchuk

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Anna Claire, 'AC, A Sizz, Sizz, The Rat, Sizzerton, Shevtruck', Shevchuk will always be an endearing friend. No matter what her appetite is craving (beer, diet coke, extra toasty cheez its), you can depend on a DTA meal followed by a classy cocktail and possibly a rat s sandwich. The "sound advice" of the group she will always be there for a friend no matter the circumstances - a "low key" Saturday or a friend that just needs to talk. Some say Anna Claire has an unmatched determination. In one sitting, she consumed 50 whole meat lasagnas despite her constantly proclaiming, "My stomach is getting upset." Calmly and collectively she would reply to herself, "That's too bad!" You could not find another person to better depend and rely on. She is probably one of the only girls that can continually put up with and more importantly keep up with all the boys getting fired up as often as possible. She will be up for just about anything that her friends' devious minds come up with (of course within the bounds of the law… maybe). Long live the rats.

Stephen Steen

Naval Flight Officer

Steve has been one for a good time since the beginning of plebe summer. Whether it was messing with our detailers or taking a quick lap around Farragut, we had a good time. We've made countless weekend memories, but he could genuinely only tell you about four. He's been known to miss TAPS a time or two. He's also been known to flood a back shaft or two. Somehow never served restriction, but not or lack of trying. He pulls like Pete Davidson, lifts like Cbum, has the sleep schedule of a retarded raccoon, and drinks like a little girl. Claims he is from Texas but he is more city than a metro bus. He is a unique combination to say the least. He'll go ahead and become a stud of an aviator, and whoever flies with him will be lucky to have him. After that he'll settle down south and play COD all day on a ranch until he's done with this world.

Catherine Thomas

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Walking with Cat is always an adventure. If you're running late to catch the bus or your flight, you might want to consider rebooking because Cat only has one walking speed. You likely won't make it. I also hear she can help you get lost in Paris on foot, but I wouldn't know… Really, though, she is a fantastic travel companion. She'll safely guide you through the streets of New York and obviously is great at getting unlost. If you're in need of any book recommendations, she's the one to ask. It's always a good time when you are hanging out with Cat. Just be prepared to wait as she is known for arriving fashionably late. By fashion I mean she'll always look better than you no matter what, and by late I mean about 15 minutes even if she's the one who picked the meet up time and place. But in all seriousness, she's worth waiting on. She's a loyal and fun friend that will always have you back. Her uncanny appearance and closeness to her twin brother is only rivaled by her unwillingness to travel up to 7-4 to see him.

Bryce Turney

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

From the mountains of West Virginia, Bryce rebelled and traveled to the far-off shores of Maryland to join the Navy despite being from an Air Force household. While his charming looks traveled with him unfortunately his immune system did not as he has likely had every kind of ailment the academy has seen throughout his four years: pneumonia, covid, bad ankles, broken back, and even the mono-bronchitis two for one combo. Despite these hardships, Bryce emerged as quite the stellar athlete going from the Ronaldo of intramural soccer to the breakout star of club tennis. A man of many talents, Bryce was such a good pilot he didn't even need to complete powered flight for an aviation spot. With the looks of Jake Gyllenhaal and a sprinkle of Dr. Doofenshmirtz, Bryce has a natural charm the ladies love. He is a true gentleman who can be seen on the weekends opening the turnstiles for damsels in distress. A loyal and truly great friend, Bryce will always make you laugh when you need it most and is the exact person you want flying the plane bringing you help (although he'll probably forget to turn on his fuel pump before landing).

Grant Van Valkenburg

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Does he hail from Seattle? Does he speak like a Brit? Is he a long lost Duke that lays claim to a castle in Valkenburg? Did he make his fortune in the Tesla boom? These questions may never be answered, but would surely fit his fantasy lifestyle of ATVing in the woodlands, prancing through pastures with his herd of stallions, and boating between islands in the Puget Sound. When you see his big green truck - the G-wagon - roaring down the road, Grant is the last person you might expect to see behind the wheel. The well-worn running shoes, baggy skinny jeans that barely reach his ankles, and kid's large size flannel are an iconic fit on his stick-like XC runner build. incoherent eurhurmg and ahjllahl His meager appetite is exemplified by his failure to finish the last few bites of a below-average-sized philly cheese steak in under two minutes when threatened to complete the challenge or face instant death. Best of luck to him in putting on the pounds so the T-6 ejection seat doesn't end up snapping his back in half one day. In all seriousness, Grant Van Valkenburg is the truest friend and will never cry over spilled orange juice. He is always ready to drop everything at a moment's notice and rage the night away with you. His flight skills will certainly match his drone flying ability and he will become an absolute menace behind the sticks of any cockpit he sets foot in.

Grant Vigneault

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Hailing from somewhere in California no one has ever heard of (i.e. the desert), Grant "know a guy" Vigneault is able to finesse his way into getting cool stuff, doing something even cooler, or meeting another impressive person all by having a simple conversation with random people. He will always have your back regardless of the situation, doesn't matter if you're any of the million people he knows or how well he knows you. Anyone can count on him to lend a hand when needed and to be there to make you laugh when you are feeling down, even if it's by telling you a story you've heard three times before and were actually present at when the event took place. That said though, nothing will ever beat the picture of Grant inside the Starbucks in DTA waiting for his Tinder date that never showed up... Unfortunately for her, she missed out on what could've been the ultimate friend for life. You will never meet anyone with more enthusiasm towards life and a willingness to jump headfirst into anything that comes. You'll always be the GOAT of Striper Alley. And most importantly, "Pineapple" (IYKYK).

Victor Wang

Submarine Nuclear

An embodiment of the phrase "It's not that deep," Boomerwang hails from the inferior state of New Jersey despite his claims that his family now lives in California. While he was not the most studious Plebe by any means, he managed to survive knowing rates, yelling chow-calls, and especially doing laundry. A self-proclaimed 'Varsity Athlete', Victor donned the newest Navy Football jumpsuits as a Team Manager before succumbing to the NARP life in his last year. Many sleepless nights and last minute reports, Victor grinded away with his fellow Nukes just to stay afloat. When he wasn't in Rickover, he sought refuge in MacD. "Who are those two buff asian dudes that lift in the morning?" Genetics may not be on his side, but he compensates with pounds of protein powder. Victor made sure everyone knew he worked out by carrying around a gallon of water all day. Revamped the Bodybuilding Club as VP. Led the Chinese Culture Club as President. If you have any idea, prepare to get it assigned to you. Truly a jack of all trades, but a master of none. Sub community, please treat him well. See you in Charleston, Boomerwang

Jeremy Wolfe

USMC Pilot

Jeremy hails from either Scarsdale, NY, or Fort Lauderdale (who really knows). Has had a chronically stuffy nose since he was two. Nose congestion is not on the list of medically disqualifying condition, but the docs at BMU might need to add it if they spent five minutes next to Jeremy. Naturally gifted with a tall, athletic frame, Jeremy has been known to excel in every sport he's dabbled in. Can always be seen snacking, working on code, or talking about his dogs. Insanely intelligent, athletic, and funny, Jeremy is sure to make a great aviator and Marine. We've been friends since 8th grade - can't wait for how our futures will continue to cross paths. Unequivocally the PLA's greatest enemy, Jeremy Parker Wolfe is known mostly for his unwavering commitment to his faith. Despite his personality being his dog and the fact that he is tall, if you find yourself rollerblading with him at Quiet Water's park he's already won. Quite possibly the most prolific individual to grace the streets of Fort Lauderdale, he has done more on one leg than most can do with their whole being.

Peter Yamasaki

USMC Pilot

Hailing from the tough streets of Pequannock, NJ, Peter is no stranger to adversity. From competing against a class of 7 in non-public-B high school to deafening himself everyday blasting Chris Brown on his issued headphones, he has always taken the hard path. One of the smartest people in the class, yet he remains humble and relatable as he tells his classmates "Nah I definitely failed that too bro". While Pete may not be the best at navigation and commonly falls asleep at the wheel because "it's just not interesting enough to stay awake", he has been a legend of the Sprint Football team for the past four years before "taking his talents to South Beach" (Intramural Basketball). Despite being 3 months past service assignments, he is still pondering whether Marine Air or Ground would be best. Given that his Marine uniform items are all second-use from eBay, it may make more financial sense in the end to just forgo this military thing completely and pursue a simple man's job on Wall Street. Peter is truly everyone's best friend who is loyal to a fault while being the most magnetic and funniest person there is to know.

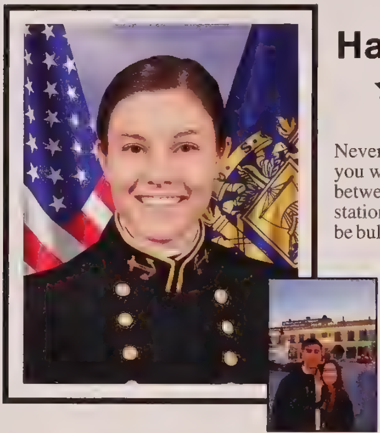
While others aspire to beat Army, Andreas beats ashiness. Every morning, he will pump a half liter of gold bond into his hand and slather it all over himself. Andreas Casillas is the bane of innocence, introducing his company-mates to the horrors of "The Creativity Song". In addition, This man loves Paddington perhaps more so than life: cross between him and that bear at your own expense. Andreas is a good dude, I've known him since the good old days in Ripley Hall. We made it brother! Andreas the waviest man from 27th company. Andreas has a massive heart Even though he has not worked out a bit he passes every PRT and has washboard abs. He always has the spiciest memes and knows how to get people fired up. Andreas loves eating meat. RAH. SEMPER DEEP. Andreas has no bones about hOLdiNG yOu AccOunTabLE, but his voice is so smooth and calming that you may not even realize you're getting called out. When it becomes the hour that many people start making stupid decisions, Andreas always has his head screwed on straight. The kind of good dood you want by your side.



Hannah Citsay

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Never met Hannah before? Don't worry, have one interaction with her and next thing you know you will be best friends. Over the years, Hannah has become more Spaniard than American… between her Spanish Naval Academy study abroad and her long distance, long term boyfriend stationed in Spain. She is steadfast in who she is and what she wants with her life, whether it be bullying her plebe senior crush into dating her (three years going strong #fratqueen), rejecting her blue chip (who needs Hawaii anyway) or literally muscling her way through a marathon. Hannah is an amalgam of excessive amounts of coffee and afternoon naps (siestas). Her life is like a puzzle - all over the place, right up until it's all put together moments before it needs to be. Rising all the way from her Amish roots, she now enforces standards as company XO where her manly voice instills fear and discipline. A humble, adventurous, faith pursuing, and fiercely loyal friend, Hannah is sure to take down challenges everywhere she goes in life. She keeps a level head no matter what, and most of all cares deeply for the people she loves.

Armand Dalmass

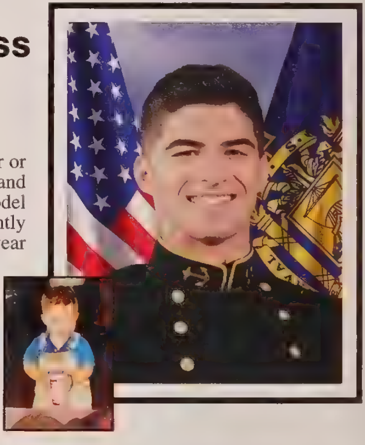
USMC Cyber



Armand is the embodiment of the military's stereotype about caffeine and nicotine. Whether or not that's directly related to being sleep deprived because of Cyber, we'll never know. Armand showed up to the Academy after dropping an offer for male modeling… so that he could model for the Marines instead. Although we don't know if that's happening, we do know that he's currently sponsored by both diet coke and zyn. Armand broke the tenets of the D Line his second class year when he went to go date Logan, who has since domesticated him. She's alright because she still took him after she found out about Armand's curious relationship with a Canadian nightstand. Currently he's furiously training for TBS by grinding ARMA. Wherever he ends up shooting 0s and 1s, we hope he has fun rolling in the mud at TBS.

Matteo Danforth

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Naval Flight Officer

Matteo Danforth is one hell of a midshipman, though he may not look like it on paper, the poor man ultimately has a good head on his shoulders. Majority didn't realize what a good dude he was until he emerged from captivity 2/C year. A 12 hour airport conversation between DAS and him became a journey of enlightenment. "I swear we touched the face of God". If he's not around, someone will ask "Hey man where's Matteo at?" "Oh he's in his rack sleeping," answers everyone who knows Matteo well. One of Matteo's best talents is sleeping through his alarms; had it not been for his two roommates waking him up, Matteo would have been UA to the majority of morning formations and classes.

Mr.can't-roll-my-NWU-sleeves-cause-my-arms-are-too-big loves to lift semi-heavy weights and eat more yogurt than the entire state of Wisconsin. Matteo holds multiple records in-company, including the amount of purchased and sold vehicles and called-off engagements. To his relief, he has finally managed to find a car he likes and used all his remaining luck in life to find the girl of his dreams (who would've thought?). Here's to Matteo Danforth, the most admiral non-admiral you'll ever meet.

Corbin Deviney

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Corbin "Milkman" Deviney is a man that is not hard to please. His passions include milk, cantaloupes, the Navy, starwars (lego), not eating vegetables, judging his roommates, and losing at Catan. Despite Corbin's claim to Texas, the origins of this anomaly are truly unknown. Once asked how long he wanted to stay in the Navy, he looked longingly into the distance and stated "For a LOONG time." Corbin is the type of guy who everyone assumes is smart, but his 2.2 QPR would say otherwise. Even with this, things just seem to work out for Corbin. As seen in his ability to participate in Plebe Summer twice, getting Navy Pilot, and receiving squad leader over both of his roommates. Corbin also has the unnatural ability of being very physically fit without ever working out. While 'Witty" wouldn't be in the hundred words used to describe Corbin, he still manages to "give it to ya straight". One cannot mention Corbin, without also mentioning his mother and the chokehold she has on the 27th company facebook page. At the end of the day, there's no one you would rather crack open a carton of milk and watch lego star wars with.

Sean Doherty

Explosive Ordnance Disposal

Sean "Darts" Doherty spent the majority of his time at USNA by the Farragut pull-up bars or out on 8-1 shooting the breeze–anything to avoid his homework. If you plan on eating with him, make sure you have an hour to spare as he picks apart his food at the pace of a sloth. An advocate for self care, Sean religiously spends time in the sun only to realize that his Irish heritage makes him pay for it. He has one attribute that sets him apart from his classmates: his appetite for Joe Rogan podcasts. Sean will soon be heading to the Florida Panhandle where he will pursue his goals with the fiery stoicism that only a soulless ginger can. Sean's as reliable as they come, a charismatic leader that lets you know how much he cares with a simple gesture. Although Sean may need floaties at Dive School, we trust his judgment in all situations of consequence. This New Yorker is sure to make a proper Naval Officer and a dear friend for life. In your travels to austere places around the world, don't forget to return home for a drink with your friends. Like Gunny said: never forget that this is what you wanted.

Jacob Durfee

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

A curious amalgamation of scar tissue, literature, and coffee is held together by a MCMAP belt. The result of this unholy union is a war machine named Jake Durfee. An excellent instructor, he is defined by his ability to fail senior captains during their MCMAP test. Instead of paying attention in class, Jake focuses on losing at cribbage and chess. While physics clearly isn't his strength, he could beat you in a ground fight or a marathon. You are hard pressed to not find this man not watching a movie, playing solitaire, or finishing a book in the span of an evening while still getting his rack by 2100. Jake has such a strong "no excuses" mindset that even 3 hours of sleep and thrice as many beverages won't stop him from competing in a half iron man the next morning. God help you if you are a sneeze or a Naval Academy Dean's eligible daughter. The Douyfe will swoope in on both, and he won't be blessing anything. Have yet to find a goal that this guy can't accomplish (or develop a hernia trying). A true friend and trusted cigar partner.

Ryan Fitzgerald

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Rye guy, rye money, the biggest lukewarm sportsfan of all time, he goes by many names. Fitzy is a solid man. Great basketball player. Notable skills and/or achievements: … anyway, solid dude! Fitz is the quaker oats man for his oatmeal like presence and his love for planes. He is a lot like normal spongebob. Never the man to shy from stoking a fire/burning s or destroying a 30 rack of miller, when the last days come, you better have Ryan in your corner. Guiness, Duffy's, and Guiness.

Ariel Forehand

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Starting her time here in 8th Company, Ariel moved after Sean sent her packing to 28 with a love chit and a concussion, and following her teenage pregnancy and LOA, she finally settled down in 27th Company with a baby and a ring. In her 5 years at USNA, Ariel has learned more in the fine art of shoe painting, photography, and power-napping than she has as a Naval Architect. From a broken hand on day 6 of plebe summer to breaking plebes' souls as Plebe Summer CC, woe to the classmate who fails to live up to her high expectations of simply doing their job. Past her resting bh face, she's quick to be a fun, caring, and absolutely loyal friend to anyone. Her ability to demonstrate sincere caring while emphasizing sharp discipline makes her a force to be reckoned with. Ariel is a great mom, fiance, and friend, and remains the most empathetic and caring person at the Academy on top of all the trials she has endured here. She never wavers from her ideals and is the person you want by your side as you journey through life. Marine Corps, you got a good one! SM-HC

Hayden Fox

Explosive Ordnance Disposal

There are 2 places you can find Fox on the weekends: chain smoking an entire pack of Camels outside of 8th wing at 4am or dragging a towny down the street by their collar. Fox is one of the most reckless guys I know. I have seen him in a O'Brien's with a XXXL GoodWill suit, Chuck Taylors, and Marlboro Red in ear dealing out shooters to all his friends. His wild, unpredictable nature makes him no stranger to burning down DTA with the boys at a moment's notice. He has no problem at all racking up $150 bar tabs or buying rounds for everyone. Loyal like a dog to the people he knows, there is no one who will fight for their friends, take down a cold one with the boys, or train harder than Ole' Foxy. Through his hard work, dedication, and charismatic personality, I can safely say that the Navy lucked out with Fox and he will make a proper Naval Officer for the fleet.

Jeremy Friedel

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Midshipmen Friedel is a man who time and again defies the odds. A proud member of the 2% club, Jeremy has scared many a CDO when he goes missing every night at 2200 to call his fiancé. To further prove his commitment, Jeremy has already started preparing for the lifestyle of a young, married officer by keeping a maximum of $3.50 in his bank account. Jeremy had so much fun being hazed plebe year that he decided he wanted three more years of it by selecting chemistry as his major. One of the most humble individuals you will ever meet, Jeremy will routinely come back after an "impossible" analytical chemistry test claiming there was "no way he got above a 40%", only to earn a grade of 92%. Shortly behind Jeremy's love for the Lord and his family is his love for the New Orleans Saints, Tony Chachere's, and cannibalistic pelicans. Keeping everything at a fine mean, Jeremy balances out the extreme thickness of his chest with the extreme thinness of his hairline. Well prepared for any challenge, and carrying a great deal of personal tact, Jeremy is set for a successful career as a Navy Pilot.

Tristan Fujimura

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Fuj has the record for spending the least amount of time in Bancroft from Plebe Summer to graduation. He is also famous for his one week varsity career and his transition to manager. He dutifully misses formation to tend to the needs of his teammates. His spatial awareness kept the football team from leaving Farragut loop one evening, just ask the OOW about the cars he totaled while carrying out official business. As consistent as the sun rises and sets, Tristan drinks cheap liquor and enjoys sleeping in any place that isn't his bed. Some of his favorite activities include showing up at 3 am, saying "I'm foodj," and scouring DTA for mommys. Whenever he isn't drinking, he's training for the next PRT. While he is quite limber due to his extensive stretching, he spends most of his time talking about working out rather than executing. One time, he spent the entire semester "grinding" in preparation for the next PRT. He ran a 10:26. Tristan's glowing smile, soft demeanor and masculine physique will propel him into places of great responsibility. Nobody is more prepared to take on the nation's toughest battles like Fuj, enjoy the fleet.

Cade Gelhar

Submarine Nuclear

Cade “Cadertot” Gelhar is the most dedicated individual. Not only is he dedicated to the Navy, but also to his hobbies spanning from 100 hours on a video game, bass guitar, Chess, Catan or Clash of Clans. These commitments always end on the last day of the month. His love for Wisconsin, cheese, the PRT, watching the Bears lose, 2.3 beer drinking, being a Dillos and Obriens menace, getting beat by Chase in FIFA knows no bounds. Also, his room has two adopted children . In DTA, he lives by the phrase “go hard or go home”, or “get kicked out of Dillos for dancing like the used car dealership inflatable men and elbowing all the poorly dressed women”. As the night progresses, his Wisconsin accent will go from “Hey do you know!” to “Aye don’t yeee know!.” An alternate form of Cade exists on the morning after these nights, also known as “squinty Cade.” Do not make squinty Cade upset or he will argue with you for seemingly no reason. Cade will never be as cool as his mom, Jess. Keep him in your prayers as he navigates Nuc School and he tries to steal cakes from every bar.

Christian Hall

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

He emerged from the womb hungry for combat. His affinity for poptarts is coupled with his love for Apple products. Christian was my squad leader and someone I felt like I could go for anything. My favorite memory is when we went out together in DTA and I showed him how to really drink. I told him to shoot his shot at two girls who in his words were “way out of his league”. I’m super lucky to have met him. Christian-Poptarluver1-Hall a.k.a Bubba is the best friend you wish you had. From the wind tunnels in the winter at NAPS to the humidity of Annapolis, one thing remains…his muscles. Humble, funny, and single so hit him up ladies!!! Christian-Dewey Seawall- Hall. A friend so kind that girls confuse his kindness for romantic feelings (ask him about his academy girlfriend.) He’s into women with a below average IQ, mainly because it makes him feel better about being AC unsat. Reading these submissions on his LuckyBag bio makes me question if we’re talking about the same Christian. All those muscles go to waste because he’s too shy to talk to girls at bars. Sweetest guy I’ve ever met. Will do anything to help the people he loves. A physical beast and amazing photographer. Loves his family/friends unquestionably. Christian’s destined for greatness in his time as a sailor, and his future afterwards. Atan ha.

Xiaojiao Hall

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

If you don’t know XiaoJiao personally, it is guaranteed that at least one of your friends does. XiaoJiao is the Kevin Bacon of USNA. Her network of steadfast friends developed from the gazillion clubs and activities she does on the yard. XiaoJiao loves God and loves to love people who love God. Proof her physical dominance extends past being an MAI is found in her ability to max the boys’ PRT pushups! Other pastimes of XiaoJiao’s include: printing the internet, cutting it close for TAPs, and putting the Women’s Glee Club--affectionately known as “the Gladies”--through some of the brutalest workouts. If you’ve been living under a rock for the last 4 years and haven’t had an interaction with XiaoJiao, maybe you remember her as the plebe who got asked on stage “Can I kiss you?” XiaoJiao does a lot. She has long days and gives herself in every way she can. She is direct, hardworking, and always looking to get better. The Marines are lucky to have her, we know we were! Iconic quotes: “For why?” “I can’t hide my flame under a bushel basket.”“Who wants to be the ambassador to Norway? They’re all porpoises and chess players!”

Chase Handly

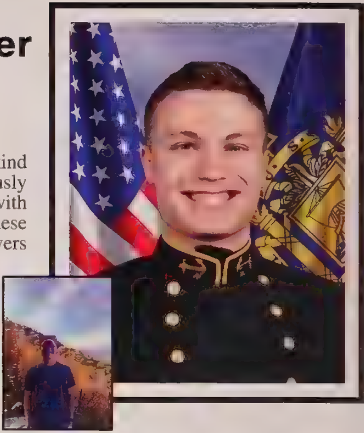
Special Warfare

Now that Chase is leaving Annapolis, GoodWill will finally be able to keep women’s clothing stocked. His quirky and unique sense of humor has allowed him to capitalize on a 4 year dry spell. In terms of fitness he excels in most areas yet, is built like a bag of milk. The ghoul spent his academy career complaining about his major, not doing pull-ups, and sucking on his massive lower lip. Chase’s interpersonal relationship skills are as bad as they come and don’t expect to ever be right because he’s already microanalyzed your response, entire personality, up-bringing, strengths, and weaknesses; a real treat to talk to. Never will you find a man more proud of being an individual, if only he realized he fits the mold of every PNW “individual”. We’ll give it to him though, he’s “unique”. Considering he got into a bar fight protecting someone else’s mom, you will be hard pressed to find a friend as loyal as Chase. Doggedly determined, unabashedly unique, and admirably awkward, Chase will make a great frogman - if only he can live by his stupid saying, “DFTQ”. Pastone and the world are excited to meet you, go give ‘em hell tadpole.

Sebastian Keefer

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground



Said he wanted to be an infantry officer before he even knew what the Marine Corps was. The kind of dude where you find out that his middle name is Wilhelm and go wow, that makes sense. Seriously when asked to pick a movie we ended up with "Das Boot." Over the four years of interacting with him, his roommates have become intimately aware of his talents and lovely personality. These include driving an automatic as though it were a manual, toneless singing, and listening to covers as though they were the original songs. His signature word for disappointment is "baffling." A dedicated team captain on the Navy Fencing team, Sebastian briefly defected to Germany to escape from USNA COVID protocols and "learn" about German culture. Why does a fluent German speaker with a German mother need to study abroad? No one knows, but that certainly didn't stop Sebastian. You cannot fault his perseverance or loyalty with respect to his car which has been beat up more than brigade morale during Covid. He has an uncanny ability to make friends wherever he goes and the Corps is lucky to have this man join their ranks.

Maxamilian Klischies

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Maxamilian's only downfalls as a commissioned officer include his proclivity for well-done beef, his terrible dad jokes, and the fact that he thinks Taco Bell's mild sauce is "too spicy". Those flaws aside, there is no one as sweet and gentle-hearted as Max. Some say he's from Chattanooga, some say Mac D or Halsey, and some say room 7338. Max will make sure you always have a smile on your face and a laugh in your stomach. He may become known for his growing real estate portfolio, but to us, he's well-known for his adventurous, easygoing personality. Known for always being there for his friends, he is the epitome of selflessness and compassion. He is the first person you'd want in your corner.

Ragan Leslie

Surface Engineering Duty

Picture the most handsome, strong, tall, funny person you can possibly think of. Make them charming, lovable, sweet, whatever good qualities you want. Got it? Good. Now, think of the opposite of that. BINGO! You have Ragan Leslie! The underdog story of Ragan Leslie is truly something to admire. From his humble beginnings on the Big Island, to his angsty days in Newport, and now his trials here at the Academy, he has never let a single thing change who he is. Ragan is unapologetically himself, a trait that I envy him for. He doesn't let his small stature stop him from expressing his larger-than-life personality. He takes any role he is given seriously and does it to the best of his ability, sacrificing his own sleep and sanity to help others prosper. I do not know what I would do without him and I know every person that is close to him would say the same. All in all, this Titanic-loving, bad-grammar-having Hawaiian will in fact make a positive impact on the fleet, starting with the USS John McCain. It has been a joy to grow with Ragan and I can't wait to see where he ends up.

Haofeng Liu

USMC Ground

Haofeng is a highly overrated mid...A recent survey found Haofeng's most common phrases to be: "Are you going to eat that?" "I'm not cold" "Ben, I want to be little spoon tonight" and "silence"...Haofeng is extremely mild mannered and is a true stoic. He is admired by his class for his blunt and realistic look at life. If he likes you he will mean mug you. He is a seeker of affection and loves late night cuddles with his roommate...The only piece of home I can't seem to get rid of...On the weekends, he can be found flirting with the Rice workers, running the O-course with his in-company crush, or kissing friends-both male and female-at his sponsors'. One of Haofeng's favorite pastimes is procrastinating. Many a late night Haofy can be found in the wardroom with his other English major cohorts having existential crises about papers on books they've half read...His skills in domestic chokes and giving black eyes bode well for the Marine Corps, but not for any romantic partners.

Carolyn Mang

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

Carolyn Mang, AKA Mango, CC, or Crystal Carol, is the captain of the soccer team and a model midshipman. Her most special talent is her ability to eat like an obese child, yet never gain a single pound. Carolyn is an intelligent and competent person, but did you know she is secretly a drunkard and a heartbreaker? Being a chemistry major was so awful that Carolyn vowed to kill as many brain cells by drinking copious amounts of Pink Whitney and heading every punt during her soccer games. Able to drink anyone within 60 pounds of her weight, she makes both her parents and her fellow Das Dynamisch proud by dominating DTA. As a passionate gamer, Carolyn carries an Xbox controller at all times. Like any Marine, she enjoys chasing people around the woods, but has never enjoyed being chased herself. Carolyn is a great mentor and will continue to inspire others for decades to come, especially the youngsters. Let's see if she can put her standards aside and find herself a man at TBS. A half decent soccer player, and an above average friend, we can't wait to see her on the front lines!

Caden Meilner

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Caden Meilner; all he needs in life is God, sugar, and to beat everyone at everything. If you tell him he can't, he will all the more show you he can. He will continue to serve the Lord wholeheartedly from the sky and on the ground, and those around him will be better for it. He is a fierce competitor, and you will never catch him slacking in any kind of competition. Ask him for a picture of Ed, and he'll send you 12. Ask him for a helping hand, and he'll send you a team of workers. In reality, with jokes aside, Caden's greatest talent is his ability to love. To love the Lord Jesus passionately, contagiously, and boldly. To love his bride to be proudly, powerfully, and 'meme-ably'; he got this from me. To love others as himself, serving everyone around him with a smile and probably a witty comment. He imbues the LORD's charitable heart and passionately/unashamedly lives out the Gospel. I am so excited to see where God takes him, flying with a Dr. Pepper in one hand and the Bible in the other. Fly high, fly fast, and fly safe brother.

David Miccoli

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

David Miccoli sprang from the creeks of Ludlow, Massachusetts to come to this mental institution along the Severn in 2018. Before that, he tormented himself at the Marion Military Academy hoping to one day attend Navy and join the fraternity of the Gentlemen of Annapolis. A notorious grinder, Big D, the Diesel, Shrek, David Spiccoli, was known to sit on the range for hours, interrupted only to grab a Dunkin' Large Vanilla Iced Coffee and a Bayhawk. Eventually, the prophecy of the prodigy came true with his heroics in the 2021 edition of the A/N golf match, burying his sorry whoop opponent with balls of steel. However, the golf course cannot be the only times we think of David. D was a fan of a Light man named Bud, becoming familiar with him in downtown Annapolis on many occasions. However, could routinely return home and activate Ogre Mode. In all seriousness, we are lucky to know this gem, and even luckier to call him a friend. Few are kinder, more loyal, and dedicated, and even fewer are worse at Physics. Goodluck in Mayport Dave. Hope you have more fun than you did with CB on cruise. Sike.

Can't find Kat? Just go find her boyfriend, really all you have to do to find her is locate her boyfriend. Or Nimitz coffee bar. Threatening to quit her varsity sport after 3.5 years? Well it's not an empty one. You could not pay Kat to finish a 3 mile run without walking and getting caught by her coach, but she has still run the stadium loop more times than anyone at the academy. Maybe that's why she's famously 1 pound skinnier than Anna. NARP life might be better suited for her. At least now she can't miss the bus. Aww Kat complimented you? Well you better take a good look in the mirror and realize she's not making eye contact as she scans your face for imperfections. Maybe you're overthinking it and it's genuine…guess we'll never know. Loyal to a select few, Kat is the best friend you could ever have, and does not hesitate to tell it how it is - for better or for worse. One thing Kat is very good at is learning from her mistakes, she is never breaking liberty rules with Sal or walking off the yard on duty again! Penthouse.

Ah yes, the Man in the Arena, except that man is even worse at video games. When Josh isn't wandering rooms in the back shaft, clad in his favorite Navy Hawaiian shirt, he can be found training with the Corps as their most lethal trombone player. One day he will be able to get over that old Christmas carol he always seems to sing. But in the meantime he will just keep coding on his computer and playing the piano. Three truisms about Josh: he will support any failing sports organization as long as they reside within the state border of Maryland, he can do that one math trick that no one remembers, and he will always win the nightly round of Jeopardy. Josh is looking forward to starting his promising career as the housekeeper for his company mates' apartment in Monterrey and Charleston and then eventually only seeing the sun every four months.

"Ch - ike", "Cheeks", "Cheekster" ; in a small amount of time - in the grand scheme of things- I've heard this man called by a lot of names. Of course he's also called brother, friend, teammate. A son of God, and a devout follower of Christ. A husband-to-be, and a true friend. Chike loves the LORD with his whole heart and pursues the Father on a daily basis. Chiké is one of the most unique people this brigade, and world, has ever seen. Spend a day with Chiké and you will be thoroughly entertained just by hearing him speak. He can fly around a football field (check out his highlight reels on Hudl) while also being super nice with a squash racket. Chiké is a humble, honest fella who is completely unashamed of his relationship with Jesus. Nothing sets this man off more than early 2000s worship music. Chike is one of the few to accomplish a rare feat at the Academy: graduate as a football player with a EE degree. Not many folks can say they did that, but this just shows how hard of a worker he is. I cannot wait to see where the Lord takes him.

Grace Perrotta

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

USMC Ground

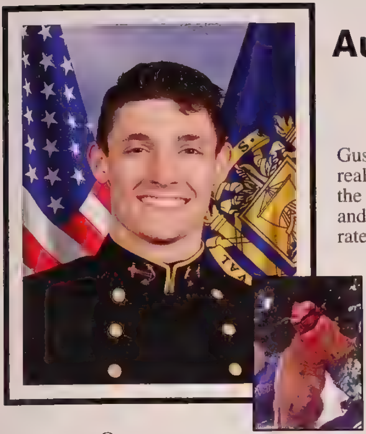
While quick to nickname her friends, Grace has no shortage of nicknames herself: GP, Gracie, Gary, Grotta. Eighth Wing developed some other choice nicknames for her as well Plebe year due to her obnoxious set of pipes. Her flower picking and litter collecting habits fostered Grace's desire to become Bancroft's beautification and disposal expert, the Brigade 1st Lieutenant. Grace checks all the boxes of a functioning human being, except for the fact that she can't wink to save her life. She has a laugh heartier than a bowl of lentil soup and more contagious than the common cold. In her free time, Grace can be found losing in Boggle over Facetime, mass producing friendship bracelets, and admiring sunsets with her best friend Haofeng. In her four years at USNA, Grace has matured leaps and bounds into the thoughtful, considerate, and outspoken woman she is today. Though her elbow might be soft, her resolve is most certainly not. Grace loves her life and the people in it. You didn't know someone could love that much. We hate to see you go, we hate to see you go, we hope to heck you never come back, we hate to see you go!

Tatum Phillips

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Tatum "Phil" Phillips is a mediocre member of the Women's Rugby Team. Tatum has never experienced a real injury from the sport, but that hasn't stopped her from missing multiple games for broken fingers. You can often find her with her face in a book or face down in a bush after a long night on the town. On the surface, she appears to be a degenerate but is surprisingly a complex person when you get to know her. Do not bother asking her to make plans for she will throw out grandiose ideas with no intentions of organizing them. One of her biggest red flags is her almost all-male friends group. She does have redeeming talents: thoughtfulness, self-deprecating humor, and her capacity for true intellectual conversations. However, one thing she does not have a talent for is committing to a relationship. Of course, all her redeeming qualities are then combated with more red flags: never responding in group chats and dipping on her friends for get-togethers she suggested. Despite all of this, she is still a truly amazing friend even though she has an internal doomsday clock for each friendship. In short- Life would be dull without Phil.



Augustus Prager

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

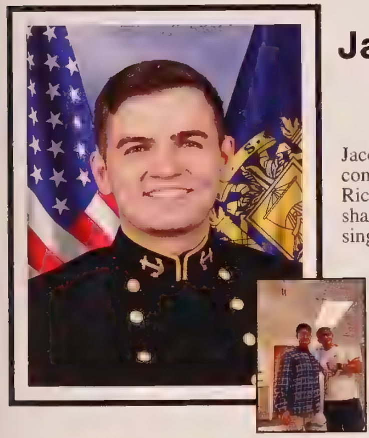
Gus has always lived a life of squalor. With weekly trips home (definitely not Chicago), we're really not sure how he made it through such hardship. One of the most terrifying players to take the court in college squash, he's infamous for spending more time focusing on his biceps, Linda and Teresa, than developing his skill. During Plebe Summer, while most Mids feared the agonizing rates memorization, Gus's biggest fear was his false belief of his degrading abs. As a result, while most Mids wrote letters home or tried to sneak a nap, Gus spent his evenings ripping crunches and ensuring his rollexes were untouched. King Hall food does not cut it for Gus, instead, no Crunchwrap Supreme is safe. Because the Halsey Field House and Squash courts were not up to the Prager standard of excellence, he ensured that the facilities were advanced. We now can safely run on the Prager Field. Maybe someday, future Mids will have a better experience at the Prager Academy. I can say that I feel warm whenever I see an Aston Martin parked on the yard as I know my roommate will be waiting for me with fresh Taco Bell.

Molly Redito

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Call her Floyd Mayweather, because this overachieving 5-striper and pillar of the wine triumvirate is the Queen of Lightweights. "2 shot bandit" Molly has never completely finished a night out. Her biggest regret is missing that Lumineers concert because the thought of joining Civie Team 6 was too unappealing. She wasn't a huge fan of frat until she started dating her boss. Molly's aesthetic is utility and will spend thousands of dollars to see a random country on the other side of the Earth, but heaven forbid she spend more than fifty cents on a decent cup of coffee. Her morning routine consists of snoozing her alarm thirty times until two minutes before formation and running around getting ready while her Walmart coffee maker coughs out Folgers mud. Molly will go to a third world country with no hesitation and scale a mountain, but will panic before sending an email to anyone above MIDN LT. Her most impressive talents include being able to fall asleep anywhere anytime, consuming her body mass in food, and her cheeks turning beet red (which she'll deny) after finishing an entire bottle of wine. Overall we love Molly, and know that everyone else does too.



Jacob Richardson

Jacob Richardson who goes by RICH, for short, is an extremely over-valued member of 27th company. Many people are described as soft spoken, however, Rich is the complete opposite. Rich's primary hobbies include using recycled jokes with new groups of people and living off the shallow affirmation it offers for the next couple of hours before he can annoy somebody else and singing songs from instagram tik toks. When not drinking a 28 oz Diet Coke, Rich will be chirping anyone or anything within sight or mind. Despite his egregious diet coke addiction, Rich is a speedster on the PRT. Little do people know, but Rich ran a sub 9:00 1.5 mile! This is Rich's greatest success and claim to fame, and WILL make sure you remember it. Nothing will get by Rich, especially a lifted truck with some nice rims. By the skin of his teeth, this most genuine scumbag scammed his way through four years of being officer's least favorite midshipmen, finding love in a hopeless place, and being the most objectively unfunny person in Annapolis, MD. God save the USS Gravely because they have quite the hairy and hungry boy coming their way.

Benjamin Rossi

Ben Rossi goes by many names. Ben, Mr. Rule, and Krista are his favorites. One of his favorite activities is collecting things on his stumbles home… bricks, cones, Newports, Hennessey, you name it. A menace to society. Oh man, put a Miller Lite in this man's hand and watch the town burn. Occasional crossdresser. You may catch him lackin from time to time but trust me you won't find him lackin when it comes to taking bodies on the rugby field. Favorite part time hobby: rubbin raw between big boys legs. 250 but runs like hes got a stick up his butt.

Catch him in his rack before dinner if there's nothing "pertinent" going on. Talks more in his sleep than I do during the day. There's no one else like Benjamin "I spelled English wrong" "Ask me if I care". He's so hard that he purposefully failed his Nuke interview the first time to prolong his suffering. He will make a great SEAL after a brief stint in the submarine service.

Christian Schwien

USMC Pilot

Christian Schwien hails from car dealerships where you can see him flailing in the wind out front. Wherever you come across him, at Duffys or Dillos, your conversation would likely steer to many passions of his in life such as banjo playing, anime passion, or knife collection. He would get to many of these subjects and you would be sitting there asking yourself what did this man do to want to talk about just his life for so long? Well, if you wait for the end of the conversation it will probably end something along the lines of "Did you know I capped Herdon?" Christian is a passionate Midshipman. Given the chance, he will tell you everything wrong with the Academy and society. He is relentless in his argument and will convince you he is right. However, the next week his opinion may change if what he is complaining about turns out to benefit him. Christian will become a great Marine and hopefully the Corps will teach him not to go to McDonalds in Civies, and I have no doubt Christian will make it through flight school at the top of his class just for his tail rotor to fail.

Jackie Sherrell

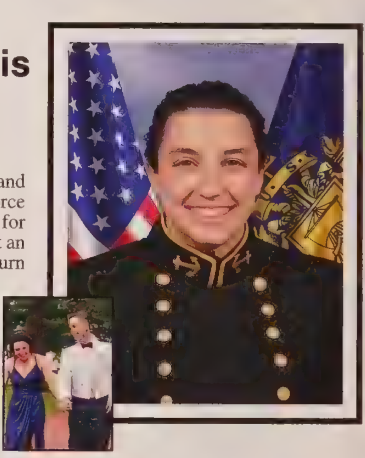
Naval Flight Officer

Jackie san is one of the funniest human beings you will ever meet. He knows how to brighten the mood but most importantly he knows how to take care of his friends. Jackie took his entire $36,000 2/C loan, invested it into Boeing, watched it go up 70%, watched it fall 80%, and then sold out of anger. Between him and Max Klischies, there was always an ongoing debate as to who LT Diaz loved the most. Legend has it that Jackie Sherrell has never paid full price for any item in his entire life. Jackie's motto is "the best tasting beer is a free beer." He is an amazing time when drinking, but he'll often get closets confused with bathrooms. A very honorable midshipman, Jackie knows his way around the cell block. If you're reading this in the future and Jackie has managed to secure a spot in politics, expect some big changes to come to the academy. When this man puts in effort, there's nothing he can't do.



Sarah Sirois

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Sarah is a warm soul with an even warmer heart. Her strict diet of chicken fingers, cheese, and sweets along with her rigorous running plan of three miles a year has produced a four foot force to be reckoned with. While she certainly isn't the tallest human around, she is in the running for the pound-for-pound strongest: she managed to finish 50% of the rucks at leatherneck without an IV! Sarah truly has a heart of gold. She loves to invite herself over to other people's houses, burn brownies, and then leave. When she isn't antagonizing the local populace of dogs she can be found shoplifting from target, or begging for more coffee outside of Starbucks. Sarah decided that out of the billion people in the world the love her life was standing across the bulkhead from her during plebe summer, but putting up a love chit was too much of a hassle. Sarah is going to do big things as a SWO mama and we are all so proud of her. Love you bunches! -TAP, MHR, JRR

Damien Stonhill

Submarine Nuclear

Became friends with his roommates because they weighed the same over plebe summer, although his defense of blow-ups threatens their elbows. Spent 75% of the Academy on the same girl, 23% trying to get over her, and 2% looking for his car. Making ice luges the new standard, he's the best SuppO the Brigade has ever seen. Ask him about his intersessionals nickname (rhymes with punty pooch). Conversations with him usually regress into strange noises and backflips. Ask Damien to do back handsprings down a football field? Done. Ask him to catch something? No shot. Despite his laudable intelligence, watching Damien use technology for anything besides MATLAB is like watching 1000 monkeys trying to write Shakespeare on a typewriter. If survival of the human race depended on Damien doing something, we better hope it's skinning rattlesnakes or killing cockroaches with hand sanitizer and a lighter. We can rest assured that our adversaries will never find the submarine he is on because chances are, he might not be able to find it himself. You'll probably gain fifty pounds from all of the White Russians he makes, but it's worth it to have this gem of a person around.

Whether it's slaving over his mad scientist projects, staying up 'till all hours of the night doing aero homework, or putting on that MOOW armband, he loves grinding. It's unclear whether he has always been like this. His behavior could be the result of his head hitting the deck, with a concussive boom that still rings in our ears to this day, or maybe is his trauma in the squash courts for being a "bad plebe". Either way, he is as hard headed as they come. Matt's love for his family and girlfriend is only exceeded by his love of rockets. If he could strap himself to a rocket and combine the two he would. It's a miracle he's made it this far as he did not sleep for all of youngster year. Thank goodness he has a loving girlfriend who tells him to keep up the basics like eating and sleeping. Competent does not even come close to being enough to describe Matt. He is the person you always want to have living down the street from you. Quick-witted and determined, Matt is sure to excel at flight school and in the Fleet. -DAS, SWK, HL

Kelly White

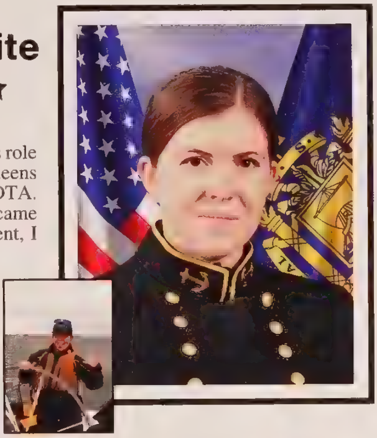
Kelly "Bronx" White is from Brooklyn, NY and she will always remind you of this. Kelly's role model is Popeye the sailor man and takes after his diet of strictly eating spinach. This Queens native knows how to call a cab, ride a subway, and run rampant through the streets of DTA. Although I wanted to have her debarked after hearing her sound off over plebe summer, I came to love Kelly, the heiress to the Pepperidge farm fortune. After a great greenlighting event, I realized I will never be able to out drink Kelly, or out debate. This girl will be the one by your side when the game of rage cage goes too hard (she will always be the last one standing). A hopeless romantic for petty or taken men, Kelly may never find the man of her dreams who will sweep her off her feet to a tropical land like Fiji. The most closeted lightweight in the company can hold her own with a bottle of Jamison, but a drop of wine will send her over the edge. But this much is true…she'll always be the most loyal and loving friend until the very end.



Daniel Yeo

A bodybuilder since his plebe year, Daniel is one of the most interesting people that I know. He can blind you with his worldly dancing skills and can unexpectedly make huge interceptions in the flag football games. He has that impeccable athletic ability that no one expects. Did you know that he was Korean? It was probably the Korean snacks that he always eats. Or the fact that he's always watching Korean shows. Or maybe the Korean gibberish that he is often found speaking. Also, he has the weirdest, quirky smile that makes his upper lip fold and always has something mischievous in his mind. If he's not playing MLB the Show on his PlayStation, then he's probably at the gym (I mean look at those calves). He loves following baseball and for some reason is a major phanatic of the Baltimore Orioles even though I've never seen them ever win games. His weaknesses include Academics Officers and 2006 Mercedes-Benz E350s. Daniel is defined by his loyalty and how he can have so much unexpected energy when necessary. Although he is known to have some sass, he comes through in the most unexpected times in the best way possible.

Devin Allen

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Straight from the fleet came our own Devin Allen, a man with more salt than the entire Pacific. A sailor trapped in a midshipman's body, Devin walks, talks, and drinks like the genuine article. His name is infamous amongst the women of every port he's set anchor in (not least Annapolis), and his blue moon better have an orange slice in it or the whole night will be called off. Despite being one of the smartest men with a computer I have ever met, it has always puzzled me that someone who has chosen to be in the Navy for the better part of this decade could spend so much time talking about what he's going to do once he's out of it. As big Navy eagerly waits to get its best man back, remember that your career is looking as bright as that big old forehead of yours, and that while you look old enough to be my father, you'll always be my brother.

Without turning your head, you hear "Hey big guy." in Bancroft and you know your day will immediately get better- Mack is headed your way. Captain of the softball team, and esteemed kombucha connoisseur, Mack is a woman of many talents. She has developed an infectious jargon of 'Mackisms' to include "It's the remix", "Oh, word?", "Just be better!" and MORE. On the weekends you'll find her rocking the most stylish outfit/makeup combo in the Annapolis area, exploring nature, or grabbing a pouch of spicy mangoes from Trader Joes. Starting plebe year with a mullet did nothing to faze Mack's stream of admirers across the Brigade, and even landed her a free ticket into 28th company. With crippling Arizona desert aesthetic, sharp-wit to make any man cry, and obsession with weight-lifting, she is a force to be reckoned with. Mack has one of the biggest heads in the Brigade, only to be topped by an even bigger heart. She makes those around her better by association through her unparalleled compassion, and empathetic care. Catch her flying the skies (or traveling in a renovated bus), and good luck trying to keep up as she heads to Pensacola for flight school.

The memories often forgotten are Bayne four-putting an eagle opportunity but counting it as "good" from 10 feet out. As a founding member of DAG, BB has been spotted applying crucial golf tactics into conversations with women using phrases such as "That'll play", "I was better yesterday" and "I play better when I'm drunk". Bayne cements himself in NMS history through his crippling nicotine addiction and gazelle-like running form. Well-rounded and loved by all, though, his anime addiction raises eyebrows. A good friend that can always be trusted and relied on. Bayne is a man of the people and will forever be a part of the NMS '22 brotherhood.

B-Nac is a walking refrigerator that sounds like he hit puberty in the 2nd grade. A true menace on the football team, willing to lend a helping hand to anyone except on the punt wall. Bernacchi was born on a sub and rocked in the cradle of the deep. He is the manifestation of a sub officer, smart, slightly socially awkward, and will do anything for the people he cares about. The only thing bigger than his nose is brain. Rooming with this hook of a guy has led me to some of the worst sleep I have ever experienced and Bern has a deep laugh that will make you wonder if there is something wrong with him. One time a drag took a pee in Bern's shower and was never seen again. Legend says Bern ate him. His outfits are the ideal dad fits with the cargo shorts and running shoes and his hobbies are golf, cornhole, day drinking, coaching his daughter's softball league, and tailgating football games. I am glad to have met Bern and become good friends with him. He is a good dude and is always down to hang with the fellas.

Navy Pilot

Ye-hoo! Gecko man, Baker's Mistress, the hardest-leave that part out-man in the brigade, Spencer Conrad hails from the unforgiving corn fields of Lancaster, Ohio. A man who prides himself on how much he loves his sister and how much he hates warzone hackers, Spleen is the definition of a devout soldier. During Sporn's Firstie year, he found love in a pumpkin patch, swept away by subtle scents of strawberry and cinnamon. However, this newfound passion did not detract from his devotion to the boys, McDonald's, or Olivia Dunne. Spence is the king of Saturday night tailgates, and if the burger's are burnt, blame it on Megan. As for the couches…wait… blame it on Megan! Intermission Checklist. Number one, you better know there isn't gonna be a number two, and if there is don't dispute that there wasn't. After four years of living with the guy, I have learned what it means to work hard without working and to not sell yourself short until the doing is done. If you need reassurance, maybe don't come knocking on 8244, but if you need a friend and to be told how it is, come on in. Ready for another few, south we go.

Emma Cumbo

USMC Ground

Emma Kate Cumbo is a force to be reckoned with. You may know her by her cinnabon looking hairstyle, or maybe you have seen her sprinting through the streets of DTA in shower shoes at night. No matter the occasion, EK brings the energy. She is a ground fighting animal, has the meanest right hook you will never see coming, and is the hypest Marine-select to exist. All you have to say is she won't and in fact she will, even if it's consuming all liquids available in King Hall in one pitcher. She proudly takes the cake for the loudest voice in all of Bancroft. You also may have noticed she joined the swim team this year… just kidding, but yes she apparently was voted team girlfriend by NWSD. Don't mention the word toboggan around her unless you want to argue about hats. She is an avid participant of what are the odds and owner of the world's most expansive Dole banana sticker collection. To sum it up you should feel truly blessed if you have the privilege of knowing her, just hang on tight to your CAC. EK has the biggest heart of anyone you will ever meet.

I reckon he'll be about drunk reading this. Only owns boots and crocs. Jokes about liking fat girls but may be serious. Calls girls psycho, then continues to talk to them for months. Acme should name a drink after this man for the amount of business he has provided them. He doesn't actually have a southern accent, he's just trying to sweet talk you. He's going to fly planes. Just think about that. Someone looked at him and was like, "Yeah, this is a smart, responsible, well-thought out idea." William Danley Dixon Dobbins is just a poor beer drinkin' duck killin' redneck that somehow got lost at the Naval Academy on the way to his cousin's house. I wouldn't trust my sister to date Wil… Wait.. he tried. Wil loves women as much as he loves beer he just cant afford anything better than fat girls and natty lite. He looks like woody harelson but only the bad parts and the gap isnt as cool. Danley Dobbins, the king of getting hammered on a random week night to then come back to the hall and talk about all the sexy women all over him.

Jack "2x Battalion Commander but got away with punching a plebe in the face" Gill is uncannily good at everything he touches. He mastered the guitar within months, speaks liquid gold to potential suitors, and goes beast mode at the boathouse. He can sing, he can dance and he can make it approximately 25 seconds after drinking coffee before needing the restroom. An enemy of average sized doorways and low ceilings, Jack constantly strives to be better than he was the day before. Whether it was working "for the boys" as plebe summer batt commander or working "for the boys" as the ac-year batt commander, Jack was and is a fan favorite. His only mistake was that he didn't flex hard enough for the mirror selfie in his widely-circulated Tinder profile picture, but we love him anyway. Jack is also an uncannily good people-person. We are blessed to consider Jack a friend and, more than this, a brother. We know he will continue to do good in the world, just as we know that any day can be made better by a breakfast with orange marmalade and El Cabrito tacos for dinner. He really is just that kind of guy.

Dana Hirschhorn

USMC Cyber

Five foot two and better than you, Daner exuberates an energy rivaled by none. Wound so tight, we've all wondered if there's a stick stuck somewhere in there, but Dana's dedication to standing up for what she believes in is part of what makes her the best of friends and a role model for us all. The only reason I know what a coxswain is (and how to spell it), Dana dedicates 100% of herself to everything she pursues. All the fish in the sea and somehow hers ended up in the same company, a couple so motivated they'll probably read MCDP-1 in their wedding vows. Motivated though she is, when Trash-Can Dana comes out to play, no one rivals her fun. Without question, one of the hardest working, genuine, tiniest, and kindest people I know, Dana Hirschhorn will leave a lasting legacy in the Marine Corps and in the world in general.

No one really knows how to pronounce his last name, many plebes have tried and failed, but for those of us lucky to call him a friend, he will always be known as Booze. A true lax bro from the moment that you meet him, the only thing he likes more than derelicting his duty is admiring and sharing his favorite instagram models. His dad's frozen pizza and his moms air fryer are the only things that got 8143 through ROM. A journey to the Booze household will only result in a drunken adventure up to Baltimore, despite your adamant insistence that "you're just staying to watch football". Best squad leader I've ever met, never seen someone so involved in my entire time here. Jaboozie is always striving for greatness. Wins ever face off. Does every homework assignment. Drinks tequila seltzer like a mad man. Takes 4 naps a day. Cries over the ravens. Always has a girlfriend. All this just to be a day late and a dollar short in his pursuit of the true love of his life… The one who got away on his YP cruise.

She's never been one to be shy at a bar, known by every tender and bouncer in DTA, sometimes for her personality but most times for her unwillingness to leave when kicked out. DON'T let this girl pre-game Saturday Navy football games. Don't get it twisted though, she proved to be a superior in her athletic endeavors as she was NAAA Athlete of the Week for Intercollegiate Sailing. Offensive driver. The only person to have quit drinking 'for real this time' 7 times… incapable of a bad mood… WWII book enthusiast…. Econ major that "doesn't give a * about inflation!!!". Academic weapon. Hailing from Rockville, MD, the man, the myth, the legend Young Kim will reside in the memories of his classmates forever. Young walks the hall with the confidence of a man who is still reliving his glory days as the QB for his high school flag football team. In addition to his stellar athletic abilities, Young holds the (uncontested) position of being Kyle Lennon's biggest fan. This may not seem like much, but he has come a long way since being yelled at over plebe summer to "stop smiling" and to "open his eyes." Whether it be singing goofy songs, practicing to be a chiropractor, cracking jokes, or just checking in, Young is a true friend that you can always rely on to put a smile on your face. Despite strongly considering every other field the Department of the Navy has to offer, Young finally let his inner nuclear surface warrior get the best of him. Although a questionable choice, we have no doubt that Young will be successful in his naval career and wherever life takes him after.

When she is not creating beautiful art, shooting bullseyes as a four year member of the varsity rifle team, or fulfilling her side hustle as the therapist to all that know her, Laurel can be found in nature identifying every plant and bird call on the Eastern seaboard (yes, she can actually do this). Raised on a tree farm in Pennsylvania, where there are neither stop signs or multi-lane roads, Laurel's free spirit has inspired us all. While she may seem reserved on first pass, Laurel's ability to get ready to No Hands - Waka Flocka Flame at max volume everyday will always reveal the Yanny that lives inside her. Her infamous Tinder bio, quiet humility and infallible kindness have built a legacy we'll all hold onto. Crystal Light addict, ignorer of street signage, dealer of Kuhne Family Tree Farm apparel, Laurel is adored by all who know her. Wes has also brought culture to the savages that reside in Bancroft. Most notably in the form of the game Super Smash Bros, which has become an addiction for many. Wes reminds those poor souls that he reigns supreme over them. Wes also spends his days singing in order to prepare for his future tours across the United States and discerning questions of divinity and the human condition for the same tour. Despite having an imposing and athletic physical appearance Wes is far older than perceived. It is uncertain his exact age, but due to the frequency of his naps, long winded stories, and boundless wisdom it can be assumed that he has spent at least 100 years roaming this world. Luckily, Wes will be joining the submarine force, preserving his wisdom under the water. No doubt, Wes will continue to spread good to the World. Semper Deep!

Mary could live nine lives with the amount of skills and talents she could have a successful future with. She could sing you to sleep with her guitar and then paint a work of art worthy of the Met. A connoisseur of wine tasting and charcuterie, Mary is down for any adventure that gives her an excuse to wear her blundstones. She is a rare breed, fearlessly defending her hometown of Norfolk while telling you that you're definitely pronouncing it wrong. While she is undeniably one of the most gorgeous people you will ever meet, it is truly reflective of the love that she generously gives to others. Perceptive and honest, she intentionally seeks to better those around her while holding herself to what many would consider an impossible standard. During his firstie year, Josh made the shortsighted decision to serve as the company XO, forgetting that he would be leading us instead of actual Naval professionals. Thankfully, his ability to save the class from certain restriction proved to be as big as his tantalizingly juicy calf muscles. Jealous of his taller classmates, aviation called out to Josh with the sweet promise of a more elevated point of view. If you're lucky enough to run into him during the 3½ minutes per day he spends outside the room you are in for a real treat. Living with him is great especially when he goes to sleep at 8:30 pm on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday night, no like seriously, it's really awesome tip-toeing around the room on a Saturday at 8:30 pm. Cole is also always at the cutting edge of health science, last week he swore up and down that if he had 3 cashews, a blueberry, 4 ounces of water, and slept on his back with one leg crossed over the other that it would somehow cure his Glaucoma. Just make sure that it's all in before 8 pm or dude I swear it all converts to sugar. Even for all his eccentricities, I can still guarantee you, from experience, that he is a quirked-up white boy who will in fact dunk on you at any moment. Cole is someone I won't ever hesitate to call when I really need him, and I'm honored to have been his roommate.

Outside of her fond appreciation for movie soundtracks, el cabrito burritos and dunkin iced coffee, Stella is always talking about the next CrossFit workout and how 'kewl' the PNW is. Her favorite words are 'emo' and 'scared'. Making plans with Stell is always worth it but don't ask an either or question because the response is always an enthused 'YES'. Her room always boasts burning candles and is dominated by the color rose. Stella's a four on the enneagram, and as the brigade's biggest Greta Van Fleet fan she can't go a week without having concert tickets despite them never performing nearby. She is a S-tier squad leader who is very intrinsic per one of her fireteam leaders, and has a sense of joyful exuberance like no other! Five things: Florida, Greta Van Fleet, iced coffee, CrossFit, best friend. Stella is one of the few people I know that can complete a semester-long project in 5 hours, present it the next day, and get an A on it but then procrastinates taking out a loan because she "doesn't know how". To most, Emily Brockman is known for her physical prowess as an EOD select, 29th company XO, or proud mom of the NWSD breaststroke group. To those that really know her, we cherish Emily simply as a dear friend, teammate, roommate, and sister. She is the most low maintenance person until it comes to where and when she can sleep. She will never say no to snacks (never) and loves milk duds, which is a red flag, but also helpful when finishing up old Halloween candy. All of this snacking fuels her, shown when she casually hit her bench PR during a 24 hour screener and maxes a PRT with no training. Despite her service selection, Emily still wishes she had gone to the Air Force academy. She will let you know this as she thinks longingly about how she could have lived near the mountains or be with her brothers. Emily is the sweetest person in the world, and as an Enneagram type nine she will do whatever she can to avoid conflict. She is a true friend (if you can reach her) as she's very difficult to contact due to her inability to text back.

She is the only reason half our company made it through chemistry and physics, but once spent 6 hours stripping a floor only for it to look worse than when she started. She'll go off explaining how she's making this super cool satellite and looking forward to her future career as a director of NASA but will panic if her roommates are gone for more than 10 minutes without warning. She keeps her highly energetic teammates in check but will snap as soon as Kevin Kim opens his mouth. She is generally calm and collected but if you piss her off on the fencing strip, her wrath will be felt for the rest of the day. Though he may not match the typical lanky body shape of a distance runner, do not let Frank the Tank fool you; he can run marathons with ease, and does so with the speed and consistency of a locomotive. Ethan will take this dedication and intellect to the submarine community, which is quite fortunate for the USA. Why? Because he may actually be the strongest cyber security asset we have to offer; rather than adopting cell phones and other modern communication techniques, rumor has it that Frank still uses carrier pigeons to send messages and important information. Good luck stealing our state secrets now, China. Technophobia aside, Frank is one of the most reliable, patriotic, and driven individuals to ever grace Bancroft Hall with his presence, and he is sure to bring the submarine community a level of energy and commitment that is hitherto unseen.

"She's a baddie we all wish we could take home to our mommies." – Yes, she's met my mom and they hit it off pretty well. "She's an absolute demon in the paint" – Whatever that means. "The world ain't ready for her." – Idk they might be. "This girl is saucy ong." – I'd say she's quite saucy too. See Avery? People like you! It's not just me saying that! A true Southern gentleman, Bradley knows how to do almost everything except maintain stable relationships, manage his schedule, locate his car keys, organize his closet, or portion-control his meals. In the spirit of the Corps, Bradley always works to better himself by often stating, "I'm never doing that again" after a Saturday night run through the town. Hardly ever on time, and hardly ever on topic, Maya breathes life into a room with her passion for showing others compassion. Sporadic and hard to pin down, Maya has her thumb in all the different pies, to the point that I worry about just how many thumbs she has. Is that the sound of Maya playing drums or typing away at an assignment that is long overdue? Be it drums, singing, worship, devoting herself to politics, or a rogue venture into the sciences of nuclear power, Maya spreads herself thin and still finds it in herself to be the best friend any individual could ask for. Somehow her boundless energy is going to be contained to a submarine, but hey, maybe we'll discover the alternative to nuclear powered propulsion with her under the depths! And did I mention she hasn't even been on a submarine yet? It's a little crazy, but it wouldn't be Maya if it wasn't. Maya is 29th Company’s cowboy boot and flannel wearing Georgia girl (insists she has no accent though). She is known by her friends as a SWO Mama at heart. You can always find her helping out literally anyone with either her time or her coffee supply. She swears that even though she drinks 100 cups a day, it’s not an addiction. A total schemer, Maya is always down for an adventure and laughing through the journey so long as she is guaranteed a nap or a snack. She simply exudes chaotic good energy. If you ask her, Maya will share that her favorite memories at the Academy are from her time with the Midshipman Action Group, but we really know they are when she stole her roommates’ shepherds pie and locked them all out of the room during Army Navy week to keep it safe from shenanigans. While Maya will fondly remember her time at Bancroft, she’s looking forward to joining the fleet and moving somewhere without so much snow. When you’re with Maya, you are in for a good time and we are all proud of the officer that she is going to be.

Ethan Williams

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Ethan could be summed up in three things: getting out of mando things , golf, and the Cleveland Browns. His ability to fluctuate his weight seemingly on command is on par with the most extreme fitness influencers. He considered joining every warfare community three time over. His ability to play the academy game to his favor is on par with his actual par on the golf course. With all the extra leave and weekends he's accumulated you would be more likely than not to find him on the green getting in more rounds of golf than any president could ever hope to. That is, of course, if it isn't football Sunday, in which case he is worshiping the Cleveland Browns. All jokes aside Ethan is a fantastic friend and the textbook definition of discipline. Those who join him in Pensacola had better be ready for countless rounds of golf during their extended down time.

George Yang

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

YANG! Or as his friends know him, the candy man, is a man of the people. He can often be found in his rack contemplating when his next nap will be or pretending that he is about to go run. He has convinced everyone that he was a nationally ranked speed skater, yet still gets winded walking up the stairs. Loves to be the center of attention and also trusts easily as shown when he willingly went on a road trip with a girl who convinced him to move all her things into college and then later ghosted him, but didn’t seem to learn his lesson and spent three days with a girl who he was meeting for the first time in her apartment. On the bright side, he does look fresh. He is the type of man who always has to have a girlfriend so that people don’t judge him for his manicures, bleached hair, or shopping sprees. His favorite thing to do is spend all his money and then complain that he is broke. Luckily enough, he thinks he found his future breadwinner, but in reality, her plan has been to reap the benefits as a military spouse.

Kyle Yoon

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

A man of excruciatingly sharp wit, Kyle figured out at the start of his firstie year that if he sleeps for half the day, he only has one semester left until graduating. Besides his new napping hobby, you can see Kyle absolutely lighting it up on any intramural team he is a part of, all the while practicing his fire dance moves. He is only outdanced by his roommate, JC. If the academy had a preppy frat, Kyle Yoon would be the poster boy. His crafty size and innocent demeanor make him an indomitable force at the poker table. He has a way of coaxing new players in "as a friend" of course, all the while pocketing their change to the bank. His first ever foray into DTA resulted in the infamous "3 and a ½ whiteclaws now he's gone" incident in which water and shipmate alike were the enemy of his vibes. Known to be a connoisseur of Korean culture, he even got to spend a fun semester in South Korea, or was it Singapore? Just ask him how much he enjoyed it!. This man will no doubt be the modern-day equivalent of Maverick as an upcoming Navy Pilot.

Erik Younkin

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

What do you get when you cross a quantum powered computer, spider-man, powdered donuts, and a case of Bang energy together? Quite simply, Erik Younkin. Erik is a simple man with simple needs. The core of these needs is simply 120V of voltage every 12 hours to recharge. Be careful though, because a small dose of chocolate-flavored lactose will quickly undo all of the great things that we love about Erik. This native of York, Pennsylvania truly embodies everything about a back-woods country boy from above the Mason-Dixon. Never acknowledging how to properly say "bull," Erik pursues all intellectual avenues with the nethermost levels of effort, all while managing to best every single other Midshipman academically, athletically, and appetite-wise. In his vast, vast amounts of sparetime, Erik uses his skills to swashbuckle weaker Midshipmen into submission. He is also on the fencing team. While his shoulders may never be level again due to valiant efforts on the field of Ultimate Frisbee Battle, Erik's head will always remain level as he is one of the most collected and patient people we've had the pleasure of meeting. If we've learned anything from Erik, it's that robots and chocolate milk don't mix kindly.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, and sorry I could not travel both and be one traveler, long I stood and looked down one as far as I could to where it bent in the undergrowth; then took the other, as just as fair, and having perhaps the better claim, because it was grassy and wanted wear; though as for that the passing there had worn them really about the same, and both that morning equally lay in leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back. I shall be telling this with a sigh somewhere ages and ages hence: two roads diverged in a wood, and I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference. ~Robert Frost

Graham Ellis Bain better hope he's got a CDL, because he's been hauling a dump truck with him these past four years and it's shown no sign of breaking down. Graham dragged his heavy machinery to Annapolis all the way from a scenic little town called Paris – that's Paris, Texas, of course, the only Paris that matters. Besides all that equipment, Graham brought with him a silver tongue that has charmed the hearts of both Officers on the Yard and women off the Yard (including his former roommate's sister), leaving him never short of companions in his professional, or otherwise, endeavors. Such endeavors culminated in a stint as Battalion Commander where he got to put his words to good use (J-Money's best friend?!). In his free time, Graham enjoys yelling at plebes, falling off his bicycle (ask to see his x-ray), and wearing pants that accentuate his "pixar mom" figure. Besides words, Graham's also got a handle on other media – trust us, he's got a funny video to show you ("Doh-ho-ho-ho-ho!!"). Graham's gonna get to use his words, videos, and heavy machinery to become a fine leader in Marine Corps Aviation. "Thumbs up" to that! Also…DON'T GO IN ROOM 3

Have you ever feared for your life over a trivial game of spikeball? Then surely you know Isaac. Realistically, Isaac "Sackman" Barta is the most intense (and blonde) man you'll ever meet. Realistically known as the "what if" machine, he cannot be bothered to use google. Founder of "Are you sleeping?" and "He's doing the thing!" Realistically, Isaac Barta is the embodiment of the scientific process; constantly running calculations: "Realistically, how many ROM meal boxes would it take to reach the sun?" or "Realistically, how many little cups of peanut butter would it take to fill the Lejeune Pool?" As the expert rule follower, he would never "go on long walks at night" with a companymate. The calmest person you'll ever meet, until he gets hit by a water balloon. Realistically, the gentle beast can only be awoken by a jackhammer. Realistically, he has to do every assignment 2 weeks early and then begrudgingly help James and Catherine the night before its due. His kryptonite is losing, and he totally believes in evolution. Cheers to the most fit and disciplined guy out there. Realistically, you'll make a hell of a SEAL. Brother's 'til the end.

Catch him during working hours, he's probably looking at Zillow or benching 300 pounds. Known to put his head through walls and show up the next day with a sad face and 30 bucks for a wall repair kit. He knows two homes in this world; California MD and Stan&Joes Saloon. Having timed the walk from Water St to Stan's house, Joey can go from asleep on the couch to a hazy-o in hand in under two minutes. Known by everyone there, you can find him in his happy place on any weekend talking to the bartenders or complaining about how that last cigarette really hurt his heart. We can all say that our Academy lives would be drastically different if it wasn't for Joey. He was the man who pulled us all together and formed the friendships we have had these past four years. He is always willing to go the extra mile in taking care of his friends and making sure that they're doing okay. #GoatRider

Her friends think she might have a hidden gem complex developed from her obsession with Lilo and Stitch as a kid. Katie won't respond to your texts but she will give you a detailed recount of the latest fanfiction she's read that you truly won't understand. And if you need current events or news, just know that the only news Katie knows about came from a TikTok she watched at 1:00 AM the night before. However, in spite of her poor discernment when it comes to the opposite sex, we can say for a fact that we love Katie because of her overwhelming positive qualities. She has the voice of an angel, she is the mom of her friends, and she has an incredibly strong grip on life. Katie has shared basically every part of her house with us, including her family, who–despite the number of people Katie has added to her life– remain the most functional and wholesome.

Don't let him get too close to his one weakness, though; if he's in any more than knee deep water, he might drown. At any given moment Jake has enough King Hall coffee inside him to keep the Brigade up for a month, but all that caffeine won't stop him from falling asleep at the wheel. Either way, he somehow found his way to Annapolis, MD where he takes good notes at Forrestals, and has watched everything there is on Youtube, twice. Chase has three moods: Hungry, angry, and…the last one rhymes with corny. A veteran of 30th Company's Wardroom, Chase was our resident snack supplier and grill god, making sure our thirst was quenched by his favorite beer – free and cold. There's not enough food and alcohol in the world to make Chase happy, but that won't stop him from eating and drinking enough to kill a water buffalo and still want more. Unfortunately, he missed out on almost four years of parades with his friends :(. Perhaps he will get to make up for all that missed fun during a nice jaunt in the Marine Corps, where he'll be flying high and putting warheads on foreheads all around the globe. The Marine Corps is lucky to have ya, buddy.

A true lover of America, he's one of the most patriotic men I know despite living abroad for a significant chunk of his childhood. Just like his father before him, Greg would rather spend his spring breaks back home shootin his guns than anywhere else. But when he does go out into town, he'll be in one of his two t-shirts and a singular pair of jeans. While he may never find out where the second fork came from, Greg's pursuit of knowledge has led him to discover that wave go woosh, and hurricane do go swoosh. Despite his mental prowess, Greg once misspelled his own name, leading to the nickname "Gerg". A soft-spoken man that will rip your head off then say "oh my bad " after groundfighting him, Greg is a man that you'd be privileged to call your friend. Soon he'll be flying through the air almost as fast as he flies through the water. Hopefully he can still participate in the clan wars from his plane.

Everett's spastic energy infects everyone around him, for better or worse. Everett in DTA is a force to be reckoned with, give him 3 shots of Smirnoff and he will soon know everyone in the bar. Unfortunately, his extroverted drunken tendencies result in a bit of short term memory loss, so he'll spend the night sitting in the shower contemplating his next excursion or expelling his inner demons out of the car window. That being said, Everett always has your back, whether it's helping you out with watch, downloading the entirety of Wikipedia, or checking if you wanna watch a movie in the wardroom for the 37th time. Edward Gregory “Edison” “Howard” “Eddie” Thomas is from Massachusetts (his hometown has a Wikipedia page!). He came here because he wanted to fly planes, but as much as he loves Naval Aviation, his real dream is a Rocket League career. Arguably the third-most honorable person in 6th Battalion, he spends more time playing Xbox than doing homework or his billet. He decided that it would be a really cool idea to major in aerospace engineering, but, a couple failed tests, a MIDS Email about steel toed boots, and a run-in with the Honor System later, found out that maybe that was ill-advised. Our dear Eddie is now thriving as a Quan-E major and as a Battalion Honor Advisor, but his real calling is competitive car soccer. Eddie is quick on his feet, especially since he needed to run from ATFP all of 2/C year, however when he was a 1/C, the ATFP managed to bring his pants to him all the way from 8-4 to the Army Navy game. There was this one time where his Airpods disconnected.

Thomas Vilinskis

USMC Pilot

Tom Vilinskis is from Connecticut, and could probably have run 18 times around the state by now if he were still there. He runs A LOT. Besides miles, Tom collects majors; he’s already got twice the normal amount! As if that weren’t enough, he’s a triple threat, upholding the standard in Bancroft Hall as Battalion Train-O and, later, 30’s XO. Tom laments his lack of productivity on the weekends, yet somehow always finds himself lost in DTA somewhere (keep his ankles away from Dillo’s!). While he might seem a little gone on his nights out (thanks to our disappointed friend at OB’s), his soul is found, as he helps spearhead Cru and brings the good Word of Jesus to the Brigade. Tom is many things (so many things that no one can find him a girlfriend). He’s a friend, a bar buddy, a standard bearer, a ~striper~, and soon-to-be a USMC Aviator. Here’s hoping he flies a little better than he drives.

Surface Warfare Nuclear

Meet the Devil’s best advocate: MRV. Ironically, she is also the most devout Catholic we know. We start every Sunday together at St. O'Brien’s Cathedral and those times together have cemented what a holy woman she is. Her faith and spirituality have grown over time, in addition to her credit card debt after soliciting advice from multiple psychics. MRV is like the 8th wing dumpsters–always overflowing with trash. And by trash we mean other people’s trauma because while MRV does her fair share of trauma dumping to clairvoyants, she is truly the local trauma dumpster for plebes and her family alike. MRV is someone who is so well liked and unable to say no that she will promise impossible things, like having you as a roommate when she’s already promised three other people she’d live with them. Nevertheless, we love MRV with all our hearts because she’ll always have our backs. She could lead us to a Vietnamese prostitution ring and we would gladly accept her as our sugga daddy. She has the most kind heart of anyone. It is hard to understand how so much love and food can fit into such a small body.

James Waaler

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

The only thing longer than his neck is his lifelong ban from the state of Alaska. When he is not in town, rowing, playing phone games, or sleeping without a pillow, you can find him hoarding old food and miscellaneous items which he “may need some day”. James “Jimmy”, “Jimbo”, “Jimbardo”, “Jimbabwe” Waaler is a man of many talents. His most impressive is accumulating more than 25,000 trophies in Brawl Stars, and the least of which is (hopefully) graduating with a perfect academic record as a Mech E (though he won’t have a perfect conduct record). Jimbo hails from the great North East in a quaint town in Maine. He lives just 5 minutes from the L.L. Bean factory, but he’d never mention that. After leaving Maine, James transitioned seamlessly from a state champion catcher to a high level rower. Whether it’s having a roommate who has all the answers to the Mech E labs or sharing his love for z bangers with his degenerate teammates, James is a great friend to have. Brothers 'til the end.

Mary Wade

Submarine Nuclear

Mary Bishop Wade is a southern belle with a gentle soul from the heart of North Carolina. It's no wonder she claims a sloth as her spirit animal given how seriously she takes her sleep schedule. Despite this, she has been known to run absurd distances (think 50 miles) around Farragut and beyond. Following in her sister's footsteps, she came to the Academy to pursue service in the Navy, but instead found herself pursued by several of her company mates. MB is a good sport, though. With the help of wingwomen, she was able to respectfully fend off many a suitor before falling for a certain (now) ex 8-4 dweller. MB's time at the Academy was memorable, just like the nights she was found rummaging for pretzels or supplydiving out of her rack at an hour when even her roommate(s) who never sleep were asleep. MB is the best listener, advice-giver, and confidant a gal could ask for, and she is known for helping all those who need it through their many struggles at USNA (@ fellow love chits). This math nerd is sure to go far, above and below the sea, and the bubbleheads are lucky to have her!

Madison Ward

Submarine Nuclear

Being friends with Madison is like a road trip where the destination is the journey. She's genuine, honest, and always willing to plan a weekend down to a T (including a Google Calendar invite). Madison can be best summed up by a quote by Megara from her favorite movie, Hercules: "I'm a damsel, I'm in distress, I can handle this." While she may be in mild personal distress, Madison goes above and beyond for her friends. Most of the time way beyond by roasting them to a crisp. Madison doesn't drink which means she is responsible for the safety of the cohort of wild women she surrounds herself with. When Madison isn't the mom of the group, it's because she's decided to unpack trauma for everyone she knows instead of unpacking her mountain of laundry. As Taylor Swift's best school night album release party host, Madison always has a witty response, crystal, and strangely accurate tarot reading that makes you second-guess every decision you've ever made. Madison is fearless in pursuit of the things she loves. I speak for everyone that loves her when I say I'd like to hang out with her for my whole life.

Jacob Williams

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Surface Warfare

Jacob comes from the streets of Seven Maryland. He has overcome many challenges in his life but has never been able to defeat the bubble guts. He has traveled to many places across the world. Though his most prime real-estate in on Rondo Street. As a member of NMS he has helped many of his teammates. Whether that be making sure JD fixes his rhino touch, or supplying crest tooth paste to the players that do not brush their teeth. He is what we call "A man of the people." He is famous for the nick names he creates. Joe...Chinstrap, Matt... SlimShady. One of Americas finest and he also looks a lot like Memphis Depay.

Carson Witt

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Navy Pilot

Carson is quick to say he is from Texas, but even quicker to say he is from Austin and how it is "such a fun city". He leaves the Severn with battle-tested leadership, having commanded units in DTA, Fed Hill, and some daring rescue missions in DC. Co-awarded "Philadelphia Citizen of the Week" for gallantry displayed after plebe year Army-Navy. As a firstie he became the very first exchange Midshipman to UMD's Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority. He is a fan of DC's Public Transit System, which is fitting since he was the first ever holder of the notorious "Metro" card. He has a soft spot for beach nights on Waikiki and Bay Ridge alike. Carson grew up with humility despite being the hand-model for American Girldoll, Kit Kittredge. Legend has it, Carson was in the Glee Club, but this isn't verified since he hasn't vocalized one melodious note around friends. Science says most people spend one-third of their life sleeping, however Carson has sacrificed this precious time on his morning routine. Sole survivor of the 2021 Ring Dance Massacre. Cheers to the most grounded, responsible, and reliable guy you'll ever meet. Have fun flying, Cookie Monster. Brothers 'til the end.

It's been a joy watching you become a leader, an activist, a rugger. We are so proud of you! Hearing about your accomplishments, hopes, and dreams has been the highlight of every Sunday phone call. We are happy to celebrate you!

We love you!

Dad, Mom, Serena, and Maddie

Congratulations, Mark!

Thus far your father and I have watched you diligently pave your own path. We've felt helpless when you encountered the unexpected, or felt frustrated and disappointed, yet you persevered and witnessing you succeed forward was breathtakingly inspiring. We were already so proud, but your glowing smile when you overcame those obstacles were our most treasured moments. Your future is so bright and we are excited for your new adventures. - Mom and Dad

Cheers to another major accomplishment, Mark! From goofball to second lieutenant, your growth has been exceptional. I can't wait to see what the future holds for you. - Yookee

You have one of the best work ethics and I always respected you for that. Keep doing you and you'll accomplish even bigger things. Super proud of you, brother. - Jin

THE MAN IN THE ARENA

IT IS NOT THE CRITIC WHO COUNTS; NOT THE MAN WHO POINTS OUT HOW THE STRONG MAN STUMBLES, OR WHERE THE DOER OF DEEDS COULD HAVE DONE THEM BETTER. THE CREDIT BELONGS TO THE MAN WHO IS ACTUALLY IN THE ARENA, WHOSE FACE IS MARRED BY DUST AND SWEAT AND BLOOD; WHO STRIVES VALIANTLY; WHO ERRS, WHO COMES SHORT AGAIN AND AGAIN, BECAUSE THERE IS NO EFFORT WITHOUT ERROR AND SHORTCOMING; BUT WHO DOES ACTUALLY STRIVE TO DO THE DEEDS; WHO KNOWS GREAT ENTHUSIASMS, THE GREAT DEVOTIONS; WHO SPENDS HIMSELF IN A WORTHY CAUSE; WHO AT THE BEST KNOWS IN THE END THE TRIUMPH OF HIGH ACHIEVEMENT, AND WHO AT THE WORST, IF HE FAILS, AT LEAST FAILS WHILE DARING GREATLY, SO THAT HIS PLACE SHALL NEVER BE WITH THOSE COLD AND TIMID SOULS WHO NEITHER KNOW VICTORY NOR DEFEAT.

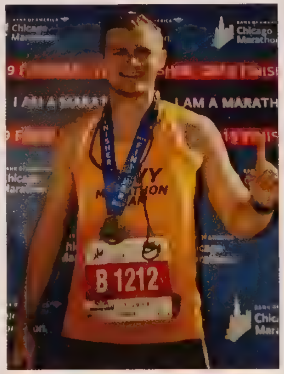
Dear Grace- Words can't adequately express how proud of you we are. It's been a long, challenging 4 years but you have persevered, and been resilient and you are stronger because of this journey. You made it! There was never a doubt. You have what it takes. Remember your story here; it's helped shape you. Above all, remember you're God's child, uniquely and wonderfully designed and you belong to His story, forever. He has a role for you to play in it. We LOVE you BIG much, Gracie-girl! Walk boldly into your next chapter.
Love, Mom and Dad

Thomas Bertelle "Bert" Fletcher, IV



We are so very proud of you Bert!! You have always known you wanted to fly, and have been so blessed to be able to achieve your dreams. Always remember two of your greatest assets: Your Roots and Wings. Roots to remind you where you are from; your core strength, determination and inner spirit. Wings to take you to the heights of your greatest dreams and aspirations. Remember GOD first, soar over obstacles, and never, ever give up.

Remember that life is like a camera; Focus on what is important; Capture the good times; Develop from the negatives, and if things don't work out, take another shot!

The journey of 1000 miles begins with one step.

Believe you can, and you're halfway there.

If you can dream it, you can do it.

Never regret a day in your life. Good days give you happiness and bad days give you experience.

Always remember how very much you are loved.

23rd company's future Navy Pilots! Congratulations!

A Plebe in 2019. An Officer in 2022.

Since you were a baby, you have been a leader and this is the mere proof in the "Puddin'". You are courageous, caring, humble, and loving. No task is too challenging for you. You have conquered many life challenges that some people may never experience in a lifetime. Your upbringing and determination have made you the woman and officer that you are today.

From couch potato Plebe, to marathon-runner Officer. USNA was an eye-opener for you. USNA allowed you to choose your path. You were are recognized and highly-respected as a leader, holding pivotal positions. You stepped up your game on many levels of challenges, as they proved to have a new meaning.

Courageous, loving, faithful, determined, beautiful, intelligent, creative, fun, humanitarian, compassionate, inquisitive, and caring. These are only a dozen of the characteristics which make you the best daughter, granddaughter, sister, cousin, niece, student, mentor, friend, and employee.

Whatever you determine to be, we are confident that you will be at the top of your game. That's just who you are.

CONGRATULATIONS OTIS F. BROWN, JR.!

God has blessed and guided you during your time at the US Naval Academy. Your accomplishments: Scuba Diving license acquired. Active member of the USNA Flight Team. Earned your Advanced Ground Instructor License. Selected to be a Powered Flight Ground Instructor. Gave motivational speeches at the Summer Program for Organization of Black Aerospace Pilots. A Public Affairs Officer for the NA Flight Team. Member of the National Society of Black Engineers. Taught aviation classes for Merit Badges for NESA. Training officer for VT-NA. Lead Ground Instructor for Powered Flight. Company Squad Leader. Member of Students for the Exploration and Development of Space. Moderator for the US Naval Academy Leadership Conference Received Aero Internship to attend PAX River and flew in an F15. President of VT-NA. Company Drill Officer and Company Conduct Officer. Member of the Baptist Collegiate Ministries. Look at God! We are so proud of you Otis! Keep walking with Jesus and watch your accomplishments increase. To God Be The Glory! ~Love Mom, Dad, and Faith

We are so grateful to be a part of your journey. Along the way, we watch each goal you attain, as well as the mistakes you learn from. You have shown great character and strength in your years at the Naval Academy as you did growing up. When you leave the Yard, on to your next role, we know you have it in you to always step up to the plate and give your all. We love to listen to you recite "The Man in the Arena" which you memorized at Plebe Summer, because we hear your personal affirmation on how to be your best self despite any challenges that you may face.

We are so proud of you and all that you do. You are a true friend, loving son and brother, and dedicated serviceman. We wish you success in your future endeavors. May God lead and protect you always. Stay true to yourself.

THE MAN IN THE ARENA

"It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat."

- Theodore Roosevelt -

COLOPHON

The 2022 Lucky Bag consists of 848 full color pages with a press run of 4500 copies. The Lucky Bag is a 9"x12" smyth-sewn, rounded back book printed on 100# matte paper with selective UV gloss on opening pages and all dividers. The front lid showcases the Bonhomme Richard. This is the ship that John Paul Jones took command of in 1779. The cover uses Pearl material with Linen grain and features fully modeled embossing dies on art on the front and the crest on the back as well as embossing on the spine text. Cover applications include Olympic Gold foil along with Pale Gold silk screen and a black overtone rub. The front endsheet features Hospital Point Bridge, and the art was inspired by the 1932 Lucky Bag . The back endsheet features the crypt of John Paul Jones both are printed in process color. The first page Vellum has Gold Foil Text and all page edges are gilded in Gold. Page 1, which can be seen through the vellum, proudly showcases a painting of John Paul Jones. The fonts used are the AYT Amperstencil family. All page content was created using Jostens Yeartech Online at Yearbookavenue.com.

We regret the omission of materials. All Firsties/groups/sports/clubs were contacted in the first and/or second semester and invited to contribute material.
The Lucky Bag is a Midshipmen run publication, and although every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy and reliability of these pages, all transcripts are subject to human error. The opinions expressed in the Lucky Bag are those of the yearbook staff and are not intended to represent the official policies of the Brigade of Midshipmen or the United States Naval Academy.

Nothing in this book may be reproduced in any way without the expressed written permission of the Lucky Bag Yearbook Staff at the USNA.
The 129th volume of the Lucky Bag was published for the United States Naval Academy by Jostens Printing and Publishing, 451 International Boulevard, Clarksville, Tennessee 37040.

Steve Sweet served as the local Jostens Representative, and Dee Skelton, the in-plant printing Consultant. The cover and page artwork were created by Jeremy Bratton.
Captain Cortez McCrary served as the Lucky Bag adviser and Ellen Sherman served as manager of the Midshipmen Welfare Fund.
MIDN 1/C Sean McCullough served as Lucky Bag President.
MIDN 2/C Charley Plumly served as Editor-in Chief.
MIDN 1/C Elliot Schultz served as Director of Photography.
MIDN 2/C Alan Wang served as Administrative Officer

+PANDEMIC

YEAR TWO++

As the COVID-19 pandemic continued into year two, it offered unexpected challenges. Businesses found ways to innovate and stay afloat. Schools, many of which lost students to homeschooling, developed creative solutions to keep students enrolled and engaged. And while approved vaccines brought the promise of a return to normal, virus variants Delta and Omicron challenged an already-stressed health care system. Even so, 99% of students remained in school full time at the end of 2021.

HEADLINES

MALARIA VACCINE SUCCESS

A century of research finally led to the creation of an effective malaria vaccine approved by the World Health Organization (WHO) in October. A study estimated that the GlaxoSmithKline vaccine, Mosquirix, could prevent 5.4 million cases and 23,000 deaths in children under five annually.

BROOD X RETURNS

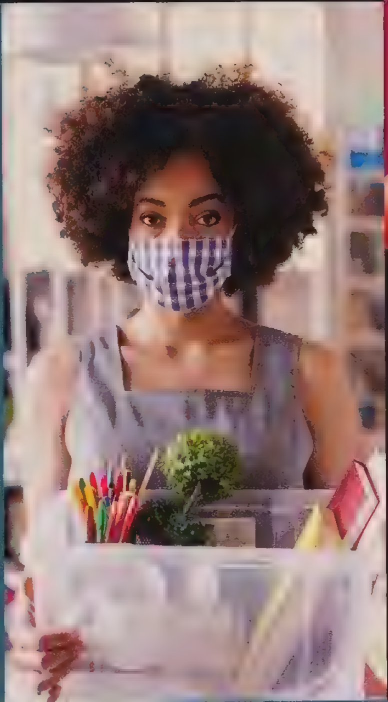
Billions of Brood X cicadas, the largest group of 17-year periodical cicadas, emerged from their underground habitat after almost two decades, both delighting and annoying human observers. Periodical cicadas are famous for being a noisy member of the natural world.

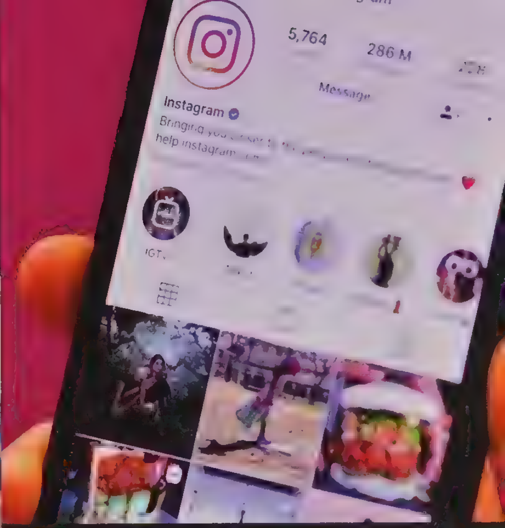
HURRICANE IDA HAVOC

On the 16th anniversary of Hurricane Katrina, Ida hit the coast of Louisiana as a Category 4 hurricane with 150 mph winds. Ida knocked out power for 1 million in Louisiana and caused food, water and fuel shortages. The storm also hit the Northeast U.S., bringing tornados, flooding and record rainfall.

THE GREAT RESIGNATION

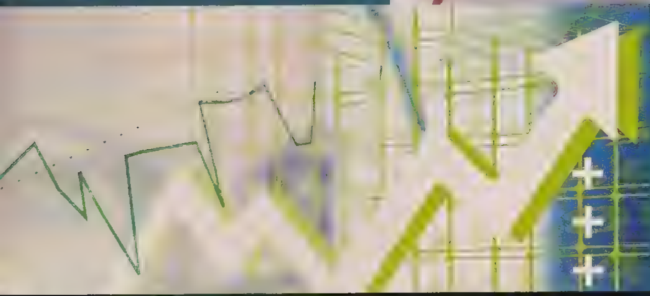
Workers quit their jobs in record numbers, a phenomenon that Texas A&M Associate Professor Anthony Klotz named "The Great Resignation." School disruptions, COVID-19 risks, and work-from-home arrangements left workers reexamining their priorities, often leaving jobs to make long-desired career changes, leaving employers struggling to run viable businesses.





SOCIAL MEDIA RISKS

Facebook, Instagram and TikTok were found to use algorithms that directed users toward unhealthy weight loss videos or filters that could negatively impact body image, leading to feelings of inadequacy or self-harming behaviors in some users.



INFLATION RATE

The end of 2021 saw demand outpacing supply, heating the U.S. economy to a 7% inflation rate, the highest in 40 years. Even though pandemic government aid and higher wages increased consumer demand, supply shortages led to rising prices for food, fuel, automobiles and other consumer goods.

NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

Two journalists, Filipino Maria Ressa and Russian Dmitry Muratov, won the 2021 Nobel Peace Prize for fighting to maintain freedom of expression while facing censorship, legal charges and threats of violence.

HEADLINES

CHILDREN'S PEACE PRIZE

17-year-old Vihaan Agarwal and his 14-year-old brother Nav won the 2021 International Children's Peace Prize for their pollution-fighting project One Step Greener, which picks up and separates garbage and recycling from over 1,500 schools, offices and homes in Delhi, India, one of the most polluted cities in the world.

HOME FROM AFGHANISTAN

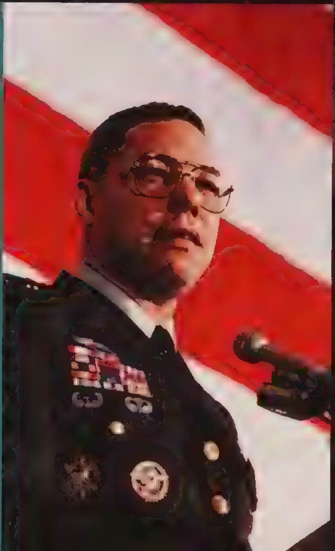
The last U.S. troops flew out of Kabul on August 30, 2021, 20 years after George W. Bush sent soldiers to Afghanistan with the mission of overthrowing the Taliban and fighting Al Qaeda. After Taliban forces occupied Afghanistan's capital on August 15th, U.S. forces and their allies helped evacuate 123,000 civilians, including American citizens and Afghan allies, amidst chaos at Hamid Karzai airport.

DESMOND TUTU

Archbishop Desmond Tutu, who along with Nelson Mandela helped end the South African policy of apartheid (forced racial segregation), died on December 26, 2021 at age 90. The first Black South African archbishop, Tutu won the Nobel Peace Prize for his advocacy to end the apartheid system.

COLIN POWELL

Colin Powell, who during his military career received 11 military decorations, served as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff during the Gulf War and then as secretary of state under President George W. Bush, died on October 18, 2021 at age 84. Powell was one of the most admired and respected U.S. statesmen.



TIME'S PERSON OF THE YEAR

Time magazine named billionaire Elon Musk, chief executive of electric car manufacturer Tesla and space exploration company SpaceX, the 2021 Person of the Year. The designation is given to the person or people that Time considers most influential, whether positive or negative, during the year.

SURFSIDE COLLAPSE

Early on June 24, 2021, Champlain Towers South, a 40-year-old once elegant condominium building in Surfdside, Fla. partially collapsed, killing 98—one of the worst building failures in U.S. history. Emergency workers pulled 37 survivors from the rubble, including a 16-year-old girl who fell five stories and a 15-year-old boy found under a mattress.

GIVE BACK OUR FUTURE
Save our FUTURES

CLIMATE SUMMIT

Nearly 200 nations signed an agreement to drastically cut carbon emissions in the next decade but failed to achieve the Paris Accord's goal of limiting global warming to 1.5 degrees Celsius by the year 2050. Outside, tens of thousands activists gathered, many of them young people.

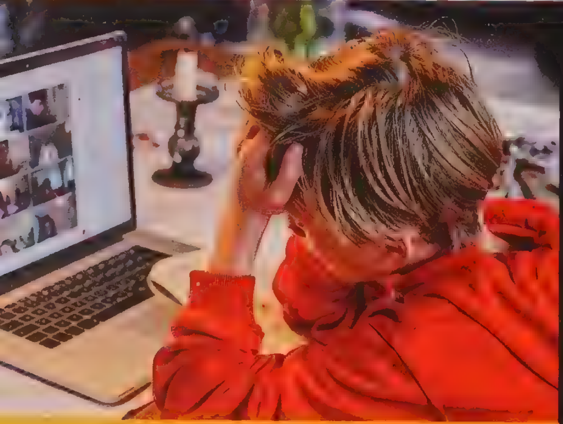
BETTY WHITE

Recognized by Guinness World Records as the woman with the longest acting career, Betty White died December 31, 2021. White won three Emmy awards and a Screen Actors Guild Life Achievement Award. Fans honored White by donating $12.7 million to animal shelters weeks later on what would have been her 100th birthday.

COVID-19

KIDS' VACCINES GREENLIGHTED

After authorizing emergency use of the Pfizer-BioNtech COVID-19 vaccine for those 16 and older, the FDA amended the order in May 2021 to include 12–17 year olds. In October, this approval was extended to 5–11 year olds. As of December 8, 2021, the CDC reported that 61% of 12–17 year olds and 18% of 5–11 year olds had received at least one dose.

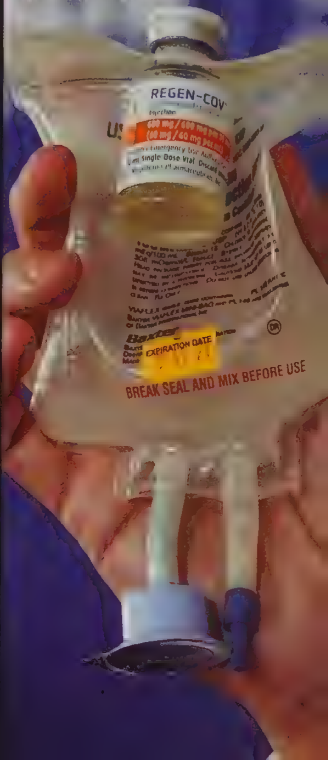


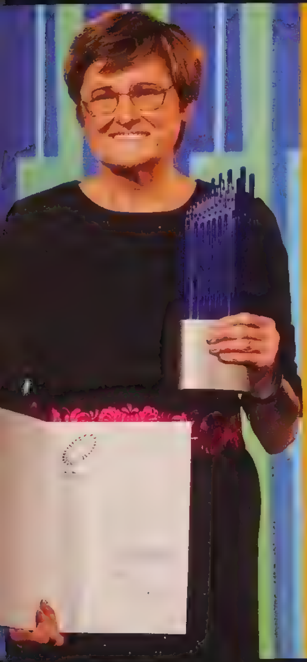
ZOOM FATIGUE

Virtual learning and work during COVID-19 contributed to Zoom fatigue. A Stanford University study concluded that virtual communication requires more mental work than in person. In Zoom, your brain may be working harder to compensate for lost nonvisual cues and body language.

PROMISING TREATMENTS

Several treatments emerged to help COVID-19 sufferers at increased risk of serious illness avoid hospitalization or reduce complications. In December 2021, the FDA authorized emergency use of Paxlovid, a prescription-only oral antiviral pill, as well as several monoclonal antibody treatments that work by interfering with virus replication.





mRNA VACCINE SCIENTIST

Decades of research led Hungarian American biochemist Katalin Karikó to the creation of messenger RNA (mRNA) vaccines, like those used against COVID-19. Karikó's research with immunologist Drew Weissman led to their success. Karikó continues to study and refine the BioNTech vaccine.

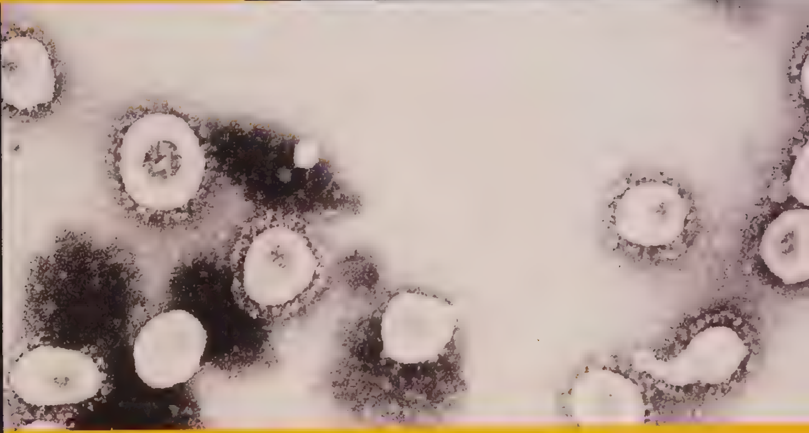
NEW FOR 2021

In October, Merriam-Webster's dictionary added 455 new words, including the following COVID-19 references:

1. breakthrough - an infection in someone who has been fully vaccinated
2. long COVID - condition with symptoms that continue after COVID-19 recovery
3. vaccine passport - digital or hard-copy proof of vaccination

WEAK SUPPLY CHAIN

Multiple factors, including COVID-19 quarantines, led to massive shipping delays. Shortages of goods like cars, computers, toys and bicycles were seen across the globe. Companies and governments scrambled to build production plants and calm frantic customers in advance of the winter holidays.



DELTA WAVE, OMICRON TSUNAMI

By the summer of 2021, things were starting to return to normal. Then the Delta variant of COVID-19 arrived. By December, the newest variant, Omicron, a highly contagious form of the virus, replaced Delta's position as the most common type of COVID-19 infection being diagnosed.

+SPORTS+++

ATHLETES CHOOSE MENTAL HEALTH

In May 2021, top-ranked tennis star Naomi Osaka dropped out of the French Open. Only months later, Olympic gold-medalist Simone Biles withdrew from the gymnastics competition in Tokyo. Osaka reported suffering bouts of depression while Biles cited a dangerous phenomenon called "the twisties," where a gymnast, midair, cannot remember what to do next.

LEE'S OLYMPIC FIRST

Sunisa ("Suni") Lee, the first Hmong American to qualify for the Olympics, became the first Asian American to earn a gold medal in the women's gymnastics all-around competition. While COVID-19 restrictions kept her family from attending, family and community members watched remotely. The video of their wild cheers when Lee won went viral.

CHICAGO'S WNBA FIRST

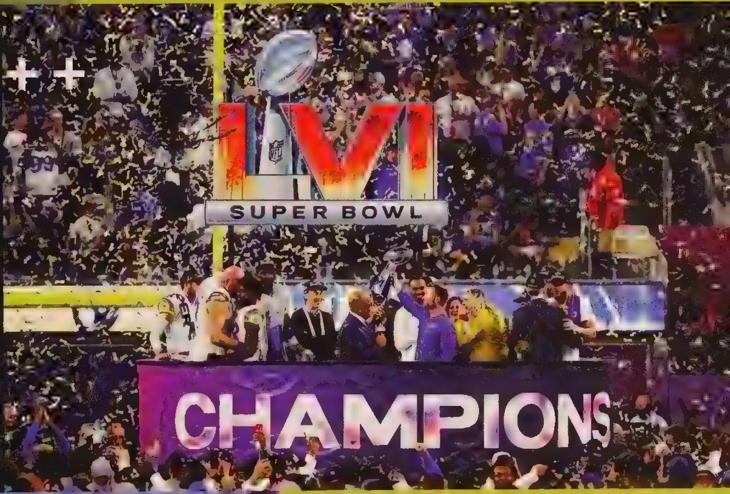
October 2021 saw the Chicago WNBA franchise, Sky, win its first championship series, defeating the Phoenix Mercury in four games. Playing to a sold-out arena, the Chicago Sky scored 80 points to the Mercury's 74 in the final game.

ATLANTA WINS

The Atlanta Braves took the World Series with a 7-0 Game 6 shutout of the Houston Astros in November 2021, the franchise's first World Series victory in 26 years. In July, manager Brian Snitker acquired four players in late-season trades, including Jorge Solera, who was chosen Series MVP.

SUPER BOWL LVI

The Cincinnati Bengals and Los Angeles Rams battled it out in an exciting game with the Rams winning 23-20. The Rams were only the second team in NFL history to play in the Super Bowl at their home stadium. For the first time, the halftime show featured hip-hop and rap artists singing recognizable hits from the past.



BATTLE OF THE TEENS

Two teens, 18-year-old British player Emma Raducanu and 19-year-old Canadian player Leylah Fernandez, became the first unseeded pair to meet at the U.S. Open Women's Final. Raducanu beat Fernandez in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3, to become the youngest woman to win a major tennis tournament since the 2004 Wimbledon final.

TWICE AS NICE

The Tampa Bay Lightning beat the Montreal Canadiens 4 games to 1 in a 7-game playoff series, winning their second Stanley Cup title in nine months. This time they played in front of a full-capacity home crowd, unlike the previous victory over Dallas in an empty Edmonton arena.

CARLI LLOYD RETIRES

Carli Lloyd left the field to a standing ovation in her 316th and final game with the U.S. Women's Soccer Team, a 6-0 win over South Korea. The 39-year-old New Jersey native retired with two World Cup titles and two Olympic gold medals. Lloyd passed her no. 10 jersey to Lindsay Horan, who will wear the number starting with the 2022 season.

THE BUCKS ARE BACK

The last time the Milwaukee Bucks won the NBA Finals, in 1971, powerhouse Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, then known as Lew Alcindor, led them to victory. This year, the Bucks beat the Phoenix Suns in six games, 4-2, with MVP Giannis Antetokounmpo scoring 50 points in the final game of the 2021 championship.

NYCFC CLAIM FIRST CUP

New York City Football Club captured their first Major League Soccer Cup in franchise history. They defeated the Portland Timbers 4-2 in a penalty shootout. This was the Timbers second consecutive defeat, having reached MLS Cup three times in seven years.

SCHOOL MAKES HISTORY

For seven years, the football team at California School for the Deaf in Riverside didn't win a single game. Then, in 2021, the Cubs, whose players and coaches are all completely deaf, averaged 65.6 points per game in a 12-1 storybook season. Cubs wide receiver Enos Zornova pointed out that communicating in ASL, their native language, gave the Cubs an advantage, making team huddles unnecessary.

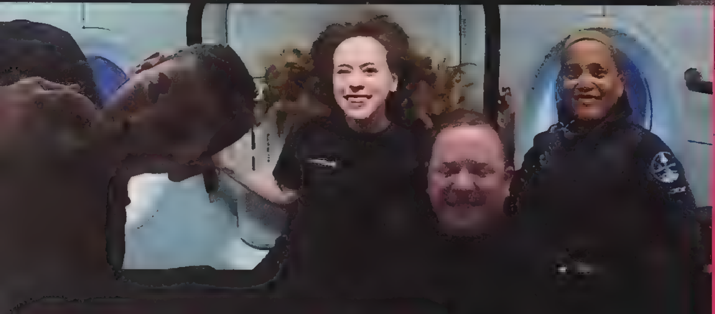
TECH & TREN

POWERFUL SOLAR FLARE

In October 2021, a Class X solar flare, the most powerful category of flares, erupted, and powerful NASA cameras captured the activity from the closest point ever. The flare caused the aurora borealis, or Northern Lights, to be visible in the U.S. as far south as Utah. Powerful flares can disrupt atmospheric activity such as GPS and communications signals.

ELECTRIC CARS

Ford announced an $11.4 billion plan to build new battery plants and set goals for battery-powered pickup trucks. In addition, Ford announced an electric version of the F-150, the F-150 Lightning, by spring 2022. GM also planned new battery-production plants, and Toyota switched its focus from hybrid to fully electric vehicles.



BILLIONAIRE SPACE RACE

In July 2021, NASA announced the Entrepreneurs Challenge, calling on private companies and individuals to help develop space technology. Challenge accepted by British billionaire Sir Richard Branson and crew. Nine days later, Jeff Bezos took a 10-minute trip into space on his crewed Blue Origin spacecraft, New Shepard. Elon Musk's September SpaceX mission, Inspiration 4, was the first with an all-civilian crew and a previously used rocket.

THE METAVERSE

Mark Zuckerberg rebranded Facebook as Meta in October 2021, signaling his intent to dominate the immersive 3-D virtual world. As already seen in 3-D games such as Fortnite, a metaverse is a virtual world with avatars that lead exciting alternate lives on behalf of their human counterparts.

DISNEY TURNS 50

On October 1, 1971, Orlando's Disney World opened for business. This year, it kicked off its 50-year anniversary with sold-out hotels, long waiting lines, and confetti cannons. The 22-month celebration will include new rides, a new luxury hotel, and a wearable "MagicBand+" for interactive experiences. Disney World now employs 700,000 and sees over 50 million visitors each year.

SPIDER-MAN IS BACK

The latest in the eight-movie Spider-Man franchise, No Way Home broke records and warmed the hearts of Hollywood executives, despite its theater-only release. No Way Home pulled together storylines and characters from several previous Spider-Man films. On opening weekend, 20 million fans saw No Way Home, which earned $253 million in North America.
